Happy Hollow Fair May 13

WAYLAND -- Shoot the Buffalo and Hit the Outlaw, will be among games planned for the fourth annual Happy Hollow School fair Saturday May 13, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the school. The fair, planned as a "Wild West Round Up," will also schedule cowboys, cowgirls and Indians make up and covered wagons bulging with grabs.

Mrs. James T. Burgess, general chairman, announces that the fair, sponsored by the Happy Hollow School P.T.A., will benefit the school's new library.

Chairmen of the various committees: Mrs. Howard Jenkins, publicity and posters; Mrs. Andrew Pretzer, Decoratlng; Mrs. Harold Proctor, games; Mrs. Wesley Shannon, grabs; Mrs. Carlo DeMarco and Mrs. John Locher, luncheon; Mrs. Stanely Keyes, white elephants; Mrs. Paul Young, plants; Mrs. Walter Sheehan, baked goods; Mrs. Nicholas Harris, make-up; Mrs. Horace Megathlin, movie; Mrs. George Berry, finance; Mrs. Kenneth LeBaron, telephoning; Mrs. Eister Neufer, pick-up.

In former times boats passed from Boston through the Middlesex Canal to the Concord River, and so to Sudbury. Iron ore dug in town was laden in boats at the Old Town Bridge and taken to Chelmsford.

Cochituate Gets $936 for 'Heart'

WAYLAND -- Cochituate collected $936.50 during the 1961 Heart Fund campaign, Mrs. Bradford Schofield, Cochituate general chairman, announced.

The figure, it was pointed out, represents funds collected to date in this community's effort to help conquer heart disease, and is not complete, since other gifts will be made.

Manning Backs Home Rule Change

BOSTON -- Rep. Donald J. Manning spoke before the joint constitution Convention in favor of a constitutional amendment to give cities and towns home rule. The proposed amendment, if adopted, would have required the State Legislative in the case of a city, to have the prior approval of city councils or town meetings before it could enact a special local law affecting the powers, rights, dutles or affairs of a particular city or town.

In arguing for the cnange, Rep. Manning said he feit that the Legislature did not have the "moral right" to interfere in purely local affairs without at least having the previous consent of that particular community.

"Furthermore", Mr. Manning said, "the General Court is not as adequately equipped to deal with local matters affecting one particular community as are the governing authorities in that city or town".

LAWRENCE H. PEXTON, of 8 Cedar Rd., Weston treasurer of the General Radio Company, West Concord, has been elected a Director of the Controllers Institute of America. He was recently named to this position at the organlzation's Eastern Area Conference at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington. Active in the Institute since 1951, Mr. Pexton is immediate past presldent of its Boston Controi.

Included among his other activities is his close connection with the Alumni Association of the Harvard Business School; he is the permanent Secretary-Treasurer of his class. He is aiso a member of the Weston Finance Committee and Treasurer of the Weston Golf Club.

Contestants Are Named For Festival

WAYLAND -- Mrs. Kenneth Brown, Queen Pageant Chairman for the Strawberry Festival, is pleased to announce that the Wayland High School students have elected the five senior girls who will vie for the title of Strawberry Festival Queen. Townspeople will have the opportunity to vote for the girl of their choice in the near future, and the iucky winner will reign as Queen of the Festival on June 17.

The contestants are Pat Dyer, Commonwealth Rd.; Randy Johnson, Sylvan Way; Sandy Owens, Draper Rd.; Penny Richardson, Woodridge Rd.; and Nancy Roehrig, Biossom Lane.

During the next few weeks plans will be announced concerning the location of ballot boxes, and times and piaces where the girls will make appearances. Mrs. Brown's committee members are: Mrs. Seymour Blum, Mrs. Francis J. Dougherty, Mrs. Peter C. Popko and Mrs. John C. Wilson.

Fitness Fair in Hub

BOSTON -- When the doors open for the United Fund Health and Fitness Fair at the Commonwealth Armory May 5 for a three-day run, Greater Boston residents will be treated to an unprecedented spectrum of exhibitions and demonstrations in the field of health and physical fitness.

2 Wayland Area Students In Wellesley Concert Friday

WAYLAND -- Two students in the Wayland area will participate in a Chamber Music concert of the Wellesley Branch of the New England Conservatory of Music Preparatory Department tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the parish hall of the Unitarian Church, Wellesley Hills. Public invited.

Miss Caroline Wright, flutist, will perform two movements of a Pepusch Sonata, accompanied by Victoria Glaser, of the faculty. Miss Edith Wypler, violinist will perform the Adagio from Mozart's Concerto No. 3 in G. major. Jean Poole, of the faculty, will accompany her. Miss Wypler will also participate in a Corelli Concerto Grosso done by the Senior Chamber Music Group.

It is difficult to say what is impossible, for the dream of yesterday is the hope of today and the reality of tomorrow.

WAYLAND -- A spring jubilee Saturday, May 6, will mark the 50th anniversary of the Cochituate Elementary School, according to Co-chairmen Jack Smith and Harold Boutwell.

Fun-for-all is the theme of the 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. party in the school playground. Sponsored by the PTA, it will include special rides, a white elephant room, special booths and prizes.

About 6000 people die in home fires each year in this country.

Dance To Benefit Scholarship Fund

WAYLAND -- The scholarship fund will benefit when the Wayland Woman's Club holds its annual spring dance on Friday, May 5 at the Marlboro Country Club. This is the third project this year in the Club's campaign to augment the scholarship fund in the hope that the amount of the two scholarships may be increased in the future.

Dancing will be from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. with music by Vic DeBuna's orchestra. The dance is open to the public and tickets at $4 per couple may be obtained from any member of the dance committee. Refreshments will be served. The committee is Mrs. Edward R. Linn Jr., chairman, Mrs. Richard M. Verrill, Mrs. William T. Welch and Mrs. Albert R. Strow.

Mrs. Bertelsen Named Director Of State LWV

WAYLAND -- Mrs. L. William Bertelsen of Claypit Hill Rd., was elected on Monday to a two-year term as a director of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts.

Mrs. Bertelsen has held many positions on the Wayland League Board including those of tax chairman, bulletin editor, and president of the Wayland League from 1955 to 1957.

She has been a member of the State League's School of International Relations Committee in 1959 and 1960 and served as General Chairman of the School in 1961. She has also been engaged as a local League consultant for the State Board and has been a member of the State League's Local Current Agenda Committee and Convention Procedures Committee.

Mrs. Bertelsen is also active in a variety of community affairs in Wayland. She is a former member of the town's Board of Health and has been a member for several years of the School Building Committee.

She is an active member of the Vokes Players and has had a part in many of the Vokes productions, both on stage and back stage. She is currently directing the Vokes Players' coming production, "The Silver Whistle."

Selectmen Take Second Look at 2-Way Traffic

WAYLAND -- Action on the two-way traffic experiment on Pelham Island Rd. in Wayland Center is expected tonight or tomorrow at a special meeting of the Board of Selectmen, Chairman Thomas F. Linnehan said this week.

Mr. Linnehan said a 30-day trial period, begun Apr. 15, is nearly up and the selectmen feel some changes may be made. Possibilities:

--Two-way traffic and northside parking for a longer period.

--Return to one-way traffic with 15-minute parking on the southside and longer on the north.

--Some variation of the above.

Mr. Linnehan said he felt personally that 15-minute parking probably was a restriction on shoppers or clients for the professional men on P.l. Rd. More time is needed.

The chairman said that letters from business and professional men on the short stretch of road had complained only of the fear of an accident.

"Well, I'm afraid of an accident, too," said Mr. Linnehan, "anywhere in town." He added that the selectmen had requested letters citing any loss of business but had received no such complaints.

Several businessmen have told The Crier, however, that customers and clients have found the 15-minute limit discouraging -- "almost like the city," said one customer.

Necessity to park, facing west, on the northside also created a hazard and further awkardness, they were told.

At any rate, it can be said townspeople have met themselves going and coming on this issue, and talking to themselves both ways.

Boy Loses Part Of Foot After Bike Accident

WAYLAND -- Donald "Biff" Ahlman has lost three toes and part of his left foot as the result of the bike-bus accident Apr. 13 and doctors are trying to save the remainder of his foot.

Biff is confined to the Children's Ward at Emerson Hospital where only his parents, Mr. and Mrs Arthur Ahlman of 9 East Rd., Wayland, are allowed to visit him.

The Wayland Junior High student is working on model planes and hopes to be out in another three to four weeks. His parents are high in their praise of the care given by the Emerson Hospital staff.

The Ahlman boy, 12, was injured by a Wayland school bus as he was leaving the junior high school grounds.

PETER BORRELLI

Weston Senior Talks Way Out of Sick Bed--Into $250

WESTON -- Peter Borelli, a Weston High senior with plenty of determination, talked his way out of a sick bed and into $250 last Thursday.

Although it was unknown at the time, Peter entered and won the Weston Rotary Club's extemporaneous speech award against doctor's orders.

The speech: "Should the United Nations Recognize Red China?"

The contestants: Betsy Wigginton, second place winner with $100 and Ronald Butcher, Paul Curtis and Joseph Karas who each received certificates worth $15 in the purchase of books.

The rules: Twenty minutes to prepare a speech from material in the Weston High library and five minutes to deliver it before a large audience of Rotarians, friends and relatives in the high school cafeteria.

The five students had all survived preliminary contests among 14 aspirants judged by Emerson College instructors.

Peter had been ordered to bed but managed to talk his way out of confinement and show up at the high school for the briefing on the subject which was not disclosed until 20 minutes before speaking time, Rotarians learned later.

He is the son of Mrs. Eldean Holmes of 269 North Av.

Presentation of the awards will be made on commencement day at the high school.

Part of the Rotary's effort to develop good local speaking talent, the rules of the contest emphasized 1) organization, comprehension, pertinence and illustrative aids in the material; 2) personality, stage presence, appearance, use of voice, vocabulary and communication with the audience.

Judges were: Howard Russell of Wayland, columnist and former state legislator and Wayland moderator; Rep. Daniel H. Rider of Needham, a Boston attorney, and Robert W. Schuette, publisher of The Town Crier.

Wetlands Bill Zigs, Then Zags; May Make It

BOSTON -- A real zig and a zag. Just about like the so-called wetlands bill last week in the Legislature.

It's straightened out now. Seems headed for success in the State Senate.

Success will mean passage sometime this month and Gov. Volpe's signature.

After that, the way will be clear for the Department of the Interior to move in with Federal funds to gradually buy up 13,000 acres of marshland from Hopkinton to Billerica for conservation.

It looks good, says Allen H. Morgan of Wayland, of the Massachusetts Audubon Society. But just in case:

"All person in Weston and Wayland should write to their Senators in support of this bill.

"It means much more than just conservation for waterfowl and other animals. It means rural living in an ever-more-crowded countryside.

"Besides, one close shave was enough."

The close shave referred to by Mr. Morgan occurred in the Massachusetts House where the House Ways and Means Committee had referred the bill to study.

Quick action on the part of conservationists brought one of the most deeply-felt barrages of letters, telegrams and phone calls on the State House in a 24-hour period last Tuesday and Wednesday.

On Wednesday, led by Rep. Zabriskie of Newburyport, the House overrode the committee decision and quickly passed the bill on to the Senate. That's the zig -- and the zag of it.

Sen. Pres. Powers has promised speedy action.

Sen. Powers says he has faith in any measure recommended by Sen. Charles W. Olson (R-Ashland), chairman of the Joint Committee on Harbors and Lands who is expected to bring the bill before the Senate.

One explanation of the House Ways and Means action: Hurry-up action on bills without reading them

Freak Gas Truck Crash Gives Weston Commuters Late Start

WESTON -- A gasoline trailer truck shot off the road in North Weston early Tuesday and the result was half the commuters in town were late for work.

The driver, Herbert Brigham of Main St., Boylston, escaped serious injury when his truck skidded, felled a power pole and shot into a brook opposite 34 North Av., Weston, about 4:35 a.m.

The resulting loss of power in about half the homes in the town was responsible for the scurrying for late trains and the loss of family cars to late-to-work commuters.

Power was restored about 6:50 a.m. but many householders relying on electric clocks didn't know about the knockout punch and got a late start.

Luckily for Brigham the truck, an Esso tank-trailer, was empty and proceeding to the Esso plant for loading, according to Weston police. Damage was estimated at about $700.

It might have been greater had the truck been full. Mr. Brigham was shaken up.

Wayland Boy Struck by Car

WAYLAND -- Hunt C. Davis, 7, of Winthrop Terr., Wayland was injured Friday, according to police, when he darted from behind a school bus and was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Elizabeth Starr of 19 West Way Rd., Wayland, about 2:36 p.m.

The Davis boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Davis Jr., of Winthrop Terr. The bus was operated by Melvin Goodwin of 65 Rockland St., Natick and owned by Meyer Goodwin of that address. Patrolman Hodges investigated.

Live Wire Removed

WAYLAND -- An Edison Co. wire came down on top of a car on West Plain St. Saturday night. Firemen removed the wire and stood by until a utility repair crew could arrive. A grass fire in the Woodbridge section was put out at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Roundup Time In Wayland

WAYLAND -- Whoa. It was roundup time near Wayland Center last Friday as Patrolman John Hodges took over pastoral duties and helped restore a wandering horse, owned by the Don Sherman family of South St. to its natural habitat.

Another Big Day

Another moment of glory: One great moment for the athlete comes on the field of play in his chosen sport. But when the season's over all is memory. Read about another "big moment" for Wayland athletes and another "big memory" on PAGE 8.

Where'd You Leave That Bike? Better See Weston Police

WESTON -- Five youngsters someplace are catching the devil at home. They are the owners of five top-notch bikes abandoned in the past week in Weston. Weston police report five new or nearly new bikes, abandoned by youngsters who probably prized them but didn't care for them, are now in the station awaiting their owners.

Not only that but soon five other bikes lost, strayed or stolen two years ago will soon go up for sale at the police auction of lost articles.

And speaking of lost articles:

--One pair of men's glasses found Sunday on Chestnut St.

--One valuable earring lost in the Town Hall during the recent performances of the Agatha Christie mystery play.

All awaiting owners at the station.

Short Cut Leaves Town Lawn A Bit Beatnik Around Edges

WAYLAND -- Things are rough all over department: the town building lawn is growing -- and growing -- and growing, just as nature wants. But much against local plans.

The long and the short of it (not the lawn) but the story is this:

Due to a mixup over sealed bids which were to be opened Tuesday, Apr. 18, the old bids were thrown out and new bids ordered.

So the grass will be about 10-15 days taller and untended before someone gets around to it.

Park Commissioner Thomas Murray charged that some of the bids were opened before he showed up for the Tuesday meeting -- maybe even the day before.

The new bids hurriedly advertised will be opened next Tuesday with the park commissioners (Murray, Joseph Horvath and Nathaniel Hamlen) working in unison.

This time, the bids will call for cutting, watering, maintenance of flower beds and fertilizing. Ought to look good.

So does the town lawn, but if the truth be known ...a bit beatnik around the edges.

Horseplay of any kind, especially on the job, is a frequent cause of accidents.

Pennsylvania Girl To Wed J.S. Wager

WESTON -- The announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Mayberry of Easton R. D. 4, Pa., of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Linda Mayberry to Joseph S. Wager, son of Professor and Mrs. Willis Wager, formerly of Weston, now of Brookline and Gouldsboro, Me.

Joseph, who was graduated from Weston High School in 1957, will graduate from Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., this June.

A June wedding is planned. They will reside in Pittsburgh.

MARGARET MAYBERRY

Medical Society Elects Two Weston Doctors

WESTON -- Two Weston physicians were elected to office at the Charles River District Medical Society's annual meeting held last week at the Maugus Club in Wellesley. Elected were Dr. David N. Reid, nominating committee and councilor and Dr. Peter Angelo, councilor.

Dr. William T. Van Huysen of Weston presided at this meeting.

Weston Girl Elected

CAMBRIDGE -- Miss Esther Lombard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Lombard of 441 Glen Rd., Weston, has been elected electoral chairman of the Student Government Assn. of Radcliffe College. As electoral chairman she will supervise all Student Council elections and polls. A freshman at Radcliffe, Miss Lombard plans to major in either mathematics or architecture. She is a graduate of Weston High.

Vokes Players Prepare for Silver Whistle

WAYLAND -- More than a score of Wayland Vokes members are busily engaged in backstage work for the coming production of "The Silver Whistle" to be presented by the Vokes Players at their Post Rd. Theatre on the evenings of May 19, 20, 25, 26 and 27.

Carol Stites of Bennett Rd. is being assisted by Marge Furrer, well-known local artist, in designing the set -- a one-piece exterior depicting a garden courtyard flanked by a typical rural church and an old-folks home.

Set-building is under the supervision of Charlie Peters whose crew includes John Beard, Earl Bourne, Bill Floyd, Jack Furrer, Bob Kenyon, Bob Koch, Charlie Tewksbury and Dick Whiting.

Stage and hand props, including a vintage wheel-chair sturdy enough to convey a tipsy lady, are being gathered by co-chairmen Liz Mayberry and Buff Paine and their assistants Mollie Beard, Jean Dunham, Jane Lewis and Judy Wallace.

Costumes, ranging from the plain to the plainly outrageous, are in the hands of Jean Macmillan, chairman, Mike Goodhue, Hildy Harris and Jean Tewksbury.

Joan Havener, make-up chairman, is being assisted by Carol Manion, Judy Searle and Mary Williams.

Anne Healey Engaged To Officer Healey

ANNE MARIE HEALEY

WESTON -- Mr. and Mrs. William F. Healey of 21 Warren Ave., Weston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Anne Marie to Thomas M. Healey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Healty of 432 North Ave., Weston.

Miss Healey will graduate from Weston High in June. Her fiance was a graduate of Weston High, class of '56, and recently from the Framingham State Police Academy. Mr. Healey also served two years in the U. S. Navy, as signalman, thirdclass. He now is employed by the Weston Police department.

A June 24 wedding is planned.

Great Day for Lil' Wizards At Red Barn Fair

WESTON -- The Tin Woodman and the Scarecrow proclaim the theme of Weston's Red Barn School's annual Spring Fair, Saturday, May 13, 11 - 5 in and around Weston's Town Hall.

The school is a cooperative nursery school and kindergarten, owned and operated by the parents and staffed by professional teachers.

This Fair is traditionally one for young children, and in keeping with the theme, there will be a make-up booth to turn girls into small Dorothys or Witches, and boys into Wizards or Munchkins.

There will also be the usual games such as the fish pond and ring toss, with prizes for all, win or lose, and a new Wizard of Oz game. There will be the wishing well; rides, including donkey basket and the Yard Bird - a self-propelled flat car on a circular track; puppet shows; movies in the Town Hall; refreshment stand; and for weary parents, a bakery booth with home-made food to take home for dinner!

There will be a toy booth with attractive refurbished used toys and books, and many new handmade items such as hand puppets and stick horses and boats, plus many small items for children who are spending their own allowance.

The committee, headed by Mrs. Richard Silverman, includes Mrs. Frank Shaw, Mrs. William Bickford, Mrs. Dorothy Donovan, Mrs. Richmond Batchelder, Mrs. Joseph Lambie, Mrs. James Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Henri Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. Hoagland, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Green, Jr., Mrs. James McKittrick, Mr. Stuart Shotwell, all of Weston, and Mrs. Malcolm Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Mansfield, of Wayland.

May Breakfast - Saturday

WAYLAND -- The annual May breakfast will be held in the Vestry of the First Parish Church Saturday 7:30 - 10:30. Mrs. Donald Tarbell and Mrs. John Davies are co-chairmen of this family affair, which for the past several years has drawn a large gathering from the town, offering a delicious breakfast at reasonable prices in an attractive atmosphere of spring flowers and friendly faces.

About 3000 children die in fires each year in this country.

Wayland Girl Sings With Chorus at Symphony

NEW LONDON, N. H. -- Miss Judith Emmons daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Emmons, Three Ponds Rd., Wayland, will sing with the Colby Junior College Glee Club, Sunday, May 7, when the group makes its annual spring appearance with the Boston Pops Orchestra at Symphony Hall, Boston.

Miss Emmons is a freshman in the liberal arts program at the New Hampshire women's college.

Wayland Appeals Board to Hear 4 Cases Tonight

WAYLAND -- Tonight will find the Board of Appeals busy with four hearings at the Town building:

8 p.m. William L. Bolton and William F. Curley Jr., for site plan approval for a retail store, and for any necessary variance in connection with building location at 338 Boston Post Rd.

8:15 p.m. John C. and Lorraine F. Bryant for a lot size, frontage and use variance to permit continued use of the premises at 44 and 46 Pemberton Rd., as a two-family duplex residence when this existing residence is subdivided in connection with a subdivision in area.

8:45 p.m. Donald W. and Constance R. Neelon for a variance to construct a real estate office at 482 Boston Post Rd., said area being zoned for residential purposes and applicant will not live on premises.

9 p.m. Livio C. and Genevieve F. Costa for a variance to erect a garden house and woodshed closer to the side lot line at 29 School St., than permitted.

3 Weston Fathers Attend Smith Weekend

WESTON -- Annual Fathers' Weekend will be held at Smith College in Northampton Friday - Sunday.

J. Dell Baster of 110 Oxbow Rd. will be the guest of his daughter Melinda, a junior; Maurice K. Brown of 6 Braydll Rd. has been invited by his daughter Doris, a sophomore, and John O. Nilan of 211 Meadowbrook Rd. will accompany Judith Nilan, a junior.

Fathers will be entertained at a pops concert, a dance and will join the girls in a sports program.

Stacks and Stacks Of Paperbacks

WAYLAND -- The first annual paperback book sale will be held next Wednesday through Saturday at Wayland High School by the Student Council.

Hundreds of titles, ranging from best sellers to reference works handy for student and adult, will be available from one of the largest book wholesalers in this area.

Books will be available to students only Wednesday - Friday and to the public on Saturday, 9 to 3. This is just one of the activities which the council hopes will bring students and townspeople closer together.

Little Nipper Baseball: Still Can Register

WAYLAND -- Further registration for the Little Nipper League will be held Saturday at Claypit School at 10 a.m. for youngsters (and parents) who missed previous days. Teams and coaches will be assigned Saturday. There may be tryouts.

The 80 Percenters

Now don't get us wrong but we think that payroll gimmick is all a waste of time.

We're referring to that suburban manufacturer who stapled "return to me" cards on all the payroll bills -- "to see where the money goes."

Well, friend, we wouldn't pretend to know exactly where every cent went. And sometimes we'd rather not recall -- or have anyone else do it either -- but:

The simple truth is it gets blotted up -- a good deal of it -- by little pieces of paper bearing innocent titles like: "An act relative to the computation of the amount of super annuation retirement allowance for employees under the contributory retirement law."

--Now everyone who ever earned $7500 or more in state service will get a boost in his pensions.

--Now any state employee can retire at 60 (after 40 years) with 80 percent of his highest state salary.

The kicker: He could serve one year or two on a job paying $16,500 or more and then drop back to $4000 and still get 80 percent of the higher pay when he retired.

--Now one dollar in seven in our state budget (or $68.9 million) is spent on pensions.

--Four years from now the total will reach $100 million annually . . . if pay scales remain stable.

Come on, fork it over.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- The first spring warbler was a yellow palm seen on Apr. 21 by William Lawson; and others were pine and yellow palm (Albrecht, Apr. 22) and myrtles (Smith, Apr. 23). Ruby-crowned kinglets were first seen by Mrs. R. M. Hills on Apr. 22, and a number have been seen and heard since then. Their song is surprisingly loud for such a tiny bird.

White-throated sparrows arrived on Apr. 20 when Mrs. J. H. Lawson, Loring Rd., had a large flock in her yard, and there have been subsequent reports of 1 - 4 birds (McMullin, McConaghy, Davidson and Theall). Towhees were reported from Apr. 22 on (Jennings, Hills and Davidson), and brown thrashers (Hills and Theall, Apr. 24).

A Wilson's snipe was heard "winnowing" on Apr. 22 by P. Albrecht as he walked from Kendal Green to Hastings. He also says that the pair of phoebes which nested last year at Hastings Station is back again.

Two bluebird reports come from Wayland (Lingley and Hills); and 3 tree swallows were seen looking over a nest-box by Mrs. R. L. Davis, Cochituate.

Evening grosbeaks are still present: 25-30 on Webster Road (McMullin, Apr. 21), and several at the Jericho Town Forest (Smith, et al., Apr. 26). The glaucous gull at the duck feeding area is staying longer than usual (Lawson, Apr. 24); and a belted kingfisher was heard at Forty Acres, Lexington St. (Smith and Morgan, Apr. 22).

A male rose-breasted grosbeak was seen on Apr. 22 by L. B. McConaghy, Eliot Lane. Apparently this is one of the group of very early migrants (scarlet tanagers, indigo buntings, Baltimore orioles, and the grosbeaks) which arrived Apr. 17 along the coast as a result of weather conditions the previous day. This same weather brought painted buntings, blue grosbeaks and summer tanagers to Cape Cod and the Islands.

A call from the Weston Police Dept. on Apr. 24 told us of an owl which had flown against a glassed-in porch at the Cutler home on Montvale Rd. about 7:15 a.m. It lay stunned for half an hour before flying to a nearby pine, and proved to be a handsome barred owl for which there are only 3 previous Weston records.

Many people have asked how they get a grasp on politics and town government and State House affairs and foreign policy. All that sort of thing. Quite easy. Just remember one rule: If you can't say something bad, don't say anything at all.

A bit hard to take -- income tax, auto stickers and daylight savings time, all in one month. But just think -- you can blame them all on the government.

We know a couple that says daylight savings is harmless, if taken in small doses. They tried to brainwash themselves this year: you don't really lose that hour, if you can just manage to get up an hour later on Sunday. Only trouble: they forgot to brainwash their active children.

Well now the armed services have instituted THEIR road-watches. Or weren't you held up on Rte. 128 last Sunday. As we see it, next: one for natives of East Lungfish, Me. -- or green-eyed, left-handed drivers -- or Jackie Jensen rooters.

The toll road's imminent demise, we understand will not mean that Weston won't get use of on-ramp of the toll road for South Av. traffic west-bound. Originally, toll road's proposed shift of toll plaza southward made it easier to get on-ramp from north and keep Rte. 128 traffic off narrow town roads.

Now don't worry about a little disagreement at home now and then. After all, solemn justices of the Supreme Court mix it up pretty well now and then while "judiciously" determining the reason of the law. This advice doesn't apply to children. They can SHUT UP, or go to their rooms.

John Baldwin to Attend Smith Father's Weekend

NORTHAMPTON -- Some 600 fathers of Smith College sophomores and juniors will attend the annual Fathers' Weekend on the campus Friday - Sunday. Fathers, some of whom will come from as far away as California, will attend classes, meet class deans and other faculty members, participate in a sports program and attend chapel.

Mr. John H. Baldwin of Wayland, father of Ainslie, a sophomore, will attend.

Garden Interest Group Plants Tree in Weston

WESTON -- The Garden Interest Group of the Women's Community League arranged for plantings at the Fiske Memorial as their civic project for this year. Dr. Donald Wyman, park commissioner, arranged for the material and Arthur Leiby of Leiby's Nursery and Garden Shop furnished the labor.

Conservation Lecture At Drumlin's Tonight

SOUTH LINCOLN -- John L. Gottschalk of Wellesley, will be guest speaker at the eighth Action in Conservation lecture to be held this evening at 8 at Drumlin Farm.

Mr. Gottschalk, regional director for the U. S. Bureau of Sports, Fisheries and Wildlife, will speak on wetlands and wildlife.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

The Shadbush Blossomed

When you look at the dingy waters of the Sudbury and the Charles Rivers today, who would guess that in olden times at this season they were alive with fish; so many that people not only had them to eat, but in places could take them by the barrelfull to fertilize crops.

The Merrimack, into which the Sudbury eventually empties, has recently been called the most polluted river in New England. But when the white settlers first arrived, the Merrimack and its tributaries were clear streams. In addition to fresh water fish, at certain seasons they abounded in alewives, shad, salmon, even sturgeon, all salt water fish that at certain times are impelled to lay their spawn in fresh water ponds.

When April and May came the shad and alewives pressed up tributaries such as the Sudbury and Assabet to the ponds at their headwaters to leave their eggs. Because the Juneberry opens its white blossoms just at the time they came, it is still known as the shadbush.

On their way to the ponds these fish so crowded the little tributary streams that they could be lifted out with the hands or shoveled into barrels. At Plymouth the Indian Squanto taught the Pilgrims in the spring of 1621 to take the alewives and "set" two or three to fertilize each hill of Indian corn. Without Squanto's advice, food would have been even shorter at Plymouth than it was. "The English learned this good husbandry from the Indians," acknowledged Governor John Winthrop Jr. of Connecticut some years later, for the Indians here were more advanced than the farmers of Europe in this type of fertilization.

To the people of Watertown, of which Weston was than a part, his father Governor John Winthrop Sr. gave permission in 1632, to build a weir in the Charles, to concentrate the fish so that they could more easily be taken. The reason he says, was "the people of Watertown falling very short of corn the last year for want of fish, did complain." The Concord and Sudbury Rivers had their weirs also. This was another device learned from the Indians. On the Mystic River in Medford, farmers were taking fish for fertilizer as late as 1885 (Did you ever notice the sign "Alewife Brook Parkway" in Arlington?) And, bony as they are, people ate plenty of them too.

Salmon began to come before the shad and alewife season were quite done. They were caught chiefly at the falls of the rivers, as they leaped through the boiling foam to reach the deeper water above. In prehistoric times the larger falls were neutral ground where Indians from many tribes assembled for a week or two of games and frivolity, as well as to catch and smoke and dry fish. Up through the 18th century their white successors were still catching fine salmon in our rivers.

Read this, you sportsmen, from the diary of a Merrimack River fisherman - and weep! "July 1, 1761, Samuel P. and I catched 3 salmon that weighed 55 pound. I had one that weighed 32 and he had 2 that weighed 11 1/2 each." At one time salmon were so plentiful in our rivers that hired men on farms are said to have rebelled if served salmon more than twice a week.

But all this is gone long ago. The building of mill dams and pollution of our rivers with industrial wastes and sewage ended the salmon runs. With fish ladders now provided at the big dams on the Connecticut River, conservation officials have in recent years been planting salmon spawn in the upper Connecticut, attempting to start once again the cycle: growth of the young in fresh waters, passage downstream in the fall, increase in size in the ocean, and return to the same spot at maturity to spawn again.

There are still small clean streams in Plymouth and on the Cape up which the herring come, as salmon rivers still remain in upper Maine. It is possible that if the Charles and the Merrimack, and its tributaries, the Sudbury and the Assabet, were ever sufficiently cleaned up, and fish ladders provided at all dams, such valuable salt water fish might be induced to return. Factories and dams are doubtless necessities of civilization, but certainly river borne sewage is not.

Can all the changes of modern life be classified as progress?

Of Agatha, Paranoics, Cockneys —Great Night With Friendlies

by ANNE HOCKING

WESTON -- Had Agatha Christie suspected when she wrote "The Mousetrap" that Helen Wheeler was to play the role of Mrs. Boyle for the Friendly Society production in Weston, she might have contrived to do other than kill her off in the first act.

But no matter -- all by no means crumbled. The anguish we felt at our loss only served further to whet our appetites for the apprehension of the fiend at large.

But those familiar with the usual Christie twist know better than to cerebrate in any rational manner in selecting the culprit.

They concentrate their attention instead on the exposition of the motley mishmash of personalities involved. Perhaps this is why Miss Christie, unlike others of her ilk, is so adaptable to the stage.

Take Mr. Paravicini for instance: a D.P. from Italy, all sex appeal and bounce, well done down to the last Latin gesticulation by Edward Hepditch, or Miss Casewell (Sarah Clauson) cool and beautifully British, or Christopher Wren (James Cook) the sweetest little paranoic about anywhere. John Durant as the inevitable old retired major was the salt in the Christie sauce.

For squares and a bit of leavening love-interest there was Nancy Leghorn and Peter Partridge as Mr. and Mrs. Ralston, innocent hosts to the crime.

William G. Williams thrashing about in the role of the frustrated detective Trotter displayed a command of cockney that was a real triumph. In fact all the various accents attempted were admirably sustained -- no mean trick for the amateur theatre.

The set too is to be commended for its faithfulness to English manorial flavor. One gets the impression that the Friendly Society operates on a generous budget. A good thing -- or perhaps just part of the good directing by Alice Moffett.

Wayland Senior Play Begins 3-Day Run Tonight

WAYLAND -- The senior class of Wayland High School, proudly presents an old fashioned melodrama, Gold in Them Thar Hills or The Dead Sister's Secret, tonight, tomorrow and Saturday evenings at the Little Theatre. There will be entre-acts, singing, dancing, and entertainment by the Mainstone Five.

Save one of these evenings to hiss the villain, cheer the hero, and pray for the heroine.

The play is under the direction of Reed Kingston Taylor, team leader in English.

Forest & Trail Assn. Walk In Jericho Forest Sunday

WESTON -- The Weston Forest and Trail Assn. will hold a walk in the Jericho Town Forest next Sunday starting at 2:30 p.m. from the Boston Post Road opposite the Dean Dairy near the Wayland Line. Tea will be served at 825 Boston Post Rd. by invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Scott, Jr. afterwards.

Weston Children's Art Work On Display at Country School

WESTON -- Sponsored by the Weston Arts and Crafts Assn., an exhibition of the art of Weston school children will be held Saturday at the Country School gymnasium -- 2 to 4:30 p.m. The exhibit will also be viewed by the P.T.A. at its annual meeting May 11.

The showing, which includes painting, drawing, graphic arts and taped-live-in-the-classroom music, inaugurates a Weston children's International Art Exchange. It will later be sent to a foreign land as representative of the artistic talents of a group of young Americans - and in return an exhibition of children's art of the chosen foreign land will be held in Weston next fall.

Participants are chosen from among all grades in all Weston schools, public and private.

Serving on the committee are Mrs. Gustave J. Dammin, Mrs. Francis H. Brooks, Mrs. Thomas S. Barrows, Mrs. Edward W. Marshall, Mrs. Carl C. Johnson, Mrs. E. H. Sawyer and Mrs. Edmund U. Ritter.

The Weston Garden Club, the Garden Interest Group of the Women's Community League, and the Country Garden Club are helping to decorate the gymnasium for the occasion.

Also helping to organize the event are Mr. Robert E. Lavin, head of the Elementary Schools Art Department; Miss Alice Olliff, who heads the Junior High School Art Department; Miss Althea Karr, head of the Cambridge School Art Department; Mrs. E. B. Wilson, who heads the Art Department of Meadowbrook School, and Mr. Light of Rivers Country Day School.

Milkman Slips, Cut on Glass In Wayland

WAYLAND -- Fred J. Barnard, 37 of 24 Dale St., Medfield, a milkman for H. P. Hood and Sons, received a severely gashed artery of the left arm last Friday morning at 9:45 when he fell on some bottles which had smashed while he was delivering at the Fischer home at 23 Pequot Rd.

Patrolman John Brady administered first aid and applied a tourniquet to stop the copious flow of blood and rushed the injured man to the Leonard Morse Hospital, where he was admitted for treatment.

Weston Knocks Wayland Off Diamond Pedestal

WAYLAND -- Oops -- Weston did it again. After three years, Wayland High lost its first league game last Thursday -- to Weston, the same team that had last taken Coach Buzz Powers' nine early in 1958.

The 9 - 8 thriller was played under protest, however, over a play that gave Weston its ninth run in the fifth inning.

With the bases loaded and one down, Bob White flied to short center and Steve Kruse caught it just above his shoe tops and flipped the ball on the dead run to Dwight Perodeau at second who tagged the bag before Larry Trowbridge could make it back to tag up.

Meanwhile, Bill Rizzo had managed to streak home -- before the third out at second according to umpire Ken Harding.

The dispute: Bowers maintained this was a force-out double play, automatically ending the inning. Harding's view: no one was forced to advance a base but Rizzo scored before the third out.

Incidentally, the last time Weston won it was also a disputed game. The Indians were undefeated in League play in 1959 and ended last season with a 21-0 record.

Despite Tom Linnehan's three hits, including a double, the Indians couldn't make the grade and Bill Wilkinson suffered the loss. Forbes McMullin was the winner. Linnehan drove in two runs and scored another.

Art King got three hits for the winners.

Both teams managed to kick the ball around -- seven errors, four of them Weston's. All figured in the scoring.

The summary:

WESTON	220	410 0--9
WAYLAND	302	102 0--8

Acton-Boxboro Drops Weston, 4-2

WESTON -- Weston High took it on the chin from Acton-Boxboro High, 4-2, in a rain-shortened six-inning game Tuesday, Apr. 25. This left Weston with a 1 - 1 record.

Harry Gould's two-pitching was too much for the home team. The winners got only one hit but a single, walk, errors made the difference. Pokers got both hits for Weston.

Summary:

Acton-Boxboro	130 000-4
Weston	010 001-2

HOLLISTON -David Roche and Kathy Schofield from Ship 12 of Hudson were chosen King and Queen of the Algonquin Council Explorer Ball in Holliston. Miss Schofield was given the prize for the winning contest cake. David Robinson and Cynthia Denty of Post 26 Holliston rated second; third. Gail Mortimer and Gardner Gay of Post 25 of Northboro.

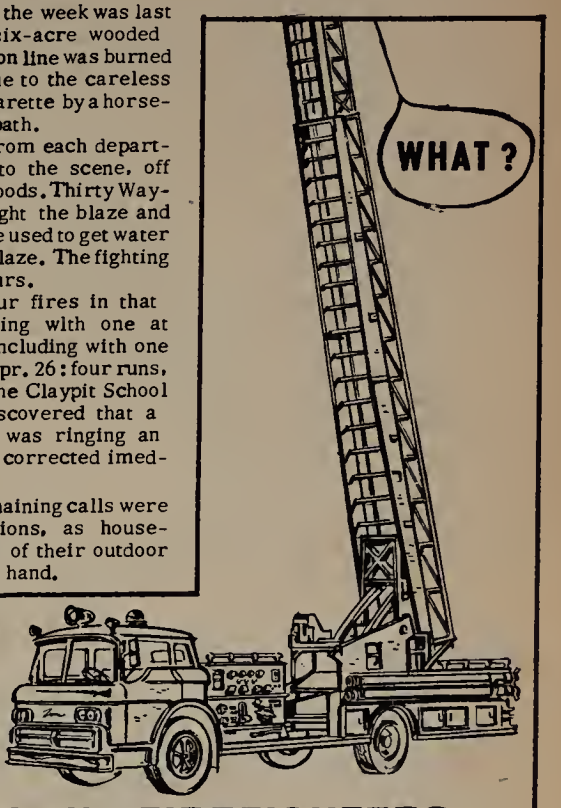
52 Fires in Month Keep Wayland Firemen on Run

WAYLAND--Firefighting has become such a busy business here that local firemen have had 24 calls in the two weeks ending Tuesday--12 each week.

In fact, says Chief Francis J. Hartin, there were 52 calls in April this year, compared with 40 a year ago. And 12 of these came in the Apr. 18-25 week.

Biggest fire of the week was last Friday when a six-acre wooded tract on the Weston line was burned over, probably due to the careless dropping of a cigarette by a horseman on a woods path.

Three trucks from each department were sent to the scene, off Rice Rd. in the woods. Thirty Wayland firemen fought the blaze and three trucks were used to get water to the woodland blaze. The fighting consumed two hours.



There were four fires in that long day, beginning with one at 9:15 a.m. and concluding with one at 7:27 p.m. On Apr. 26: four runs, including two to the Claypit School where it was discovered that a faulty connection was ringing an alarm. This was corrected imediately.

Most of the remaining calls were smoke investigations, as householders let some of their outdoor burning get out of hand.

'Diary' Opens Tonight

SUDBURY -- The story of a group of eight Jews who for 25 months hid in a cramped warehouse attic from the Gestapo was recorded by Anne Frank in her diary. Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett took this story and gave it its dramatic form, entitling it "The Diary of Anne Frank". This play is being given by The Sudbury Players tonight, tomorrow and Saturday at the Sudbury Town Hall. Virginia K. Kirshner is the director and Dick Freniere designed the set.

Travelers Aid was founded in 1887 by volunteers at the Boston YWCA who welcomed young immigrants coming down the gangplank at Boston Harbor.

Wayland Whales Linc–Sudbury 16-2

SUDBURY - Wham-bam, and Wayland struck back here Friday with a 16-2 victory over Lincoln-Sudbury Regional.

A 14-hit attack that included two triples by catcher Ken Houghton and one apiece by Bill Wilkinson and Steve Kruse. Houghton and Wilkinson also had a double.

Senior southpaw Tom Linnehan hurled four-hit ball while his teammates concentrated at the bat and made up for the disputed 9-8 loss to Weston last week.

Again, Linnehan's control was strong. He also opened the scoring with a double that drove home two runs in the first. Fourteen hits by the victors.

3 New Awards Mark Big Night For Wayland High Sports Stars

WAYLAND -- Seven top athletic awards, including three new ones, were made to Wayland High athletes at the Wayland High Assn. annual dinner last Saturday at the high school.

This special tribute to Wayland athletes, girls as well as boys, was made more unusual this year by three special awards to outstanding players in each of three major sports.

These awards were made by the association itself as added recognition of outstanding team and individual play.

Approximately 500 persons attended the affair at which 193 high school athletes received their annual awards.

The awards:

--Babe Ruth Foundation Award for Sportsmanship: Jane Smith and Ricci Greene, both seniors. Presentation by Miss Josephine Mula, girls' physical education teacher and Ralph Savardi, football coach.

--Outstanding Player Awards: baseball, Bruce Waldman, now a freshman at Colby College; basketball, Eldon Goodhue, senior and co-captain of basketball; football, Kenny Houghton, halfback and a junior. Presentation by John W. Arnold, president of Wayland High Assn.

--John E. Sullivan Award, given in name of former star killed in Navy accident to the senior who is adjudged the most-improved football player: Maynard Hilton, a lineman.

Presentation of this award was made by Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan, parents, and Russell Kerr of the association.

Wayland High Assn. Award for best all-around athlete: Lee Paton, president of the Student Council and recently elected to the international honor society -- third baseman and captain of baseball, forward in basketball and a tackle on the football team.

One of the most interested spectators was "the outstanding fan of the Wayland-Weston area", Austin Hale of Weston.

Speakers included Donald B. Willard of Wayland, School Supt. Edward J. Anderson and principal Maxwell Griffin.

Mr. Arnold paid special tribute to the townsfolk whose generous contributions had made $2100 available for this once-a-year big-time for the athletes and to G. P. Richardson for his role in setting up the organization for running the affair.

Community League Annual Luncheon

WESTON -- The annual luncheon and business meeting of the Women's Community League of Weston will be held at the Weston Town House next Wednesday at noon. Chairman of arrangements is Mrs. Reginald L. Cahill, assisted by Mrs. Harold D. Terry.

Floral decorations will be handled by the Garden Interest Group of the Community League under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Willis and Mrs. Donald D. Sloan. Mrs. John Crawford and Mrs. Sherrerd B. Welles will be ushers.

After the business meeting, conducted by president, Mrs. Herman Koester Jr., Dr. Richard A Howard of Harvard and director of the Arnold Arboretum, will present an illustrated lecture, "A Botanist in Your Grocery Store."

Dr. Howard, a resident of Weston, will draw upon widely varied botanizing experiences ranging from tropical jungle, desert, and island to arctic survival to explain how the scientist views many food products, including carbohydrates, spices, drugs, narcotics, ameliorants, and perfumes.

Mrs. Seth Heywood is in charge of program arrangements for the meeting.

Babson Night at Pops

WELLESLEY -- Babson Institute of Business Administration, Wellesley, will hold a Night at the Pops on Sunday, May 14 at 3 p.m. The event will be under the sponsorship of the Babson chapter of Delta Sigma Pi Fraternity. All Babson alumni are cordially invited to attend.

Weston School Chorus In Jordan Hall Concert

BOSTON -- The Independent Schools Chorus will give a concert Saturday evening at 8 at Jordan Hall, Boston. The Glee Clubs of the Brimmer May School, Chapel Hill School, Lawrence Academy and the Rivers Country Day School of Weston, conducted by John Bavicchi will feature the Schubert Mass in G Major with a string orchestra and soloists Ella May Dimmock, soprano, Ralph MacFarlane, tenor, and Stasys Liepas, bass.

Start your lawn off right
Doom crabgrass the same day you seed
HALTS® creates an invisible barrier that destroys crabgrass as it sprouts—yet it lets good grass sprout unharmed. Apply HALTS the same day you sow all-perennial, weed-free Scotts seed, and crabgrass won't get a chance to spoil your success later on. TURF BUILDER® is the all-important third step in your one-day spring program. It supplies the protein-building nutrition new and established grass needs to thrive. Do all three jobs easily and accurately with the Scotts Spreader. You'll never spend a more rewarding afternoon on your lawn.

in order to clean up business early this year and impress voters.

Another: it only had to do with the State Dept. of Natural Resources (not rated high by legislators) and had no jobs and no money to dispense -- so scrap it.

One thing most supporters of this legislation feel is that it doesn't need more study. The public preservation of this rare wetland region has been studied to death over the past 300 years.

Under the legislation, large sections of the Sudbury River wetlands (about 5000 acres) from Stonebridge Rd. north to the Lincoln-Sudbury lines would be acquired gradually by the Federal government, either by gift or purchase and set aside, mostly, for conservation.

5 in Wayland Named to Fight Power Lines

WAYLAND -- Five persons were appointed by the Board of Selectmen Monday night to look into the ways to fight erection of high-lines by power companies.

This follows a town meeting directive. Named:

Willaim C. Moyer of River Rd., Ronald Campbell of Mitchell St., Sheldon Fisher of Old Sudbury Rd., David Biddle of Plain Rd., Mrs. Jucelyn Walter of Bennett Rd.

The committee is directed to meet with officials of other suburban communities to work up a common front against the threat of high tension lines on towers.

No action has been taken locally on this issue since last Summer. Recently a bill that would prohibit public utilities from erecting such lines in suburbia was defeated at the State House.

In other business the selectmen:

--Named Mrs. Florence Prouty of West Plain Rd., Mrs. Ethel Damon of 8 Shawmut Ave. and Mrs. Dorthy Yetsina of 230 West Plain St. as policewomen.

--Named Donald Hyde of Old Connecticut Path as plumbing inspector.

Fire Chief Warns

WAYLAND--The Wayland Fire Dept. has called attention to the fact that no furnace company has been authorized to make inspections for the department.

Any inspections for the department will be made by a fireman in uniform during the working day, according to Chief Francis J. Hartin. He states that he has received many complaints from homeowners saying that representatives of a furnace firm have so represented themselves. Simply not so.

Advertising Office Opened By R.S. Johnson in Wayland

WAYLAND -- Wayland's first advertising office has been opened on Pelham Island Rd. by Robert S. Johnson. This new office will provide creative counseling services for both advertisers and advertising agencies located throughout New England.

Formerly a copy supervisor at Batton, Barton, Durstine & Osborn and copy chief at the Harold Cabot agency in Boston, Mr. Johnson brings to the new office a broad experience in creative advertising. He has planned and written campaigns for national and local advertisers in all media -- newspapers, magazines, outdoor, radio and TV.

Before moving his family to Wayland in 1955, Mr. Johnson served on the promotion staffs of Time and Life magazines and in the advertising department of the New York Telephone Co.

Mr. Johnson is a graduate of Princeton, a member of the Wayland United Fund Committee, the Republican Town Committee and the Princeton Alumni Assn. of New England.

Mrs. Mabel Peakes

WESTON -- Private services were held last Friday for Mrs. Mabel E. Peakes, 87, of 52 Westland Rd., Weston, who died Wednesday, Apr. 26, after a long illness.

Mrs. Peakes was buried in the family lot in Linwood Cemetery. She was the widow of Charles E. Peakes.

She leaves two daughters, Miss Dorothy Peakes of Weston, and Mrs. Ashley Montagu (Marjorie) of Princeton, N. J.; three sons, Gilbert E. and Herman L. Peakes, both of Weston, and Seldon C. Peakes of Wayland; a sister, Mrs. Frank H. Brooks of Weston, 11 grandchildren, and 21 great-grandchildren.

Westwood Man Shaken Up in Weston Crash

WESTON -- Robert Stevens of Westwood was badly shaken up early Saturday when his car was forced off the road and smashed into a tree on Post Rd. near the Dean Dairy, Weston police report.

Mr. Stevens told police he was going west when another vehicle veered into his path. His 1957 car hit the tree head-on and was demolished. He was taken to Waltham Hospital by Weston police where he was X-rayed about the chest and dismissed.

Wayland Youths Graduate From Great Lakes Station

GREAT LAKES, Ill. -- Stephen H. White, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alred L. White of 30 Wallace Rd., and Kenneth R. Gray, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Bowen of 14 Ridgefield Rd., both of Wayland were graduated from nine-week recruit training, Apr. 8, at the Naval Training Center here.

Honorable mention went to Margaret Martell, of 6 October Lane, '61; and Christine Comeau, 25 Perry Lane, '64. Conducted by Miss Alice Olliff of the school's art department, the contest has its winner chosen by the board of selectmen.

Tracerlab Gets $34,000 Contract

WALTHAM -- Tracerlab has received a $34,000 contract from the General Services Administration in Washington to supply nuclear calibrators to the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

Known as "Radiological Source Sets (CD-V-784)", the calibrators are used by Civil Defense agencies to insure accurate readings on the instruments they will use to detect radiation levels in our communities in the event that we are ever subject to nuclear warfare.

The present $34,000 order makes the third successive year Tracerlab has received a contract of this nature.

Smoke Signal

Vol. I, No. 6 - 2 Pages | Weston High School, Weston, Mass. | May 4, 1961

Juniors Await Sayronara And Visions of Teabells And Blossoms As Prom Nears

Many glue covered fingers ago the class of '62 commenced to work on a very secretive project.

Students were amazed to find footprints diligently walking across the ceiling of the cafeteria. Teachers were equally mystified as to where the juniors disappeared during conference period. Just as puzzling was a strange soap-box opera entitled "Search for Serendipidy" which was presented over the P.A. system.

But what the members of Weston High saw and heard with exception of the junior class was merely a front of serenity which was hiding a bedlam of confusion.

Behind the scene frantic juniors were raiding all the big department and chain stores in search of material to be used in making a dream come true. This material, in turn, was then rushed to a secret hideaway where one can hear the screeching of saws above the laughing voices and a blaring radio belonging to the master constructors.

All the cut hands, sticky fingers of some very tired juniors and two resourceful genies. Mrs. Bucuvalas and Mr. Lewis, are working together to make everyone's dream a reality on the night of May 12th. Then the exotic land of cherry blossoms, Geisha Girls and fortune cookies will emerge from the finished dreams of the junior class to become the reality of "Sayronara".

Between the mystic hours of 8:00 to 12:00 midnight the students will dance to the wonderful music of Herby Wayne and his orchestra in the gymnasium of Weston High School.

Arrangements for the orchestra have been made by John Bump. Debbie Wright is the chairman of the tempting exotic delicacies. Russ Reilly is responsible for the very clever publicity stunts. In charge of the ushers and invitations is Mary Joy Lane, Ellen Raynor and Bill Parlee have taken the responsibility of the tickets and program committee. The job of transforming the gym into an exotic land has been left under the supervision of Betsy Eldridge and Dave Connolly.

Newspaper Honored

The First Place award given to the Smoke Signal by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association came as a happy surprise to the members of the staff. We had been so lost in finding stories and so entangled in deadlines that we were incapable of evaluating our own work. The errors we made seemed so glaring that they obscured everything else. It took the CSPA's objective approval to put things in the right perspective.

Now that the smoke has cleared (and the last page of copy has been slipped under the Crier office door) our progress seems mildly astonishing. We have replaced a mimeographed report issued three times a year with six copies of a two-page newspaper. Our circulation has leaped from 150 to 4,000. (We have the Town Crier to thank for that!) Instead of writing little blurbs, our reporters have submitted some recognizable pieces of journalistic prose.

We were fortunate to be given space in the Town Crier, but we weren't quite prepared for the increased demands and responsibilities put on the staff. There were so few of us that everyone had to contribute to each issue in order to get enough copy. Holes left when an assignment did not come in were frantically plugged at the last minute. Almost before one issue appeared, ulcers were aching over the next. There was no time during the school day to gather information for stories and help on writing them was available only at certain times after a long day of classes.

We have earned a First Place the hard way and are enjoying, for the first time, the prestige that other organizations take for granted. We hope the award will draw the better students to the staff next year. We hope that the award will convince the administration that supervised time during the school day would be valuable for work on the newspaper. Our hope of all hopes is to be able to print independently. We are ready with a larger and experienced staff to have enough material to overflow the two page limit in the Crier.

As I bed down the fire of the last Smoke Signal for this school term, I believe that the new staff will find enough coals next fall to send bigger and better smoke signals.

Seniors Have Day Teaching School, Civil War Program, Variety Show

Steve Richardson, Kep Stone and Peter Borrelli try to recall sophomore experiences as they teach biology for Mr. Keene on Senior Day.

The class of 1961 at Weston High School will be remembered if nothing else, for the quantity and varlety of senior activitles with which they rounded off the school year. Through the help of the principal, Mr. Willard Smith, and class officers and advisors, the school was treated to a series of unusual and fun-packed events that gave vitality to the school schedule.

First, the seniors held the chuck wagon food sale, designed to make money for senior day on April 12. Few people had difficulty recognizing the gaily bedecked pick-up truck that was driven around town by seniors selling food contributed by all the mothers of the class. Mrs. Akers especially helped with this sale. As a result of many hungry people, the seniors made $108.

That same Saturday night, April 8, saw the hilarious donkey basketball game held in the High School gym, netting the seniors $240. It was a game of many upsets between the football and basketball teams. The riding ability of some of the players didn't seem too extensive, and the donkeys' own behavior didn't add much to the order of the game. Some of us began to wonder whether Eddie Perkins would ever stay on that black and white one, although the two finally did get along. The football team came out the winners in the end, but the donkeys seemed to have the really last word on who did what; they went where and when they chose.

Many Helpers

All these activities were staged to raise money for the senior day program, which was a commenorative program on the Civil War Centennial. Bob White, class president, Posy Lombard, class vice-president, and Joe Ewers were largely responsible for the planning, with the help of the social studies department and Mrs. Ellsworth, the class advisor. The program consisted of Joe Karas as Uncle Sam reading a brief history of the important battles of the war, with costumed soldiers acting them out in simplified form. The hanging of John Brown was also featured, along with the death of Barbara Fritchie. Forming a colorful backdrop were the girls dressed in colorful anti-bellum costumes, and negro singers who sang several spirituals. It turned out to be a colorful and historically interesting show, pointing up both the good and grim aspects of the Civil War. The show cost about $248 to stage, and the remainder of the earnings was put in the class treasury.

Talent Shown

Last, and by no means least, is the fabulous variety show put on by the senior class on April 28 and 29 at the Country School auditorium. A lot of talent and originality was shown by the seniors in this event. To the piano music of Steve Richardson and the announcing by Joe Ewers and John Rich, a spectacle of music, dancing, and comedy unfolded with a boys' chorus line and sultry senior girls singing "My Heart Belongs To Daddy." The show was timeless, including Gay Nineties melodies, Roaring Twenties jazz songs, and a modern jazz combo along with some younger editions of the Kingston Trio. The show was certainly rewarding for all who attended as well as for the seniors who had a lot of fun just putting it on. Mr. Zorn helped the seniors out at their rehearsals.

School Music Group At Bedford Festival

The band, orchestra and senior choir of Weston High School will participate in the Northeastern Massachusetts Music Festival, at Bedford on Saturday, May 6. Approximately 5,000 high school musicians are expected to attend this all-day activity.

Each school group will perform three selections alone during the morning. Weston groups will be heard at the following times. Choir 8:45 at the Church of Christ; Band 9:05 in the Center School Gym. Other activities are a massed chorus program, an afternoon parade followed by a massed band program at the high school field. Everyone is invited to attend. Admission is free.

College Blues Over For Many Seniors As Suspense Relaxes

Already the majority of the senior class has been accepted by the college of its choice. Let's take a peek and see where our Civil War patriots are headed:

Staying in the New England Area are: Judy Appleyard and Carol Taber, ENDICOTT JR. COLLEGE; Debby Baker and Sally Foote, COLBY JR.; Judy Helgeson, Sue Thomas, and Bonnie MacKay, WESTBROOK JR. COLLEGE; Crete McMullin and Sandy Livingston, GARLAND; Peg Sloan, WHEELOCK: Ken Child, BATES; Beverly Ormsby, UNIV. OF MASS.; Sue Stantial, UNIV. OF CONN.; Hank Davidson, NORWICH: Forbes McMullin, AMHERST: and Linda Townsend, RADCLIFFE.

Sightseeing further West we find: Nancy Garland, PEMBROKE (Rhode Island): Ceci Herrick, CASENOVIA (New York); Sue Lappan, RUSSELL SAGE (New York); Jane Wypler, CORNELL (New York); Sue Petrick, MUSKINGUM (Ohio); Gail Monahon, ADRIAN (Michigan); Ann Finison and Betsy Wigginton, KALAMAZOO (Michigan); Leslie Rudel, IOWA STATE (Iowa); Bob Boutell, KENTUCKY WESLEYAN (Kentucky); and Gray Anderson, UNIV OF DENVER (Colorado).

Ambassadors from the class of '61 are Roy MacArthur going to Germany as an exchange student and Ralph Stockmeyer entering the Armed Forces.

Weston Girls Chosen For Rhombas Trip

Judy Hoagland and Susan Hulsman have high hopes of spending next year in Rhombas, France, as exchange students. Unable to decide between the two equally qualified girls, the Weston-Rombas Affiliation Committee has written to Rombas asking if they would accept both.

This decision was reached following several tense weeks during which a committee of three weighed the qualifications of seven applicants. Judy and Susan have had three years of French, hold good academic records, and in the opinion of the board, gave the most convincing reasons for wanting to spend a year in France.

If Rombas agrees with the committee's decision, the girls will leave for France in the beginning of September. Carter Bottjer, who is now in Rombas, is expected to return to Weston in mid-August.

Members of the committee which selected the exchange students are Mrs. Henry Merrill, Chairman of the Weston-Rhombas Affiliation Committee, Mrs. Fred Bonner, and Dr. Carl Bartels.

Fulfilling his life's ambition Joe Ewers portrays Robert E. Lee in the Civil War Pageant.

New High School -- ... With Maps

At this time of year, the students of schools all over the country are counting the days until the end of school. This may be true with some Weston pupils, but a greater percent are counting the number of days to September, 1961, when Weston High School will be located in new quarters.

This move is the cause of many petty worries already. Will maps of the building be distributed? Or, perhaps there will be a course in navigation. The classes have already begun to argue over who has the most honor, the first graduating class, or the first class to give a junior prom.

Certainly this move will affect all of us, whether pupil or teacher. Commonly heard all over the school are phrases like the following, "Just wait until we get into the new school!" The music department is waiting for its music room, the biology department for the snake pit, and the language departments for their language labs. The students are hoping that the seats in the new lecture halls will be somewhat more resilient than the bleachers in the present gym.

All of us are looking forward eagerly to participating in the many joys and opportunities of a brand, "spandy" new school and surroundings. But perhaps we should all stop and reflect soberly on the serious responsibility that comes along with the pleasures and opportunities of a new school.

Let us enter the new high school with the firm determination that this wonderful building and surroundings will be kept just as neat and attractive for the future classes as it will be for us in September, 1961.

Ann Scans: New York City

For the young at heart there is no city like New York. Although sightseeing tours via bus are popular and less tiring, you must walk the streets to really enjoy the city.

New York is about eight hours from Boston by car. However once you reach your hotel, it is best to have your car parked permanently for the duration of the visit. Pick a hotel near the center of the city or if you are going with little money - the YMCA or YWCA - and take a taxi or bus to the various areas.

Good Touring

If this is your second trip to the Big City and you have already toured the U.N. Building, the Empire State Building, the Statue of Liberty, and Radio City Music Hall, try a few new sights. On the first day it is best to go shopping on Fifth Avenue or in that vicinity. Saks, Bonwit Teller, and Bergdorf Goodman are some of the high fashion (and price) stores. You don't have to buy all that you try on, but it's fun to buy a facsimile of a Paris designed coat or dress and become one of the elite.

It is facinating just to watch the people on the streets of New York. On Fifth Avenue, for example, there will be the businessman, the up and coming model, the millionaire, the blind beggar and young people of all kinds.

Many Nationalities

Some nationalities have grouped together. Chinatown and the Jewish, Puerto Rican, Greek, and Italian sections are interesting to wander through. Brooklyn also has some foreign nationality areas (Spanish and Middle Eastern to name a few). In these foreign sections many curios can be obtained. Meals are exciting adventures with new atmospheres and tastes. Try an Indian curry, Mexican enchiladas, or Armenian baklava.

Greenwich Village at present is one of the most famous areas of New York due to the popularity of Jack Kerouac and others. The Village is best visited at night and, after a stroll down a few streets to get in the mood, one should stop in at any one of many coffee houses and sample some expresso or some other variety of coffee or tea. The tables are small, the lights are low, and some of the customers are real characters -- 1961-style Thoreau's, way-out beatniks, and some very good artists.

Excellent Plays

Broadway does not have all of the best plays and one excellent performance is in the Village. It is called "The Premise" and is held in a basement. The walls are doors nailed together. Three men and a girl complete the cast. The props consist of a few wooden boxes. Yet this low-budget performance is one of the funniest and most satirical of this era. Suggestions from the audience are occasionally asked for on current news items, movies, and ideas for scenes. The the cast gives their interpretation to the suggestions.

You may have sore feet when you return home but you'll see and get more from walking around New York City than you would by riding in a rubber-neck bus.

This Is Your Life

Can you imagine this little boy telling a policeman that someone's parking meter was violated? When he was in first grade in Needham he did just that.

He was born in Wilmington, Delaware on October 7, 1943. At ten months he fell out of a second story window. This started his long list of accidents that almost always were caused by sports. He doesn't mind, in fact he says that basketball isn't rough enough for him to play. He has dislocated both his hip and shoulder playing football and has broken a bone in his ankle with track.

Very much interested in sports about the only thing he reads are "Sports Illustrated" and the daily sports section. Whenever "now where has the sports section gone" is heard the family knows that he is home. The family consists of David, Lee, Peter, Mr. and Mrs., the dog, Groggie, and five kittens which are all called "Al." This family lives at 406 North Avenue.

Curt Evans this is your life!

J. V.'s Start Well

Full of spirit and a few stiff muscles the Junior-varsity upset Holliston 6-1 in the first game of the season. Bob Lazarri, Weston's pitcher fanned 13 batters and set a new school record.

Coached by Mr. Nate Todero, 27 boys survived the first weeks of calisthenics and are now in uniform. The team has been practicing two hours or more each day since the end of March to improve their batting and fielding skill and to get used to playing on a larger ball diamond than the regulation junior high one.

The players and their positions are as follows: pitchers, R. Hamill, D. Holms, R. Lazzari, J. Robbins, A. Stanhope, J. Viles; Catchers, G. DeNapoli, B. DeSimone, J. Rickards; first base, R. Given, R. Miller; second base, N. Appleyard, R. Tiara; thrid base, R. Brush, R. Hosterman; shortstop, W. Bogardus, R. Butcher, R. D'Antonio; outfielders, C. Bothwell, M. Doyle, S. Heywood, M. Kuipers, A. Lee, J. Loder, J. Sabean, E. Sullivan.

Who Said: "Play Ball"

Take me out of the ball game,
Carry me off of the field,
Buy me some crutches and a plaster cast,
I'm so sore now I'll never last.
Run, Run, Run 'round the ball field,
If you're not on time, it's a shame,
For it's one, two, three times around
On the J-V team.

(Inspired by a few complaining underclassmen)

Needham-Weston Concert Success

The Weston High School Orchestra with the Needham High School Orchestra presented assembly programs at Needham and in Weston. The program in Needham was held on Friday, April 28. The same program was presented at Weston on Tuesday, May 2. This is the first program of this type to be presented for the entire school. Groups from other schools have presented programs in recent years, but not combined with our groups.

The Conducting of the program was shared by Mr. John Nardi director of the Needham Orchestra and Mr. Robert Corley.

NEW ROW SPLITS FOES OF RENEWAL

WAYLAND -- Urban renewal in Wayland is as loose as a bounding football again.

With a wide split in the Wayland Civic Assn., the group which has made itself most directly concerned with the program, no one knows where the next move will be.

This week's developments:

--Guy Newhall resigned as president: too much hamstringing of a moderate association program, he said.

--The association in its annual meeting Monday bypassed Vice President Clifford Goodnoh who ran for president to pick Ralph Blanchard a middle of the roader on policy.

What the split boils down to is this:

Mr. Goodnoh and some of the directors wanted an all-out fight against continuance of the Urban Renewal Authority which is just getting under way this year.

Mr. Newhall, in the minority on the board, felt that if urban renewal were here, the best thing would be to work with it, offering studies and plans by the association as a counter to town-conceived plans.

The association is composed of about 250

A-Okay for Linnehan In Wayland No-Hitter

WAYLAND -- It was A-okay all the way for Tom Linnehan last Thursday as the rangy Wayland High southpaw hurled a no-hitter against Bedford High.

The Eastern Mass. champions gave Tom a comfortable lead, belting Bedford pitching for 22 runs in a 22-2 victory.

The victory gave the champs a 3-2 edge in the Dual County standings, and pointed to a fast season from here on in.

From Coach Buzz Bowers: "He'll win in better competition than we face, too, because he's a good competitor. He has a good fastball and he's always around the plate."

For Tom it was his second League win. He limited Lincoln-Sudbury to four singles in an Apr. 28 win.

With this first no-hitter of the current season, Linnehan ranks with the best in the League. He is also a strong hitter on those days he patrols left field. He singled once in Thursday's encounter.

He struck out the side in the fifth and fanned the last five men to face him. The game was called

Health Club Seeks 50-Acre Site; Hearing Set Monday

WESTON -- A 50-acre health club on Conant Rd. A special hearing on this move will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall before the Weston Zoning Board of Appeals.

Interest in the mammoth swimming and recreational facility on the Weston-Lincoln line has run high among residents along Conant Rd. An overflow group is expected at the hearing.

The petition has been filed by the Valley Pond Realty Trust of Lincoln.

What is involved are variations in the zoning laws which would permit construction of dams to provide two brook-fed ponds for swimming, boating and other activities.

At the present time, the trust, through trustee Ranulf W. Gras of Laurel Dr., Lincoln, states that its only right of way is through lot 8 on Conant Rd.

The site is just north of Rte. 117 along the town line.

About half of the property is in Weston.

The trust also wants permission to construct several buildings to carry out the recreational activities.

At present there is a house and barn on the lot where the frontage and lot width at the setback line is less than the minimum required by the zoning law as amended.

Mr. Gras has stated that fishing, boating and swimming is contemplated.

Last Winter, the Valley Pond Realty Trust offered shares to the public "to conserve 50 acres of unspoiled valley on the Weston-Lincoln line and to provide recreation for its shareholders.

Other trustees include Morton B. Braun of Moccassin Hill Rd.,

Out for a Stroll At 93-But Boy Did He WALK

WAYLAND -- David Hutchinson formed the habit when he was a boy of a little exercise every day. A bit of a stroll preferably.

But that was years ago. Mr. Hutchinson, now 93, stepped out of Cushing Hospital about 6:30 a.m. for a little stroll. And kept on walking.

About 12:20 p.m. Wednesday (May 3), a missing persons call went out on the police radio, and about 3:27 p.m. Wayland Police Chief Ernest Damon found him in Wayland Center.

"Just a bit tired, I am," was Mr. Hutchinson's comment after his seven-mile "stroll."

Car Overturns Driver Unhurt

WAYLAND -- Raymond Poirier of 90 Willow St., West Acton, escaped injury about 2 a.m. last Saturday when his car overturned on Old Sudbury Rd.

Police said his station wagon shot off the road, overturned and landed back on the highway going north.

Wayland Woman Hospitalized in Weston Crash

WESTON -- A Wayland man and several members of his family were injured in a two-car crash at Brown and Winter Sts., here Sunday about 3:27 p.m.

Wayland Boy On Bike Struck, Badly Injured

WAYLAND -- A Wayland boy bicyclist was struck and seriously injured by a car last Saturday on Old Sudbury Rd., Wayland Center.

John K. Higley, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Higley of 25 Orchard Lane, is being held for examination in Leonard Morse Hospital, Natick, after he received a multiple fracture of his left arm (between elbow and hand), a dislocated finger, deep cut and bump on the head.

Wayland police report that shortly before noon, the Higley boy, cutting from Concord Rd. to Old Sudbury Rd. at the railroad property was struck by a car driven by John T. Booth, 74 Taylor St., Waltham. Mr. Booth said he was driving toward the railroad property.

The Higley boy was taken by Natick ambulance to the hospital. Officer Edward Burke investigated.

Howling Success Closes 1st Night

WAYLAND -- That cat season is upon the town again. The cat farm case comes up in court this week -- and just as a warmup last Friday night, firemen had to break up a howling success on Glezen Lane.

Neighbors plagued with two yowlers called police and firemen -- just to make sure. Both had staked out limbs on a tree and it took gloved laddermen to bring them back alive -- and quiet.

Health Agent Appointed

WAYLAND -- It's been settled. Wayland now has a public health agent -- and the wrangle that has split the board for several weeks is over.

The new agent: Ronald Wood of 74 East Plain St. in the Cochituate section.

Mr. Wood has been a member of the Board of Public Welfare for several years and active in town affairs for 36 years.

The sudden unanimity among board members was a surprise to about 60 persons who crammed the meeting room at the Parmenter Health Center. Also to board members who seemed pleased to find agreement at last.

But just as they turned the health agent corner, another problem loomed up -- awarding a contract for garbage removal.

Memory of the brouhaha that attended a slow-down in signing a contract five years ago, board members are anxious this year to arrive at some agreement with contractors and the Board of Selectmen with whom they must act to set up the contract.

The contract is among the biggest awarded by the town, coming in the neighborhood of $16,000.

Board members may have lost their Hooper ratings with spectators who'd regarded board doings as the closest thing to spirited indoor sports since basketball went out but the Affair Fair had been settled at last.

The squabble began this Winter when Norman Fair, formerly both board member and health agent, was induced to resign from the board since he could not hold both posts.

Mr. Fair was then turned down for reappointment by the board,

Mrs. Blake Returns as Director of Red Barn Nursery School

WESTON -- Mrs. Weston Blake has returned as administrative director of the Red Barn Nursery School, the board of directors announced this week.

Mrs. Blake was connected with the Red Barn Nursery School from its beginnings in 1945 when she and Mrs. Albert Speare merged their Nursery Schools.

Prior to that time she conducted her own nursery school for five years and taught in Lincoln, Mass. nursery school for four years.

Red Barn Nursery School has had several homes; in addition to the Speare's barn and house. It has operated in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cummings, in the

Help on Recreation Offered in Weston

WESTON -- Every day our open spaces are being threatened by new buildings, parking lots and short-sighted planning, according to Mrs. David M. Kellogg Jr. As sponsor for the National Recreation Ass'n. in Weston, she sent a letter this week to local residents describing the association's work in fighting against the inroads on our open space and recreation areas.

The National Recreation Association has helped hundreds of communities to fight encroachment and to plan wisely for the future.

As a non-profit organization, the association depends on voluntary contributions (non-deductible), she said. Checks should be made out to the National Recreation Ass'n and sent to her at 181 Boston Post Rd.

Annual Charity Festival Ready at Shopper's World

FRAMINGHAM -- Enthusiasm is running high in anticipation of the first annual charity festival which kicks off at Shoppers' World next Wednesday.

A large number of organizations of every size and purpose from Wayland, Weston, Framingham, Natick, Wellesley and surrounding towns will be competing for valuable cash awards in a gala atmosphere reminiscent of an old world street bazaar.

There will be as wide a variety of home-crafted and home cooked items sold as can be imagined . . . cakes and pies and cookies and casseroles . . . plants and seedlings and bouquets . . . notepaper and aprons, doll clothes and personalized baloons . . . gingerbread men and ceramic ash trays . . . name it, and someone will be selling it sometime between May 17 and May 27 on the mall at Shoppers' World.

It is expected that this festival will be an interesting and exciting way to add many dollars to the treasuies of the many fine organizations who are participating, and who serve the community in so many ways.

First National Offers Sox Tix With Groceries

BOSTON -- Now once again you can get your Red Sox tickets with your groceries -- at all First National Stores.

. In fact $100 worth of grocery tapes presented at the store will entitle you to one $2.25 reserved seat ticket for a home game -- except for Friday night games.

The plan, introduced last year, proved so successful that it is being extended to 343 of the firm's stores in Eastern Massachusetts and all of New England except Connecticut. The promotion will last for eight weeks, beginning this week.

Last year 330,000 home game seats were sold through this promotion. More are expected this year.

RAISE THE BANNER

At the present time, the Negro in our city, as in other parts, is no longer satisfied to live in the accepted areas and is ready and eager to exercise his right as a citizen and live precisely where he chooses. Moreover, large numbers of Negroes, whose parents were perforce people of little schooling, are now well educated in nearly every discipline and seek new horizons in the field of employment or in the professions. These are days of change for the Negro, and the white community is involved in that change. This makes it an important time for us to check our attitudes and our basic commitments on the matter of race.

Almost no one lives in so isolated a manner as to be able to avoid taking a stand on this question. Are we ready, each one of us, to accept the Negro in our midst as a neighbor with whom we live and work? What would be our reaction if the family next door happens to be colored? At work, do we discriminate between others on the basis of color? Have we Negroes among our friends? Do they belong to our clubs? Do they feel at home among us? These are not academic questions which can wait for an answer. These are questions which life in our city thrusts upon us and to which we must give Christian answers.

But Protection for Whom?

Kids on bikes. One of the biggest worries parents have. Especially here in the suburbs where every road's a potential speedway. Right?

But a child on a bike can be a wise guy, and a hazard to others, too. Especially when he's not our child.

And that, we submit, is what's at the heart of this fumbling over the so-called bike law at the State House. We need protection for the young bikers, yes but protection from them as well.

Already some of the more adventurous young cyclists are trying out the you-must-stop-if-I-say-so hand signal on drivers with near-disastrous results. (The law doesn't take effect until July 1.) How about that?

Well -- the legislature, which whipped this law through way over the speed limit for good legislation, is now looking over two repealers.

The law-to-be states that any motorist upon approaching a child on a bike must slow down to 15 mph, sound his horn and be prepared to stop if the child so signals.

One of the repealers favored by Registrar Riley would knock out the hand-signal proposition and make the law apply to anyone on a bike since it's pretty hard, legally, to say what is meant by a child in this law. Also, to clear up another ambiguity, it would apply only to bikers going in the same direction as the driver.

The other new bike bill would simply enjoin motorists to use "reasonable caution" under the circumstances.

Both Weston Police Chief Frank Shaw and Chief Ernest Damon of Wayland maintain the law is unenforceable, even dangerous.

We can't help but agree. A horn is more likely to startle a youngster than guide him. And we have already seen that some youngsters like to play traffic cop, the risk be damned.

Just for a moment -- think these hazards over in terms of your own child. Then of yourself behind the wheel trying to outguess the youngster up ahead.

Certainly if 1600 cycle accidents resulted in injuries in Massachusetts last year and nine in deaths, some action is essential.

But it isn't the law that passed in the night. And of the two repealers, we'd say the simpler ("reasonable caution") is the best for now.

If you think so, too, here is your opportunity to make your feelings felt at the State House.

Write, wire or see your senator or representative now. It couldn't affect you more.

THE PROBLEM: Boy -- Bike -- Fall

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

The Mouse's Ear and - Squirrel's Foot

Wayland and Weston are frosty places. No, I don't refer to the people who live here, who are not different from most New Englanders, often considered by folks from other parts of the country as something less than warm; but rather to the climate.

Have you noticed how much earlier the tulips and forsythia bloom in Boston or Newton than here? The reason is geologic: the influence of the sea. Boston, Cambridge, Newton lie in what geologists, I believe, term the Boston Basin: an area of nearly level plain raised only slightly above tide water, which feels directly the ameliorating influence of the season its temperature and climate.

As a very early visitor put it, "There are many Plantations by the Seaside, Situate for the advantage of the East and South Winds, which coming from Sea produceth warm Weather."

Encircled with Hills

About ten miles out from the harbor, however, in all directions, this Basin is encircled with hills: Bear and Ball's Hills in Waltham, Arlington H eights, Wellesley Hills, the Great Blue Hill, and so on. Just as soon as you get out beyond this range of hills, you lose close to a month of summer. That is, the time between the last spring frost and the first fall frost is shorter by ten days or two weeks at each end of the season, than it is within the circle. Moreover, in colder weather, what is rain in Boston is often sleet or snow once you pass these hills, as you surely have noticed in driving.

As you go further north or west, the ground continues to rise, so that at Fitchburg or Athols or Peterbor , N. H., the time between frosts shortens at least another fortnight. To quote our chronicles fruther: "The Norwest blowing over the Land, causeth extremity of Cold; and very often strikes both Indian and English Inhabitants with that terrible Distemper, called, the Plague in the Back." (A lot of folks here have suffered it this last winter.)

To most people, though, living in warmly heated houses, and travelling in comfortable automobiles and trains, these variations in temperature seem of no great account, though driving expense and cost of municipal snow removal are likely to increase with distance from the sea. But - don't overlook the importance of this climate factor, when it comes to gardening.

Whereas the danger of frost in Watertown or Newton will usually be over by May 10, you can't be sure of frostless nights here much before Decoration Day, as you may find to your sorrow if you set tomato plants too early without protection. In the fall the first frost may hit here as early as September 10, and almost always by the twentieth; whereas in Boston and the close suburbs the nasturtiums will be blooming till October.

The old folks, and before then the Indians, didn't rely on the calendar to know when to plant tender things. In Nature they found a much more trustworthy guide, especially in a backward season such as this has been. Their planting wisdom is summed up in old sayings: "When the leaves of the white oak are as big as the mouse's ear, plant corn," is the most common. Another was, "When the leaf of the dogwood is the size of the squirrel's ear, and the oak leaf as large as the squirrel's foot," then do your planting. If you want to be more exact, one Indian saying specified going by the foot of a red squirrel, which might put you a day ahead of the gardener who goes by the foot of the gray one.

Of course you can start earlier and take a chance, as many market gardeners do, putting in another planting a week or ten days later, in case the first lot gets nipped by frost. Or, if you are a home gardener, you can cover the young plants if a sharp night comes.

Want some further reliable directions? An Indian woman vouched for these, but I can't guarantee them. "Plant corn and beans in the full of the moon." "Put in climbing vegetables when the moon is on the wane." Nothing new about this, for the Italian Verrazano who described what he found in New England on his voyage in 1524, records: In the time of sowing they " (the Aborigines) "are governed by the moon, which they think affects the sprouting of the grain."

Moon was Waxing

Now don't laugh at this. Your own ancestors went a lot by the moon. For instance they killed hogs while the moon was waxing, in order that the pork should increase in the kettle while it cooked. And only fifty years ago Professor Kittridge of Harvard wrote that there were still mothers who picked the time when the moon was increasing to cut their daughters' hair, so that it would come out thicker. You can try this: it is just as likely to be true as a number of things you llsten to over the air every day; and it costs nothing.

So maybe the Indians were right. At any rate, they were accurate as to the time when it is safe to plant tender things in the spring. Remember, Weston and Wayland are not Southern California. You ignore nature's warnings on the weather at your peril! Better check on the mouse's ear and the squirrel's foot.

Letters to the EDITOR

Thanks From U.S. To Us

To the Editor:

It is with pleasure that I take this opportunity to extend our thanks and appreciation for the splendid cooperation given to the office of the District Director of Internal Revenue during the recent filing period.

The timely publication of the many items and bulletins released by both the National and District Offices aided immeasurably in stimulating an awareness in the taxpayers to the necessity for filing early and accurate Federal income tax returns.

Frank J. Cavanagh
District Director

Ed Note - And thank you. But please don't let people think we had anything to do with collections, too.

Bike Safety - When Will We Act?

To the Editor:

There has been an interval of two months and five accidents since our town meetings, when an article was voted unanimously to form a committee on public safety.

Very recently this committee had not been completely formed, or even had a meeting.

The article was inserted for the purpose of studying public safety in Wayland and to make recommendations. The intent was not to have just a sidewalk committee!

We need much more than this, and I think this committee has an urgent obligation to our community.

Howard H. Jenkins

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Kids - It's Tadpole Time

Now is the time when children collect frog eggs in the ponds and slow moving streams in this area.

These eggs are enclosed in a white, jelly-like mass, and appear as small black dots about the size of bird shot. There may be one or two hundred eggs in each mass. Usually the egg mass is attached to sticks or grass under the water in stagnant areas, and can be best removed by breaking off the whole stick.

It is very interesting to watch the eggs develop - first the tail unfolds, then the tadpole slowly eats or works its way through the jelly mass to the outside where it falls to the bottom to rest for awhile before it starts swimming around.

I find that a gallon size glass jar is about the best tank for hatching the eggs, and the more air surface exposed, the better. Always use the water from the place where you collect the eggs, as tap water seems to kill the tadpoles.

If you are successful in hatching these eggs, perhaps the best plan is to dump them back where you found them as soon as the interest wanes -- as the tapoles will probably die if kept in captivity too long.

Weston Firemen Love That Weather

WESTON -- You may not like it but this weather has been just fine for ducks -- and Weston firemen.

In one week, ending Tuesday, just five calls, none of them serious. By date:

May 4 at 9:34 a.m., smoke investigation at 87 Summer St.; May 5 at 7:14 a.m., brush and garage fire at 243 Meadowbrook Rd., minor damage to the garage; 7:44 p.m., a lockout on Dean Rd.; May 6, two smoke investigations -- no permits; May 7, at 10:33 p.m., defective heater at 6 Irving Rd.

Wood flour is powdered sawdust used to make bowling balls, floor tiles, doorknobs, linoleum, phonograph records and wall paper.

Weston Doctor Heads Hub Dispensary Staff

WESTON -- Dr. Allan D. Callow of 492 Glen Rd. was elected president of the medical and scientific staff of the Boston Dispensary at a recent staff meeting. Dr. Callow is a graduate of Tufts College and Harvard Medical School. He joined the staff of the Boston Dispensary in 1951.

Elected to the executive council was Dr. F. Rheinlander, surgeon, of 46 Cedar Rd.

$15 Extra - If You Don't Collar Dog

WAYLAND -- Don't say you weren't warned. Names of 500 dog owners are being turned over to the police this week by the town clerk's office.

Dog fees ($2-5) were due Mar. 31 and warnings went out Apr. 14 but still only about 400 dog owners haven't been collared. Now they face a $15 fine -- if police take action.

J. DAVID BRESLIN

Breslin Named To Sales Post

NEWTON -- J. David Breslin of Sears Rd., Wayland, has been appointed special products sales manager of The Gamewell Co. here.

Mr. Breslin will be responsible for the marketing of Gamewell's growing line of electronic components, including precision potentiometers, rotary switches, and allied electronic equipment.

He is a graduate of Tufts University with a degree in business administration. Later, he was graduated from George Washington University with a degree in electrical engineering.

Mr. Breslin was formerly associated with the Hughes Aircraft Co. and with the Continental Device Corporation in the marketing of their electronic components.

The Gamewell Co., a subsidiary of E. W. Bliss Co., manufacturers municipal and industrial fire alarm systems, police systems and precision electro-mechanical equipment.

Westonites Help Carousel Benefit For Hospital

FRAMINGHAM -- The Concord Area of the Junior League and the Friends of the Children's Unit of the Metropolitan State Hospital are jointly sponsoring a benefit performance of "Take Me Along", starring Dan Dailey, at the carousel Theatre in Framingham June 21.

Proceeds will go toward an indoor swimming pool for the children. This will provide them with a form of recreation that the staff feels they need desperately.

Mrs. Arthur Nelson of Weston and Mrs. Everett Black of Lincoln are Chairmen of the event, ably assisted by a ticket committee composed of Mrs. Frederick Coburn of Weston, Mrs. Harold Cabot of Concord, and Mrs. Harry L. Barton of Wellesley.

The Weston ticket committee is headed by Mrs. John Stubbs and includes Mrs. Wilmot Whitney Jr., Mrs. Walter Palmer, Mrs. Marion Hines, Mrs. John Moreton and Mrs. David Kellogg Jr.

In Wayland Mrs. Kendrick Smith has Mrs. Robert Koch, Mrs. John T. Bennett and Mrs. Augustus F. Doty to help her. Contact one of them if you would like tickets or if you would like to be a sponsor.

Sale at Waltham Hospital

WESTON -- There will be a Treasures and Plant Sale at the Waltham Hospital Coffee Shop and Terrace on Wednesday, June 7, from 10 to 4. The Garden Clubs of Waltham, Weston, Wayland and Sudbury will contribute flower arrangements throughout the hospital.

Mrs. Georges H. Barrel of Claypit Hill Rd., Wayland is chairman

Real Go for Dad -- With His Retros

Shepard's Commuter's Leap Leaves Its Mark on Suburbia

SUBURBIA -- Yessir, this Alan Shepard commuter's leap has made all the difference out here. Real go. A-OK all the way.

And we hope they don't put the retro rockets to this New Frontier. Careful wives and children are very concerned about father. Nothing but the best -- right down to the approved astronaut special menu.

Still have our little concerns. Our worries. But A-OK. Like that morning at the home of C. Philter Filcher.

6:40 a.m. -- Wife approaches bed with tray of orange juice. Countdown begins. Phil, don't you think . . . ? First hold.

6:45 -- Uh, Phil, we're holding. -- One eye open, C.P. picks out favorite engraved orange juice cup, gulps contents bravely.

7:15 -- Bounds out of bed. Has that contract with Neutrals Ltd. to think about today. Wife and personnel waiting. Countdown resumes.

7:17 -- Brush ready, water running, paste laid out: brushes teeth.

7:18 -- Shower pre-tested. Brisk five minutes. Razor, cream, blades are go.

7:28 -- Eases into easy chair. C. P. Jr. and Sis slip on shoes, lace them up, give them brisk wipe. Wife appears with space-blue tie, adjusts same and gives Phil brisk muscle toneup at back of neck.

7:30 -- Phil looks on mantle: Where's my keys?

C. P. Jr.: 'Fraid I had the Redstone 8 out last night and man, what a ride! . . . Oh the keys: -- HOLD.

7:30 1/2 -- Sis rushes up: Here y'are, dad, have a look at The Crier and retro down, dad. Countdown resumes.

7:35 -- Led to favorite chair by window. Looks over printed menu: Filet mignon wrapped in bacon, two poached eggs and orange juice. Nods. Is served.

7:35 1/2 -- WROOOOOOMMMM mmmmm. . .

Phill: Whazzat?

Philomena: Oh that's that horrid Mr. Gagarin. He always leaves before you.

Phil: Omigod, not today. He's after that contract with Neutrals Ltd., too. -- HOLD.

7:38 -- Personnel at stations. Receive orders. Scramble.

7:38 1/2 -- Dispatch case, bowler, gloves, clean white handkerchief on the pad. In places. Countdown resumes.

7:40 -- Kisses in place, Phil gives off brief A-OK smile. Personnel reassured, Sis stifles a locomotive (too old-fashioned).

7:41 -- Phil strides out front door, dispatch case in hand. Purposeful. Breathes deeply, steps firmly on Throckmorton's dump truck. Wheeeeeeeeee. Garage door brakes downward glide. -- HOLD.

7:41 1/2 -- Personnel reassembled.

7:43 -- Sis disappears into house for second bowler, second clean handkerchief, second pair of gloves and whisk broom.

Phil pops a retro into mouth, looks around for water, gulps. Shudders. Steps into Freedom 7 to await developments.

7:46 -- Sis back with equipment, Personnel administer to dad in bucket seat.

7:47 -- Personnel cleared from area. Countdown resumes. Vehicle glides out of garage. Liftoff imminent.

7:48 -- Voice from kitchen (loud and clear): Got that liquor list with you? Car stops. -- Hold. -- Phil fumbles.

7:49 -- Phil: Yes, liquor list is go. Motor starts. Personnel scrambles.

VOICE: What about the bills? Got them? Motor idles. Personnel move in, slowly. -- Hold.

7:51 -- Phil: Bills are real go.. And so am I! Liftoff. Personnel stumbles into pile at edge of pad, mumbling countdown as Freedom 7 roars in reverse out into space.

9:19 -- Arrives at office. Strides purposefully (but cautiously) to own desk.

9:34 -- Calls Philomena. Phil: . . . Oh sure. Trip was A-OK all the way. Man -- what a ride. How's the personnel? . . . I mean Sis and C. P. Oh brother, beginning to feel like 9-G in here. Wish I had a little liquid oxygen (an A-OK grin -- just can't resist taking a bow here).

Philomena: Now, Phil, you'd better go easy today. You know we're having the Kennedy's over. Just try your retros, Phil . . . Phil? . . . PHIL!

Phil: 'Salright, dear. Just getting that feeling of weightlessness again.

Philomena: You poor dear. You forgot your coffee.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- Only once since Apr. 17 has the wind shifted into the southwest -- on the afternoon of Apr. 28 and part of that night, bringing with it house wren (Clark), blue-headed vireo (Hayes), whip-poor-will (1 heard in early a.m., Hayes), and a flock of migrating Canada geese (Davidson). Chimney swifts were first seen on the 27th (Smith), and several rough-winged swallows were reported on the 30th at the stone crusher, Boston Post Rd. (Wiggin). A black-and-white warbler was heard singing on Apr. 27, and a black-throated green warbler on May 2 (Smith).

Reports of tree swallows have been received from Mrs. A. Johnson, Baker's Hill Rd. (6 present since Apr. 5), and 6 were seen flying over Foote's Pond, Warren Av., (Whittenberger). Mrs. Whittenberger also has a partial albino male goldfinch coming to her feeder. Phoebes seem to be back in normal numbers for the first time since 1958, with two more reports (Smith, Weston Center; Fales, Merriam St.). However, bluebirds are scarcer than ever with only one more report (the third) of a pair (Johnson, Baker's Hlll Rd., present since Mar. 20th).

On Apr. 27, Mrs. F. Pooler, Church St., saw wood ducks (2 m. 1 f.) in the marsh next to her house; and Mr. W. R. Koe reports seeing as many as five males at the duck feeding area. He also reports two Iceland gulls there on the 28th and one on the 29th.

Evening grosbeaks are still around in fairly good numbers, although apparently many of them left between Apr. 18 and 20. The largest flocks reported this past week were: about 20 (Whittenberger, Gun Club Lane), and 30-40 (Teich, Wayland). C.E.S.

Hanscom Open House On Saturday May 20

HANSCOM FIELD -- The United States Air Force's 12th Armed Forces Day observance unfolds here on Saturday, May 20. The annual report to the public on what Air Force is doing is expected to attract some 150,000 persons.

Open House activities from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. include an air show, static displays of aircraft and aerospace projects depicting the work of the Electronic Systems Division and other Air Force units assigned to Hanscom Field.

Public invited. Plenty to see and ample free parking. Hanscom Field is a short distance off Rte. 128, Exit 38 along Rte. 2A.

Garden Interest Group Annual Meeting May 18

WESTON -- The Annual Meeting of the Garden Interest Group of the Women's Community League of Weston will be held at "The Forge" on Ridgeway Rd. next Thursday at 11 a.m. Members are asked to bring a box lunch. Coffee will be served by Mrs. Joseph Antell, hospitality chairman. A walk through the Hubbard Trail will start at 12:30 under the direction of Mr. Edward Hubbard who is a member of the New England Wild Flower Preservation Society.

Unitarian Laymen League To Meet May 17 in Wayland

WAYLAND--The May meeting of the Unitarian Church Laymen's League will be held in the Church Vestry Wednesday, May 17 at 6:30 p.m. Dinner at 7 p.m. will be followed by a guest speaker, Fred Walkey, director of the DeCordova Museum. His illustrated talk is entitled, "Modern Art". All are cordially invited to attend. For dinner reservations phone Jack Furrer, EL 8-4871.

in the top of the seventh after Wayland had batted.

Tom gave up three walks. Two of them figured in the Bedford uprising in the second. A bad throw to second by Linnehan on a double-play bounder and a sacrifice fly brought in those runs.

Wayland started strong with five runs in the first and added four more in the third and 8 in the fourth.

But it was the lower half of the Wayland batting order that did the damage, except for a two-run double by Bud Wilkinson.

Sophomore Aldon Harrington, trying out in left field in the late innings, rapped out a double and a single in two times up.

Al Arnold, Tony Bova and Bill Morris each garnered two hits and Wilkinson and Perodeau had three RBI's.

But it was Tom Linnehan who came up with the rarity -- and struck out nine Bedfords while he was at it.

Renewal —

residents of the Dudley Pond area.

Much of its interest up until now has been to probe the renewal program, because Dudley Pond would be in the forefront of any renewal efforts.

Renewal board members, in a succession of meetings, have sought to assure the association that any decision was at least a year away, that it did not necessarily bear on Dudley Pond and that renewal in Wayland would probably have to do with conservation -- improvements that the homeowner could do himself.

Mr. Newhall's complaints that the association board had not followed out his recommendations to pass along to members specific state standards to determine what is substandard in housing.

"Considerable confusion as to what is meant by this term," said Mr. Newhall, "has been increased by humorous remarks as to its meaning.

"I tried to get the board to instruct our newsletter editor, Mrs. Pauline Leland, to write these standards in our next letter.

"It is of prime importance. It was never done. I was not backed up. I decided I might as well resign unless I can get a policy follow-through."

Mr. Newhall did not attend the Monday session.

The former president said he felt that studies that would determine what money had been spent by homeowners on improvements over the past five years and other "positive approaches" to the problem would be better than "negative criticism of renewal."

"If I could sit down with the renewal authority then and show, for example, that $500,000 had been spent by our members over that period, I believe such information would be impressive.

"I think you must learn to work with town boards -- and do your own homework so that you know what you're talking about when it's time to negotiate."

Mr. Goodnoh took the opposite tack at the Monday session at the Little Theatre in the High School. He told 60 members that:

--He was completely opposed to renewal in any form.

--"I am strongly opposed to this juggernaut coming through here and wiping out property we've all invested in," he argued.

--Federal money shouldn't be used for the improvement of private property here.

--If the majority wished to accept the renewal board as an entity, he'd go along.

On these lines the election was held that night. Mr. Blanchard won.

It was also announced that the association's lawyer, John Kimball of Hale & Dorr, is determining just what chance the group has to remove the authority before it can act.

Mr. Blanchard indicated he wished to work with the URA and that the principal purpose of the association was to inform members what goes on in town affairs.

He urged that certain board members be delegated to attend all town board meetings (Plan Board, School Committee, Selectmen, Park Board) and report on activities to the membership.

"We've got to know everything that's going on in the town, if we are to know what we are doing when we talk with these officials about Dudley Pond. And that doesn't mean just on renewal.

Elected with Mr. Blanchard:

Robert Wells, vice president; John Chryssicas, treasurer and John McConnell, secretary. Board members: Robert Beaumont, Fred Gershbach, John Carman, Mary Keefe, Richard King, John Kirby Pauline Leland, Robert Wells, Norman Ross, Paul Poirier, John Howen and Hugh Taylor.

setting off a dispute between Dr. John Freymann on the one hand and Dr. David R. Corey and Fred Perry Sr. on the other.

The issue became twofold: more air should be let in on town board's action and a question as to whether a qualified man could be found to match Mr. Fair's experience.

Dr. Freymann, the strongest critic of the action, said this week that board action in appointing Mr. Wood met with his approval thoroughly.

Dr. Freymann said Mr. Wood's experience in the welfare board would greatly assist him in some of his B.O.H. duties.

Mr. Wood appeared before the board to tell them that since a town board seemed to be in trouble, he wanted to offer his services. Three other applications were received.

How Good Are You As Backyard Cook?

FRAMINGHAM - Amateur chefs of the backyard variety will compete for the title of Massachusetts Champion Outdoor Cook, at a contest to be held Saturday, June 17, at Shoppers' World, Framingham.

The winner will be chosen from among representatives of more than 40 men's clubs

Sponsored by the Carling Brewing Company, Natick, the competition is open to men only.

Contestants will be supplied with all of the necessary equipment and ingredients, and will compete in the mall where shoppers may watch and cheer them on. The winner will receive a trophy, and the organization which he represents will receive a check for $100. In addition to souvenirs suitable for backyard cooking, each entrant will be allowed to keep the barbecue grill he used in the contest.

Pops Concert Goes Over Big For 3 Weston Audiences

by HARRY PATTERSON

WESTON -- Three Weston audiences were delighted on the evenings of May 4, 5, and 6, by the performance before a capacity crowd at the Town House, of the third Weston Pops Concert. There were ladies' choruses, men's choruses, mixed choruses, solos and a jazz band.

This event was presented by The Weston Boosters, Inc., for the benefit of the David A. Perry Memorial Fund. It represented a lot of work by the particlpants, and a lot of fun for the participants and audience.

The Kitchen Canaries, started In 1952 and disbanded, theoretically, in 1958, after performing in Weston, on the radio, on TV and before groups ranging from Ladies' Aid Societies to the governors of the six New England states, "came out of mothballs" for the occasion.

This chorus, comprising 14 girls, did a superb job with such songs as "Shoo Fly", "Papa Loves Mamba", selections from "Brigadoon" and "Pajama Game".

The Westonaires -- a male chorus of 26 voices -- offered "All Through The Night", "Wait For Me", "Marry An Ugly Woman" and a variety of other songs.

The Chamber Music Society of Lower Newton Street produced plenty of cool jazz and red hot noise.

Selene Howe directed The Kitchen Canaries. Bob McMullin conducted The Westonaires. The Chamber Music Society of Lower Newton Street just naturally went to town.

The hall was decked out in cabaret style, and the audience sat at tables. After the Friday and Saturday performances the floor was cleared and the band played for dancing. Altogether a memorable occasion. We look forward to a repeat performance.

COME TO THE FAIR by donkey cart, or any other means, but Saturday the Red Barn Fair on the Weston Town House lawn will feature rides on this donkey cart, here being enjoyed by Joan Calkins (driver) and other Calkins children.

HARLOW J. BARKER

Barker Named To New Post at Dunn Engineering

WAYLAND -- Harlow J. Barker has recently been named manager of the Systems and Test Facilities Department of Dunn Engineering Corp. of Cambridge.

Mr. Barker was formerly program manager and project engineer for the marine equipment department of Nortronics in Norwood, and worked as an engineer at Raytheon Company. He holds B.E.E. and M.E.E. degrees from Rennsselaer Polytechnic Institute, where he was an assistant professor in the Electrical Engineering Department for several years.

Mr. Barker resides at 2 Rice Spring Lane with his wife and two sons, Robert J. II, and Peter N.

Lincoln Heads Historical Society, Group Names Room for J.S. Stone

WAYLAND -- Richard F. Lincoln of 100 Lincoln Rd., Wayland, has been elected president of the Wayland Historical Society to succeed J. Sidney Stone who had held that office since 1957.

At the meeting in the Heard House, the following were elected:

First vice president, James Otis Post Jr; second vice president, Robert H. Scotland; recording secretary, Mrs. Willard B. Dik; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lovell C. Rawson; treasurer, Edwin B. Damon; curator, Mrs. Mable S. Draper.

Directors, Mrs. Pierpoint Blair, Mrs. Charles T. Morgan, Mrs. Kenneth E. Morrell, and ex-officia, Mr. Stone.

The directors paid tribute to Mr. Stone, naming the meeting room in Heard House, "The J. Sidney Stone Room" in appreciation of his service in four terms.

The board pointed out:

Mr. Stone was elected President in 1957. He was re-elected to that office in 1958, 1959 and in 1960. During his tenure, he consistently displayed an outstanding interest in the development of the society. His presidency was characterized by an abiding concern in making the society more effective and more serviceable to the community.

A great deal of the success of the Wayland Historical Society since its inception is directly attributable to the efforts of J. Sidney Stone.

Wayland Seniors On WEEI Program

BOSTON -- Linda Gable and Alton Flanders, Wayland High School students took part in "A Career in Education" broadcast over WEEI last Sunday.

buildings of Mr. Arthur Johnson's Pathfinder Club and finally in Building B of the Weston Public Schools.

In 1952 Red Barn was incorporated as a cooperative school and since that time, has been governed by a corporation of interested parents. Then at long last in 1958 with the help of a building fund established from annual benefit dances and fairs, Red Barn Nursery School was able to build its own school, particularly designed to meet the needs of preschool children.

The board pointed out: "We feel that we are extremely fortunate to have the benefits of Mrs. Blake's vast experience and close association with the school."

Day Camp Lists 1961 Counselors In Weston

WESTON -- James A. Kapteyn, director of the summer day camp of the Cambridge School of Weston, announces several appointments of senior personnel for the coming season.

The arts and crafts program will be under the direction of Frances E. Upham of Weston, a freelance sculptress. Miss Upham has taught museum classes for children and had exhibitions in New York and Boston.

Norma M. Kemon, teacher at the Industrial School for Crippled Children in Boston, will be in charge of the camp's nature study and woodland survival program.

Returning are Alson B. Powers, director of the Weston Recreation School; Earl P. MacGillivray Jr., director of athletics at the Cambridge School; and Neta Barker, dance teacher in her Wayland studio.

New senior counselors: Alison B. Hersey, girls coach at the Cambridge School, and David W. Hardy, sixth grade teacher at the Leslie Ellis School in Cambridge. Their groups will be the Clowns and the Falcons. David S. Martin, completing studies in elementary education at Harvard, will assist Mr. Hardy and be in charge of singing, dramatics, and special events.

Returning as senior counselors: Sally Kraetzer, Brooks School in Concord; Kathleen Moynahan, Leslie Ellis School; John K. Norwood, Jr., J. S. Kendall elementary school in Belmont; and William H. Bowden Jr., Manter Hall School.

Campers will also meet again several junior counselors, including Cathy McCarthy, Louise Dailey, Bill Grueuner, and Chan Grinnell.

Wayland Leaguers At LWV Convention

WAYLAND -- Ten delegates from the Wayland League of Women Voters attended the annual state convention of the league at the Hotel Vendome, Boston, May 2, 3.

Of principal interest to the local league was the selection of state program items for study in the coming year. The two State Board-recommended items, improvement of Massachusetts Civil Service and constitutional revision, were accepted, and a third item on regional planning was added, with strong Wayland support.

A slate of officers was elected, and included among the new directors is Mrs. William Bertelsen; Mrs. Rudolph Bruce will continue in her present post as public relations chairman. Both are from Wayland.

Those delegates who were present are: Mrs. James H. Flanagan, Mrs. Kenneth LeBaron, Mrs. Robert M. Page, Mrs. Gregory Wolfe, Mrs. Jesse Scott, Mrs. Leslie Flood, Mrs. Herbert Lipton, Mrs. John J. Pratt, Jr., Mrs. Gerald Fahringer, Mrs. Luther Davis Jr., and Mrs. David K. Biddle. (The last two alternated as delegates.

Samia Brings Bit of Egypt To Cambridge School

WESTON -- Youth can bridge the gap -- increasing the understandlng and frlendship among the peoples of the world -- the purpose of the American FieldServlce Student Exchange and Internatlonal Scholarships.

Selected teenagers (16-18) from more than 1600 towns for a school-year of study and first hand experience of our way of life.

Samia Elias of Cairo, Egypt is the second AFS student to attend The Cambridge School of Weston.

The only glrl from the United Arab Republic in this country through the Student Exchange, Samia, 17, is the eldest of four children of Kamel Elias, a lawyer with the Department of Agriculture in Cairo.

Since her Stateside sponsored arrival in August 1960 and until the school year ends, she is a member of the family of Dr. and Mrs. Francis B. Ingersoll of Newton (parents of two Cambridge School students).

Besides the year of hospitality provided by the Ingersolls and a tultion scholarship award by The Cambridge School, Samia Is sponsored at the school by a special Parents' Association committee and an AFS Student Committee.

The parents reimburse the non-profit AFS for administration, travel costs and pocket money (approximately $750), plus paying for Samia's school lunches and transportation (about $350) through Thrift Shop income.

The student committee covers book costs, actlvities fees and miscellaneous expenses with bake sales and used book sales (approx. $250).

Yoshihiko Kisaka, son of a Hiroshima, Japan surgeon, was the first AFS student to attend The Cambridge School under this joint parent-student sponsorship. During the school-year 1959-60 he was a member of another Cambridge School family, the Thomas Kennedys of Wellesley Hills.

But this exchange is not one-way. Under their Americans Abroad program the AFS sponsors a 6-7-week summer program, and a program for American students to attend schools abroad.

Two Cambridge School juniors participated in the summer program last year, living with families in foreign lands: Tom Kennedy spent two months in The Netherlands; Sue Ingersoll's "family" lived in Karachi, Pakistan.

Family Field Day At Cambridge School Friday

WESTON -- The Cambridge School of Weston will hold its annual Family Field Day tomorrow. Sponsored by the Parents' Assn. the events will start with athletics at 3. There will be varsity and junior varsity lacrosse games with Roxbury Latin, and baseball with Stow.

A bring-it-yourself picnic box supper will be at 6 p.m., followed an hour later by music on the green sung and played by the school Glee Club and Orchestra. Indoors at 8 p.m., the Eighth Grade will present a play, "The Prince and the Pauper."

In case of rain, the picnic will be canceled, and the concert will be held indoors at the scheduled time, prior to the play performance.

WayCo Results

WAYLAND -- WayCo Junior League games for Wayland during the past week:

Pirates 5 -- Phillies 0. Lee Pollock was outstanding in pitching a one-hit shutout.

Cardinals 6 -- Braves 4.

Dodgers 4 -- Cardinals 0. P. MacIsaac pitched shutout ball.

Giants 15 -- Braves 8.

Bits & Pieces

THAT SEASON: This is that season when a cold leads you around by the nose.

COLDS: And speaking of colds, we know one family that got together and pooled all their little viruses and gave them to their father for one big blowout. Well, last year they gave him a necktie. Some improvement.

MOTTO: Suggestion as family motto for one expatriate American family in London: "Them that has, Gettys."

ASTRONAUT: You'll notice, if you're keen, one thing about Alan Shepard's ride. He's just another one of them skunks who didn't take the MTA.

NEW CAREER: Police report that incidence of dog bites is up around these parts which leads us to believe there are probably just more disturbed dogs. A fine opportunity for a psychiatrist who likes suburban living -- and dogs.

And another thing about Alan Shepard. We've heard that his long wait for dawn -- from 1:30 a.m. on, you know, -- is known as Shepard's Watch by Night.

Somebody's always getting mad at state legislators. So we're going to quote a legislator defending legislators -- and see what you say THEN.

This gentleman, Sen. McCann of Cambridge, is scolding businessmen for not helping legislators, like putting people recommended by politicians to work in their plants. Always asking, never giving. One-way street. Then he says:

"The same thing is true of our judges. Whenever there is a bill before us to increase their pay, we hear from them.

"But just call a judge at election time.

"Why he never heard of you then. Or he'll kiss you off with a fine "I'm sorry but I'm on the bench and not supposed to get mixed up in elections."

Imagine that -- a judge who won't get out there and campaign.

Don't say we didn't warn you -- Registrar Riley says there's one more trouble you can get into. It's road repair season -- and slow down when you see those cones and repair signs. Or else: loss of driving privileges.

We think we've found the answer to the MTA problem. It's deficit-ridden. So many of those things riding it, there isn't room for anyone else.

The Turnpike is watching: From the Turnpike's snow dipsticks we learn Weston had one more snowstorm this year than last (is that ALL?) and the overall bad news: 66 inches compared with 50 a year ago. How can they be so sure? After all -- who says we won't have another fall before fall?

SANDRA ATWOOD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant E. Atwood of 699 Boston Post Rd., Weston was third place winner in the Junior Girls' 100-yard dash at the United Fund Fitness Fair. Running time 13.6 sec. Above, Miss Atwood.

More statistics: Nashawtuc Country Club, opening June 3 in Concord, reports: 6945 yards from championship tees, 6390 from medium and 6020 from short tees. OK, what are you -- man or mouse?

Ever wonder why Wayland High teams are known as the Wildcats? Well, we're not sure either. But we know why it isn't something else. Seems team members tried hard one night to come up with a name. No luck. Finally, someone asked: Well, what is famous in Wayland? And all piped up: first free library in Massachusetts. So the session was doomed. Imagine: "The Wayland Librarians knocked the blocks off . . . "

We're not know-it-all, you understand, but we'd like to remind Fidel Castro of a baseball maxim: the game isn't over until the last out.

Case Estate Open House This Sunday in Weston

WESTON -- The Case Estates of the Arnold Arboretum, located on Wellesley St., adjacent ot the Weston schools, will hold its annual Open House this Sunday.

Ample parking facilities will be available and members of the Arnold Arboretum staff will be on hand to explain the plantings and answer questions. All those interested in ornamental woody plants are invited to inspect the plantings.

Here is probably the largest collection of ground cover plants in eastern United States, over 180 of them, all labeled. Also one will see in an adjoining area 80 different kinds of ornamental trees for home or street planting. These, also, are accurately labeled.

3 Local Women Help on Hub Tour

BOSTON -- Three local women will assist in the Museum of Fine Arts' Federal Boston Tour to be held on May 13 and 17. Mrs. John Watters of Weston, hostess; Mrs. Marshall Dwinnell, Weston, and Mrs. Thomas B. Gannett, Wayland, guides.

The tour will cover the period from 1775 to 1837 and will view many buildings of historic and architectural importance from that era.

2 Area Girls in Chorus At Symphony on May 19

BOSTON -- Linda Benson of Wayland and Barbara Wyman of Weston will sing with the Orphean Club, 175-voice choral society of Lasell Junior College, Newton, when it makes its thirty-first annual appearance in Symphony Hall, Boston, on the evening of Friday, May 19.

The occasion will be "Lasell Night at the Pops," expected to be attended by over 2000 alumnae and friends.

Miss Benson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Benson, 55 Woodridge Rd., Wayland; Miss Wyman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wyman, 102 Wellesley St., Weston.

Community Chorus Gilds Lily to an Advantage

by ANNE HOCKING

WAYLAND -- The Community Chorus of Weston, Wayland, Sudbury and Lincoln gave its annual spring concert in the Little Theatre, Wayland High, with a program of Buxtehude, Mozart, Bartok and Hindmith and Irving Fine.

It held its audience with a well contrived blend of musical vintages. Posters and notices publicizing the event about town gave preferred billing to Irving G. Fine of Brandeis University over Buxtehude and Mozart. This was not just an instance of catering to provincial sympathies.

These three musical compositions on excerpts from Lewis Carroll's Alice in Wonderland are a rare example of how a lily can occasionally be gilded to advantage. Their tricky accompaniment was nicely handled by Mrs. William Moyer.

The entire presentation was delivered with enthusiasm, but one securely under the control of their director, Kalman Novak. Soloists Barbara Wallace (soprano), Betty Lou Austin (contralto) Frank Modica (tenor) and Irving Pearson (base) imported from the King's Chapel in Boston completed the professional polish. Barbara Wallace in particular delivered a thoroughly accomplished performance with genuine musical grace.

In the Buxtehude and Mozart the Chorus was supported by a quintet of two violins, a viola, cello and double bass, who somehow managed to effect an impression of perfect balance between voice and instrument. A feat to be attributed to the ability and concern of the first violinist, Wayland's Lucy Parker.

Speeding Cars Fret Wayland Mothers of 28

WAYLAND -- Death of the dog was bad enough but residents of the Rich Valley Rd. area are thankful that speed didn't take one of the children.

It was a 10-month-old beagle that was struck last Saturday by someone who hit-and-ran sometime between 1 and 2 p.m.

But the problem is a suburban one involving children, anxious parents and cars driven too fast, perhaps unthinkingly.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Douglas of Hayward Rd. lost the dog and put an ad in The Crier to seek information about its death near Rte. 20 on Rich Valley Rd. last Saturday.

Actually the problem involves cars on Hayward Rd. and Sylvan Way. Seems that becuase Lundy Lane has not been finished, owners on three or four dead-end streets in the area whip back and forth on Sylvan Way and Hayward Rd.

Police have looked into the problem and two "Go Slow, Children" signs and one 15 mph sign have been posted.

There are nearly 30 school-age children on Hayward and Sylvan Way. Not all of them heed their parents' injunction to "stay off the street" 100 percent.

But if everyone whipping through from Lundy Lane and White Rd. would ease along there, there would be less trouble.

"But that," said one of the residents, "Is the problem of the suburbs many times over.

"It comes right down to other parents' deciding to help out by being just a little more careful. We wish they would."

That's Way Wind Blows-9 Fires In Day in Wayland

WAYLAND -- Well, that's the way the wind blows. On Saturday Wayland Firemen never had much chance to turn around -- nine calls in 10 hours.

For the week ending Tuesday, there were 16 calls, above normal for this duck-and-turtle weather.

Saturday's calls: 11:01 a.m., fire at town dump and again at 4:35 p.m. when fire jumped Rte. 20; 11:54 a.m., brush fire at 6 Peck Ave.; 12:13 p.m., smoke investigation on Lincoln Rd.; 1:32 p.m., smoke checkup at 168 Old Connecticut Path; 2:01 p.m., brush fire at 59 Shaw Dr.; 2:33 p.m., brush fire on Pelham Island Rd.; 8:59 p.m., fire in living room couch at 157 Locast St.; 9:25 p.m., rubbish burning at 168 Old Connecticut Path.

May 3 at 4:10 p.m., grass fire at 330 Old Connecticut Path and at 4:36, false alarm in same region; May 4 at 4:16 p.m. brush fire at 36 Mitchell St.; May 5 at 11:44 a.m. grass fire on Boston Post Road, West; noon, brush fire at 37 Riverview Circle; at 10:10 p.m. refereeing cat fight on Glezen Lane; May 9 at 11:41 a.m. lockout on Main St.

Trees to inhibit crab grass should be properly located, so that they cast shadows on lawn areas exposed to the hot midday and afternoon sun. Excessive shade, of course, should be avoided.

Cubs Help Indians – And Learn a Lot

WAYLAND -- One of the most popular themes in scouting is "Indians". The boys in Den 2, Pack 54 -- Robert Warren, Doug. Blacklow, Jack Simons, Curt Petterson, Holland Williams and Mike Aquilino -- have not only learned more about Indians of the past, they found a way to help some Indians of today.

From used towels, they made washcloths which will be used at the Gallop Indian Community Center in Gallop, N.M., where hundreds of Indians have their only opportunity to take a shower with an unlimited supply of clean warm water.

This off-reservation community and social center provides personal and family counseling, recreational opportunities for all ages, a wide variety of adult education classes and extensive hospitality and comfort services which are sort daily by 1500 Indian people.

Every woman appreciates an extension telephone . . . particularly the lovely Princess phone. It's a step-saving conversation piece to add to any room in your house. Convenient by day . . . a reassuring presence by night. For information on cost and colors, call your Telephone Business Office.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE

About 1648, persons chosen to conduct the affairs of the town were first called "selectmen." The number varied. At one time in the 1640's, there were seventeen.

In the 1830s, the only communication Wayland had with Boston was by a stagecoach which left Worcester for Boston one day, and returned the next.

ARTS★CRAFTS★GIFTS★TOYS

Government Day Held At Cambridge School

WESTON -- Regular classes were suspended last Friday for the annual Cambridge School of Weston Government Day. The program, planned by the students for faculty and students, commenced with an Assembly at 8:30 and continued through the day with lectures on various subjects, a varsity baseball game, and a New England traditional clambake, ending in the evening with a combination square dance and record hop.

Many parents attended the athletic events, art, photographic and printing exhibits.

PINAFORE AT FOUR tomorrow in the vestry of the First Parish Church, Wayland. The Sunday School and Intermediate Choirs will present Gilbert and Sullivan's "HMS Pinafore" at 4 p.m. tomorrow and again Saturday at 7 p.m. No admission. Performers (from left): John Emery as Ralph Rackstraw, Peggy Pearson (Buttercup), Torrey Reade (Josephine), Billy Holmes (Sir Joseph Porter KCB) and Mrs. William Moyer, co-director.

Weston Couple Visiting Rombas

WESTON -- A Weston couple and their 12-year-old daughter are guests of honor in Rombas, France -- Weston's sister town.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Cummings and daughter, Lydia, have been spending a year in Cambridge, England, where Mr. Cummings, a member of the Weston High faculty has been spending a sabbatical year. He has been studying England's secondary school system.

Following the Rombas visit, the Cummings party will be joined by Miss Carter Bottjer of Hidden Rd., Weston. She will accompany them during a three-week motor tour of Italy.

About June 1, the Cummings family will sail from Genoa for home, and Carter will return to Rombas to complete her school year.

Mr. Cummings is one of the founders of the Weston-Rombas Affiliation. Carter Bottjer is Weston's present envoy to the College de Rombas.

Baileys Opens Wellesley Store

WELLESLEY -- Bailey's Candy Store of Boston has opened a new candy and ice cream shop at 93 Central St., Wellesley -- near the entrance to Wellesley College. Special Mother's Day candy displays will be featured on the opening day (Monday) and throughout the week.

The new store has the flavor of an 1890s Confectionery Shop, enhanced by a marble top fountain, a Victorian mirrored back-bar, marble top tables, old-fashioned wire ice cream chairs, an old, heavily embellished water cooler, and ancient cash registers. The fountain front is a rich mahogany wood - reminiscent of a typical fountain of the era when Bailey's was founded in 1873.

The new Wellesley store will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, from 10 a.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday, and from noon to 10 p.m. on Sunday.

Wayland, Weston Girls Elected at Colby Jr. College

NEW LONDON, N. H. -- Two girls from the Wayland - Weston area have been elected presidents of their dormitories at Colby Junior Colege here.

Miss Judith Emmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Emmons of Three Ponds Rd., Wayland, president of Burpee Hall; Miss Karen Loder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Loder, 100 Montvale Rd., Weston, president of Colgate Hall. They will serve in this capacity during the next year. Both girls are freshmen in liberal arts.

Miss Emmons is a member of the college glee club this year and is active in the modern dance group. Miss Loder has been chosen to be an usher at this year's commencement exercises.

All's Fair at Book Fair

WAYLAND -- Stacks and stacks of paperbacks will be on hand for the Student Council's first annual Book Fair at Wayland High School.

The Fair will be open to the student body, today and tomorrow during free periods and after school until 4 p.m. The doors will be open to the public, Saturday, 9 to 3 p.m.

Start your lawn off right

Doom crabgrass the same day you seed

HALTS® creates an invisible barrier that destroys crabgrass as it sprouts—yet it lets good grass sprout unharmed. Apply HALTS the same day you sow all-perennial, weed-free Scotts seed, and crabgrass won't get a chance to spoil your success later on. TURF BUILDER®, is the all-important third step in your one-day spring program. It supplies the protein-building nutrition new and established grass needs to thrive. Do all three jobs easily and accurately with the Scotts Spreader. You'll never spend a more rewarding afternoon on your lawn.

Ask us about the Scotts guarantee... a better lawn or your money back!

Save 5.00–Turf Builder (reg. 4.95) plus Scotts Spreader (reg. 16.95) both only 16.90

Bring your lawn problems to our Lawn Program Advisors. They have the know-how and the experience to help you achieve the kind of lawn you want.

Wayland LWV to Elect May 17

WAYLAND -- The League of Women Voters, Wayland, will combine business with pleasure at its annual meeting and luncheon at the Wayside Inn, Sudbury, Wednesday, May 17 at noon.

The business will be concerned primarily with voting on a proposed slate of officers and budget, plus selection of local agenda items for the coming year The Board-recommended item, directed at the inter-relationship between townspeople and town government, reads:

A field study of town committees and means for improving intercommunications between the town committees and the citizens.

Reservations for the luncheon can be made by sending $2.50 to Mrs. Howard P. Rounsefell, social chairman, School St., Wayland, no later than Monday, May 15. For further information, call Mrs. Rounsefell at OL 3-7453. Babysitter service can be arranged through Mrs. Charles A. Bennett, OL 3-1326.

Mrs. James H. Flanagan, retiring president, will conduct the meeting.

Presbyterians Rent Sudbury Methodist

SUDBURY -- The United Presbyterian Church of Sudbury, which has been meeting in the Martha Mary Chapel, announces that negotiations have been completed with the Methodist Church for the rental of the old church building located beside the grange in Sudbury Center on Rt. 27.

Festival Queen Candidates Will Appear

WAYLAND -- Vokes Theatre audiences will be treated to a closeup view of the five candidates for the title of Strawberry Festival Queen when they attend performances of "The Silver Whistle" to be held at the Post Road Theatre on the evenings of May 19, 20, 25, 26, and 27.

The five girls, all seniors at Wayland High School, will usher at each of the performances, gowned in costumes which carry out the color scheme of the Fair, hot pink and strawberry red.

The girls are: Pat Dyer, Randy Johnson, Sandy Owens, Penny Richardson and Nancy Roehrig. Ballotting for the queen will come in June when citizens will mark their ballots and cast them in the 15 ballot boxes throughout town.

The appearance of the girls as special ushers is the most recent in a series of cooperative efforts between Wayland High School students and the Vokes Players. The Vokes Theatre recently loaned a number of costumes, wigs, and make-up aids for the senior class melodrama which was performed at the High School last weekend.

$26,000 Contract For Garbage Rejected

WAYLAND -- Well, $26,000 is a bit too much -- even to get rid of garbage.

That's the price bid by Robert Starrett of Menden, present contract holder at $18,500.

But Wayland Selectmen and the Board of Health flipped the lid on the bid -- and the letter going back to him will say NO.

Instead, the town will advertise for new bids which will be opened next Wednesday at a joint meeting of the two boards at the Town Office Building.

Mr. Starrett pointed out in his bid that he operates two trucks here, with a third as a standby and employs two or three men per truck at $100 a week.

A check made by selectmen Tuesday revealed that something in the neighborhood of 3000 pick-ups must be made in the town -- at a one-a-week rate during the winter and twice from April to October.

Mr. Starrett said the garbage is of little use for pig farms, since the increased population has made this item far in excess of the farm demand.

The Menden man has been the contractor for the past four years, beginning at $14,500, then $16,500 and for the past two years, $18,500.

Selectmen also aired the problem of out-of-town cars parking on Parkland Dr. while their occupants were having a swim at the Town Beach.

Aside from the fact that this

Wayland Tax $86

WAYLAND -- The new Wayland tax rate will be $86 -- up $8 from last year.

This was announced Tuesday by Chairman Allen Benjamin of the Board of Assessors immediately after the rate had been approved by the Division of Local Taxation at the State House.

Total valuations (real and personal) are $25,269,717, up $1,911,153 from last year.

Real property was valued at $23,724,730 and pesonal at $1,544,987.

The largest realty taxpayer is Raytheon Mfg. Co. and the largest personal property taxpayer, Boston Edison Co.

Increases in schools and growing town expenditures generally were responsible for the increased rate, despite additional properties and revaluations, both of which added to the valuation.

Properties are usually assessed at between 35 and 40 percent of fair market value in Wayland.

As Wayland Cats Howl Superior Court Is Fur-Lined

CAMBRIDGE -- Middlesex Superior Court was cat-fur-lined this week as the Town of Wayland and the Ellen M. Gifford Sheltering Home fought it out here.

Cats being what they are, nothing had been settled as The Crier went to press Tuesday night but what was up was this:

Do the town's building code regulations exist as law or simply suggested procedure.

Town Counsel Frank Kilburn argued in court that they were indeed law so that any permit issued to the sheltering home for cats was invalid since the home would not meet these conditions.

Roland Gray, opposing attorney, maintains that the home met every condition set down by Homer Macdonald, building inspector -- only to learn later that he had revoked the permit for not meeting the building laws specification.

This historic cat fight has produced countless protest meetings

Cats Meow Too Much For Selectman Tarr

WAYLAND -- Well, the cat case can't end too soon for Selectman Frank Tarr.

He told board members Monday night that he'd heard just abont enough howling over that one. Calls at all honrs -- and some people "called in the middle of the night and said 'MEOW!'"

Clean Slate On School Buses: 3-Yr. Pact for All

WAYLAND -- A clean slate. No more fiddlefaddle about missing school buses.

All 13 buses required by Wayland school children will be leased through three-year contracts this year, in a new policy adopted by the School Board this week.

At one time all 13 were rented from the missing Oswald Garvey. Until Apr. 1, 10 of them were leased from him, but his contract was canceled shortly after the Wayward Buses incident came to a climax.

This year, for the first time, Business Manager Richard J. Lavin announced, contracts will be let Sept. 1, 1961 to June 30, 1964 -- as of Friday June 2.

Lavin said specifications for sealed bids will be available from next Thursday (May 25) through 11 a.m. June 2 at the office of the Superintendent of Schools, 67 Cochituate Rd.

Bids will be opened by the board at that time.

Construction of some new sidewalks in the vicinity of schools this year is expected to match the rise in school population, thus letting the committee keep the contract for buses limited to 13. If an any time in the next three years more buses are needed, Lavin said, new bids will be sought.

Recreation Petition Draws Weston Protest; Plan Board in Favor

WESTON -- Plans for a 50-acre recreational facility on the Weston-Lincoln line got a thorough going over and picked up some support at a hearing before the Appeals Board Monday night at the Town House.

The plans also ran into a roadblock of sorts -- information that a connector road from North Ave., to the Waltham Industrial Park might be built through a portion of the property in the near future.

What the hearing came down to was this:

--Conservation - minded Westonites supported the idea of a 50-acre tract being set aside and preserved in its natural state.

--Many others seemed opposed on the grounds that a recreational facility, even one limited to 100 families or so, was apt to get out of hand and might result in a nuisance for neighbors.

As one homeowner put it: "We don't want our property to become a health club, too. We moved to the country to get away from crowds."

Ranulf W. Gras, a trustee of the Valley Pond Realty Trust, a non-profit private group interested in conservation and recreation, made the chief presentation for the trust.

Mr. Gras pointed out:

--A deed would be made out to appropriate authorities in each town, handing over all future development rights to the property once indebtedness had been cleared and facilities constructed.

--One building would be constructed for now for shelter and storage.

--One parking lot would be con-

Parking Rules Eased

WAYLAND -- Parking regulations on Pelham Island Rd. in Wayland Center will be eased, the Board of Selectmen decided Monday.

Parking on the north side will be increased to one honr, and police will be asked to check on illegal parking especially dnring rnsh hours and wrong-way parking on the north side.

Chairman Thomas Linnehan said fnrther measnres will be taken to ease parking in the bnsiness section in the near fntnre.

Businessmen in the area have strongly protested the 15-minute parking limit imposed during a 30-day trial period.

New Frontier in Suburbs

Democrats Open Mission in Weston

WESTON --Democrats? In Weston? True. As of last Friday, the Democrats have a town committee headed by John J. Lawless of 3 Pembroke Rd., Weston.

The organization was formed at the Jones House where officers were elected. The names have been forwarded to the Secretary of State and the Democratic State chairman.

As far as is known, this is the first Democratic Town Committee ever to have been organized in Weston. It was felt that a community whose percentage of voter participation in all elections is one of the highest nationally and whose consciousness of town affairs is so widespread should have an active two-party system.

The committee feels that it can help both Democratic and independent voters to evaluate more effectively the qualifications of candidates for state office regardless of affiliation.

A second caucus will be held early in June at which it is hoped all those interested will be present.

Mr. Lawless, founder of the group, was elected chairman, with Joseph A. Markell as vice chairman, Mrs. Allen E. Cole, secretary and Arthur G. Burke, treasurer. Other elected members are Donald J. Cleary, Lawrence Fuchs, Mrs. Stephen Moulton, Nicholas Nyary, and Dr. and Mrs. Lee Rager.

Volpe Lets Power Bill Through

WAYLAND -- The so-called "overbearing overhead lines bill" became law this week over vigorous protests led by committees in Wayland and other suburban towns.

In a word, two adjoining towns like Wayland and Sudbury could no longer get to first base on a protest to the Department of Public Utilities over a new power line.

They could knock but not enter.

The DPU wouldn't have to hear the protestors out -- if a majority of towns affected by the proposed new line favored it.

Gov. Volpe's signature Monday night on this bill (House 2938) brought an immediate blast from Chairman William Moyer of the Wayland Committee Opposing Overhead High Tension Lines:

"We have only begun to fight. This teaches us a lesson where home rule bills are concerned.

"Our next effort will be massive. We will enlist the public of the entire state against the proponents of this type of legislation.

Mr. Moyer said the committee, in conjunction with similar ones in Sudbury, Ipswich and Essex, will introduce legislation next year to force high tension lines underground.

Sudbury has a case before the courts now, seeking to force any construction of power lines to be underground.

What critics of this law charge is this:

WHERE DOES SHE FIND THE TIME?

FROM HER NEWTON-WALTHAM BANK CHECKING ACCOUNT

As every homemaker knows, keeping a household running smoothly doesn't leave much time for relaxation. That's why more and more housewives are discovering how much easier it is to pay bills by check. Instead of running all over town to pay bills in person, they're spreading their time and energy out to cover their chores at home. The result is more time to relax and enjoy themselves. A checking account at the Newton-Waltham Bank saves headaches, too. Cancelled checks are legal receipts, and provide an accurate record of expenditures. Why not follow the lead of these smart homemakers? Come into your nearby office of the Newton-Waltham Bank and choose the kind of checking account that best suits you.

Weston Is Not Alone...

The point is: the edge of Newton is also the edge of Weston. The edge of suburbia.

Many of the backers of the scheme to replace Norumbega Park with a commercial development are saying (in Newton) that after all, it's on the edge of Newton, so why worry?

And that's why we think this point, among several made by the Weston selectmen last week, in opposition has special merit. Weston does not stand alone on this. All nearby suburbs stand to lose if:

1--One community zones its "undesirable" properties on the edge of town where it will least hurt them.

2--Commercial developments can fall into what is essentially a rural atmosphere, carefully preserved as such.

The one thing to remember is that rural atmosphere does not start and stop at town lines. Also good to remember: once that pattern has been broken on the edge of one community, the "commercial idea" does not stop at the city line. The "city" spills over into the suburbs.

You might argue this can't happen. and maybe it couldn't were there some organization such as a regional planning agency which could bring communities together to plan cooperatively. There is a bill providing for such an agency.

But even if it were here, the pressure is on for our growing metropolitan populace to settle in the suburbs closest to the city. Local agencies face this pressure increasingly.

And if Newton gives way on the edge of town, we all stand to end up on the Edge of Nowhere. Think it over.

Weston and Wayland residents, who in other matters, act so keenly to preserve their green spaces might do well to act now on this. The move is up to the Newton Aldermen. You have a stake. Write, wire or go to see them.

But What About Us?

But how about the commuter? . . . the suburbanite?

Now that they've passed a special bill for the Old Colony Railroad and for railroads' tax relief, we have no objections. We do have a suggestion, however.

It's about time somebody passed a bill to help the commuter.

Our suggestion: a 26-hour day. Now maybe, Boston might not like this. Maybe two hours more in the dreary city would be just too much for Bostonians.

But Bostonians should be statesmanlike enough to look at it from the other direction: why should suburbanites have to put up with two hours less with the outdoor fireplace, the quiet atmosphere, the restful air and the mortgage payments? That's what it comes down to now.

A 26-hour day, we maintain, would give us back what commuting daily takes away . . . namely two hours. We'd be much calmer, and easier to get along with when it comes to problems that affect both Boston and the suburbs. We'd like to be nice agreeable people, so why not do something for us?

Campaign ideas are acceptable at Box 247, Wayland Post Office. Arise, commuters.

Why Not All ?

Sometimes you forget. The meaning of things become blurred over the years.

For instance, high school debaters. Students striving to become articulate on their feet.

Recently, we have had occasion to listen to teen-age speakers, both in Weston and Wayland. To be frank, we were amazed that high schoolers could be that good. We listened and went away thinking about what they'd said. This is a tribute to any speaker.

The point we'd like to make is this: why can't the Kiwanis in Weston and the Wayland Legion Post 133 stage their speaking competitions the next time to a wider public.

We think there'd be an appreciative audience there for such debates two or three times a year. Even once. Just try it. And it would be one more aid to students who are going to have to talk for themselves (and their children) in the years ahead. Just once.

IN BRIEF: Congratulations to young Tom Linnehan on his no-hitter against Bedford. Every young pitcher dreams of that but few have the fortune to achieve it. Now all there's left is a hole-in-one someday, Tom . . . . . Backers of the annual Strawberry Festival are planning a snappier and breezier one June 17 than ever before . . . . . The Health Board may have lost its "Hooper rating" with its peaceful windup of the health agent imbroglio but who cares? We'd rather have things running smoothly, just for a while . . . . . Biff Ahlman, the likeable junior high youngster who was injured so seriously in a bike accident, is doing well at Emerson Hospital. He can't take visitors but cards are not a bad idea . . . .

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

'But the Earth Abideth Forever'

If you were looking for the most stable and permanent line of business in New England, what would you pick?

Probably you would never think of farming. In most lines, when a family business or even an impersonal corporation survives to the century mark, it is considered remarkable. Yet on literally hundreds of operating farms in New England, ownership has remained in the same family for at least a century, in many for two or three.

At one time, not too many decades ago, Sudbury, Wayland and Weston were mainly farms, many with roots back in the colonial period. Jonathan Parmenter, for example, the farmer who left Wayland its Health Center, its water system, and to Harvard a large and fruitful fund for scholarships, was the successor to Parmenters who had cultivated and raised cattle on the same land on Concord Rd. since the first Parmenter was allotted the holding when the village was settled in 1638-9; and Parmenters still worked it successfully until a couple of decades ago.

The Cutlers in East Sudbury raise superlative snapdragons and carnations under glass on land which their Goodnow ancestors have cultivated almost as long. The Fairbanks and Rices still occupy and work ancestral properties; and on the Wayland-Lincoln line Shermans grow vegetables as their forebears have for many generations.

In Cochituate the titles "Loker School" and "Daymon Farms" perpetuate the names of local families who still actively farmed original holdings until very recent times.

Weston Different

Weston farms, mostly dairy, with soil less easily worked, and also nearer to spreading Metropolitan Boston, tended to be given up earlier, though Coburns carried on their dairy farm at Kendall Green until recently.

But the clutch of suburban development has not yet engulfed all our farms, as we shall point out in this and succeeding articles. Today we take you to one, the Russell Farm (no relation to the writer) at the edge of the Sudbury River, where the fourth and fifth generations carry on successfully, and a sixth is already growing.

"There has always been a Samuel Russell on this farm," Grandfather Russell, local butcher and farmer proudly told the writer a quarter century ago; and today there are two Samuels, as well as a Waldo and a Lewis Russell. The younger Samuel, as a boy, began to build a greenhouse on the farm which, originally a dairy, had grown chiefly vegetables and poultry while his father Lewis S. and his uncle Waldo Russell had managed it.

While he was carrying his courses at M.I.T., young Sam was still busy at greenhouse building; and after he returned from college one new house went up after another. Young Sam was one of the first to try plastic as a covering in place of glass, along with other innovations.

Now that his brother Lewis, Jr. is back on the farm after graduating from Harvard and doing his military service, Sam has returned to M.I.T. There he is studying construction further and working for an advanced degree in architecture.

With the changing demand which has followed the tremendous residential growth of this area, the production of the farm has once more altered direction. The hens are gone, and vegetables, while still important, are now completely overshadowed by the growing of flowers and plants. This is a natural development, and one not at all unpopular with Mrs. Lewis Russell, Senior, who comes from a family of long time carnation growers in Sudbury.

Market Gardens?

In fact a large proportion of the market gardeners about Boston have gone through a similar change. The fields and the greenhouses which fifty years ago, or even a quarter century later, were supplying the Boston market with lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers are either covered with houses, or, if they remain agricultural, are catering to the popular demand for flowers, bedding plants and ornamental shrubs. Even as late as the first World War, most local produce went to the famous Fanuil Hall wholesale market. Now the chain store absorbs much of the vegetable production: but an increasing proportion both of vegetables and flowers is sold direct to the consumer at the farm or greenhouse, as is the case of the Russells by the river.

If you see nothing remarkable in this chronicle of family farms, let us ask how many of The Crier's readers expect their progeny to be citizens of Weston and Wayland in the year 2100 or 2200. How many dare hope, or would wish their descendants of the fifth and sixth generations not only to be living here, but also cheerfully and successfully following the occupation of their forefathers, at those distant dates?

Hello, Out There

Hello, out there. Might as well get acquainted. Been hearing from a lot of you. Some gripes. Some suggestions. Even some pats.

We get the feeling though a lot more of you would like to have your say. And we don't doubt you have something worth hearing about Weston and Wayland, how they purr along on eight cylinders (most of the time?) and how we do.

You can write us, care of the Wayland Post Office. Or you can call: EL 8-7700 or TW 4-4232. Don't be bashful. We're not.

Summer Classes Set At Cambridge Center

CAMBRIDGE -- Registration is open now for the summer term at the Cambridge Center for Adult Education, 42 Brattle St., Cambridge.

Group activities include seeing Boston, studying New England wildflowers, attending plays in the summer theatre, and playing tennis on the Soldiers' Field courts. Readings in political philosophy, including selections from J. S. Mill, Bertrand Russell, Karl Marx and Walter Lippmann will be discussed in man in contemporary society.

Daytime and evening courses begin June 13. For a brochure describing courses write the Adult Center or phone KI 7-6789.

Brief announcements of local interest are welcome. Right to edit all published material is reserved by the paper.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Whatever Happened To the Bent Pin ?

For many years the favorite theme of the cartoonist (along with the one that shows a woman showing her husband a new hat) was a boy with a string of trophy-size fish, an old willow pole adorned with a length of grocery twine and a bent pin.

This lad is usually sporting a self satisfied smirk that is aimed at a city feller all duded up with an Abecrombie & Fitch outfit which includes an empty creel.

On the opening day of trout season this year I checked in on about 300 fishermen at Walden Pond, and although there was a fair percentage of young boys there, there wasn't a bent pin in the place.

These lads were all fitted out with spinning rods and reels, and were able to cast half way across the pond.

Now this fishing business is fine for young people, especially since we don't have any pool rooms around here, and more than our share of water.

I, for one, like to encourage children to fish -- that is, if they can find time to sandwich it in between Little League, Boy Scouts, Choir Practice, "Teevy", and other things us well meaning old folks organize for them.

When I say encourage them to fish I don't mean a fishing derby where the fish are put in for them on one day and they pull them out on the next, and prizes are given for the most, biggest, smallest fish caught -- usually with father's help.

This is not teaching sportsmanship, and who needs a prize -- one good trout should be prize enough.

Many parents know nothing of fresh water fishing as we know it around here, and probably care less.

However, when a child wants to go fishing the least we can do is get him off on the right foot by getting together tackle that won't scare every fish out of the pond, and taking him to a place where he has a chance to catch fish, no matter how small.

Next week I will try to give a few pointers on inexpensive tackle, and places nearby where a six-year-old can fish and not get completely discouraged the first time out.

Wayland Exchange Clearance Set for June 1 – 10 to 4

WAYLAND -- The Wayland Clothing Exchange closes for the season with a final clearance sale Thursday, June 1. Clothing not withdrawn by May 25 will become property of the exchange. Final clearance hours: 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. only.

Something About Birds

The 19th Annual Weston Bird Walk on May 6 was attended by 24 people, and 37 species of birds were recorded, including the following "firsts" of the year: kingfisher, eastern kingbird, Nashville warbler, and Savannah sparrow.

First reports of catbirds were received on May 3 (Elliston), May 5 (Fales), and May 6 (Haynes, C. Paine and Hills); Baltimore orioles on May 6 (Elliston, Smith and Van Huysen); wood thrush on May 7 (C. Paine) and May 8 (Foote); ovenbird on May 8 (Smith).

Charlotte Stevens, Warren Ave., says her tame male red-winged blackbird has returned for the fourth year; a whip-poor-will was heard on May 4 by Charlotte Paine; and a solitary vireo was seen on May 5 (Smith). Screech Owls are nesting in birdboxes at the Smiths, Westland Rd., and the Fales's, Merriam St. Both pairs are now feeding young.

Mrs. R. M. Hills, South Ave., reports juncos last seen on May 9; Iceland gull last seen on May 5; and evening grosbeaks are still present -- David (4-6), Jericho Forest (15), Mrs. R. Clapp (6-12), and Mrs. R. Warren (15).

The biggest migration day so far was Wednesday, May 10, after the wind had shifted into the southwest during the previous night and brought in many migrants which had been dammed up just to the south of us by the recent east and northeast winds. Following are the reports received: black-crowned night heron (Smiths); mockingbird (Morton, Linwood Cemetery); veery (Lawson); Baltimore oriole, 1 - 4 males (Morton, Jennings, Theall, Fay, Nickerson, Hills, and Lawson; catbird (Morton, Nickerson, Jennings and Theall); rose-breasted grosbeak pairs (Smith, Morton, Fales and Jennings); ovenbird (Dewey, Morton, Warren and Smith); yellow warbler (Theall, Tewksbury, Wayland, Smith, and Lawson; redstart (Tewksbury, Wayland); parula warbler (Smith); chestnut-sided warbler (Smith); magnolia warbler (Smith and Terkelsen); and yellow-throat (Smith). Many chimney swifts and swallows (mostly barn) were migrating throughout the day.

Garden Clubs Meeting At Swampscott May 25, 26

SWAMPSCOTT -- The annual meeting of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts, Inc. will be held at the New Ocean House, Swampscott on May 25 and 26. About 173 federated garden clubs will be represented at this meeting.

65 Not Too Late To Get Lowdown On Social Security

WALTHAM--If you have reached retirement age (65 for men and 62 for women) and have never inquired about social security benefits because you are still working, you should talk to a social security representative right away, Norman A. Keyes, Manager of the Waltham District Office, advises.

Because of a 1960 change in the law, many older people whose earnings were high enough to keep them from collecting social security benefits, will now be able to receive some benefits during the year.

Up until this year, social security beneficiaries who earned more than $1200 in a year lost one month's social security benefits for each $80 of earnings in excess of $1200. Under the new law, only $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings in excess of $1200 and up to $1500. Thus, the beneficiary who earns exactly $1500 would lose $150 in benefit payments.

The mourning cloak butterfly is seen in March fluttering about the wood, sipping pussy-willow nectar, sap, and moisture from wayside puddles -- indication of an early Spring.

California poppies were landmarks for ships at sea. Millons upon millions of their golden flowers covered hillsides and mountains, valleys, fields and seashores on the West Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodbury of Weston are members of the decorating committee. Other local sponsors include Mr. and Mrs. Zalman O. Davlin and Mrs. Jesse Scott of Wayland and Mr. and Mrs. James B. Greason of Weston.

Mission Drums June 25

BOSTON -- The Princemen of Boston, first place winner in 1960, will defend their championship at the 4th Annual Mission Drums scheduled for Saturday evening, June 24, at Boston College Stadium. This Senior Drum and Bugle Corps is a former World's Champion and has won the National V.F.W. Championship on five occasions.

Serving locally on the committee is: Mrs. B. Kelly, 266 Summer St., Weston.

ROBERT A. SALOMON, of 16 Sears Rd., is hotel arrangements chairman on the general committee planning for the 50th anniversary General Assembly of the Telephone Pioneers of America in Boston next September.

Mr. Salomon is chief statistician of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company and a member of the Pioneers' Framingham Council, Thomas Sherwin Chapter. He has been a resident of Wayland since last summer, having come here from Springfield where he had been commercial manager of the Company's western Massachusetts division.

Telephone Pioneers are long-service employees in the telephone industry in the United States and Canada and number over 200,000. Their Association's founding in 1911 was in Boston, which is also where -- on March 10, 1876, or 85 years ago -- the telephone first transmitted a message.

Co-Op Meeting Monday in Natick

WAYLAND -- The Co-op, Inc., this area's consumer-owned organization of citizens who own and operate their own supermarket and fuel oil services, will hold its annual meeting for shareholders at the Wilson Junior High School, Natick, next Monday, at 8 p.m.

Preceding the meeting, special activities sponsored by Co-op committee members will take place and a candidates hour will be held to introduce local citizens running for office to those present. Coffee and dessert will be served during the get-acquainted session from 7 - 7:45 p.m.

The business session will be presided over by Board Pres. Walter Ward of Wayland and General Manager Warren Brown of Wayland, who will report to the membership on the past year's progress and growth, expansion programs for Natick, Wayland and Framingham.

Candidates for the Board election include: Dr. Donald C. Klein and Dr. Pervil Meigs of Wayland, Mrs. Gregory Grogan, George M. Rogers, and Adrian M. Norcross of Natick. Also, Fred J. White of Framingham, Arthur W. Carlson, Framingham, and Charles M. Thrasher, Natick have been nominated for Treasurer and clerk respectively.

Vying for positions on the Auditing Committee are Lewis W. Kimball, Mrs. Fred Wigglesworth, and Carl G. Hedin, all of Natick. Dr. George K. Bowles, Sumner L. Moore, and Thomas W. Sheehan, also all of Natick, are running for the Nominating Committee.

Massachusetts Audubon Society says the bald eagle builds the largest nest of any North American bird -- one being 20 feet deep and 9 1/2 feet wide.

Bits & Pieces

Have you thought what this break-through into space will mean? Like the best platform for the Republican candidate in 1972: A chicken in every pot and two Redstones on every pad.

Or, when space travel gets so common: The Old Man lingers for an extra double martini with the boys, and when he gets back to suburbia, the wife has left a note: See you Monday, I'm off to the moon.

Of course, if he has the will, next week he'll get to the pad first and his note will read: See you, I'm off to Venus.

Only trouble with our Bill Ryder, readers report, is that he gets the kids simply-fascinated with animals.

Example: One sleepy mother reports that she rolled over in bed at 2 a.m. recently to find her six-year-old flicking on the light switch with a big grin and this bon mot: Mommy, aren't you happy I brought home all those toads?

So Blue Cross finds it has $16 million lying around . . . all of a sudden. Reminds us of our bachelor days when we'd put on seldom-worn suit and fish a fiver out of a pocket. Once it was even $20.

Westonite Named Production Chief

BOSTON -- Dudley B. Hartung has been named to the new post of product manager, data systems and display, for the Computer Products Division of Laboratory For Electronics, Inc. He will be responsible for product organization and applications of Random Access Storage and Display systems.

Mr. Hartung comes to LFE from Audivox, Inc., Boston, where he was assistant sales manager. He had previously been product manager for Sanders Associates, Inc., Nashua, N. H., and engineer with the Hydraulic Engineering Co., Cambridge, Mass., and the Dynamic Analysis and Controls Laboratory at M.I.T.

constitutes illegal use of town property it was brought out that it is a nuisance for local residents. Since the beach does not officially open until the close of school, and at any rate would not be open in the evening, no lifeguards are posted at this time, and if there were an accident, fire or police officials would not be able to get to the beach quickly since the cars parked across the entry would be obstructing their path.

Personnel at the various colleges and universities in nearby towns have been notified of the situation and their cooperation requested but it was admitted that this problem will probably have to be handled locally. It was strongly recommended that police cruisers patrol the area in the evening to correct this public nuisance.

Chief Ernest Damon said additional funds would be required for this purpose.

Chief Damon presented a map indicating all the present speed regulation signs in the town and it was noted by all present at the meeting that additional signs warning motorists to drive carefully were needed in many areas. "There has been one accident a week for the past four weeks involving a pedestrian and a motorist" commented Selectman George Lewis.

Town residents were advised to apply for speed limit signs on their streets if they thought them necessary. This may be done by securing an application at the Town Hall and having it signed by two or more applicants.

A bid of $700 was submitted by John H. Lee covering the cost of filling four cellar holes which are posing a threat to the public safety. This bid was considered acceptable.

McBride Named 1 of 6 National School Advisors

WESTON -- Thomas McBride, senior principal of Weston Elementary Schools, has been appointed to the editorial board of the National Elementary Principals magazine for three years.

Mr. McBride is one of six principals in the nation who will serve as advisors on editorial matter appearing in this monthly magazine which is published by the Department of Elementary Principals of the National Education Assn.

Mr. McBride has been a member of the Weston school system since 1944 in an administrative capacity. He is a graduate of Bridgewater Teachers College and holds a graduate degree from Boston University. He is studying at Harvard Graduate School of Education now.

Framingham Man Hurt in Wayland

WAYLAND -- Thomas Conlon of Framingham received bruises to his legs when he was pinned to the platform at The Co-op while loading rubbish Saturday morning, police reported.

Mr. Conlan was taken to the Framingham Union Hospital where he was treated and released.

Kevin Sullivan

WESTON -- Kevin Graham Sullivan, 25, of 50 Byron Rd., Weston a life underwriter for Hartford Life Insurance Co. in Boston died Sunday at the Baker Memorial of Massachusetts General Hospital after a three-month illness.

Born in Boston, he attended Weston High Schol and the university of Colorado and was graduated cum laude from Bowdoin College in 1957. He was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Sullivan, and a sister, Andrea, all of Weston.

A Requiem Mass was sung at 10 a.m. yesterday in St. Julia's Church, Weston. Burial will be in Linwood Cemetery.

Dedham Horse Show

DEDHAM -- With a flock of entries being received daily, indications are that there will be a record number of horses and riders in the annual Dedham Horse Show, at the Dedham Country and Polo Club, May 30, all day, rain or shine.

This year's program lists 33 events with classes for hunters, jumpers, hacks, ponies and hunt teams. While the hunters and jumpers will predominate a number of classes are listed for children in horsemanship. The Dedham show is open to the public and will benefit the Children's Medical Center.

BIG LITTLE GIRL -- At the Red Barn Fair last Saturday, it was big doins for Amelie Bardella of 479 North Ave., Weston, as she learns to ride. Hundreds of other children and adults made the affair on the Town House Lawn a big success.

But Remember Streets Are for Cars -- Not Kids

To the Editor:

There appeared in your May 11 issue of the Town Crier, an article whose headline was "Speeding Cars Fret Wayland Mothers of 28." I believe that this deserves an answer and I'm sure you will give me the same courtesy you did the author of the subject article.

To set the record straight, I'm against sin, communism, reckless driving, drunken driving and speedsters. I might mention that I'm in favor of motherhood, respect and obedience from children, back yards and play grounds for chidren, and roads for automobiles.

Having set the record straight lets get to the point. The Douglases have my sympathy over the loss of their dog which was hit by an automobile on the State Road. Now everyone in Wayland knows that cars do move right along on this highly traveled road and not only can a dog's life be lost but also a person's. Knowing this one takes the necessary precautions to insure that those near and dear to them stay off this road.

Now with respect to the speedsters, I agree there are some who drive what I consider to be excessive. This is true when one considers that the children have been led to believe that the roads were put there for them to play on and anyone else including those poor unfortunates driving automobiles are transgressing.

If some of this admirable effort, being now used to divide a neighborhood were put to other use, beside a crusade against anyone going over 5 mph, I'm sure all concerned would be the better for it.

If this "Mothers of 28 Crusade" continues on the present level it has now reached, I want to put my bid in now for the parking concession on Route 20 and Rice Valley Road since we are expecting any day now to receive a telephone call indicating all cars are to be abandoned prior to entering into the "gates of the ideal suburban community". This would eliminate the need of a state trooper to patrol the White Rd., Sylvan Way, Rich Valley Rd., Lundy Lane and Oh yes Haywood Road which I have been led to believe, up until recently, was an accepted public street here in the Town of Wayland.

It is highly recommended that the next crusade of the "Mothers of 28" be that of instructing their children on what a road is for and how much care they should exercise when playing on it.

Wayland Crash Injures Two

WAYLAND -- Two of three occupants of a car were injured Wednesday, May 10, at 9 p.m. when the vehicle went off a curve of Rice Rd. and struck a tree and a utility pole.

Henry Sands, 17, of Glen St., Natick received a cut knee and Robert Pargarkis of 41 Second St., Natick, received a bump on the head.

The driver of the car, Donald R. Spooner of 125 Oak St., Natick, was unhurt. Patrolman John Phylis investigated.

Allen Morgan Treasurer of Audubon Society

WAYLAND -- Allen H. Morgan has been elected to succeed Boardman Bump as treasurer of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, it was announced today by Richard Borden, president.

Mr. Morgan, a Wayland native and widely-known ornithologist, will retain his present position as executive vice president of the society, an office he has held since 1958.

Mr. Bump, a member of the firm of Morrison, Bump and Morse serves now as treasurer of Mt. Holyoke College. He will continue his association with the Audubon Society as a member of its Board of Directors and of the Budget Finance Committee. He had held the office of treasurer since 1955.

Mt. Holyoke Club Night at Pops

WESTON -- The flowers that bloom in the Spring, tra la, have plenty to do with the thing, provided that it's the Mount Holyoke Club of Boston's annual Night at the Pops.

Scheduled this year for Thursday evening, May 25, the club's musical outing will feature its Junior Group in the role of flower girls to the accompaniment of the Boston Pops Orchestra.

A high point in the group's social activities, this program is also its major fund-raising event, all proceeds going to the college's Development Fund as an unrestricted gift.

Alumnae and friends may obtain table reservations from Mrs. Duncan Warren of Weston, TW 4-6228.

Responsible for planning the program was Miss Rachel Reynolds of Wellesley Hills, vice president of the club, assisted by Miss Alice Jeghelian of Arlington, president, Miss Florence Kimball of Cambridge, and Mrs. Warren.

EARLE W. PUGHE JR.

E.W. Pughe Jr. Heads IBM Dept. Of Itek Lab

LEXINGTON -- Earle W. Pughe Jr., formerly staff engineer in the systems development division of Hermes Electronics Co., has been named manager of the IBM project department, electronics engineering division, of the recently created Itek Laboratories. Itek Laboratories was formed by uniting two divisions of Itek Corporation -- Information Technology Laboratories and Hermes.

At Hermes, Pughe was engaged in a transit memory study for the applied physics laboratory and was working on a contract for the International Telephone and Telegraph Laboratories. From 1959 until joining Hermes a year ago, Pughe was manager of systems engineering for I. T. T. L., engaged in work for the Strategic Air Command's global communication system and as project manager of a computer for personal loan data processing at a New York City bank.

From 1954 to 1959, Pughe was a staff member of Massachusetts Institute of Technology's division of sponsored research, working on digital computers as well as on the SAGE System, a computer-controlled air defense system, at MIT's Lincoln Laboratories.

He also has been an electrical engineer with the Lago Oil and Transport Co., Aruba, N.W.I. and with the General Electric Co., in Schenectday, New York.

Pughe holds a bachelor of engineering degree from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, a master of science degree from MIT and an electrical engineering degree, also from MIT. He is a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the honorary societies of Tau Beta Pi, Eta Kappa Nu and Sigma Xi.

Pughe and his wife and their three children live at 70 Corwod Dr., Weston.

Judge Gives Cab Dancer Another Tune to Dance To

WESTON -- All he wanted was some loose cash to start his own dance studio with.

But the Chelsea dance teacher who twice burglarized a Weston home to further his interests got a six-year suspended lease on a "closed circuit studio" instead.

This was the disposition in Waltham District Court last week after Arnold Kurlan , 28, pleaded guilty to the burglary charges brought by Weston police.

In addition, Kurland was placed on probation for six years in connection with the breaks on Feb. 17 and Apr. 17 in a Hawthorne Rd. home of another dance teacher.

Kurland was nabbed after the second break when police arrived to pick him up before the taxi he'd ordered arrived on the scene.

Kurland was charged with taking a mink stole, a movie camera, two $1000 rings, a still camera, a gold locket, a gold bracelet, two overnight bags and $300 worth of assorted jewelry.

Police Officer Frederick Perkins was the man on the scene after the second break when neighbors reported a man with women's overnight bags walking down the road.

Weston Police Sgt. Harold Lingley said the house was ransacked on both occasions and that Kurland had thumbed a ride to the break scene both times with the intention of riding away in style.

As for style -- the judge intimated Kurland's style would be considerably cramped if picked up again.

Weston Man Gets Research Grant

WESTON -- Dr. Gottfried E. Neother of 72 Spruce Hill Rd. has recently been awarded a grant totaling $6240, by Aerospace Research, for investigation in the field of nonparametric statistics.

Dr. Neother, a German-born educator, has taught at the Universities of California and New York, and is now professor of mathematics at B.U. He is a member of the Institute of Mathematical Statistics and the American Statistical Association.

Dr. Noether received his Ph.D from Columbia Univesity, M.A. from the University of Illinois and B.A. from Ohio State University. In 1957 he was appointed Fulbright Lecturer in mathematical statistics at the University of Tuebingen in Germany.

Student Court?

Would a student court really be a worthwhile asset to our school? I feel that it would be, if given the wholehearted support of the student body.

Many students believe that a court would give excessive power to a few select students and that loyalty to one's friends would bring about a feeling of resentment toward the court. Ideas such as these could come to life, only if the students lack initiative, and a desire to improve themselves and the school. Unless students have purposeful aims in mind, I see no reason to have a court.

If the students decide on a court, it should be geared to their own wants and needs. A court isn't an institution that is always on the lookout for someone to punish, but rather, it is a means of preventing the bad side of our personality from taking over.

Furthermore, the limited number of students on the court itself would realize that everyone was counting on them to make the right decision at the right time. This pressure would prevent prejudice or hasty decisions.

The fact that we have been given the opportunity to organize our own court shows that someone considers us capable of organizing a priactical, suitable plan of taking care of ourselves and our own problems. Let's take a closer look at ourselves and then maybe we will make the right decision.

Science "Paves" the Way

The Wayland Senior High Physical Science Classes I and II were guests of the Massachusetts Broken Stone Company on Tuesday afternoon, May 2, 1961.

Under the direction of Supervisors Mr. Clifford Cooper, Mr. Paul Lloyd, and Mr. Owen Hillberg, the students were escorted on a tour of the company's facilities and equipment used in the production of broken stone, concrete, and asphalt.

The tour commenced with an on the spot inspection of the actual source of material with a geologic description and interpretation of the volcanic origin of the rock by Mr. F. R. Forsythe, the Physical Science teacher in charge of the field trip.

The students were encouraged by the Supervisory Staff of the Massachusetts Broken Stone Company to collect specimens, ask questions and view the facilities. Due to the inclement weather some phases of the plant were not in operation, but courteously our hosts had skilled operators put the machinery into actual operation for the benefit of our group. Other facilities viewed by the group included the concrete and asphalt batching plants, the primary crusher for the breakdown of large blast stone to workable sizes and the complex grading operations.

Following the Team Teaching Concept of Wayland High, Mr. Albert Genaske of the Wayland High Mathematics Center lectured on the economic aspects and business fluctuations of this essential part of our construction industry.

At the close of the tour a question and answer session was held between the students and Mr. Clifford Cooper, Office Manager of the Massachusetts Broken Stone Company. Personalized golden ball point pens were distributed to each student as a gift from the management at the close of the tour.

We of Wayland Senior High School wish to extend our sincere thanks for the consideration and hospitality shown to our Science students on this valuable facet of industrial life.

A practical man is a man who practices the errors of his forefathers. Benjamin Disraeli

Senior Gold

The sounds of cheering and hissing filled the Wayland High School Little Theater May 4th, as the curtain rose for the first time on the Senior Play, "Gold in the Hills." Because the speakers of the Prologue, Jim Bradford and George Dreher, put it so aptly, the audience knew its part in the proceedings and rewarded evil and virtue respectively. This is why, in the best old-fashioned melodrama tradition, the sounds of hissing and cheering filled the theater.

This melodrama had all the trimmings; a snow-white, virtuous hero and heroine, a black-caped, evil, villain, a honkey-tonk piano, and a liberal sprinkling of gay 90's flavor. Phyllis Weaver appeared as the heroine, Nell Stanly; Rick Greene and Barry Parker, alternately as the hero, Jack Dalton and Eldon Goodhue as the villain, Richard Murgatroyd. All sparkled in their performances. The outstanding direction of Mr. R. K. Taylor, and Mr. Ben Mazza and Mr. Robert Fraiser was illustrated by the cast's frequent and competent use of melodrama gestures.

It was very good to see a well done melograma in the old fashioned tradition.

Stacks & Stacks of Paperbacks

Last week Wayland High School students were given the opportunity to build a personal library of paper back books through the Book Fair sponsored by the Student Council. The townspeople were invited on Saturday, and everyone showed a great deal of interest and enthusiasm.

Those who browsed through the numerous selections of paper backs in the lobby of the Little Theater, found hundreds of titles, ranging from best sellers, through the classics to handy reference works.

These paper bound editions were inexpensive and proved to be a good investment for those who purchased them. This is a project which the Council hopes to continue each year, and it is just one of the activities which they hope will bring the students and townspeople closer together.

Love-Game

Thump...pong..swoosh! This is the almost constant sound heard on our beautiful new tennis courts since they were opened for use last week. There are four exquisite courts upon which the students of Wayland High and the towns people may play at any desired time. The rules for the use of the courts are posted at the entrance for all to see and abide by. The surface is an expensive one, and for this reason it is asked that all bicycles, rollr skates, benches, and similar hard objects be kept off for the preservation of the courts. I am sure that the townspeople, as well as the student body, will agree that our new courts are truly beautiful. They are located at the far side of the new high school in the same vicinity as the football field. See you there!

Night of Knights

Enter the enchanting world of the Knights of the Roundtable, brought to life by the Junior class of Wayland High School. The scene will be set at the exquisite Sandy Burr Country Club. A feast will be served in the atmosphere of medieval intrigue. For a nominal fee the excitement and adventure of the world of merry old England can be yours. Entertainment will be provided by the renouned Guy Stephens and his polished lancers. From 8:00 to 1:00 P.M., you will be intrigued and entertained at our Night of Knights.

The supply of fair damsels is running short, so all brave knights polish your armor and ask your fair lady, before it's too late.

Athletic Oscars

On Saturday, April 29, the Wayland High Athletic Association sponsored its annual Sports Banquet, held in honor of all high school girls and boys who have participated in the various sports offered at Wayland. This year's banquet was held in the spacious field house; instead of the usual long table style, round tables were employed. I am sure the appetites of the hungry students were reduced when platters and plates of scrumptious roast beef were set before their eyes.

To add to the enjoyment of the dinner, D. B. Willard, editor of a Sudbury paper, relived the sports events of the previous year at Wayland. One interesting fact which D.B.W. pointed out was that girl athletes are improving. This year's field hockey team won 4 and lost 5. Now this may not seem impressive; however, the last time the team won a game was some where back in the 30s.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the letters, jackets, and awards. Three new awards were added this year. They were: "Best Football Player of the Year," which was received by junior halfback Kenney Houghton. "Best Basketball Player of the Year," was awarded to co-captain Eldon Goodhue, and "Best Baseball Player of the Year," was presented to Bruce Waldman, a freshman at Colby College.

The Babe Ruth Awards for outstanding sportsmanship were awarded to Ricky Greene and Jane Smith. The John E. Sullivan trophy was won by Maynard Hilton, for being the most improved player on this year's football squad.

The climax of the evening was the presentation of the "Best Athlete Award." The award went to Lee Paton, a three letter man for four years and president of this year's student council and a member of the national honor society.

A Strike for Freedom

by W. D. LEWIS

A situation has arisen at Wayland High School which merits attention. Classroom study has been administered successfully in teacher-team form. This very success has been brought about in great part by the fact that the teachers who administer this program are in close communication and cooperation with each other. The student is thus enabled to reap the benefits derived from the best work of all these teaching minds.

However, this achievement falls far short of its goal when this same close communication is denied to the students. It tends to create a feeling of disunity when they are asked to conduct themselves in such a different manner during resource periods. After having been offered the benefits of serious discussion in small or medium group classes, they are not permitted to persue the issues in their resource centers. Many students resent this strict enforcement of silence and in turn accomplish nothing, while if permitted a chance at serious discussion, they might learn a great deal more; since now the responsibility of learning subject matter has increased and has been placed on the individual.

Naturally, some students would prefer to talk during research periods, and not for the purpose of learning. The difficulty of separating the students with purpose from those who regard the study areas with no apparent seriousness, is obvious. However, misbehaving students have been handled by teachers for years, and shouldn't present too serious a problem to our superior staff.

To accomplish this, it will be necessary for instructors in research centers to be more discerning in their attitudes, and perhaps, also, more lenient.

In conclusion, may it be suggested that the policy of the school in regard to reference-halls be changed to allow for cooperative endeavor among those students who desire to benefit from the communication of ideas during reference-hall periods.

It is human nature to think wisely and act in an absurd fashion. Anatole France

Dear Doc

Dear Dr. Chronos;

My father's job often causes us to move around a lot. Our most recent move seems to be more or less permanent. In all of the towns that we have moved to, I have made friends quite easily, and always with the so called "right crowds". In the town that I am living in now, my best friend is the son of one of the richest men in town; as was the case in the other places that I lived. And yet, even though I, and my friends, have, and get, everything we need, I am never quite satisfied. Other students who do not have as much, tell me that I should feel fortunate that I can have everything I want. Yet, why do I feel so "low" all the time?

Answer:

You will always feel this way as long as you continually think of social status and running with the "right crowd" as more important than being a true friend to those who impress YOU as being the "right kind", and not those who have the nicest car, the nicest home, and the nicest clothes. You see, these friends you have now might not always have "the nice home", etc., and then, if you continue to follow the "course" that you are now, how would you feel about them then, when what held you to them is "gone"? If this answer seems a bit confusing, I'm sure a talk with your adviser, or perhaps your Minister, would help you to understand your problem and the course you should take to correct it.

Add Another Name

All of the students have undoubtedly noticed the two additions, last fall, to the French Department. One of the two teachers is Mr. Rivers. Mr. Rivers has lived in Massachusetts most of his life. He was born in a Boston hospital but resided in Natick. From Natick he went to school at Boston College High School. From there he left for Holy Cross but he was drafted after a year there. When his service was over he came back to the Boston area and graduated from Boston University.

With the Navy he traveled to Europe, the area of the Mediterranean Sea and also to South America. During these trips he docked, for Christmas, twice in France. One year, Mr. Rivers spent Christmas in Cannes and the next year in Marseille. He remarked that Christmas in France is not as elaborate as it is here; they send cards but their decorations are few.

Last year, although he spent the year in France with his family, they all went to Switzerland for Christmas. Mr. Rivers was not in France with the Navy that time however. He was the winner of the Fulbright Scholarship which provided him with a year at the University of Paris.

Mr. Rivers has a wide range of interests outside his teaching. They vary from going to a French or a foreign movie in Cambridge, to traveling and photography, to listening to classical music and also some folk music, to sailing on his boat in the summer. Mr. Rivers is a fine addition to the teaching staff at Wayland High and we are proud to have him here.

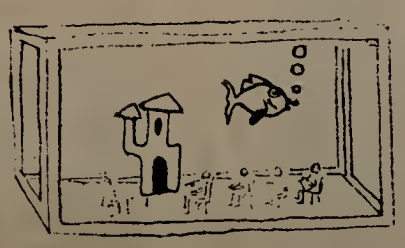
Zig Zag Zebra

by CYNTHIA ROSSBOROUGH

Once upon a time there was a frustrated, zealous zebra, whose name was Herbie. Herbie had one wish in life, he wanted straight stripes. It seemed that not one zebra he knew had a set of zig-zag stripes like his own. Herbie had tried long and hard to straighten his crooked stripes.

He once tried to knock his legs crooked so his stripes would seem straight. He even went to Coney Island and went to the Salt and Pepper Shaker and took a ride. Unfortunately all he got was an upset stomach. At one time he tried to make his stripes straight by holding on to a tree and rubbing. As usual nothing happened. Everytime something would fail he would try and try again. He was determined to get his stripes straight. Herbie also tried to paint over his black crooked stripes with white paint. Poor Herbie! The paint didn't take.



One day Herbie heard that Oscar Ostrich had developed a new cream especially for straightening zebra stripes. Imagine! Herbie was overjoyed at the news. He ran right over to Oscar's and begged him for some of the cream. Oscar did not want Herbie to take it because it had not yet been tested. Herbie, so anxious to use the cream, replied he didn't care. Reluctantly Oscar gave the cream to Herbie.

Herbie ran home and rubbed the cream all over him. He left it on for the required time and then rubbed it off. He was so anxious to show off his new stripes, he didn't even look at himself in the mirror.

On his way to the field where all the zebras were playing he had to pass through the donkey field. He pranced through the field trying to show off his stripes. He was disobeying the standing rule that no zebras were to be in donkey territory. But the donkeys had made fun of him so long he had to show them that he was just like all the rest of the zebras. Just as he was about to cross over the dividing line Doris Donkey yelled, "Hey, come back here, that's zebra territory. We don't go over there."

Herbie replied indignantly that he was a zebra not a donkey. Wondering what was meant by Doris' remark, Herbie went home, and looked in the mirror. When he did he saw that his stripes were completely gone and now he didn't even look at all like a zebra.

Richard Floyd Junior Fellow At Middlebury

MIDDLEBURY, VT., -- Richard P. Floyd of Weston, Mass., has been named a Junior Fellow at Middlebury College for the coming year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Paul Floyd of 217 Newton St., Weston.

Junior Fellows are named on the basis of academic standing and general leadership ability.

The 23 men chosen will return to college a week early in September. Assigned to rooms in freshman dormitories, they will welcome the new class and help in the program of orientation conducted before the official opening of college. Throughout the year they serve as student counselors to freshman men.

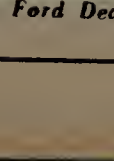
Weston Man Regional Head For MIT Fund

WESTON -- Rudolf S. Slayter, 520 North Av., has been appointed regional chairman for the Weston area in M.I.T.'s $66,000,000 Second Century Fund program, it was announced today by Robert W. Forster, zone chairman.



Mr. Slayter, a graduate of M.I.T. in 1928, is one of 7,000 alumni working on a national basis on behalf of the Second Century Fund, which recently passed its half-way mark.

M.I.T. celebrated its 100th anniversary April 10, after a centennial week of conferences attended by 150 world-renowned scientists, educators and philosophers, and an academic convocation at which 52 foreign and 146 North American universities were officially represented.

A radio station phones 1000 men asking to whom they were listening. Eighty percent said their wives.

Let's Face It—Man or Beast, You Can't Duck Springtime

by HARRY PATTERSON

WESTON -- There's a lady in Weston who is being followed by three handsome males - and she loves it. They apparently have adopted her as their Lady Bountiful, and she has been obliged to re-schedule her shopping and social activities to suit their demands.

The handsome males are mallard drakes, and they live in a pond below her house on the east side.

Each morning promptly -- or what passes for promptly with a duck -- between 11 and 12 o'clock, they leave the pond and waddle up to her front doorstep. There they mutter and clutter among themselves and, if the day is sunny, they settle down to wait for her - two of them squatting on one foot with eyes closed, the third wide awake and standing guard.

If it's cold or rainy they start circling the house, looking for her.

They are partial to moistened bread, and they eat it right out of her hand. They are so tame, in fact, that she has to close the door behind her when she comes out, for fear they will waddle in and take over the living room.

Sometimes they don't arrive on time, so she calls them, and they quickly come a-waddling. On the other hand, if they see a car enter the driveway, up they march. And usually, by the time she has fed them a whole loaf of bread, their crops are so stuffed that they are top-heavy, and they fall drunkenly head first down the steps on their way back to the pond. But a couple of hours later they are hungry again.

They are models of decorum while they are calling on her, but back at the pond they often engage in wild fights.

Instead of punching, kicking and gouging, as intelligent human beings would, they flap their wings, and squawk, and yank feathers from each other's necks.

Two of them are large birds, but the third, known as "Dopey", is somewhat smaller and, apparently, younger. Until recently, on their visits to the house, he has lagged behind, and has stopped a respectful 10 feet away, so that Lady Bountiful had to throw food to him over the heads of the others.

Now, however, he seems to have won an important victory, or at least he has begun to assert himself. He leads the way up the steps, and grabs the first morsel from the lady's hand. Perhaps it is he who at last has won the favor of the shy female who is sometimes seen paddling about the pond.

Ah, Youth! Ah, Springtime!

Letters To The Editor

What About Answers On Urban Renewal?

To the Editor:

I am enclosing a copy of a letter written on May 3rd to Mr. Linneban, as chairman of the Board of Selectmen. It contains three questions that I consider should be answered. I have received neither a reply nor any sort of acknowledgement.

This is in sharp contrast to the immediate attention my letters to Senator Saltonstall received, over the past two months, including a report from the Mass. Dept. of Public Works, and an interim report from Robert Weaver, the Housing and Home Finance Agency Administrator. The latter promises a further report from Urban Renewal Commissioner Slayton.

The Senator has no connection with urban renewal, but that did not prevent him from not only courteously replying to my letters, but also turning them over to the various departments who are connected with it, and forwarding their replies.

Our Selectmen are certainly concerned with the Wayland Renewal Authority. We of the Civic Association are opposed to the aims of that authority, yet our new president proposes to work with them.

Not only that, but the lawyer he hired is "determining" what chance we have to remove the Authority.

Is that, by any chance, the best example of inconsistency and "conflicting statements" we have had yet?

In my letter to Mr. Linnehan, I spoke of "passing the buck". Perhaps the Selectmen have a notion they can pass it on to the Renewal Authority. We won't buy that.

Is it possible that there is no longer any civic pride in New England? Is it just plain old-fashioned to want to do things for ourselves rather than have Uncle Sam do them?

Are we out of step with the times when we don't want a federal hand-out just because Oshkosh and Muskogee gets one? (Those places are a direct quote from one of the Authority members.)

I want an answer to all these questions.

Sincerely,
Mary R. Goodnoh

Dear Mr. Linnehan:

As chairman of the selectmen, perhaps you can tell me when something is going to be done about the so-called substandard housing in Wayland.

We do not all agree that they are substandard, but there isn't much doubt about the fire hazards as shown in the pictures Chief Hartin displaed. When are they to be demolished?

The Board of Health, possibly due to internal strife, has not sent a representative to address our meetings or answer questions we had in mind, either as members of the Civic Association or as private citizens. According to information received, the condemnation committee would like a little more action from that Board.

We do not consider Dudley Pond "polluted", as stressed in the Harris Report: we swim in it all summer. We would like to know what else constitutes a "health hazard", and what you are going to do about it?

The third classification, "structurally unsound", seems to be the hardest to pinpoint. Mr. MacDonald was rather vague about it, and I think he did his best to cover it.

He also brought up the difficulties connected with condemning such a dwelling, and removing the occupants. The age, the size, the value of a house do not affect its soundiness; what then, short of obvious, imminent collapse, do you intend to do?

We have all been talking instead of doing. The groups mentioned above have been indulging in the great American pastime of "passing the buck". I think it was Harry Truman who said, "The buck stops here". It seems, in our town, it stops with the selectmen. Can you think of anyone else to pass it on to, or do we get action?

Sincerely,

The word "sponge" was in early use as applied to localities. In 1646 John Rutter was to have a sponge of meadow. It was a local word in England, used in Suffolk, and meant an irregular, narrow projecting part of a field, whether planted or in grass.

Weston Board Weighs Petition For 50-Acre Recreational Area

structed, behind a hill off Conant Rd.

--One 20-acre reservoir would be built for boating and fishing and to supply a continuous flow of water for an acre and a half swimming pond.

--The reservoir would be fed from a brook coming from a swamp in Lincoln and the water, after being filtered on the site, would feed continuously into Stony Brook.

--The State Board of Health and other interested agencies had cleared the proposal and the trust's engineers, Fay, Spofford & Thorndike, is maintaining these standards.

--Sale of six to eight lots along Conant Rd. in Lincoln and Weston will help finance the project and shareholders (at $500 each) will be sought until expenses of construction and a sinking fund for maintenance and taxes is set up.

--An estimate $66,000 for initial expenses has been made. This will be cut to $50,000, Mr. Gras said, with the sale of fill from the reservovr digging.

--About 200 million gallons of water will be stored in the reservoir at all times, sufficient to provide 500 days of water supply (at 40,000 gallons a day) for the swimming pond. This would be true, even if there were no rains after the June swimming season started.

(Mr. Gras was assisted by Morton B. Braun and R. S. Morgan, both of Lincoln and also trustees.)

--Incentive for keeping the property in condition would be supplied by the fact that the board of directors -- and some other shareholders -- "are also abuttors."

E. Olsen Fleid of the planning board said the board was very much in favor of the project. He said they were much impressed with the non-profit aspects of the group--that subject to any limitations that the appeals board placed upon the permit, the planners would go along with the petition.

Many of the objections boiled down to this:

--What control would the two towns have over the type of person who came in? (Up to directors soleiy.)

--Wouldn't the facility grow as new needs arose or costs of maintenance rose? (Up to directors, but unlikely, said Mr. Gras.)

--Wouldn't 100 families or more also bring guests and eventually call for catering facilities and longer recreational hours? (Up to directors. "It's in our mutual interest," said Mr. Braun "to keep this dignified.")

--If no catering, as stated, then wouldn't picnickers be wandering all over other properties? (Directors would police this.)

--Increased traffic?

--Extra activities? (None but occasional teen-age dances, skating and skiing for children and perhaps tennis -- "there's no prohibition.")

Selectman Edward J. Langenbach questioned how much control the directors would have over policies as the organization grew and directorships changed?

Answer: No changes contemplated in direcors or policies.

Question: Any limit to members?

Answer: "There is a limit. Membership will be limited by the number of shareholders we'll need to provide for initial expenses and slight maintenance and taxes."

Mr. Langenbach pointed out that officials of Lincoln, Waltham and Weston had conferred in mid-February with a view to expediting a connector road which would cut across the edge of this property -- right where some of the lots to be sold off were.

"We hope to get it done soon -- before there's additional condemnation costs to make the cost higher for Weston," stated the selectman.

Chairman Guy Gariand of the Appeals Board told the approximately 40 persons attending that a decision would be handed down after the board had weighed the technicai details. This may take several weeks.

Wayland Teachers Risk Reputations For Scholarship

WAYLAND -- Members of the faculty of the Wayland Public Schools will drop academics for show business May 26 and 27. The teachers will pool talents in a production entitled "Faculty Frolics" in an effort to raise money for a scholarship fund.

They hope to endow a fund that will assist yearly a deserving Wayland High School senior in entering college.

The production will feature short skits and solo performances by staff members of the senior, junior high, and elementary schools. "Faculty Frolics" will open at Wayland High May 26 and run for two evenings. The notably low admission is only $1.50.

The admission fee is being kept at a minimum so as to encourage general attendance. It is hoped that this worthy event will receive warm support by the people of the community.

Donations to the scholarship fund may be made in addition to or in place of ticket purchases.

The following teachers have agreed to accept donations and to handle ticket sales: Cochituate School - Mrs. Mary Neal, Mrs. Beverly Donahue, Mrs. Linda Lee Adler; Claypit School - Mrs. Eileen Smith, Mrs. Jeanne Waldron, Miss Gloria Lombard; Junior High School - Blaney Leo, Miss Patricia Dalton, Edward Barry; Happy Hollow School - Miss Pauline Natale, Mrs. Eleanor Landrigan, Mrs. Alice Hall; Loker School - Mr. James Turner, Mrs. Carol Whitney, Mrs. Carol Morse; High School - Henry Cotton, Albert Burns, Reed Taylor.

MISS BARBARA C. STILES

Weston Teacher Takes Sabattical

WESTON -- Miss Barbara C. Stiles, for the past six years geography teacher in the 7th grade of Weston Junior High School, will take her sabbatical leave at the end of this term to further study in one of the great universities in the Boston area.

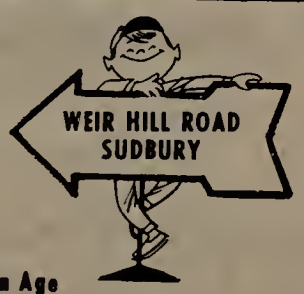
Miss Stiles, who holds her Bacheior's and Master's degrees in geography from two leading universities, has called her leave "the rubbing of Aladdin's lamp" in that her advanced study will permit her to be of more value to her pupils of the future. For a number of years, Miss Stiles has promoted the "pen pal" idea in her classes.

Many Weston children are currentiy corresponding with children in other lands. This time of activity, according to Miss Stiles, "makes geography more practical as well as more interesting"

Kennedy Picks Weston Man For High Post

WESTON -- Paul R. Ignatius of 543 Boston Post Rd., Weston, has been nominated by President Kennedy as Assistant Secretary of the Army for installations and logistics.

Mr. Ignatius, a war Navy lieutenant, has served since 1960 as vice-president of Harbridge House Inc. , a management and consultant firm that has specialized on military procurement and defense contracting.



His wife is the former Nancy Weiser of Holyoke. The couple have four children, David 11, Sarah, 9, Amy, 7, and Alan 2. Mr. Ignatius succeeds Courtney Johnson to the post, which pays $20,000 a year.

40 Years of Swim Lessons, Wayland Red Cross Record

WAYLAND -- Forty years of free swimming lessons. That's the Wayland Red Cross record as it opens its 1961 series of lessons for local residents -- from June 26 to Aug. 31, 10 weeks.

Classes will be limited to 20 pupiis, and each class will have an aquatic school-trained Red Cross water safety instructor, plus a Red Cross-trained water safety aid.

A change in the time of lessons this year is being enforced so as to give more bathing and beach room to those who swim for recreation in the afternoon. Lessons will be from 9 to noon and from 5 to 8 p.m. Beginners lessons will be from 9 to 12 on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Advanced Beginners, an officially new course and open oniy to those who have completed and passed the standard beginners course, will be from 9 to 12 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Same as intermediates.

Swimmers, Junior and Senior Life Saving, Advanced Swimmers, Water Safety Aid, Swimmers Aid which is another new course this year especlally designed for adults who would like to help on a waterfront will all be held from 5 to 8 p.m.

Beginners classes and advanced beginners classes last for 30 minutes and all other classes last 45 minutes or an hour. Everyone has lessons three times a week. If you vacation during the summer you are not ellminated. There will also be a swimming team which will meet three times a week and have intramurals Saturday mornings. There is no age limit to join the swimming team and only one requirement willingness to work.

Applications for the classes will go home with each school age child on May 29 and must be returned by June 15.

Kenneth Carrier Wins Wayland JHS Spelling Bee

WAYLAND -- Kenneth Carrier, an eighth grade student, won the annual Wayland Junior High School Spelling Bee. Tuesday's competition was the final round of the Spelling Bee which began the week before and included the entire student body.

Fifty-eight students survived first-round competition to become eligible for the final round which was presented as an all-school assembly.

Additional place holders in the final round were: second - Lois Boyles; third - Linda Knaack; fourth - Margaret Neuendorffer.

In addition to these students, Richard Costa, Linda Foley, Ann Mosher, Steven Paine, John Quinn, Susan Sherwood, Elizabeth Stokey, and William Witzell will represent Wayland Junior High School at a Regional Spelling Bee to be held at the Muzzey Junior High School in Lexington on Tuesday, May 23.

Other award winners in the final round competition were Robert Story, Kathryn Juliano, Thomas Frye and David Schneider.

Weston Methodists Raise $7600 for Building Fund

WESTON -- The Building Fund Drive of the Weston Methodist Church, to reduce the parish house mortgage and speed up plans for the enlargement of worship and educational facilities, has received approximately $7600 in cash and pleges.

This announcement was made at a recent $50-a-plate dinner held in the parish hall. Bishop James K. Mathews was guest speaker of the program in which over 100 people participated.

The committee in charge: Aimo Teittinen and Robert Loesel, co-chairmen; William Murray, Mrs. Stanley Melby, Joseph Campobasso, Robert Mosher, Robert Hoskins, Kenneth MacRae, Capt. Theodore Schaible and Rev. Alan Moore.

Town Lawn Gets First Manicure --Finally

WAYLAND -- Well, the town lawn got its first manicure finally, on Monday and Tuesday . . . even in the rain.

Difficulties over awarding of a contract for Town Office Building, lawn and gardens led to a late start on the job.

The contract was awarded to George Jones of Cochituate (Millbrook Landscaping Co.) last week by the Board of Park Commissioners. The original contracts had been thrown out after it was charged that some contracts had been opened before the deadliue.

Letters To The Editor

Why They Don't Like Overbearing Power Bill

To the Editor:

For over four years the North Shore towns of Essex and Ipswich have been fighting the Merrimac-Essex Electric Company's proposed overhead power line through the Essex-Ipswich marshes.

For the past year, Sudbury and Wayland have been fighting the Boston Edison Company over its proposed construction of a high tension line through the Sudbury River marshes and terminating at the Concord - Sudbury - Maynard line. Consistently throughout this period, hearings have been held without adequate advance notice to the towns; and at the hearings the arguments of the towns have been received with indifferent interest on the part of the examiner representing the Department of Public Utilities.

The DPU was established as an arm of the Legislature to regulate utilities in the public interest. Rarely, however, has the DPU acted in the peoples' interest but always has seemed to be more concerned with the interests of the utilities. This indifference of the DPU is displayed in other ways; for example, rarely do the Commissioners participate in these hearings but usually delegate this to underlings.

It has often been said that power corrupts. Corruption, however, cannot long survive if citizens take their civic obligations seriusly or if they take a few moments to understand the effects of their apathy. We speak often of the insidousness of Communist propaganda. All over the world we see evidence of the effectiveness of a dedicated group operating with singleness of purpose to achieve selfish ends. The power companies, no less than other entrenched monopolies, employ the same tactics to gain their ends. Whereas the Communists demand and rely on the freedoms guaranteed by a democracy to destroy democracy, the utilities, guaranteed a fixed return on their investment, utilize this assured return and the means provided by the peoples' representatives to practice a tyranny that effectively denies the will of the citizens of this state.

In our anxiety over the loss of cultural, historic and scenic values we may run the risk of losing the real battle. We submit that the citizens of Massachusetts must realize that what is really at stake are their dearly bought freedoms and that these freedoms are under steady attack by those seeking selfish gain. This process of attrition is clearly evident in House Bill 2938. The bill, if signed into law by Governor Volpe, will aid the electric companies by further restricting the rights of towns to oppose the location of new high tension lines within their boundaries. It is too late for anyone to assume that "others more qualified" are going to fight for him. There are not enough "others" to do this.

Every citizen must decide for himself whether what our democracy provides is worth fighting for. It is time for all to rededicate themselves to the principles for which so much blood and treasure have been spent over the past 170 years. If this is not done, if each of us does not consider himself responsible for, and willing to work and sacrifice for, the preservation of our democracy, then we shall lose it.

We can understand the effectiveness of Communist take-over tactics when we observe the ease with which a small group -- in this case a monoploy -- can impose its will through the DPU, the very instrument that was set up to protect citizens in their constitutional rights, the very rights now threatened by House Bill 2938. This bill threatens every city and town in the Commonwealth because it further weakens Home Rule and concentrates power in the hands of lobbyists and politicians.

Bike Safety: It Starts With Kids...

To the Editor:

Let's hope your sensible editorial on the new bike law helps to get its worst features modified.

Naturally all parents are concerned for the safety of their children on our roads -- and drivers must be made to be careful.

But in the last analysis it is the child himself who must be made to realize that the most careful driver cannot stop on a dime, see around corners, into blind driveways or through parked cars.

One can get clobbered at 15 mph, too.

We have dinned it into our children since they first rode forth on tricycles that if they get hit by a car it will probably be their own fault.

Perhaps this sounds hard-hearted.

We think that, in this relentless world of machines and split-seconds, a healthy concern for their own safety is their best chance of survival.

Larger Strawberry Festival Considered by Plans Group

WAYLAND -- Strawberry Festival Chairman Mrs. Warren T. Eriksen has announced that plans are currently under way for the 12th annual Festival to be held on June 17 at the High School grounds from 3 until midnight.

Committee chairmen for the event met informally at a kick-off supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Jones where ideas for the enlargement and improvement of this continually popular festivity were discussed.

Committee chairmen: tickets -- Mrs. Gus Masiello, assisted by Mrs. Kenneth LeBaron and Mrs. John Arnold; local solicitations -- Mrs. William Frisbie and Mr. D. L. Bartholomew; national and professional solicitations -- Mrs. J. Curtiss Bury; finances -- Mrs. Howard Rounsefell.

Ralph Blanchard is in charge of grounds; lighting, Charles H. Peters; parking, Loring H. Raymond.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Jones are chairmen of the food committee with Mr. and Mrs. Barney Whitener taking care of beverages, Mr. and Mrs. William Wightman handling sundaes, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodhue managing the sandwiches.

Games, Mr. and Mrs. William Floyd, assisted by Dr. and Mrs. Howard Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shannon, and Mr. and Mrs. George R. Johnson.

Other chairmen: queen pageant -- Mrs. Kenneth Brown; publicity -- Mrs. L. William Bertelsen; posters -- Mrs. David Todd; ticket design -- Mrs. C. Andrew Pretzer; corsages -- Mrs. Ronald Vanelli and table decorations -- Mrs. Henry Muller.

The festival is sponsored by the Wayland Junior Town House, a United Fund organization that provides recreational and educational activities and facilities for the children of Wayland.

Meadowbrook Prepares for 11th Season

WESTON -- The day camp of the Meadowbrook School of Weston, under the direction of Donald R. Mapel, announces completion of plans for its coming 11th season.

Among the local residents returning to the staff are the following:

Mary M. Lindsley, teacher at the Red Barn Nursery, to be in charge of the lower camp groups. Frances Hale (Mrs. Donald G.) will again direct the swimming program. Julia Bauer (Mrs. Edward W.) teacher at the Page School in Wellesley; Neta Barker (Mrs. Allen), dance teacher in Wayland; J. Alton Templin, graduate student at Harvard Divinity School; Dorothea Marsden (Mrs. Irving G.) of Saxonville; John Woodcock and Peter Rowan of Wayland; Sue McGuire, Ann Finison, Jennifer Robbins of Weston.

Other returning staff members are John Sande, art supervisor in the Swampscott schools, who will direct the craft program; Louise Weiler, in charge of nature study; Mary Wilson, head of the Lower Camp pool; Susan Hull (Mrs. Cordell W.) camp nurse; and Jane Shure, Harrison Webb, Sally Webb, Libby Lindsley, general and assistant counselors.

New senior counselors include Roberta Cooney, second grade teacher in Natick; Harold Vanderpool, graduate student at Harvard Divinity School; Virginia Sheldon, (Mrs. C. P.) graduate of Eliot-Pearson School; Sally Trussell and Susan Marshall (Mrs. William), graduates of the Wheelock School of Nursery Training; and Marlene Mades, graduate of Boston U. School of Education.

New assistant and junior counselors include Douglas Hall of Wayland, Nancy Maclaurin of Lincoln, and Peggy Sloan, Barbi Downing, Geraldine Zorn, Leslie Townsend of Weston.

The record of drivers between the ages of 18 - 25 improved during 1960 but they still were involved in nearly 28 per cent of all fatal accidents -- twice what their numbers would warrant.

Allen Barker Presents Students in 2 Recitals

WAYLAND -- Allen Barker, noted pianist, presented piano students who also play a second instrument in a special program at his studio on Draper Rd., Wayland, today.

Among the players, Terry Kenyon, trumpet; Noble Barker, trumpet; Anita Castiglione, flute; Carol Grumman, flute, Pamela Kather, cello; Bonnie MacNeill, cello; Terry England, clarinet. Accompaniments and additional illustrations at the piano were provided by Don Alstad, Doug Trotter and Diane Best.

Next Thursday evening Mr. Barker will present piano students from the Cambridge School in a recital at his studio. Gay Pearson, Paula Werksman and June Kite of the Cambridge School share the program with Sue Hulsman and Carol Grumman of Weston, Jere Mead of Waban and Noble Barker of Wayland.

ALLEN BARKER, pianist, will perform the Mendelssohn Concerto in D Minor with the Boston Pops at Symphony Hall next Wednesday evening. This is Mr. Barker's sixth appearance with the orchestra.

3 Crashes, 3 Hurt In 3 Hours on Rte. 20, Wayland

WAYLAND -- Three accidents in three hours kept Wayland police on the go last Friday.

At 4:35 p.m. two cars and a truck owned by the Diamond Match Co. of Marlboro collided on Rte. 20 at Bennett Rd. resulting in injuries to two men.

The truck was driven by Louis Jackson of 274 Crescent Lake, Haverhill. Operators of the cars were Benjamin Levine of 55 Colonial St., Dorchester, injured on the left knee and right eye and William Plouffe of Evergreen Rd., Sudbury, who received a fractured nose and injuries of both arms, legs and lower body. He was taken to Emerson Hospital, Concord. Patrolmen Fred Perry and John Phylis investigated.

Three cars were involved in a crash at the intersection of Rte. 20 and Winthrop Rd. at 7:02 p.m.

Patrolmen Perry and Phylis were called.

The drivers were Edgar G. Nadeau of 35 Hamblin Rd., Waltham, Frederick O'Brien of Summer St., Sudbury and Frank Calandrella of 32 Singletary Lane, Sudbury. Mr. O'Brien received injuries of the teeth, neck, arm and nose.

Earlier, Harold G. Ledue of 83 Gleason St., Marlboro was unhurt in a minor acciden on Rte. 20 near the town dump. Patrolman Thomas Murray investigated.

3 Cochituate Scouts Due for Higher Rank

WAYLAND -- A district board of review was held at the home of A. A. Statton, chairman of the Cochituate Troop Committee recently to review three applicants for advanced ranks.

Kenneth Jones was reviewed for Star Scout rank, and, Donald Williams and William Witzel were reviewed for their Life Scout ranks. In areas of similar work, the boys met together with the board members and, in areas of specialty, they met with the board members individually.

Scouts Jones, Williams and Witzel will be awarded their insignia at a future Court of Honor.

Other committee members are Advancement Chairman Elmer Bigwood and Secretary Herbert Tufts Sr. Representing the sponsoring (town) committee was William Irwin, institutional representative. The adult leader from Troop 1 was Edward Messom, assistant scoutmaster.

Presiding over the Board as the District Representative was Robert Breckenridge, who is Chairman of Advancement for this District.

Power –

--Power lines just about kill the atmosphere and sights of suburbia.

--It's mighty easy for shrewd utility company engineers to devise a line that would bypass objections by two towns simply by bringing in several others that are affected only slightly and can be counted upon to support it.

If five towns were involved, the vigorous protests of two towns could not even be heard, if the other three said yes.

Previously, any two adjoining towns could fight such lines -- and probably succeed.

What particularly irks critics of this legislation is the way it went through the Legislature without brakes and was signed by Mr. Volpe over vigorous suburban opposition.

Cats –

and one special town meeting since the shelter's owners attempted last fall to move from Brighton to North Wayland.

After several delays, the court began the case Monday to determine if whether the building inspector had the right to revoke the permit, and if so, did it properly and whether the permit was invalid from the beginning by not meeting building law requirements.

If this cat fight can be reduced to that simple formula, lawyers agreed, it will be the most historic fight since the Kilkenny cats destroyed one another.

From Wayland School Report, 1856:

"If any office needs to be filled by your wisest and best of men, it is that of the School Committee."

Wayland's first superintendent of schools was the Rev. John B. Wight, chosen April 12, 1856 and paid a salary of $50.

Brackett Speaker On Merit Salary For Schools

WESTON -- Dr. Anthony Brackett, superintendent of schools in Weston, will speak at the annual convention of the Massachusetts Association of School Committees on Merit Salary at the Schine Motor Inn in Chicopee next Thursday.

Weston is one of the few communities in the nation with extensive experience in the operation of a merit plan for setting the salary for public school teachers. Representatives of the Weston Schools are often asked to speak on this subject at various gatherings of professional school people.

Dr. Brackett's topic will be "Relating Teacher Competence to Salary."

Walpole Woodworkers Opens Fence Shop in Framingham

FRAMINGHAM -- Walpole Woodworkers, New England's oldest and largest maker of cedar fences, cedar outdoor furniture and small buildings, is greeting the 1961 outdoor season with a brand new display and sales office on Rte 9, Framingham, at Wyman's Garden Center.

Frank Miller, sales manager of the 28-year-old Walpole firm, states that the addition of this newest office and display for the first time makes it possible for suburban homeowners to shop for all outdoor living, landscaping and gardening needs at one convenient place.

Cambridge School Begins Busy Sports Schedule

WESTON -- The Cambridge School of Weston officially opened the Spring sports season at home last week with games in the two major boys' sports: baseball and lacrosse.

Coached by Thomas J. Brown Jr., the lacrosse team with Kit St. John and Carl Brotman, both of Weston, gave up two quick goals in the last 45 seconds to lose to Lawrence Academy 6 - 5. After a week of meditation, they roared back with a perfect passing game to win over Plimouth Academy on May 3. Coach Brown felt "both teams passed as well in the first half as any college game I've seen."

The 12-game baseball schedule got under way on May 2 with a 4-0 loss to Thompson Academy. Plagued with first game jitters, the Griffins made several errors afield and couldn't sustain a batting attack to back up Robbie Dolan's two-hitter.

Hitting wasn't the problem on May 5 against Hudson Catholic when several fielding lapses led to a 9-6 defeat. Every Cambridge player except one, hit safely, but Hudson scored four runs in the 7th inning aided by a wind-blown fly ball in right center to win.

Baseball coach and Athletic Director Earle P. MacGillivray Jr., has expanded the schedule with separate junior varsity games this year for the first time.

The track program has been reorganized under coach Phillip Oliver of Weston with Charles Woodard of Wayland and Geoffrey Bartlett of Weston participating.

About 3000 children die in fires each year in this country.

Little League Off and Running In Weston

WESTON -- The Weston Little League got its usual early start on April 15 under the capable direction of its beloved commissioner, Kennesaw Mountain Czarnowski.

The customary cry of "Beat the Yankees" was immediately heard, as it has been for many years.

Sentiment notwithstanding, however, the Yankees are continuing their supremacy, and appear to be headed for the championship again in both the major and minor leagues.

From the standings listed below it is quite obvious that the major league Yankees have things well under control. To the uninitiated it might appear that their minor league counterpart's position is somewhat more precarious. Nothing could be farther from the truth, however. Even the opposing coaches quake inwardly whenever they face this talented aggregation with their tremendous esprit' de corps and crafty skillful coaches.

The standings at the halfway point are as follows:

MAJOR LEAGUE
Yankees	6	0
Cardinals	4	2
Dodgers	3	3
Red Sox	3	3
Indians	2	3
White Sox	2	3
Phillies	2	4
Detroit	1	5
MINOR LEAGUE
Yankees	5	2
Cardinals	4	2
Indians	4	2
Detroit	3	2
Phillies	2	2
White Sox	2	4
Dodgers	2	5
Red Sox	2	5

Weston Takes Wayland Over Hurdles Again

WESTON -- Weston High made it two straight over its traditional rival, Wayland, last week with a 3-2 victory behind the one-hit pitching of Bud Foster.

Foster, a 6-2 shortstop, was making his first start on the mound. He has relieved twice. Bud collected three for three, including a triple, to help out in his own win.

Tom Linnehan, making his first start since his no-hitter, struck out 10 to Foster's seven. An error by shortstop Dwight Perodeau after a fine back-handed stop brought in the run that made the difference in the third.

Ed Perkins and Bob White got successive singles to set up what looked like a force play at third when Perodeau hurried his throw and bounced the ball past the base, scoring Perkins. Mike McDonald's single to right then scored White.

Wayland got two runs in the fourth without a hit when Foster walked Perodeau and Lee Paton and hit Tony Bova to fill the bases. With two down, Morris rapped one to Bill Rizzo at short and two runs scored when Rizzo's throw to first went wild.

Powers and Arnold had two base hits and Foster and King tripled.

The summary:

WAYLAND	000 200 0 - 2

Corvettes Open Against Champs

WAYLAND -- The Cochituate Corvettes, girls' softball team which won the New England League championships last year, opens its 1961 season against the world's best, the Raybestos Brakettes, Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Cochituate Ball Park.

Last weekend the "Corvettes" swept a double header from the 1960 Rhode Island State Champions 13 to 0 and 16 to 8 on Saturday. Then on Sunday they went to Connecticut and opened the Raybestos Brakettes season dropping a pitchers duel 1 to 0 to the World Champions.

"Corvettes" have added three new stars to their lineup this season. Joan Fitzgerald a fine catcher will share the catching duties with Joyce Letourneau one of the best in New England.

Mary Bennett a student at Sargent College, majoring in Physical education will play second base.

Jean Ashworth, U.S. Speed skating Champion, Bronze Medal winner in Olympics a year ago, physical educational instructor at Walnut Hill School, Natick. Jeanne is one of the fastest outfielders in the New England Girls' League.

Lynnfield Leaves Wayland Talking Of Past – 8-2

WAYLAND -- Lynnfield's League leaders simply whomped 'em.

The score was 8-2 and for the first time this season the Wayland Indians got behind in the lost column, 3-4, last Thursday.

And that looks like goodby championship this year for the team that's come out on top in Eastern Mass. five seasons out of six.

It was Bill Wilkinson's third successive loss, and the second in two days for Buzz Bowers' squad.

Cleanup hitter Doug Murdock gave Lynnfield a two-run lead in the first with a line single to center despite a one-bounce strike thrown by Ken Houghton trying to nail Charlie Meeker sliding hard at the plate.

Murdock made it 3 to 0 minutes later when he moved up on an infield out and scored as the Wayland rightfielder dove and dropped DeBella's fly after he and his second baseman had a mix up on their signals.

Wilkinson then settled down and pitched the "cute" game of his which made him so respected a year ago - sneaky fastball, sharp-breaking curve and change of speeds.

In the fifth, however, he lost his control with two outs and walked two, then wild-pitched them to 2nd and 3rd. Joe DeBella followed this with a poke shot to right-center scoring two runs. When Wilkie almost uncorked another wild pitch to Procurot, Buzz brought in lefty Tom Linnehan who pitched Wednesday against Weston.

Tom had the only extra-base blow, a double.

Bid to Erect High-Rise Buildings In Norumbega Draws Weston Fire

WESTON -- The New Newton is getting too close for comfort -- that is, if the commercial redevelopment of Norumbega Park goes through.

That, at least, is the view of the Weston selectmen who this week strongly objected the proposed multi-million-dollar apartment-office-and-motel development just across Rte. 128 from South Ave. in residential Weston.

Too sweeping a change bound to serously affect surrounding towns was the view in a nutshell.

Weston selectmen cited seven objections:

1 -- Inappropriate for the area; 2 -- apt to ruin adjacent neighborhoods; 3 -- increased traffic problem; 4 -- loss of natural beauties of river areas once and for all; 5 -- self-imposed "hardship" imposed by the petitioners; 6 -- adjacent communities should think twice about effect of their moves on one another; 7 -- no guarantee the plans will work out in practice as stated.

Actually, stated the board's letter:

"We are not certain that the project, as proposed, is commercially feasible or that it will ever be constructed as proposed . . .

"We see, therefore, a probable drastic change in plans eventually . . . The proposed development will be bad enough, but whatever it is changed to, and the probability of change appears to be great, may well be even worse."

In Newton, the proposition put forth by the Newton Crop. headed by Peter Kanavos, has drawn heavy criticism and support.

The proposal is before the rules committee of the Newton Aldermen and due for report sometime in early June. Part of the project, excluding some high-rise office buildings, have been approved by the planning board there.

The Weston Selectmen point out that in Newton it is argued that since the property is on the outskirts of Newton, it is all right. They argue:

"We believe that communities should consider the effect of such projects on neighboring communities and not from an isolated viewpoint.

"Taking the broader view, the project is in the middle of a semi-rural, private residential area comprised of that part of Newton and Weston."

The board also attacked the proposal to relieve a self-imposed "hardship". (Kanavos' Newton Corp. bought a controlling interest in the operation of Norumbega Park which has been in operating difficulties.)

Women's Society To Install May 18

WAYLAND -- The annual meeting and installation of officers of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Community Methodist Church of Cochituate will be held on May 18 at 8 in the church vestry.

Young women were taught to be "lady typewriters" at the Boston YWCA as early as 1880.

Weston PTA Honors 5,

WESTON -- Five teachers were feted, 11 seniors were panelists, next year's officers were elected, and the Weston PTA voted to join the national PTA.

All this took place at the annual PTA meeting last Thursday at the Country School, which also managed to include an exhibit of school art work sponsored by the Weston Arts and Crafts Assn.

PTA officers elected were: president Putnam Flint; vice-president, Mrs. Dudley B. Hartung; treasurer, John Fisher; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John C. Simons, Jr.; recording secretary, Mrs. Earl M. Harvey; parent director (3 years), Mrs. Philip Richardson; teacher director (3 years), Galen Green.

After years of resistance, the PTA capitulated and unanimously voted to join the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Highpoint of the evening was the award of engraved silver bowls to the five teachers who had taught the longest in the Weston public schools, the first award that the PTA has made to teachers.

Outgoing president Ralph Child made the presentation:

Mrs. Lucy Tinker, Miss Mildred Marble, John Proctor, Wallace Sawyer, and Mrs. Lena McGann.

Wayland Thanked For $2800 Push For Cancer Fund

WAYLAND -- Nearly $2800. was contributed by Wayland citizens to the Cancer Fund during last month's drive, Langford Anderson, Wayland chairman announced today.

Largest single item was $1,863.22 collected during a house-to-house canvass on a single Sunday.

Although total contributions of $2792.15 fell $707.85 short of the town's goal of $3500, Anderson was hopeful that absentee gifts, and late donations would bring the fund nearer the quota.

"I wish to express my sincere thanks to all contributors and to all members of the committee whose work made this fine showing possible," he said.

AUDUBON TEA -- Serving tea to Miss Charlotte Pain is Mrs. Francis Goodale at the Audubon Society open house Sunday at Drumlin Farm, Lincoln.

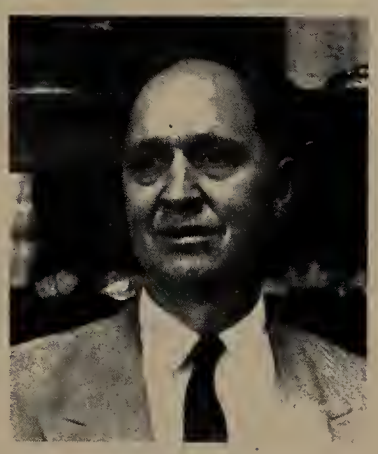
Audubon Reception Held For Weston Members

WESTON -- The Massachusetts Audubon Society held Open House for Weston members and their friends on Sunday afternoon at its Gordon Hall headquarters in South Lincoln. Members of the board of directors, officers, and staff were present to meet those who attended.

Coffee and sherry were served under the direction of Mrs. J. Herbert Lawson, and pourers were Mrs. Boardman Bump, Mrs. William A. Elliston, Mrs. Francis G. Goodale, and Mrs. Charles E. Mead.

There were beautiful flower arrangements in the reception hall, living-room and dining-room, by Mrs. Paul W. Redden Jr., and her committee, and the group of hostesses was headed by Mrs. Robert J. Haggerty.

There were fine exhibits made by capable Staff members, showing all phases of the Society's work in Conservation (preservation of green areas and wetlands); Education (natural history school classes, day camps, television program, the new magazine - "The Curious Naturalist" - for junior members, Hatheway School courses for adults, the Nature Counselors' Workshop, and the many activities at the Society's eight major sanctuaries); and research (radar-migration study, bluebird project, birds at Logan Airport, pesticide spraying, and other special studies).



Weston Students Get 'Rocks in Their Heads'

WESTON -- More than 40 members of the Weston Junior High School Science Clubs this week took a Weston-to-Nantasket trip for the purpose of studying geological formations in the New England area.

Commentator during the trip in a "sky view" bus was Dr. Caleb W. Wolfe, professor of geology at Boston University.

Dr. Wolfe, author of "Earth Science" which is used in the Weston eighth grade, gave a running commentary over the bus loudspeaker system during the trip. Principal item of interest on the trip was the great variety of earth and stone formations noted on the relatively short trip between Weston and Nantasket.

Subjects noted and discussed ranged from the glacial "earth moving" in the Weston area to the gradual yet continual erosion of the sea in the beach areas.

DR. CALEB W. WOLFE --

Three Weston science teachers who accompanied Dr. Wolfe and the pupils were Miss Mildred Marble, Mrs. Dorothy Mulroy and Mr. Robert Schoolcraft.

The Science Club Tour is one of several methods being used by Weston educators to supplement "classroom learning" with practical experience.

Wayland Troop Gives $100 to Scout Council

BOLTON -- Facilities at Camp Resolute will be expanded for the summer season thanks to those citizens who bought their Christmas trees from the Boy Scouts.

Troop 1 of Wayland, sponsored by the Scouters Club of the Junior Town House, has presented a $100 check to the Algonquin Council. The council operates and maintains the camp where many local boys enjoy a summer camp experience and frequent week-end training and fun hikes. The camp Director expects to use the money in the construction of a rifle range to expand the program.

Public Enemy No. 1 among fire causes is careless smoking and use of matches.

Weston Belts Bedford, 14-4

Weston -- Weston High slammed out 13 hits on the way to an easy 14 to 4 win over Bedford High in a Dual County League game last Thursday at Bedford. It was the fourth league win for the Wildcats.

Forbes McMullen and Ed Perkins, led the Weston attack with three hits each.

Buddy Foster, Ron Powers and Bill Rizzo had two safeties apiece.

The summary:

WESTON	205	043	0	- 14
BEDFORD	120	100	0	- 4

The Massachusetts Audubon Society says that the last passenger pigeon died in the Cincinnati Zoo in 1914, the lone surviving individual of a race that once occurred in such fantastic numbers that the flocks actually darkened the sun as they passed.

Waltham Hospital Group Plans Future Events

WALTHAM -- At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Waltham Hospital Associates plans for a plant and garden accessories sale were announced. On June 7th, African violets, roses, gay gardening hats and gloves will be among many items on sale. Mrs. Oscar Falling and Mrs. S. Maxwell Beal are co-chairmen of this event.

On March 20th representatives of the Waltham Hospital Associates will attend the annual meeting of the New England Hospital Assembly to be held at the Statler-Hilton Hotel. Delegates are Mrs. Ira Flaschner, Pres., Mrs. Robert Mable and Mrs. Paul Wentworth all of Waltham and Mrs. Ashely Farrar, Mrs. Arthur Nichols and Mrs. C. Francis Whittemore of Weston and Mrs. George Barrel of Wayland.

Included in the reports of various committee chairmen was the announcement by Mrs. John A. Skakle that the membership has now reached 731 the highest since 1957.

Civic Assn. Names Watchdogs To Check Boards

WAYLAND -- The Wayland Civic Assn.. thus far concerned with organizational differences, last week got down to business with the appointment of new officials to serve as town watch dogs.

Already, according to Mrs. Joanne McConnell, association secretary, queries as to future meetings of the school board and planning board have been answered and the association intends to follow up with a checkup program.

At the meeting of the new board last Friday at Wayland High School, the following were appointed to check up meetings of town boards:

Richard King, chairman of a school committee group; Paul Poirier, welfare board; Pauline Leland, selectmen; John Hoven, park board; Hugh Taylor, planning board; Robert Wells , finance board; Norman Ross, appeals board; Robert Beaumont, water commission.

Also, John Karman and Mary Keefe, urban renewal; Mrs. McConnell, board of health; Frederick Gersbach, road commissioners; John Chryssicas, conservation commission.

The chairmen will appoint alternates to attend meetings they do not have time for.

"The prime concern at the present moment," said Mrs. McConnell for the association, "is to pose the question of whether or not Wayland needs urban renewal.

"In the past eight or nine years, the town has eliminated many undesirable properties with a minimum of cost to the taxpayer and the least hardship to residents."

The association asks the public -- all over Wayland -- to attend the next meeting in June when a discussion of the pros anc cons of urban renewal will be held.

Dancing on Green

WESTON -- Dancing on the Green, in front of the Weston Town Hall, will be sponsored by the Women's Community League of Weston on Saturday, June 3 at 8 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the community service and scholarship fund.

The first Dancing on the Green for this benefit was held in 1949, although scholarships have been awarded to girls graduating from Weston High School since 1930. Over 100 girls have been helped in furthering their educations since then in various colleges of their choice.

Last year a total of $2500 was awarded to ten girls.

Other community services, such as camperships and donations to the Weston-Rombas group, also benefit from the sale of tickets for the dance.

Cambridge School Cops 2 Victories

WESTON -- Kit Lascoutx scored thrice in the rain to lead the Cambridge School of Weston lacrosse Griffins to a 5-3 home victory over Roxbury Latin last Friday.

Never behind, the Griffins utilized sharp passing to offset the heavy, rain soaked field, gaining their second stralght win in three starts.

On Tuesday, May 9, the baseball Griffins won their first game in three starts with a come-from-behind 10-6 victory over Bromfield School of Harvard on the strength of a strong 6 2/3-inning relief job by ace Roby Dolan.

IT HURT: Stop taking the Civil War as a "nice thing" to talk about. It hurt. Let's face it. Crier Columnist Howard Russell tells (PAGE 5) how that conflict struck home right here in New England.

A MEMORIAL DAY Special

KNOCKOUT BLOW -- This car snapped the power pole on Concord Rd., Wayland, Monday and knocked out power and phone service for an hour and a half in 30 homes. Woman driver was hospitalized.

Car Rams Pole, Woman Hurt,

WAYLAND -- A Natick woman was seriously injured and power and telephone service were lost to about 30 Wayland homes Monday afternoon when a car snapped a power pole on Concord Rd.

Mrs. Janet Richard of 80 South Main St., Natick, operator of the car, was taken to Leonard Morse Hospital in the Natick Ambulance Service ambulance. She is under observation for injuries to the head.

Wayland police officers John Brady and Fred Perry said it's unknown yet just what caused her to hit the pole as she was traveling in a southerly direction.

The accident occurred about 4:24 p.m. and power was lost for an hour and 38 minutes in about 30 homes in the area. Telephone service and the fire alarm system were also affected.

Wayland firemen were also called when a dangling power line provided a threat to passersby. The accident scene is just south of East Rd., about a half mile north of the center.

Fr. Linnehan to Survey Far Eastern Quake Problems

WESTON -- Weston's Fr. Linnehan is taking his specialized knowledge of earthquakes to a place where it will do the most good -- the Far East.

The Rev. Daniel Linnehan, S.J., director of the Boston College Observatory at Weston is leaving tomorrow to join a special U.N. team which will make a survey of earthquake problems in the area. The team will include two Russians.

Sponsor of the survey of earthquakes and seismic ways in that region is the Department of Science of UNESCO and the International Union of Geology and Geophysics.

He will return at the end of July.

Fr. Linnehan said "the loss of tens of thousands of persons in the Far East due to periodic earthquakes has at last resulted in somebody willing to do something about it.

"We shall make a trip to determine the problems, how the observatories in that region work, the seismo-geology and finally to draw up recommendations."

If this survey in the Phillipines, Indonesia, Bangkok, Singapore, Rangoon, Hong Kong and Tokyo works out, Fr. Linnehan told The Crier there will be a similar one undertaken in South America in

Kenya Student Wants To Study in Wayland

WAYLAND -- A Kenya youth, offering no special reason has applied for entry as a freshman to "Wayland Senior High School, Wayland, Messachnsetts" -- and school anthorities wonder what it's all abont.

The request of S. M. Mnmbe was read to School Board members Monday night. One thing is certain: there'd be no tnition involved. Bnt where wonld he stay? Pnzzled, board members referred the whole matter to the Wayland Fair Housing Practices Committee, and tackled less confusing matters.

Wayland, Cochituate Memorial Day Exercises Tuesday – All Day

WAYLAND -- Memorial Day Exercises in Wayland and Cochituate will be conducted Tuesday by the local veteran organizations at the North Cemetery and Lake View Cemetery in the morning at 9 and 10 a.m.

The annual parades will be held in the afternoon.

The parade in Wayland Village will start at the Town Hall at 1 p.m. and proceed to the South Cemetery for Memorial Services after which it will return to the starting point. The parade in Cochituate will form at Legion Hall and at 2:30 p.m. proceed over the following route: - Main St., East Commonwealth Rd., Pemberton Rd., Mitchell St. to St. Zepherin's Cemetery. After memorial services the parade will proceed over Mitchell St., West Plain St. to Legion Hall.

The Maynard Community Band, Wayland High School Band, Police, Firemen, Boy and Girl Scouts will participate in the exercises.

Claypit Gets 10-Rm. Addition Now; Loker Delayed; Meeting in June

WAYLAND -- A 10-room addition to the Claypit Hill School this year. That's the proposition the School Building Committee is asking of voters at a town meeting sometime in June -- probably the 14th or 21st.

The Building Committee wants to break ground for the $275,000 to $300,000 addition this fall, according to Chairman Allen Finlay.

Talk of two eight-room additions this year -- one to the Claypit Hill and the second to the Loker School -- are out. A double addition program this year was the general expectation at the March town meeting.

Finance Board Chairman Robert Morgan ruled out any possibility of a new school in North Wayland this year in a talk to the School Board Monday.

Just can't afford it, according to Mr. Morgan.

"The Emergency Finance Board has gone all the way with us and can't go any further," Mr. Morgan stated in discussing what has been one of the chief pressures on the school question.

"What is next?" he asked. "We are not in a position to borrow to build a new school. The town is heavily in debt. We are the fourth highest as to debt in the state."

The situation then is this:

--Opening of the Claypit addition in September 1962.

--Opening of an eight-room addition in Loker a year later.

--Additions to Happy Hollow, Cochituate (10 rooms) and the High School by 1964 or 1965.

Howling Cats In Judge's Lap

WAYLAND -- Briefs will be filed tomorrow in Superior Court (Cambridge) in Wayland's celebrated cat fight.

All evidence is in -- completed last Friday. And Judge James Vallely is expected to hand down a decision in the legal squabble sometime in the next week or 10 days.

Town Counsel Frank Kilburn represented the town in the court battle with the Ethel M. Gifford Sheltering Home Corp. which is trying to make the same move from the city to the suburbs that thousands have made. The issue is whether the building permit, since revoked, was legal and if so, could it be withdrawn.

Boy on Trike Takes Firemen

WAYLAND -- Don't mention 6245 to Wayland firemen. That's a loaded number having something to do with children's ingenuity.

Abont 9:33 a.m. Wednesday, May 17, Box 6245 on Three Ponds Rd. rang in. Firemen rnshed np. False. No one about.

Then at 11:06, 11:09 and 11:11 a.m. the alarm came in again -- the last one just as firemen rolled np to see.

One youngster, 3½, standing on his bright red tricycle and pulling away for all he was worth.

Turns out, he'd used the same ladder the first time. And his mother, all unaware had swept him up and hurried to a doctor's appointment, passing firemen on the way.

Firemen talked it over at home and reached an agreement, there'll not be a next time.

Weston Memorial Rites At Boulder Tuesday

WESTON -- Weston's formal Memorial Day Exercises -- held in recent years in Linwood Cemetery -- will be returned to the Memorial Boulder adjacent to Town Hall this year, it has been announced.

It is believed ceremonies held here can be more readily attended by townspeople.

Exercises will begin at 2 p.m. next Tuesday and will include the placing of wreathes at the Memorial Boulder, with a firing squad salute and the sounding of taps.

Chief speaker for the occasion will be Richard F. Lufkin of Medford, lecturer and authority on the War between the States and a member of the Massachusetts Civil War Centennial Commission.

In the event of rain, the formal part of the program will be held in the Upper Town House beginning at 2 p.m. This will be followed at 2:30 p.m. by the exercises at the Memorial Boulder.

Following the formal program, there will be a parade of all participating units through town and to the various cemeteries, where additional wreath-placing ceremonies will be conducted. The parade will be reviewed at the Town House upon its return.

Following this a concert will be given by the Weston High School Band on Town House Terrace. The

Weston to Haiti: Pupils Aid Pupils

WESTON -- During the past school term, pupils of the Weston Junior H.S. have "adopted" the tiny Trinity School of Port-au-Prince, Haiti.

It all started when Sister Superior Anne Marie of the Trinity School started sending the school's small pamphlets to Weston Junior High. The Weston students became interested in Trinity, particularly when they learned that the Haiti students had practically none of the conveniences which are "normal" to most Weston pupils.

Contact Chairmen In Grade 7H during the year have been: Caroline Wareham, Caroline Stone, Jill Clarke, Mary Lenox, Susan Pexton, Sarah Bartlett, Samuel Crocker, Wayne Osmond and Alan Peterson.

First project of the class was the gathering of much material, such as school supplies, playground equipment, toys and sewing supplies.

This was done, with the help of the entire class, and then came the really big problem!

The collected materials weighed so much that the students could not dig up enough money for postage to Haiti!

To solve the problem, Wayne Osmond contacted Alexander Bock, vice consul of Haiti, George Child and his father, Ralph W. Child, then delivered the collected material to the consulate and Mr. Bock arranged for the transportation to Haiti.

Miss Barbara Stiles, grade 7H teacher who has acted as top management in "Operation Trinity", states that the next "pupil lift to Haiti will probably involve medical supplies, as these have been mentioned most often in both English and French correspondence between the pupils of the two schools."

ELECTED -- Miss Nancy Zieler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wolfgang Zieler of 9 Snake Brook Rd., Wayland, has been elected president of Delta Nu Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa at Endicott Junior College, Beverly. Phi Theta Kappa is a national honorary society of junior colleges.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society says the man-of-war bird or magnificent frigate weighs only 3 1/2 pounds, but its narrow wings stretch 7 1/2 feet.

May 21-27 has been named "Vacation Planning Week, by Gov. Volpe, who calls attention to the tourist trade in the state's economy.

School Art Show At Weston Bank

WESTON -- The following Meadowbrook School of Weston students are exhibiting their art work at the Newton-Waltham Bank in Weston Center through Friday, June 2.

Grade 6: Christina Brooks and Karl Finison; grade 5: Nina Danforth, Harry McCarter and Pamela Wright; grade 4: Christopher Minot; grade 3: Owen Gray and Frank McCarter; grade 2: Karen Gordon and Deborah Ritter; grade 1: Susan Buckley, Thomas McDonough and Heather Menninger. The exhibit will consist of their paintings, woodcuts, sculpture and collage.

Weston Boosters Sponsor Track, Field Day Friday

WESTON -- Because of the great success experienced last year in this joint venture, the Weston Boosters and the Physical Education Department of the Weston High School under the guidance of John S. Proctor, director, again will have a Track and Field Day.

The Weston Boosters will make trophy awards for all the individual winners plus the donation of soft drinks and ice cream for all high school students.

The varius classes compete on a handicap basis, and in addition, winners of varius events are to receive individual recognition, including prizes for 1st, 2nd and 3rd place.

The Field Day will be held tomorrow with activities to begin at the High School about 12:30 p.m.

For the boys, there will be 10 events including individual competition together with miscellaneous relays and group team events. For the girls, there will be six events including individual competition and likewise for the girls there will be relays and team events.

This type of good sportsmanship was best described in the events of last year where the sophomore class won the school championship and their victory was determined by the last event, "THE TUG OF WAR" between the Junior and the Sophomore classes.

With the emphasis on physical fitness through the country, the Town of Weston is showing what they are doing about their children toward this cause.

It is hoped that parents, friends and students in the lower grades will attend, to help cheer on their heroes and make this a real big day.

Bits & Pieces

New Expenses all the time. Billions more for the space race, for arms, for housing, etc. Taxes already tight. People keep asking us (or intending to): where's the extra money going to come from?

Our answer is simple: Uncle Sam will just have to become a moonlighter.

Well now -- Democrats organizing in Weston? In Weston? Next thing you'll know someone will be putting tomatoes in clam chowder.

Now about this rioting in Alabama, the thing that concerns our pea-size brain is this: We'd better be careful up North: after all, them Confederates only have to turn those pads around at Canaveral and Huntsville and we've had it.

Oh yes -- HAS anyone seen Ozzie Garvey?

At the Weston Appeals Board hearing, this bright exchange:

E. Olsen Field, speaking for the Planning Board: "Well, the planning board figures the main thing to be considered in all cases is the amount of elbow room. Nothing more or less."

At this, Appeals Board Chairman Guy Garland looked up: "Well, THAT'S a change for the planning board."

Let's see, 365 days in most years. And do you know how many days of leisure some bright fellow figured out for you and me? 150 -- that's how many. This way:

There's 52 weekends -- 104 days. A minimum of two weeks vacation -- 10 days. At least a half dozen holidays -- 6. And an average of three hours of nothing-to-do for each working day -- 30 days.

What that slide rule whiz kid forgot, however, is the suburban garden, the suburban trip to the market (4-5 miles and two hours or more, depending on the wife's dexterity and decision-making powers). Also -- the concerts, the guided tours for Brownies et al. Then there's the madcap vacation. That's leisure? And whoever got out of a holiday without some housecleaning, unless he had a certificate from the doctor or agreed to visit the relatives?

Leisure? What's wrong here is that someone in authority slipped that chap with the slide rule an extra quota of nothing-to-do stuff. If that's what comes of leisure, maybe it's good he's so wrong.

Get 'Em at the Pass

Now don't go away. This concerns you. You know how often you wonder what's what in politics -- and what, if anythng you can do about it.

Well, we'd like to tell you a little story about the fast-fading Legislature that concerns you. And if we're right, you ought to be able to head them fellows off at the pass. Listen.

Just take three considerations:

1 -- The overhead power lines bill that whizzed through the Legislature and Gov. Volpe at the speed of light.

2 -- The planning district bill which died without its day in court.

3 -- The pressure on Gov. Volpe to speed this Legislature homeward -- pronto.

Take No. 2 first. House bill 1634 would have provided a metropolitan planning agency for 50 cities and towns surrounding Boston. Favored by all committees it passed through, it reached the Speaker of the House's desk on a busy day last week.

Suddenly as its backers watched -- and listened -- the Speaker's lips moved. The mike was dead. And -- so was the bill. Nary a vote.

House Speaker Thompson is a man who wants very much to be governor. He is a man who knows how to say no to anything he doesn't like . . . without caring about protocol.

Now, No. i. Nobody out in the suburbs wanted this bill to go through. Ugly lines in rural hideaways. Lack of home rule: no chance to protest to the state if a majority of towns favored a new power line. And you know how easy to rig the route of such lines.

This bill went through the Legislature so fast, no one was sure it was there. And it even seemed to bounce off the shins of Gov. Volpe who was asked by suburbia to stop it dead.

In the same connection, the bike law whizzed through in no time at all. No study. Full of holes. So bad that it was finally repealed -- almost as fast as it had been barreled through in the first place.

-- Now a metro planning agency is not a cure-all. But if we had one today, we might not be in the pickle Weston finds itself in, with Newton zoning a residential area on the edge of Weston into a commercial use. One town would cooperate more fully with another. Just remember that.

- Now then, the speed with which bills like the power lines and bike bills have been kicked through the Legislature and the pressure on Gov. Volpe to clean up his affairs promptly raise one interesting point:

This Legislature is under pressure from us. They know we didn't like their $1500 pat-on-the-back pay raise.

So this year, they have done everything possible to speed up their session. No finish-in-December-see-you-in-January session this year. Bad public image. So, even at the risk of having slipshod bills, get it over with -- fast. The public will never notice.

Well, whether you notice or not, is your business. If you didn't like the outcome of the bills cited, that may be reason enough to kick.

But if you also feel, as we do, that the Legislature as a whole is getting too, free and easy about our attitudes, maybe you'll want to drop them a line. Or wait and vote down that pay raise in November 1962. Take your choice.

Only as Good as Child

We couldn't agree more with Mrs. Philip Trumbull of Weston who wrote last week that bike safety begins with parents' impressing upon their children the risks of the road.

Bike safety is only as good as the child riding the bike. It isn't a toy. You can sue the adult who hits him but often as not you can't fully blame the grownup. Children must learn to take care of themselves . . . or take the (grim) consequences.

In Brief —

Congratulations to Thomas McBride, senior principal in Weston elementary schools. He has been appointed to one of six national advisory posts on a magazine for elementary principals . . . Also, to Paul R. Ignatius of Weston, chosen by President Kennedy to be Assistant Secretary of the Army for Installations and Logistics . . .

Note: copies of The Crier editorial last week on "Weston Is Not Alone" will be on the desks of Newton Aldermen this week. A Newtonite felt that strongly about it to bring it to the city fathers' attention. How about you? . . . Wayland Civic Assn. wants residents from entire town to join. Its fight so far has been against urban renewal . . .

Letters to the EDITOR

No More Than Duty Of All

To the Editor:

The Wayland Civic Association regards themselves not as "watch-dogs" of the town, but in reality public minded citizens seriously interested in every facet of our town government. Intelligent participation by every taxpayer should be the rule and not the exception.

Artile II of the Association By-Laws state: "The purpose of this Association shall be to bring about an awareness in the citizens of Wayland of their responsibility in the town government, and therefor, of their responsibility to temselves."

We would all be participating by attending the June 7th meeting of the Association at the Wayland High School.

Respectfully,
Joanne McConnell, Sec'y
for the Board of Directors
Wayland Civic Assn.

Ed Note - A point well-taken. And we hope more citizens of the town take you up on your invitation.

There's No 2 Ways To It

To the Editor:

Is it necessary for The Town Crier to make such blatant mistakes in spelling of single but important words as in the clipping I enclose. The word "too" has been misspelled in this same context in at least two issues of The Town Crier, indicating that this is more than a typographical error.

I may be old-fashioned, but I am sure that there are many readers like me who are losing their respect for a newspaper which makes grammatical and spelling mistakes. Inevitably a newspaper is in a position to set standards for the community. Already, someone in the post office has copied your spelling of the word "too". See the enciosed note I received today from the mail carrier about a package.

Sincerely yours,
Helen I. Emery

Ed. Note -- Thank you. We try too be careful but sometimes we get to slipshod. However, if you're reading our classified that closely, you've found plenty two be happy over.

Crier Follows Wherever He Goes...

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to thank you for your perserverence in regards to my subscription to the Town Crier. This subscription was given to me by Mrs. Theodore Bayles as a gift. As of late, my numerous addresses have been giving you somewhat of a headache I realize. Mrs. Bayles has sent you my newest address, and it is now arriving regularly once again. Actually I really missed it when it was being sent back to you in the mail. I find it enjoyable to read about the home town news. Once again thank you for your trouble, it is deeply appreciated.

NOW GO TO IT. -- Bill Ryder shows his son Jeff just how it's done. After that it's up to Jeff. Scene: Baldwin's Pond.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

You Can Teach Your Child to Fish

In this area the warm water fish seem to be most plentiful, and as a rule easier to catch, so probably the young fishermen will be less discouraged if he fishes where these are found.

By warm water fish we mean the bass, pickerel, bluegill, catfish (bullhead) and the white and yellow perch.

These fish live in Hurd's Pond, Baldwin's Pond and the Sudbury River - waters that get well above 70 degrees in the summer months.

Probably the best bait for a beginner is a garden worm or night crawler. Don't start a child fishing with tackle that is too mechanical such as a spinning reel - once they foul up the line on the reel an acute attack of frustration sets in which leaves little time for fishing.

Better yet, get a cheap fiberglas fly rod, about seven and a half feet long, and a simple fly reel ($2 for the reel and $7 for the rod).

Don't worry about a fly line at this time. Just use a spool of black nylon bait casting line. For hooks a single snell Eagle Claw, No. 6, should do. Sometimes you will want to use a bobber if the fish are feeding off the bottom, a cork will do for this, preferably a champagne cork as it is more fun obtaining these.

The bobber is more fun for a child to watch as he can see rather than feel the bites.

Place the bobber on the line so the hook hangs at the desired level beneath the surface, the hook can be six inches from the end of the line - and on the end of the line a small lead weight.

Thread the worm on the hook so that the point is covered up and cast out to an area where the water is four or five feet deep (don't get too far out as a child has trouble handling too much line).

When the fish bites, let him work on the bait for a while and the bobber will start to move off -- set back on the rod quickly, but not too heavily or you will snap the rod, then reel in the fish if he is hooked, if not check your bait and start in all over again.

Remember one thing, if you are caught with that rod in your hand by a game warden you'd better have a license (women's cost $3.25 and men's $4.25), and while you are picking up the license get a copy of the game laws as one of the most important things in teaching a child to fish is to teach him to obey the laws and become a good sportsman.

THERE ARE PLENTY OF FISHERMEN - BUT DARN FEW GOOD SPORTSMEN.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- Migrants continued to pour northward from May 10-17, with many reports of Baltimore orioles, rose-breasted grosbeaks (6 males, 2 females coming to feeder - Smith), wood thrushes, veeries, catbirds, and warblers; and the following additions to last week's list: great crested flycatcher (Hayes, Pooler, Smith); ruby-throated hummingbird (Van Huysen, 3 together); Swainson's (olive-backed) thrush (Hayes); red-eyed vireo (Smith, Hayes); golden-winged warbler (Smith & Martell); black-throated blue warbler (Lawson, Hayes); black-burnian warbler (W. Lawson); blackpoll warbler (Lawson, Smith); prairie warbler (Lawson); scarlet tanager (Smith, Hayes , Morse); and indigo bunting (P. W. Smith, and Conway, Wayland).

A pair of broad-winged hawks is being seen regularly at Linwood Cemetery (W. A. Martin); a sparrow hawk was reported by Mrs. H. B. Atkins on May 10; the Iceland gull appeared again in May 10 at the Duck Feeding Area, and 1 adult and 2 immature great black-backed gulls were seen on May 16 (Koe); a pair of belted kingfishers is nesting in a gravel bank near the Weston College Pond (Smith & Martell); a black-backed three-toed woodpecker was seen by Miss R. McKenna on May 6; Mrs. R. M. Hills heard a whip-poor-will on May 10; and the first report of a wood pewee came from Mrs. L. W. Hayes on May 17.

A pair of bluebirds is carrying nesting material into a bird-box at the Woodland School (Terkelsen); mockingbirds are at the Arnold Arboretum (male singing) -- Drapers; and the partial albino male rufous-sided towhee seen by Mrs. S. E. Bissett last year has come back.

There was only a single report of evening grosbeaks -- a female on May 13 (Mrs. J. H. Lawson). Does anyone have a later date than this? C.E.S.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Civil War Bled Small Towns of N.E.

By a good many writers on New England, it has been considered a smart thing to speak patronizingly, almost with a sneer, of the Civil War memorial statues which stand in the centers of so many of our country towns.

Neither Weston nor Wayland has such a statue, but you will see one at the center in Sudbury. And in many a little rural village all over New England, on a pedestal, chiseled in granite or marble, stands the figure of a Civil War volunteer in his great-coat and visored cap, peering out across the village common, or over the flag-decked graves in the soldiers' lot in the graveyard.

Few such Civil War statues are great conceptions (the only truly impressive sculpture to soldier dead of any war that I know of in this vicinity is the brooding female figure at the village crossroads in Sherborn). Yet as we approach Memorial Day, in this centenary year of the Civil War's beginning, they deserve more than a transient thought.

For these figures in stone represent the deep desire of the simple country dwellers of the last century to record for all time the most momentous event of their lives, the greatest tragedy that these little towns had ever known, at least since King Philip's War in 1676.

Died of Wounds

Though I had grown up watching Memorial Day parades of Grand Army veterans in blue, with soft black hats, the depths of this tragedy never fully became clear to me until some duty took me one day into Acton's town hall. There on the wall was a marble slab. Chiseled into it, one above another, were the names and regiments of the Acton men who helped Grant and Sherman win the war, but who never came back: boys of 16, men in the late forties, a startlingly long list for a small farming town such as Acton was in the 1860s. "Died in battle"; "died of wounds"; "died in Andersonville Prison."

Deaths in neither of the so-called Great Wars of this century reached anything like the same proportions, heavy as our losses were. In Weston, the Civil War dead numbered 12 out of 126, or one in ten; in Wayland 13 out of 73, more than one in six; in a larger town such as Bristol, Conn. (3500 population), 54 of 295; over one in six. By contrast, in the first World War of this century Bristol's dead numbered only one in 33. Of the best blood in the North, 360,000 men were wiped out in four years, besides all the crippled and permanently ill. Moreover, after the war was over, other scores of thousands turned their faces to the Great West. From this double blow town after town, especially in Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine, has never made recovery.

In the South the disaster was much greater: 258,000 dead and 200,000 wounded from a total white population of 5,500,000, only slightly larger than that of this state of Massachusetts today. Says Professor Allan Nevins, "One Southern male out of 10 of all ages died in the conflict, and... to a great extent the best tenth." For both North and South, the best were usually the quickest to volunteer, and of these, four bloody years took a deep toll.

The South saw much of its physical wealth in ruins also. When I was 21, I visited the famous Shenandoah Valley, the "rich Valley of Virginia", as I had so often heard it called. It amazed me not to find a house in miles that could compare with the comfortable dwellings of the ordinary farms in the stony New England countryside. Where was the wealth I had heard of so often? Slowly the reason came to me: the armies of both sides, surging back and forth only a half century before, had destroyed everything but the land; and the loss had then not yet been renewed. Wealth in men, wealth in property "gone with the wind"; the furrows of human talent, which had so enriched the first century of our country's life, sown with salt, and barren for generations after.

So Memorial Day in this hundredth anniversary year of the beginning of that great conflict between brothers is a time for thought. Read your fill of the books that describe the clash of ideas and ideals which drove our states into bitter division; renew your memory of Abraham Lincoln, and of the great figures on each side whom the deadly contest churned to the top. Retrace the names, the regiments and the fate of those who are commemorated in their death on soldiers' monuments, and by the innumerable little flags over their graves.

Then be glad, with a sober gladness, that their sacrifice a century ago left us a united nation; and with Lincoln, resolve that these honored dead shall not have died in vain: for our nation's duty has yet to be completed, as all of us must now confess.

Scouting in Weston - 10% of Town In on It

By HARRY PATTERSON

WESTON -- In May 1938, the Boston Evening Transcript ran an article which started off by stating that Scouting in Weston had "come of age".

And it was literally true. The first troop of Weston Boy Scouts had been started, in a very modest way, in the old First Baptist Church, in 1917.

"The story of the struggles in those early days," said the Transcript, "when meetings were held in church parlors, in houses, in barns and schools, and the unwritten story of the Weston Scout House that is now projected after 21 years is a study in contrast and a challenge to every community."

Names of many of the early leaders of Scouting in our town will be familiar to Weston's "Old Timers" - Dr. Joseph E. Perry; Arthur F. Johnson; Edward P. Ripley; Frank W. Knowlton; Rodney G. Clarke; Harold W. Mosher; Harold G. Travis; Winfield Scott; William R. Dewey Jr.; Walter Dunham; Daniel Kennedy; Joseph Kohler; William O. Kenney; David A. Perry; Raymond B. Bidwell; Walter Trumbull; the Reverend Miles Hanson Jr.; Benjamin Whitney; Wilmot Whitney; Herbert E. Tyler; Brenton H. Dickson Jr.; Francis Pooler; Gilbert Upham.

Scouting "slowly subsided in the middle twenties for no good cause except, perhaps, growing pains, or the transition from old to new leaders. But...in 1927, Scouting for boys came back to stay."

And Girl Scouts, too, came into being with the formation, in 1918, of Weston's first troop. Miss Helen Roberts was captain, and Miss Edith Perry, daughter of Weston's pioneer Scoutmaster, was lieutenant.

Soon a second troop was assembled and a community committee was organized which quickly grew into a registered council, with Mrs. Philip Spaulding as its first chairman. She was succeeded by Mrs. Elmer Forbes.

Mrs. Edward P. Ripley became commissioner in 1924, and was succeeded in 1931 by Mrs. David M. Kellogg and, some years later, Mrs. Arthur Grannis Jr., assumed the office.

April 27, 1938, was a real red-letter day for the boys and girls of Weston - for on that date not only did Secretary of State Frederick W. Cook sign the charter, prepared by Oscar A. Schlaikjer, of Weston Scouts, Inc., -- but Miss Louisa M. Case signed a deed conveying to Weston Scouts, Inc., a lot of land containing 40,000 square feet, lying between Wellesley and School Streets.

On that land now stands the trim, white Weston Scout House.

Weston Scouts, Inc. continues as a charitable organization "to provide suitable headquarters for boys and girls of Weston taking part in the Boy Scouts of America and Girl Scouts of America, Inc."

It not only owns and maintains the Weston Scout House, but regularly makes contributions as requisitioned and needed by various Boy Scout troops for the erection of cabins at various sites on Nobscot Hill and elsewhere. Its revenue comes from dues and generous gifts from the annual rummage sale.

Two-hundred- and- twenty-two boys and 87 adults are actively engaged today in Weston Boy Scout and Cub Scout pursuits. The roster of Senior Girl Scouts, Intermediate Girl Scouts and Brownies is 356; 118 adults serve as leaders, assistant leaders, members of the Council and of the Troop Committee. In all, nearly 10 percent of the town's population takes part in Scouting.

Truly, in our Town of Weston, Scouting today is "big business" - and a wholesome, healthful "business" it is -- helping our youth to grow up to be more conscientious and valuable citizens -- making a very real and recognized contribution to the community's strength, unity and progress.

Cub Scouts Do Duty to Put Strawberry Festival Over

WAYLAND -- Many Hands make light work! Cub Scouts of den 3, Pack 51, lend a helping hand this week by stringing Strawberry Festival Tickets.

All is now in readiness for the house-to-house canvass, according to Mrs. Gus Masiello, overall ticket sales Chairman.

She will be assisted by Mrs. John Arnold and Mrs. Kenneth LeBaron, who with the 115 ticket captains geographically distributed throughout town, will make a personal effort to insure everyone the opportunity to secure tickets for the most exciting Festival of all, on June 17 at the Wayland High School.

Children under 5 may attend free. Youngsters between 5 and 11 may get in on the fun for 35 cents. Tickets for those 12 and older will be 75 cents.

Plans now made point the way to a fun-packed day for the family. The Festival will be under way at 3 with a multitude of games, old and new, to delight the kiddies.

The family eat-out pantry will be well stocked with contributions. Ted Sanella and his band from Lexington will call the tunes for square dancing, family style, 7 to 8:30 when the Strawberry Festival Queen will be crowned. Dancing for adults will continue until midnight.

Wayland GOP To Meet June 3

WAYLAND -- George Deverell, chairman of the Wayland Republican Town Committee states that the Committee is sponsoring a buffet dinner and dance to be held at the Sandy Burr Country Club on Saturday June 3, 7:30 to midnight.

A six-course buffet style dinner will be served and Alex Hayner and his orchestra will furnish the dance music. Tickets may be obtained from Emily Blair, Old Sudbury Rd., Wayland, EL 8-2575 and tables can be reserved for parties. This is the year's social event of the committee and all are welcome, no speeches, just fun.

Weston Arts & Crafts Show June 1, 2

WESTON -- The Second Spring Annual Exhibition of the Weston Arts & Crafts Assn., will be held at the Jones House Barn June 2, 10 to 5, and June 3, 10-10.

Entries will be received at the Barn June 1, from 10 to 3, and picked up on June 4 between 1 and 3.

It is necessary to limit paintings to two per artist, and two per artist for any of the other graphic arts, with no limit on the number of crafts submitted.

Graphics should be suitably framed for hanging, with name and title firmly attached to back. Crafts also should have the name of the craftsman on the piece. There will be a charge of $2 to exhibitors who are not members of the association. All who work or reside in Weston are eligible for membership, including young people between the ages of 13 and 18.

Methodists Bake Sale At Shoppers World

WAYLAND -- Apple, cherry, pecan, blueberry, rhubarb, lemon meringue -- name it, and you'll find your favorite pie at the Simple Simon Pie Booth. The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Community Methodist Church in Cochituate is holding its sale Saturday at Shoppers' World Charity Festival in Framingham.

The chairman of the group arranging the sale is Mrs. David Berg, with Mrs. Robert Sutherland, promotion chairman. The telephone committee includes Mrs. Robert Hatton, Mrs. Herbert Schleicher, Mrs. Roy Mims, and Mrs. Dayton Nelson.

Pies from the church's best bakers have been promised. Treat your family to homemade pie for the holiday weekend.

Marion Rumpel

WAYLAND -- Funeral services for Mrs. Marion J. (Ross) Rumpel of 1 Happy Hollow Rd., who died Saturday at the Leonard Morse Hospital following a brief illness, were held Monday from the Gibbs Memorial Funeral Home followed by a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Ann's Church, at 10.

A native of Newton, she was the daughter of the late Ronald J. and Catherine (McLean) Ross and has lived in Wayland for the past nine years. She was president of St. Ann's Guild; Regional Director of the National Council of Catholic Women, a member of the Wayland League of Women Voters, and was active in the Wayland Girl Scouts.

Surviving are her husband, Eugene K. Rumpel of Wayland, a son Eugene K. Jr. of Boston, a daughter Miss Katherine M. Rumpel of Wayland, three brothers William J. Ross of Needham, Paul A. Ross of Wellesley, and Colin C. Ross of Palo Alto, California.

The mass was celebrated by Fr. William P. Castles, pastor. Fr. Birmingham was deacon, with Fr. Buckley as subdeacon. Mrs. O'Callaghan was soloist and organist. Interment was in the family lot in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Right is might, and ever was, and ever shall be so. August W. Hare

Letters To The Editor

Just Go Slow . . . a Bit:

Kids Don't Think That Well

To the Editor:

The feuding, fussing and fighting that has come about in the Hayward Road, Sylvan Way, Lundy Lane, and White Road neighborhood has certainly grown out of all porportions at this point.

First of all, let's get a few facts straightened out:

1. We do not blame all the people on White Road and Lundy Lane for all the speeding. There are quite a few on Sylvan Way that need to slow down too.

2. The article that appeared in the May 11th issue of The Town Crier was not written by any of the "Mothers of 28".

3. We do not expect anyone to go 5 MPH in the neighborhood, but we do expect everyone to obey the speed signs which were put up. These signs were put up for the purpose to remind people to slow down that there are many, many children in this area. We do feel that these signs should be obeyed by everyone. In the May 18th issue of The Town Crier on Page 8 it says and I quote:

"Chief Damon presented a map indicating all the present speed regulation signs in the town and it was noted by all present at the meeting that additional signs warning motorists to drive carefully were needed in many areas.

" 'There has been one accident a week for the past four weeks involving a pedestrian and a motorist,' commented Selectman George Lewis. Town residents were advised to apply for speed limit signs on their streets if they thought them necessary. This may be done by securing an application at the Town Hall and having it signed by two or more applicants."

Please note we have abided by these rules and have had the signs put up.

4. We are trying to teach our children to keep off the street.

Most of the children in this area have bikes of one sort or another. We do have the problem of small children darting out of blind driveways and off their own lawns into the street, which children everywhere do at one time or another.

I do not know of any mother in this area who is telling her children to go out and play on the street, which seems to be what some of the people think we are doing.

5. It is a shame that most of the criticism has gone on the Douglases on Hayward Road for they are not the only ones who are concerned with the speeding cars.

All we ask is that everyone obey the signs put up. WE DO NOT WANT YOU TO GO 5 MPH. That is most ridiculous. If everyone on White Road, Lundy Lane, Sylvan Way and Haywood Road would obey the signs, then there would be no problem at all, and maybe we would end up as, and I quote the May 18th Letter to the Editor, "The Ideal surburban community".

Thanks for Your Efforts

To the Editor:

Despite the many telegrams and telephone calls received by Gov. Volpe from citizens of Wayland, Sudbury, and many other interested communities, House Bill 2938 was signed into law.

This is a pity, as this bill further encroaches upon the rights of citizens and upon the principle of home rule by aiding a small group -- in this instance the electric utilities -- in over-riding the wishes of a large number of its own consumers.

The Wayland Committee Opposing Overhead High Tension Lines wishes to thank the many people who took the time and trouble to contact the governor and especially those people who devoted large amounts of time in making phone calls to encourage these calls and telegrams.

Our committee is working to develop state-wide support of legislation requiring underground installation of high tension lines. This will take time and effort. It is hartening to have such active support as the citizens of this town have given.

Weston, Wayland Nines Still Pack Big Punch

This Dual County League is getting awfully far away this year. Usually, we've sort of been keen about it. Close to home, so to speak.

Now the best we can find to say about it this year is that probably George Harris' Weston High Wildcats will end up in second place.

No one has seen Wayland High's champions this year. Someone said they went thataway. And we're disposed to believe it. A combination of bad breaks and close ones have turned Buzz Bowers' perennial champs into a second division club that probably will end up in the first division, right behind Weston.

(Lynnfield -- that's the name of the high school, that seems destined to walk off with the honors this year.)

Still, with all that talk, we think you'll find Wayland's and Weston's games well worth watching.

For instance, Bill Wilkinson's and Tom Linnehan's hurling is topnotch. And the team hits well... in spurts. But watch out for those spurts.

No use living in the past. Maybe Weston and Wayland will not be the top team this year. But we'd like to pass this inside tip along:

They're both going to be worth watching as they turn their skills loose in a wild scramble to get up there where they belong. And you can quote us.

Weston Rally Short Lynnfield Wins, 3-2

WESTON -- Almost but not quite. Weston High's Wildcats started a two run rally in the seventh but fell one short and lost to League-leading Lynnfield High, 3-2.

The big seventh started with Art King's single. Buddy Foster walked after Ron Powers grounded into a third-to-first double play. Mike McDonald walked, putting runners on first and second.

Forbest McMullen tripled to center field scoring Foster and McDonald but Frank Rizzo rolled out to end the game.

Weston pitcher Foster allowed only three hits but was the victim of poor defensive support. Two of the three Lynnfield runs, scored in the fourth inning, were unearned. Frank Stewart singled home Joe DeBella with what proved to be the clinching tally in the sixth. The summary:

				R.	H.	E.
Lynnfield	000	201	x	3	3	0
Weston	000	000	2	2	3	3

Lincoln-Sudbury Tops Weston, 4-2

WESTON -- Lincoln-Sudbury tripped Weston High last Thursday, 4-2. The summary:

Wayland Drops Holliston, 13-1

HOLLISTON -- The Wayland High School Indians - the tough part of their baseball season behind them - piled up a 13 to 1 victory at Holliston last Thursday.

The victory was led by southpaw Billy Wilkinson who posted his second victory of the Dual County League season on a three-hitter and Wayland's slugging catcher Al Arnold who had four singles in five trips and two RBI's.

The big catcher now has six hits in his last nine trips. He is 11 for 29 on the season, giving him a .379 average.

Tom Sullivan started for Holliston but went only one and two-thirds innings due to wildness, with Chuck Maitland taking over.

Wilkinson struck out 10 in seven innings and walked only two over the first six frames, giving up two more free passes in the last inning when Holliston scored its lone run.

Holliston was held hitless by Wilkie until Jake Hagan singled in the sixth.

Wayland right fielder Ken Houghton collected the only extra base hit, a double.

The summary:

WAYLAND	252 202 0-13
HOLLISTON	000 000 1-1

2 Wayland Students Get Certificates at Westbrook

WAYLAND -- Two local students have been awarded an evening school certificate credit card for completing course at Wentworth Institute Evening School in Boston, according to an announcement by H. Russell Beatty, Wentworth president.

The two students and courses completed are Anthony D. Leone, 192 Oxbow Rd., machine drafting; and Robert E. Sabean, School St., oxy-acetylene welding.

Weston, Wayland Firms Cooperate in TB Tests

BURLINGTON -- Two business firms in Weston and Wayland recently provided a chest X-ray service for their employees for the diagnosis of tuberculosis and other respiratory disease.

Participating in the X-ray project were the Raytheon Mfg. Co., Wayland Lab in Wayland and the Mass. Broken Stone Co., in Weston. Sponsored in part by the Middlesex TB Christmas Seal Assn., the unit screened more than 1050 employees of the two firms.

New! A way to get more roses, bigger blooms

The simple (and surprising) secret of more roses is—more leaves! To keep insects and disease from taking their heavy toll, Scotts has developed a remarkable single control for all common rose enemies. It is called HAZE.

To achieve complete HAZE protection on the tops and undersides of every leaf, Scotts has developed a revolutionary new applicator, called the ZEPHYR. It wafts an enveloping dry mist of HAZE upward, depositing an invisible film on the leaves.

See the new Scotts Rose Program products at our SUCCESS WITH ROSES display today.

Dr. Sherrerd Welles Named To New Sanders Assoc. Post

NASHUA, N.H. -- Dr. Sherrerd B. Welles has been appointed to the newly created post of corporate director of engineering and research for Sanders Associates, Inc., of Nashua, according to Royden C. Sanders Jr., president.

Dr. Welles will be responsible for technical coordination of projects in the company's three plants located in Nashua, N. H., Burlington, Mass., and Plainview, L. I., N.Y.

In his new position, he will direct the evaluation of long range programs, organize research activities, and direct the interchange of technical developments among the Sanders facilities governmental agencies, and the entire industry served by Sanders Associates.

Since 1958 Dr. Welles had served as technical assistant to the vice president in charge of research and engineering for Sylvania Electronic Systems. Prior to that he had been manager of the Missile Systems Laboratory for the same company.

In 1945 Dr. Welles was named Chief of the Radar Laboratory of the U.S. Air Force Cambridge Research Center, Cambridge. In 1948 he was loaned to the office of the U. S. Air Attache at the American embassy, London, England, as technical liaison officer. On his return to the Cambridge Research Center, he was appointed successively Chief of the Air Defense Office, Assistant Deputy for Systems, and Deputy Director of Eleltronics. In 1942 Dr. Welles joined the Radiation Laboratory of M.I.T. where he did research and development work in high powered radars.

A 1937 graduate of Yale University, Dr. Welles received his doctorate from Yale Graduate School in 1941. He did post-doctoral work in theoretical nuclear physics as a National Research Council Fellow at Cavendish Laboratory of Cambridge University in Endland. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi, both national honor societies, and of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

Dr. Welles, his wife and their seven-year-old son live at 101 Montvale Rd., Weston.

Faculty Frolics Tomorrow — Why Not You?

WAYLAND -- The Wayland Teachers' Assn. spectacular faculty review, Faculty Frolics, will be spotlighted at 8 p.m. this Friday and Saturday evening. The production, aimed at establishing a scholarship fund for a deserving Wayland High School senior has combined the artistic and histrionic talents of the entire faculty.

Featured among the acts are a mens' ballet, expert folk dancing, prestidigitation at it's deceptive best, a barber shop quartet and an old-fashioned melodrama. A jazz combo, bell ringers, dramatic readings and musical solos round off the varied program.

Tickets are $1.50 per person and can be purchased through representatives at each of the Wayland elementary schools, the Junior High Schol and the Senior High School:

Cochituate School - Mrs. Beverly Donohue; Claypit Hill School - Mrs. Eileen Smith; Junior High School - Miss Patricia Dalton; Happy Hollow School - Miss Pauline Natale; Loker School - Mrs. Carol Whitney, and High School - Henry Cotton.

Stone-Throwers Just Miss Trouble

WESTON -- Weston police broke up Sunday revelry by youngsters who decided to throw stones at passing B & M trains between Church St. and Conant Rd. last Sunday about 7:36 p.m.

No one was injured but police remind youngsters that throwing rocks at trains is a Federal offense -- not to mention the danger to railroad personnel.

Police report it was a bad week for jacket-wearers. A boy's jacket with three emblems and money in the pocket was found on the north side of town and a man's corduroy jacket and glasses were found on Conant Rd. Both can be picked up at the police station.

ANNOUNCING

An extraordinary Value Line Special Situation Report on an overlooked industry group where new developments have stimulated

EXPLOSIVE GROWTH

and in which we expect the

STOCKS' EARNINGS TO DOUBLE & TREBLE

The stocks herein brought to light are low-priced, now selling under $5 or $10, and they are undervalued in relation to the earning power about to develop.

"Explosive growth" is a phrase not often used by the Value Line organization. Nor is it ever used loosely.

For this overlooked industry-group — whose gross revenues are doubling every 4 or 5 years, the phrase "explosive growth" exactly describes the facts.

Until now, however, certain government policies just recently changed, have had a devastating effect on net profits for companies in this industry. Until now — and not surprisingly — the investment community has therefore virtually ignored this group despite its foreseeable key role in one of the nation's major industries.

But as the investment meaning of new developments becomes increasingly clear, we expect that public interest in these stocks will increase widely.

Should you decide to act upon Value Line's specific recommendations now, we suggest you consider a "package" of these stocks rather than any one of them. (Because most of these issues are low-priced, it is possible to purchase several of them — thus achieving the benefits of diversification — without an unduly large total investment.)

No stock can ever be free of some risk. But it can be said of these stocks that their prospective rewards far outweigh any risks that can be visualized.

GUEST SUBSCRIPTION

In conjunction with a special 4-week Guest Subscription, we will send you a Bonus without additional charge: the 20-page analysis of this long-neglected industry and its stocks, which describes these opportunities in full detail, with specific recommendations for action.

Under this offer, you will also receive, without additional charge, a copy of Arnold Bernhard's new book, "The Evaluation of Common Stocks" (regular $3.95 clothbound edition published by Simon & Schuster).

And for the special "guest" price of only $5 you will receive the next 4 Weekly Editions of the Value Line Survey with full page reports on each of 300 additional selected stocks in key industries.

SPACE FLIGHT -- Long-delayed hot air balloon ascension by Cub Pack No. 1 took place last Thursday at Happy Hollow School. Here, the balloon is ready for takeoff and cubmaster Francis Morse estimated that the three-minute flight reached a peak at 500 feet. Miraculously, Scouts say, the balloon was "re-cornered" . . . suitable for another flight soon. Ah, the space age.

Dancing on the Green June 3 Big Day in Weston

WESTON -- Saturday June 3, is the big day in Weston -- the annual Dancing-on-the-Green from 8 p.m. to midnight on the Weston town green.

This town social event, which will start with dinner parties, helps the Women's Community League raise funds for its year-round assistance programs.

Mrs. Robert Starmer, chairman of the affair, listed some of these as:

Sending a child to the United Nations, support for the Community Chorus, Weston-Rombas, sending a child to summer camp, supplies for town nurse, choir robes for high school, $100 annual award to an outstanding Weston High graduate.

Tickets at 75 cents have been distributed by Mrs. Robert J. Haggerty, chairman of the town-wide ticket sale. Seven area ticket chairmen will distribute tickets to some 70 ticket captains all over Weston.

In case of rain, the dance will be held in the high school gym and dancing from 10 p.m. to midnight will be limited to adults and high schoolers. Charlie Baldwin is the caller.

8 Late Residents Of Weston Honored

WESTON -- Tribute has been paid to 8 late residents of Weston through memorial gifts to the Massachusetts Heart Association's Greater Boston Chapter during the past four months, it was announced this week.

Charles A. Gates, executive director of the metropolitan-area heart chapter said: "It is heartwarming that the people of this community along with thousands of others in Greater Boston, have chosen to remember their departed friends and relatives in a way that will bring comfort to the living, and even those not yet born.

Living memorials have been received to honor the following late residents:

W. Robert Cowan, David Gould, Clarence Nickerson, Horace B. Perry, Mrs. Pexton, Victoria Standish, Robert E. Walsh, John A. Whittemore.

Brief announcements of local interest are welcome. Right to edit all published material is reserved by the paper.

That part of an advertisement in which a typographical error occurs will gladly be reprinted but no financial responsibility for such error is assumed by the paper.

Patrolman Hurt As Car Hits Pole

WAYLAND -- William H. Johnson of 646 Grove St., Newton Lower Falls, an MDC patrolman, was injured when his car struck a telephone pole Monday about 10:39 p.m. about 100 feet west of Old Tavern Rd. on Rte. 30.

Mr. Johnson told Officer Fred Perry he was blinded by headlights.

He was taken to Leonard Morse Hospital in the Natick Ambulance and treated for injuries to the chest, a cut on his right knee and four stitches taken near his mouth. The front end of his car was extensively damaged.

Weston Girl Bitten by Dog

WESTON -- An 11-year-old Weston girl was treated at the Outpatient Department of Waltham Hospital for multiple dog bites.

The Arrowhead Rd. girl required three stiches to close a neck gash inflicted by a dog. She also suffered bites on her throat and arm.

Weston Police to Teach Bike Safety For Children, Parents on June 10

WESTON -- Bike safety will be driven home to Weston youngsters -- and parents -- at a special Weston Police Bike Safety Skill Program Saturday, June 10.

Trophies for the three best (that is, safe) riders in the 7-9 and 10-14 age groups, according to Officer Larry Tierney. The program begins at 9 a.m. at the Weston High School grounds.

Not content to police the children, Weston police invite parents to be present also for the bike checkup and instruction -- so the parent may see what his child may be doing wrong and himself correct it.

Police will offer three courses designed to show them how to handle a bike and to know proper signals.

District Attorneys Elect

CAMBRIDGE -- Dist. Att. John R. Wheatley of Abington has been re-elected president of the Massachusetts District Attorney's Assn. The election took place recently at Northboro at which time Registrar of Motor Vehicles Clement A. Riley was the guest speaker. Dist. Att. John J. Droney of Middlesex County was named vice president and Dist. Att. William T. Buckley of Worcester was elected secretary-treasurer.

Just One School Addition, Not Two

Committee thinking is this:

By using available funds, the town can pay for the construction of a new addition a year with a minimum of short-term borrowing.

Wayland's assistance formula with the state is 50 percent reimbursement.

This financial thinking is the key to the addition vs new construction formula.

The selectmen are expected to decide within a week on the date for the meeting.

All 5500 registered voters must be informed one week before the meeting.

Selectman Chairman Thomas Linnehan said he wanted to get a meeting called before vacations start -- preferably by June 21.

The building committee's report to the town meeting in March looked forward to two eight-room additions this year at Claypit and Loker but a continuing study of the school population made it possible to make a final decision at the last possible moment before calling a town meeting.

The critical period in the Claypit area is supposed to be at hand. Loker's population squeeze is not expected before 1963. By that time, if town meeting authorization has been received, the new addition will be under construction.

Because of the heavy blow to the tax rate by construction of so many new schools in recent years, it was felt that no additions should be made for the time being.

In keeping with Wayland's community-school policy (having one school, with its general purpose rooms, etc. serve for immediate area around), it was felt that bringing Claypit and Loker up to 20 or 24 rooms was best.

To go beyond 24 rooms, means additional administrative staff and general purpose space -- making for greater expense.

To keep these schools at less than 20-24 rooms while building another small school would be expensive also. Additional cost of administrative staff and general purpose room in the new school would run the cost up without maximizing the efficiency of the Claypit and Loker schools.

Methodist Women Install

WAYLAND -- The Annual meeting and installation of the officers of the Community Methodist Church's Woman's Society of Christian Service was held last Thursday at the church in Cochituate.

Mrs. Maurice Wheeler, president of Worcester District WSCS, led a devotional service preceeding the installation she had written especially for the occasion. Mrs. Robert Earl, president for the past two years, gave an exciting report of the many different activities in which these 119 women have engaged during the past year - including substantial contributions to missions, the local church, and other worthwhile activities - the money for which had been earned by catering, the Christmas Fair, sacrificial giving by members and a number of other small fund-raising affairs during the year.

Installed for the coming year were Mrs. Hallock Boutwell, president; Mrs. David Berg, vice president; Mrs. Garrett Van Siclen, secretary; Mrs. Ralph Cox, treasurer.

Secretaries of lines of work: Mrs. Warren Hayes, spiritual life; Mrs. Robert Earl, promotion; Mrs. Harrison Ware, missionary education; Mrs. Robert K. Jones Jr., children's work; Mrs. George Wilson, youth work; Mrs. Herbert Brannen, student work; Mrs. Edward Lee, supply; Mrs. Carlisle Scotland, literature and publications.

Mrs. Earl's services were recognized with a special membership in the Woman's Society, representing a substantial contribution to the mission work of the group, and with a past president's pin given by her executive board. Miss Joann Brown, retiring as promotion secretary, and now treasurer of Worcester District, was honored with the gift of a membership pin and a book.

Chairman of the evening was Mrs. Robert Jones, assisted by Mrs. Ernest Schleicher, Mrs. Lawrence Ekdahl, flowers, Miss Eleanor Walker, greeter, Mrs. Edgar Lawrence, refreshments - with Misses Marjorie Brown and Winifred Hallenbrook, Mesdames W. Scotland, F. Taylor, R. Mims, S. MacKenzie, aiding her.

The next event sponsored by this group will be their Simple Simon Pie Sale which will be held on Saturday, 9:30 to 5:30 at the Shoppers' World Charity Festival.

Three out of five drivers involved in fatal accidents are violating one or more traffic laws, warns the Automobile Legal Assn.

According to the Automobile Legal Assn. the first step in keeping automobile batteries properly charged is seeing that the generator is clean.

The Fire Prevention Committee of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Boston Fire Department, is planning a public education program during the month of April.

New Bike Law No Bike Law – It's Repealed

BOSTON -- Motorists can simmer down. With Gov. Volpe's signature last week, the new bike law became the bike-law-that-never-was.

It was repealed before one youngster could (legally) stick up his hand and tell his parent to stop.

The appealer, passed speedily at the urging of police and Registry officials, makes bike riders of all ages obey the rules of the road. They waver at their own risk now.

Living Memorials For 10 in Wayland

WAYLAND -- Tribute has been paid to 10 late residents of Wayland through memorial gifts to the Massachusetts Heart Assn., Greater Boston Chapter.

Charles A. Gates, executive director of the metropolitan-area heart chapter said: "The memorial gifts sent to the chapter are responsible for substantial research programs which have saved lives, and will continue to save lives. No finer way can be found to pay loving tribute to those who have left us."

Memorials have been received to honor the following: Anthony Bova, Joseph H. Decatur, Samuel Entin, Mrs. Marion S. Furbush, Charles King, Jesse G. J. Polk, David Matthews, Amelia Peterson, Mrs. Corrine Todd, Wayland.

The giant swallowtail is our largest North American butterfly. The female of this species often has a wing expanse of six inches.

Footsie, Anyone? -- Vokes Proves: Age No Factor

by ANNE HOCKING

WAYLAND -- "My, my, my!" With the opening of Robert McEnroe's The Silver Whistle Friday at that cradle of culture and courage The Beatrice Hereford, Vokes has again defied the admonition "act your age". But this time with more daring than you might have thought prudent had you been consulted in advance.

To turn back the clock with the aid of cosmetic artifice is one thing -- we've all been young once and youthful attitudes linger on call; but to advance it a score and more decades, that does take courage -- and to do it with more than passable success, imagination. Granted the author supplied the tune and with it the impetus, but in this particular play with this particular cast the major burden of creativity fell upon the players and/or their director, Joyce Bertelsen.

The play in brief concerns the plight of six old sets of bones left to mildew in despair and Scotch Whiskey in the lifeless garden of an old folks home under the tender eye of a maiden past her bloom.

But soft . . . enters hope in the guise of a spiritual conman spouting the Rubyiat and peddling love potions. Not much profundity -- but who wants it when footsie can look like fun at 80?

Dick Ober as the savior of sorts, though new to Vokes, obviously showed signs of experience elsewhere, while Albert Strow (a neophyte, I'm told) gave no indication of needing it. He and Susi Reade cast as the amorous never-say-die types, Mr. Beebe and Mrs. Sampler proved without doubt that "love is not a question of age, but of aptitude".

I'm still not quite prepared to forgive Proxie Smith as the piously pouting Mrs. Gross for resurrecting my great Aunt Sarah with such fidelity but as there are no alcoholics dangling from my family tree there was no offense taken at Mary Ann Wolfe's skillful projection of one. These roles can be an embarrassment.

Carol Powning as the dyspeptic Mrs. Hanmer -- sheer delight and Mr. Cherry, arthritic but game well handled by Bill Lewis.

It's never easy to play the straights in these character setups but Ken Jones as the bloodless ecclesiastic and Bonnie Grey as the maiden guardian managed well. Bonnie was, as usual, a warm breath of loveliness - perhaps a trifle too lovely under the circumstances.

Fran Fisher, Ken Newbert, Jack Ladensack, Greg Wolfe, Dean Hocking and Monty Stedfast all made sporting corributions in their minor roles.

Vokes to Present Children's Plays

WAYLAND -- Vokes Players will sponsor the production of a childrens' play this summer. The play, directed by Mrs. Philip Bassett, will be produced during July. Performances will be given during the first week of August.

This Vokes childrens' production will be open to all children in Wayland, and to children of Vokes members only, outside of Wayland from grades 6 through 8.

Registration will be on Thursday, June 29, at 10 at the theater. Meetings and rehersals will be on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings during July 9-11:30. There will be a $1 fee.

There will be opportunities for 30 children to take part, not only in acting, singing, and dancing, but in all the aspects of play production including costumes make-up, sets, props, and stage crew.

Town House Expanding Its Summer Program

WAYLAND -- The Wayland Junior Town House has announced a greatly expanded summer recreational program for all Wayland youth of school age, July 10 through Aug. 4 (Monday through Friday), 9 a.m. to noon.

Site is Wayland High where such advanced facilities as the mammouth field house, the picturesque Little Theater and tennis courts will add considerable fun and excitement.

The program this year breaks into two groups. For the first time activities are being conducted for students who will be in grades 6 through 12 next September. In addition, there is a revitalized July Adventure program for students, who, next September, will be in grades 1 to 5.

All activities are being conducted by fully qualified professional educators.

This greatly expanded summer fun program is paid for in part by the Wayland Junior Town House and in part by the parents. Although many specific activities are being offered the Committee reports it is essential they maintain flexibility and adjust to the peak interests of the students if the situation warrants it.

One of the standout activities being offered Junior High and High schoolers is "Wayland Summer Theater" ...professional instructions in all phases of the theater, culminating in a stage presentation at the Little Theater.

In addition, the 6 - 12th graders can participate in the "Sports Jamboree" comprised of softball, baseball, basketball, volley ball, high-jumping and other track events, etc. Separate programs are offered for Junior High and High School groups.

The older children can also take advantage of tennis lessons (12 half-hour lessons for $10) and/or archery lessons (10 half-hour lessons for $8). Students provide their own rackets, bows and arrows.

The new July Adventure for children grades 1 through 5 will feature dramatics, sports, arts & crafts, painting, dancing and music.

Weston JHS Stages 2 Plays on June 2

WESTON -- The Junior High Dramatic Club of Weston will present two one-act plays at The Country School Friday, June 2, at 8 p.m. The first play will be an adaptation of Robert Louis Stevenson's "The Black Arrow". Major parts in the production will be played by: Martha Castillo, Earle Thomas, Craig Randolph and Mike Doherty.

At intermission time, Wayne Tucker will give a humorous monologue. The second play will be a mystery-comedy, "The Mystery of the Locked Room", by Leroma Greith. Stage Manager for the production is Stuart Ervin. Costumes are under the direction of Susan Waters and Star Bright. Principal characters in the cast include: Pamela Perkins, George Child, Steve Mallet, Eleanor Whittemore, Betsy Crawford, Fred Ewers, Ken Taber and Cheryl Johnson.

Usherettes, who will be wearing their own costumes, are eighth grade members of Miss Sutherland's sewing classes.

Tickets for the program may be reserved by calling th Weston Junior High School office: TW 3-4152.

Swifts in Mesopotamia have been timed at the almost incredible speed of 200 mph.

Howard L. Barry

COCHITUATE -- Howard L. Barry, 61, husband of Elizabeth F. (Gibson) Barry of 15 Shawmut Ave. Ext., died Saturday at the Leonard Morse Hospital.

A native of Cochituate, he was born Oct. 27, 1899, a son of the late Suther A. and Bertha J. (Taylor) Barry. He was a member of the Framingham Order of B.P.O.E. and the Walcott Lodge NEOP of Framingham.

Besides his wife he is survived by a daughter Mrs. Barbara, wife of Charles Masterman of Southville; a brother Kenneth of Natick, a sister Mrs. Elsie M. Legee Glendora, Calif. There are also two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday in the Gibbs Memorial Funeral Home, with Rev. Robert K. Jones Jr., pastor of the Cochituate Methodist Church officiating. Interment was in Lakeview cemetery.

Swim, Anyone? Go Ahead – at Your Own Risk

WAYLAND -- Go ahead and swim . . . at your own risk.

The Board of Selectmen and the Park Commissioners disposed of the Parkland Dr. parking problem and the popularity of the town beach in one move.

Eager college students and others looking for a day in the sun on the town beach can have it -- at their own risk -- until the beach opens after school is out later this month.

But beach users will not be allowed to jam-pack Parkland Dr., as they have been doing, with their cars.

The solution: open the beach gate and post signs: use the area at your own risk. No lifeguards for now.

The problem arose from so many college students dropping by and, finding the 150-car parking lot blocked off, parking their cars on both sides of Parkland Dr.,

So go ahead and swim (or whatever) but don't say we didn't warn you.

THE SPY: Eyes on the passing parade is Ben Haydock, peering over his father's (Robert Haydock Jr. of Weston) shoulder. Memorial Day is an adventure. (Bradford Photo)

That Old Voting Habit Forces Weston to Split

WESTON -- Proof that Weston is no longer a small town in the country: with voter approval next Fall there will be two voting districts to ease the strain in state and national elections.

The dividing line: Rte. 20, including the bypass.

North of this line would be Precinct 1 with 2162 registered voters and 2307 voters in Precinct 2, south of the line.

This proposal has been made by the Board of Selectmen subject to the approval of a town meeting which, according to Executive Secretary J. Ward Carter, would probably be called early next Fall.

If approved then, it would become effective in November 1962.

Traditionally, Weston has been an election-conscious town: 95 percent of the registered voters cast their ballots last Fall, for example.

But conscientious voting can have its drawbacks: last Fall the single voting place at the Town Hall could not handle the crowd easily. Many stood in line for more than an hour to cast their

$24,000 Garbage Pact OK'd

WAYLAND -- Garbage will be collected on time in Wayland -- at $24,000 a year.

Unanimously, the Boards of Selectmen and of Health voted Wednesday, May 24, to award the contract to Robert Starrett of Mendon at that rate.

Previously, they had rejected Mr. Starrett's $26,000 bid which represented a jump of $7500.

Selectman Chairman Thomas F. Linnehan said Capello Bros. of Newton had also bid $24,000 at the May 24 meeting but the boards had decided that Mr. Starrett's work had proved satisfactory and he was awarded the contract.

Urban Renewal Foes Arming For Killing at Town Meeting

WAYLAND -- Never say die ... unless of course it's the other fellow who's dying. Opponents of urban renewal here are carrying the fight to the special town meeting.

One of the articles demanded by 100 or more petitioners requests voters to throw out the urban renewal authority voted in by voters in the 1960 town meeting.

This is a continuation of a fight that has culminated -- until now -- in the formation of the Wayland Civic Assn. and its subsequent efforts to find a way to eliminate the new town board.

No efforts have been made as yet by the board to set forth a plan detailing renewal plans for the town as a whole. The entire subject is under study and at a meeting in April it was stated that no big decisions could be expected for another year.

It has been the strong suspicion, however, of residents in the Dudley Pond area that several spots in that area were slated "for elimination." This led to the formation of the Wayland Civic Assn. composed almost entirely of residents of this one section. Subsequently, it has declared an unofficial war on the renewal authority.

Town Meeting June 21

WAYLAND -- The special town meeting to decide on the $275,000 to $300,000 10-room addition to the Claypit Hill School, will be held Wednesday, June 21, at 7:45 p.m. at the Wayland High School Field House.

This was determined by the Board of Selectmen last week. The session will also weigh a proposal to sell certain secondhand property of the Highway Department and whether or not to eliminate urban renewal anthority in Wayland, according to Selectmen Chairman Thomas F. Linnehan

Housecleaners By Day Run Into Trouble on 'Night Shift'

WESTON -- Habit is a funny thing. This trio from Boston are housecleaners by day -- and now they're accused of being housecleaners . . . by night.

It happened this way last Friday night:

Weston Officer John Clark stopped a car on North Av. as part of a check on an escapee from Concord thought to be heading that way.

Turned out the lone occupant Thomas O'Leary of Parker St., Roxbury, didn't have a license. Off to the station for questioning where police learned that O'Leary had let off two companions, fellow housecleaners, to pick up some extra cash from the Scofield Gift Shop on Rte. 117, Lincoln.

Weston police rushed back and sure enough, there were O'Leary's two friends, Robert C. and Ora Margeson of Jamaica Plain. Robert was quickly rounded up, but Ora got away and a warrant for breaking and entering in the nighttime has been sworn out by Lincoln police.

Seems the pair got into the shop, according to police, but their tip that there was plenty of cash left around loose, proved wrong. No take.

O'Leary ended up being fined $25 and costs in Waltham District Court on the driving charge and being turned over to Lincoln police along with Robert Margeson.

Oh yes -- the moral of this story: always keep your license with you.

If O'Leary had been a lawabiding driver, he and his friends might have been free to pursue his alleged extra-curricular activities with police blaming the break on the Concord escapee.

Kiwanis Fun Day For Funds June 24

WAYLAND -- Fund-raising and fun-raising go together for the Wayland Kiwanis Club on Saturday, June 24, at the Wayland High School Field House where Bozo the Clown will be on hand to entertain the children and draw the lucky winners' names.

Joseph Trubiano told the Kiwanis last week that Bozo and his Treasure Chest will be the feature attraction at an affair that will include games and other activities. Local talent is being sought for the occasion.

Tickets are now on sale.

Dancing-on-Green June 3 Remember Wear Sneakers

WESTON -- Both adults and children all over Weston are planning a gay evening of square dancing on the Town Green Saturday at 8 p.m.

The annual affair is sponsored by the Women's Community League of Weston for the benefit of its Community Service and Scholarship Fund. Many dinner and dessert parties will precede the dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Ecker are planning a large party in honor of three Weston couples who are moving to Europe this summer. They are Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Haggerty, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Richmond, and Mr. and Mrs. Jean-Noel Tariot.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wareham are entertaining a group for their daughter Caroline. Her guests will be David Johnstone, Aroline Stone, Geoff Packard, Ruth Jones, Fred MacDonald, Mary Park Lenox, Ken Helgeson, Susan Pexton, Skip Ford, Marsha Monahon, Peter Cooch, Janie Blackwell, Bill Herrick, Laurie Munro and Eric Vogt.

Bill Burtis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Squire Burtis, will be host to a group of seventh graders: Jack Brush, Craig Randolph, Alan Peterson, Sally Calkins, Betsy Weaver, Doris Olney and Nancy Stauffer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Talbot have planned a party of fifth graders for their son Brad. His guests will be: Leslie Kayser, Tucky Bailey, Jeanie Fluke, Brett Randolph, Wendy Williams, Dana Seiler and Sara Kapteyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Donlad Pollock will entertain some friends after the

Miss Ellen Cusumano Bride Of Mr. Rodger A. Litchfield

CLEARWATER, Fla. -- White carnations and gladioli decorated the altar of the Church of The Ascension in Clearwater on May 20, for the wedding of Miss Ellen Cusumano and Mr. Rodger A. Litchfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Litchfield of Largo, Fla.

The 4 o'clock, double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. John E. Clarkson of St. Petersburg, Fla.

A family reception was given at Garden Seat Inn on Clearwater Bay by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cusumano of 1414 Sunset Point Rd., Clearwater (formerly of Wayland).

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza with embroidered bodice, bustle back and full skirt. Her chapel-length veil fell from an iredescent sequin coronet. The bridal bouquet of white carnations was centered with a white orchid.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Gerald A. Humphrey of Albany, Ga. was matron of honor and was gowned in pink chiffon as was Mrs. Jack Stewart, bridesmaid and Miss Debora Lee Cusumano, junior bridesmaid.

Mr. Charles Gaides of Roslindale, Mass. was best man. Ushers were Capt. Jack W. Newman and Sgt. Gerald A. Humphrey of Albany, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Litchfield will be at home, after June 3, at 1028 Sunset Point Rd., Clearwater.

Weston Woman Honored by Brigham Hospital

WESTON -- Miss Catherine Warren of 688 Boston Post Rd., received a 25-year service pin from Peter Bent Brigham Hospital recently in honor of faithful service as founder and director of the physical therapy department. It was presented by Roger W. Cutler Jr., secretary of the Hospital's Board of Trustees at ceremonies honoring 45 employees, of whom Miss Warren was the only 25-year recipient.

She was cited for "always demonstrating a talent for warmth and kindness in the management of individual patients, and for her cheerful personality inspiring confidence and optimism despite the aching back!"

Miss Warren was graduated from Arnold College and also took the Harvard Medical School one-year course in physio-therapy.

Miss Warren holds teaching posts at Bouve-Boston School affiliated with Tufts, and Sargent College affiliated with Boston University. Among her many outside interests she raises Dachshund dogs.

TALENT PROJECT -- Rev. Dr. Donald S. Ewing gives the $1 card symbolizing the Talents for the Lord Project of the Trinitarian Congregational Church to senior deacon Floyd Wilkinson. Project will replace fall Harvest Festival. (Bradford Photo)

Don't Hide Your Talents: Help Us, Church Asks Members

WAYLAND -- Don't hide your talent. Always good advice, it is being applied by Trinitarian Congregational Church in a "Lord's Talent Project."

Object of the project is to give church members -- all 800 if they desire -- a chance to take $1 and turn it into $10, as in the biblical story.

Rev. Dr. Donald S. Ewing started the project off at Sunday services with the distribution of talent cards (with $1 attached) with this message:

"I accept this dollar as a trust and shall attempt to increase it tenfold to the glory of God."

Members accepting the card, sign it and return it with the pledge. The project will replace the annual mid-October Harvest Festival.

The idea, according to Mrs. Edward Forbes of Autumn Lane, overall chairman, is for members to use what talents they have to produce articles that can be sold in the shop in the church basement, a housewife with a talent for baking might supply someone's dinner party with rolls and turn the money over to the church.

The report on the project will be given Dec. 17.

Children's Day Exercises Weston Methodist, June 4

WESTON -- The annual Children's Day exercises of the Weston Methodist Church School will be held in the Parish Hall, with a Family Service, June 4 at 10 a.m.

A program, representing the work of the year, will be presented by the children, under the direction of Mrs. Robert Loesel, primary department superintendent. Promotion certificates, gifts, and Bibles will be given to children in the different grades. These exercises will mark the close of church school until fall. There will be no additional service of worship in the sanctuary this Sunday.

Mrs. Kenneth Wolfskill is chairman of the commission on education planning this program, and Mr. John Kempster is general church school superintendent.

Take a Deep Breath and ...

We stuck our noses in before. And here we go again. From what we hear, everyone is mad at everyone else in the Hayward Pl. - Sylvan Way - White Rd. area.

Too much speeding. Too much griping. Too many children who don't get out of the way. That's the complaint -- and counter-complaints.

Now, we've heard there have been a rash of late night calls of the nyaah-nyaah-nyaah type. All designed to make someone else feel miserable, too.

Since some people ask us why we brought it up in the first place, we'd like to say it was to clear the air and bring people together peacably to end a long-standing feud. Instead it's gotten worse.

Now then -- why should everyone keep up the gripes?

Maybe some persons have driven too fast. Maybe some mothers haven't gotten their children in off the street (although we must say children are the hardest people we know of to convince of anything).

Everyone is going to go right on living in the same neighborhood for some time to come. Why can't everyone take a deep breath and say let's get this over with?

But Is It Sanforized?

We always feel it our duy to enlighten our readers. And since, in suburbia, money is a topic of discussion outranked only by Little League and sex, we think some comment is necessary on this proposal to add color to our cash.

First of all, we'd like to point out that this is the scheme of a woman -- the Treasurer of the United States. And as such, it requires a bit more than the usual caution. You never know . . . you just never know.

Secondly, we want to caution that making our bills (dollar bills) rainbow-hued does not add one cent to their questionable value. The new ink for the red $5, the blue $10 or the yellow $20 might even add a few million to the annual printing bill.

The woman in question, Mrs. Elizabeth Rudel Smith, feels the $1 can remain just what it is . . . whatever that may be. She's apparently satisfied with THAT anyway, whatever WE may feel.

We'd like to ask Mrs. Smith a few pertinent questions: Will this bill be washable? (There's nothing worse in our book than dirty yellow.) Will it be color fast? And will it be sanforized (we'll skip the obvious: sanforized value-wise)?

We hope she can answer these questions. And will think seriously about them before using her womanly wiles on the dollar decision-maker, Treasury Secretary Dillon, a mere male.

Furthermore, we'd like to know what this will do fo the color blind? And how about the counterfeiters -- imagine clutching a yellow ($20) banknote, only to find later, you should have looked carefully: a yellow $1 bill!

Of course, we'll admit that Mrs. Smith may have been thinking overtime about the woman's angle: the Little Woman who goes shopping for an all-yellow outfit. Imagine the ads: clothes to match your purse. The poor male would never know what they REALLY meant by THAT.

This might be all right with those who plan to paper their walls with the stuff: And here's my $20 room . . .

Well, you get the idea. Let's make haste slowly -- VERY slowly. And if Mrs. Smith insists on some changes (she's bound to), we'd like to make a suggestion near and dear to most women: a bill with a . . . two-way stretch -- value-wise, that is.

Letters to the EDITOR

No One Can Duck ...

To the Editor:

Your Editorial "Get 'Em at the Pass" is a most timely reminder, to be personally concerned with the activities of our State Legislature, and we would like to congratulate you for having written it.

The activities of the Legislature concern all of us, and if enough informed citizens let their legislators know how they feel about important bills, there will be less of the sort of hasty action which your editorial refers to.

Very sincerely yours,
Johann Reissner
President, League of Women of Weston

Ed Note -- Thank you for your comment. We happen to feel that just keeping your eye on what you're interested in at the State House is the beginning of knowing what politics and government is all about. We hope more people will take the time to follow their own self-interest up.

Don't Shoot Us -- From The Hip

To the Editor:

In your report of the Democratic Town Committee meeting in Weston last week you stated incorrectly the names of two members of the Committee. In some way you gave the names of "Dr. and Mrs. Lee Rager" for those of Dr. Willis Wager and Mrs. Adah Wager, Winter St., Weston.

The names were properly given in the typed copy of the notice sent to you.

We appreciate your report but feel that Dr. & Mrs. Wager who are duly elected members of the committee should not be confused with parties unknown.

Cordially,
Democratic Town Com.
John J. Lawless
Chairman.

Ed. note -- Now hold on there. We don't like to disagree with the majority party but -- the names as typed out for The Crier read and shall read for all eternity, if the paper doesn't fade: "Dr. and Mrs. Lee Rager." Sometimes we make mistakes, yes. Sometimes, you NO?

Our Face Is Red ...

If we came out in technicolor, we'd ask you how we look in red this week. You know it's bad enough to goof. But when you goof real big TWICE, what can you say?

We're referring to our story and our congratulations to Thomas McFarlin, senior principal of the Weston Elementary Schools.

Now his students know, his mother knows, his family knows. Indeed, everyone knows his name is not Thomas McBride but we hadn't been to the ear doctor when we stumbled on this pseudonym for him. We apologize - and again we congratulate him on his appointment as one of six editorial advisers to a national magazine. And when the value of nickels increases, so will ours.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

It's Only Money ... But What a Convenience

Did it ever occur to you what a convenience money is?

Don't laugh; I mean money's usefulness as a medium of exchange and a measure of value.

Nowadays when almost everything has a plain value in dollars and cents, under the simple decimal system, you take the transfer of goods for cash as a matter of course.

Yet it is only a couple of centuries ago that paying or getting paid for anything was far from easy.

Buying or selling a pair of shoes, a day's work, a fish, a horse, a bushel of grain, or a few yards of cloth might, if it were not a simple swap, involve a complicated transaction to be reckoned in the coinage of several countries, and the account perhaps not fully settled for months or years.

Since Massachusetts Bay was one of the English colonies, you would expect that the people here would have been using pounds, shillings and pence. These are less easily reckoned than the modern decimal system, but still a satisfactory coinage. In theory they did, but the fact is that the British government never took any proper steps to provide currency for the colonies, and as a result "hard" money was very scarce here. It was particularly difficult to make change.

If English coinage was scarce, whence did our money come? Well, New England exported horses and lumber and other things, especially salt fish, to the Spanish West Indies, and to Spain itself and its Catholic neighbor Portugal. These countries were drawing gold and silver from South America and Mexico, so they paid for the New England products in their currency. Hence Spanish dollars, or pieces of eight (reals), brought in by our ships were more often to be met with here than British pounds; and the pistareen was more common than the English penny or shilling. Listen to this entry in a New Hampshire official's day book in 1755: "Dr. T. paid me 11 Dollars and a pistole" (another Spanish (gold) coin) which he borrowed from me last January." Here is another, worse mixture, in 1758: "Got 17 lbs. of sheep's wool and 1/2 lb. of peper from Boston for which I sent 5 dollars, 27 shillings, 6 pennies and a pistareen."

Another common coin in New England was a Portuguese gold piece, the "johanna", named for King John of Portugal; and besides there was the "Half-joe," and also the "double-joe." If you would like to know what a pistole, mentioned above, was worth, this entry tells you: "I paid W. P. a pistole which was said to weigh 8-13-4 Mass. old Tenor toward 10 bushel Corn." This "Mass. old tenor" introduces us to still another coinage, which we must explain. Even with all this foreign gold and silver in circulation alongside English money, there was still a great lack of cash to settle accounts. So in 1690 the Province of Massachusetts Bay, and later New Hampshire and Rhode Island, took it on itself to issue paper money in pounds, shillings and pence. (which the three successive figures just used represent.)

The British government, horrified at this usurpation of its functions by its colonies, finally issued a supply of silver coinage, and made the colonies' paper money illegal. The colonies' paper went right on passing from hand to hand, however, though at a discount. The only difference was that the new British coinage was known as "lawful money", and the paper was called Mass. (or New Hampshire, or Rhode Island) "Old Tenor."

Here is an entry from the same daybook, concerning the writer's accounting as Town Treasurer in 1756: "Bought one half Ginne" (guinea, a British coin) "and a Dollar" (Spanish) from Robert G. @ 4-10-0 per Dollar amounting to 15 pounds our (New Hampshire) old Tenor in Lieve of what Silver" (lawful money) I had Expended for the town advertising about their land tax."

What would the Weston or Wayland Town Accountant say to that item!

With all these various types of money in use, it was still hard sometimes to complete even a small transaction, without leaving a part of the price unpaid, or overpaid, perhaps for a year or two. To avoid this, one party or the other might give a personal note for the balance, and this in turn might circulate from hand to hand as currency.

As a result of the lack of currency, a great deal of trading, especially in the country districts, was done by barter; simply swapping one article for another. "J. P. gave me 10 eels for rum." "I got one bushell of Indian corn and a bushell of Rie (rye) from J. G. for which I am to survey for him Monday and Tuesday."

Now perhaps you perceive what I meant when I asked at the beginning if you realized how convenient money is. When next you go to the bank, and for your week's pay check receive so many dollars and so many cents; and when you take part of it to the store where everything is marked clearly in the same dollars and cents; feel a little thankful.

You like to say that modern living is complicated; but at least you have to worry only about dollars; not concerned with guineas, and pounds and half-joes and pistoles and pistareens and old tenor, not to mention lawful money.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- Migration continued at a slower pace during the past week and is still in progress as this is written (May 24). Robins are feeding young and many other species have started to nest. David Reid Jr., Hidden Rd., put out some Spanish moss for nesting material, and says that a female oriole is using it. An unusual and beautiful sight in the early morning of May 20 was a female towhee bathing in drops of water left by rain during the previous night on blossoms of a flowering crab tree (Smith).

Six pairs of bluebirds were reported in Weston since March, but only two are actually nesting -- one at the Woodland School, the other near the home of Mrs. H. B. Atkins, King's Grant Rd. Mrs. Atkins says that this pair is using a natural cavity in a small oak tree and apparently young are now being fed. The other pairs disappeared or were driven away by house sparrows.

Dr. W. H. Drury, Research Director at the Mass. Audubon Hatheway School, South Lincoln, is making a special study of bluebirds this spring and summer.

If you have seen, or are now seeing bluebirds in your vicinity and would like to assist with the project, please let him know and you will receive information on how you can help.

A woodcock is still singing near the home of Mrs. D. Davidson, Golden Ball Rd.; a whip-poor-will was heard recently by Mrs. M. Castillo, Kendal Common Rd.; and hummingbirds have been seen by Mrs. Davidson (May 17) and A. L. Gates (May 24). Mrs. Castillo also reports seeing a pileated woodpecker flying from tree to tree in the woods behind the Woodland School.

And S. Heywood, Chestnut St., says that a male black-backed three-toed woodpecker has been stripping bark (to find the grubs beneath) from several dead pine trees in his yard. A least flycatcher was heard on May 18 (Smith), wood pewees are back, and in a number of places.

Warblers have continued to migrate, especially on the nights of May 19 and 20: Tenessee (Smith, Hayes, Lawson), parula (Davidson, Smith), blackburnian (Smith), bay-breasted (Hills -- only report for Weston this spring), blackpoll (Smith, et al.), and Canada (Hills, Davidson, Smith). Quite a few scarlet tanagers were reported, with E. Holmes seeing them in two different places.

Indigo buntings have been seen by E. McAuliffe (pair - May 12), D. Sabean (sub-adult male - May 18), C. Hayes, M. Davidson, and F. Atkins (males - May 17, 21, 22). The "Bird of the Week" was a male cardinal which appeared in Mrs. Davidson's yard about 8 a.m. on May 23 and stayed almost all day. It was also seen by Mrs. A. Locke. -- C.E.S.

Big Day in Court For Wayland Pupils

WAYLAND -- It was a big day in court for about 70 Wayland High School students Monday.

There through the connivance of Officer Fred Perry and driving instructor Lionel LaGuardia, they had a tour of Framingham District Court, got the lowdown on safety from Judge Farley and saw what happens to about 25 persons who have broken the traffic laws. The students were all members of the school's driver education class.

But the highlight came when, unexpectedly they bumped into Edward (Ted) Kennedy who's apt to pop up anywhere these days -- from the Roman Forum to Framingham.

"You should have seen them crowd around him," said Officer Perry. "They had a real good time. And he took time to talk to them. Great day."

The Automobile Legal Assn. reports that 33 1/2 percent of New England's portion of the National highway system in finished, construction is underway on 29 percent with 37 1/2 percent remaining on which to start construction.

June 15, 1904 - The steamboat General Slocum burst into flames in the East River off Manhattan Island; 1021 persons lost their lives.

New England motorists have the opportunity to travel on 562 miles of the region's proposed 1676 miles of the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways.

Take Your Pick -- 5 Vie for Strawberry Festival Crown

WAYLAND -- Voting for Queen of the Strawberry Festival will begin today according to Mrs. Kenneth Brown, Queen Pageant chairman. There will be ballot boxes located in 12 business establishments all over town where votes may be deposited. The tally of these votes will determine which of the five girls, who were selected by the High School students, will reign after the Coronation Pageant at 8:30 on June 17 at the Wayland High School.

PAT DYER is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dyer of Loker St., formerly Commonwealth Rd. East, who moved to Wayland eight years ago. She has an older, married sister. Pat is an expert skier, and has been working while attending school. She plans to continue her retailing career by taking a two-year training course after graduation this June from High School.

RANDY JOHNSON is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Johnson of Sylvan Way. She came to Wayland when she was three years old, and is now a senior with post graduation plans that hopefully include four years at Boston University followed by a Masters degree in Library Science. Randy is an accomplished pianist who filled the difficult role of accompanyist for the Senior Play. She is also interested in sports and was her own seamstress for her Festival Outfit.

SANDI OWENS, a senior, lives on Draper Rd. with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Owens, and her younger brother. She has lived in Wayland for 13 years. Sandi's active school life includes cheerleading and Guidance Service, and she has also found time to work after school hours. Her hobby is sewing, and she, too, made her own Strawberry Festival clothes. Sandi plans to attend Colby Junior College where she will take the Medical Secretarial course.

PENNY RICHARDSON moved to Wayland from Waltham five years ago, and now lives on Woodridge Rd. with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Richardson. She has kept herself busy with team sports and is now learning tennis, as well as working in Library Service at school and at the Public Library for two years. Penny plans to attend Green Mountain Junior College next fall; after completion of this two year course, she hopes to transfer for a four year degree in education so that she can teach in an elementary school.

NANCY ROEHRIG is one of four children of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Roehrig of Blossom Lane. Nancy came to Wayland via Indiana when she was in the fifth grade, and is now looking forward to graduation this June. She is planning to attend Colby Junior College where she will take a Liberal Arts Course. Nancy is currently in the Guidance Service at school, enjoys all sports, and is learning to play tennis. She also made her own Festival Outfit.

The girls have been seen in their colorful strawberry festooned costumes these past two weeks ushering at the Vokes Theater, and will be about town elsewhere in the near future. Their pictures will be displayed with the ballot boxes to aid the voters in making the difficult choice for Queen of the Strawberry Festival.

Biff Ahlman Back Home

WAYLAND -- Donald (Biff) Ahlman is back home on East Rd.

Biff is the 12-year-old junior high school student whose foot was crushed in a school bus-bike accident at the exit of the junior high grounds Apr. 13.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Ahlman is on crutches and resting in the house and yard, according to his mother. He spent six and one-half weeks in Emerson Hospital, Concord, where doctors labored to save his left foot.

He will not return to school until the fall but will have a special at-home teacher supplied under a special state education service soon.

Weston Police Nab Stolen Car Driver in Hour

WESTON -- He just barely got over the line when Officer David Cahill nabbed a 22-year-old Boston man in a stolen car on Rte. 30.

The incident occurred Wednesday, May 24, at 10:52 p.m., a scant hour after Newton police had sent out an alarm about a stolen 1960 Lincoln.

Bernard N. Sturre, 22, of Cumberland St., Boston, was ordered held in $1000 bail when he was arraigned in Waltham District Court the next day on charges of driving without a license, and larceny of a motor vehicle.

Police told the court that Sturre was also under indictment in Boston on a breaking and entering charge.

Frederick Sewall

WESTON--Frederick L. Sewall, 88, of 118 Summer St., died Monday, May 22, in a local nursing home, after a long illness.

For 30 years he was employed as a mail clerk for the U. S. Government, retiring in 1935. Born in Old Town, Me., he was the son of the late George F. and Louise H. (Call) Sewall.

Husband of Margaret D. (Martin) Sewall, he also leaves one daughter, Mrs. Dwight Ingraham, and one son, Leslie R. Sewall, both of Bangor; four grandchildren, Mrs. Herman Czarnecki of Bloomfield, N. J., Richard L. Diane A. and Frederick L. Sewall 2nd, all of Bangor; one brother, George R. of Medford and two sisters, Mrs. William Brann of Gardner, Me., and Mrs. Ora Frost of Rochester, N. H.

Funeral services were held Friday at 9 in the Mullin Funeral Home, 16 Prospect St., Waltham.

Co-Op, Inc., Elects Directors

WAYLAND -- The Co-op, Inc., this area's 5700 member-owned supermarket and fuel oil business, held its annual meeting at the Wilson School, Natick, on Monday, May 22.

Elected as a director was Adrian M. Norcross of Natick. Re-elected were Irene H. Grogan and George M. Rogers, both of Natick. Elected Treasurer and Clerk were Charles M. Thrasher, Natick, and Arthur W. Carlson, Framingham, respectively. By virtue of election returns, Dr. Donald C. Klein, Wayland, is first alternate director. Names to the nominating committee were George K. Bowles, and Sumner L. Moore, and to the auditing committee were Mrs. Louise I. Wigglesworth and Lewis W. Kimball, all of Natick.

General Manager Warren Brown reported on the growth of the organization and indicated the Co-op-s new shopping center being constructed in Framingham will open in September of this year. The newest unit will include a service station and several surrounding stores.

He reported that 524 new persons, representing 351 families, were welcomed into the shareholding membership in the past year. In addition, there was a sizable sales increase to nearly $3,000,000 - up 24 percent or $575,000 over the previous year. Total membership investments reached an all time high of $445,800.

Mr. Brown reminded members also that over the first eleven years of operation, $481,168 has been paid customers in stock dividends and patronage refunds. For the first time in 11 years, earnings were not sufficient to pay the usual cash patronage refund, but Co-op members will receive $21,991.25 which represents the 5 percent dividend on common stock

Renewal Experts To Speak June 7

WAYLAND--The Wayland Civic Assn. will get a firsthand account of urban renewal -- its No. 1 problem -- at a special meeting with two officials of the Massachusetts Urban Renewal Assn. at the High School Little Theater next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

John Elliott, president and Paul May, executive secretary of the association, will present an outline of what parts the town, state and Federal governments take within the framework of renewal laws.

The WCA news release points out:

"Once this information is presented we can then ask ourselves: is urban renewal applicable or justified to the citizens of Wayland?

"The association has also invited John Moore of Brookline to speak at the meeting. Mr. Moore has been a leading force of a citizens association in Brookline concerned with urban renewal.

Braves 8 - Pirates 3

Kim Teger pitched a well deserved victory.

Giants 4 - Dodgers 2

Tom Kraeger celebrated his 12th birthday by pitching and batting the Giants to victory. Tom knocked in 3 of the 4 Giant runs and held the Dodgers to 3 hits.

Cards 11 - Phillies 1

Young Muller held the Phillies in check for the win.

Braves 12 - Giants 11

Home runs were hit by Kim Teger (2), Billy Manchester, for the Braves and Tom Kraeger and Fred Rymsha for the Giants.

	won	lost
Dodgers	3	1
Giants	4	2
Pirates	3	2
Braves	3	3
Phillies	0	4

As with their counterparts in the National League the Dodgers, Giants, and Pirates are fighting for first place. The Braves are coming along as shown by their two victories this past week over the Giants and Pirates. Although the Cards appear to be out of the running they can be expected to give stiff competition to the front runners.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

How State Keeps Ponds, Streams Stocked

The Massachusetts Division of Fisheries and Game has come a long way in recent years in taking a more realistic approach to the problem of an ever increasing number of fishermen and a decrease in good fishing waters.

Due to the fact that trout waters in Wayland are mostly posted, the state will not stock fish here, but I do believe they still stock Stoney Brook in Weston.

In March I attended a hearing in West Groton, regarding the reclaiming of the Squannacook River in that area. This is one of the best potential trout streams in this part of the state, and only a 45 minute ride from here.

Reclaiming and managing ponds and streams is quite new in fish management. It consists of smothering out all fish in the area to be managed by using a solution of rotenone in the water. This acts as a blanket and settles down through the water to the bottom, cutting off all oxygen - so the fish die, but are still edible.

A few days later, after the water is cleared up, they restock with the desired fish, using both legal fish and fingerlings.

Fish that are stream-raised are wiser and tastier than the hatchery-bred stock, and better able to withstand cold weather.

Of course, this is much less expensive, as feeding fish for three or four years in a hatchery can mean quite a high pound cost to the State.

Evidently bodies of water are pretty much like a garden, and will only support so much life per acre. Trash fish such as suckers, carp and bluegills flourish on food which could well be feeding trout and other game fish. They are more prolific than trout also, so they slowly win the battle for food, and the trout become scarce.

Two years ago, in August, they reclaimed the Deerfield River, taking out tons of suckers - but very few trout, in spite of the many that had been stocked that year.

A few weeks ago a brown trout was caught there that had been tagged and planted in April of '60, and he had grown from 9" to 17 1/2" in a years time.

That is a phenomenal growth rate, and it looks as though the state biologists will be able to give us excellent trout fishing in the future if they are able to get the funds to keep up their good work.

Big Fish Bigger Close to Home

WESTON -- Someone has risen in Weston to challenge Will Ryder -- namely, Charles E. MacLeod of 37 Willard Rd., genial fire lieutenant.

Lt. MacLeod caught an oversized brook trout in Stoney Brook. Having fished for trout in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and New York, he has caught larger brown and rainbow trout but this is the largest of the "brookie" species he has ever landed -- and to top it off, this prize was taken from a small stream less than three feet wide and only a quarter of a mile from home.

The brookie measured 15 inches long, 9 1/2 inches in girth and tipped the scales at just two pounds.

Wayland Snaps Back

WAYLAND -- Wayland High School is up and at 'em again in the Dual County League and Tuesday, May 22, made it look premature to count them out of an Eastern Mass tourney berth. The Indians knocked Ashland out of a two-way tie for third place with a 8 to 1 victory at home.

The stars of the day were portsider Bill Wilkinson, second baseman Tony Bova and third baseman Ken Houghton.

Wee Willie threw a two-hitter, striking out 12 and stopping the Clockers without an earned run for the second time this season. When Gus Pratt doubled to right in the fifth, he became the first batter to get more than a single off Wilkie this season. The victory gave the junior lefty a 3-3 record for '61.

Wayland has four games left to play and if anybody topples them from here on in it will have to be called an upset. The Indians record is 6-4, with the losses coming to Weston and Lynnfield -- Weston twice by one run. Clem Spillane's Clockers are now 5-5.

McMullin One-Hits Ashland, 5-3

ASHLAND -- Forbes McMullin threw a one-hitter at Ashland High Thursday as Weston held on to a tie for second place in the Dual County League standings.

The final count was 5 to 3. Ashland scored three in the sixth when a faulty pickoff attempt with the bases loaded sent Joe Gargan and Bob Phipps scampering across the plate as the ball rolled into right field. McMullin came back to strike out the side.

The Wildcats right hander sent 16 Clockers to the bench via strike outs also whiffing the side in the fourth with the bases full.

Now that we're going to have a town meeting next month, it behooves us to lay down one cardinal rule for the Avid Town Meeting Goer: Always be ready to admit that the other fellow can be wrong.

Legislature Prorogues, Yessir, and the cynic piped right up: "Well, I always knew they was pros."

And while we're snipping at Beacon Hill -- how about this remark from Pat Lynch, Democratic state chairman: "Well, they said it couldn't be done -- but we got a full house with President Kennedy as our guest." Well now -- and we hear that young Kennedy fellow hasn't been drawing too well lately.

Just a friendly tip: Now that Carousel is about to open: stay out of the pitch-black aisles between scenes. We know a fellow adventurer who now wears an umbrella on his skull like it was the Turnpike arrow hat.

It seems $26,000 could be a lot of money for hauling garbage in Wayland. But Norman Taylor got his executive secretary's pencil busy and figured that for the 3000 families hereabouts that would come down to 72 cents a month. And at $24,000 (the figure finally agreed on), that's 67 cents per person per month.

Voting

ballots. Some gave up and went home.

To escape another such difficulty in a growing town, the Selectmen acted on the voters' town meeting directive to "do something" and devised what they believe is an equal division of the town.

Proposed voting places: Town Hall and the present High School (not the new one).

Mr. Carter explained that it was felt these two centrally located buildings would hold to a minimum the amount of change voters would have to make in adjusting. In other words, no one should have to go any farther to cast his ballot than before.

NOTE: The proposal does not apply to local elections. These would still be held at the Town Hall.

The most that a town election has drawn out are 1500 voters.

Just in passing: Weston's 1950 population was a shade over 5000; in 1960: 8261 -- an increase of 60 percent. By 1970, it's expected to reach 10,500, according to the Greater Boston Economic Study Committee.

The report filed with the town clerk states in part:

"That the dividing line shall be the center line of Boston Post Rd. from the Weston-Waltham line to Wellesley St., the center line of Boston Post Rd. By-pass, from Wellesley St. to Highland St. and the center line of Boston Post Rd. from Highland St. west to the Weston-Wayland line."

All-in-the-Ear Hearing Aid Offered by Hanna Service

NATICK -- George L. Hanna of 47 Walnut St., Natick, area Hearing Aid audiologist, has just announced the innovation of the smallest hearing aid, "golden ear", so tiny it fits entirely inside the ear -- without cords, wires, tubing or buttons to wear.

The tiny aid weighs less than one quarter of an ounce. Mr. Hanna operates the Hanna Hearing Aid Service at the above address.

Let me show you how to get better roses, more continuous bloom

With roses, the surprising secret of more blooms is—more leaves! Now—with the new Scotts Rose Program—it's so easy to keep foliage strong and healthy, even a beginner enjoys success.

This amazing applicator is the key. It's called the Scotts Zephyr, and it's designed to apply new HAZE—Scotts all-in-one protection against insects and disease.

The HAZE container fits snugly in the Zephyr. Nothing to mix, measure, fill or spill. To apply, just point the deflector at the base of the rose bushes, turn the crank gently, and walk along the bed. An atomized dry mist envelops the plant—depositing a nearly invisible HAZE film on both tops and undersides of the leaves.

Come see and save. You'll find these new Scotts Rose Program products at our big SUCCESS WITH ROSES display.

Introductory offer saves you $5.00.

SCHOOL BOARD SHRINKS CLAYPIT SCHOOL ADDITION

SAFETY PRIZES -- Officer Larry Tierney of the Weston police holds trophies which will be awarded Saturday.

Safe Driving For Bikes Kids' Affair Saturday

WESTON -- How to know your way around -- safely -- on a bike will be the theme of a Bike Skill Program Saturday at 9 a.m. at the Weston High School grounds.

Sponsored by the Weston Rotary and the police department, it will feature safety rules and competition in safety skills for youngsters in two age groups -- 7-9 and 10-14.

Officer Larry Tierney will conduct the program with the assistance of Rotary members who are also providing the trophies -- three for each age group -- to be awarded the most skilful riders.

Parents are invited to attend to see how their children respond to safety instructions and to learn followup instructions for the children.

"We can do just so much in a one-day program," said Officer Tierney. "The rest is up to the children and the parents who must continue to see that the youngsters practice what we preach."

Police will offer three courses designed to show the youngsters how to handle a bike and to know proper signals.

Wayland, Weston Police Nab 2 Escapees in Chase

WAYLAND -- Two Lyman School escapees found that getting through Wayland is not the easiest thing in the world when the Wayland police don't want it that way.

One bullet, one rear-end sideswipe and one crash and their one day, more or less, of freedom was over.

The stolen car they were riding in was spotted going through Sudbury on Rte. 20 and Wayland officers John Phylis and John Brady pursued the car down Rte. 27 where it shot off the road near St. Ann's rectory. The boys took off into the woods but were picked up later.

During the chase the fleeing car struck the rear of the car of Antonio English of Main St., Cochituate.

The youths, one from Dorchester and the other from Salem, had escaped from the Westboro institution and took the car, which is the property of George Clements of Cambridge who was visiting in Westboro, about 5 p.m. The boys spent Sunday night, as they had many others, safely tucked away in the institution.

Weston police of both the day and night shifts converged on the town line where roadblocks were set up.

Weston officer John Clark made the capture of one of the boys off Applecrest Rd.

Check Stripped Car at Wayland

WAYLAND -- A State Police fingerprint man came to Wayland last Thursday after police discovered an abandoned auto one mile in off Oxbow Rd. The vehicle had been stripped.

A check determined that it had been stolen May 22. The owner was listed as Carl E. Slickman of 95 Wetherbee Rd., Waltham.

WAYLAND -- In a matter of plumbing vs. children, the children won out this week.

The Wayland School Committee voted Monday to request an eight-room addition to the Claypit Hill School after making its way through the following points of debate:

1--As far as plumbing and similar considerations were concerned, the school could stand a 10-room addition as urged by some members of the School Building Committee two weeks ago.

2--But as to the effect on the educational program, it would not be the best for the children.

3--A new school in North Wayland was to be preferred over either an 8- or 10-room addition to Claypit but the town's financial condition would not sustain another new school at this time.

4--Probably a new school will not be forthcoming until 1970 or later.

As School Board Chairman Gregory B. Wolfe stated:

"First priority should be given to a new school in North Wayland but we cannot overlook the town's financial condition. Hence, we support the eight-room addition as the better of the two moves open to us."

As for financing this:

The finance board has suggested that up to $150,000 be taken from the Excess and Deficiency Fund and that up to $150,000 more be borrowed on short term notes, it was pointed out Monday night.

This, it was argued, would have the minimum effect on the $86 tax rate.

Parents and others in the Loker and Claypit Hill School Districts will be acquainted with details of the school plans for the next two years at special meetings at those schools Wednesday at 8 p.m. (Loker) and Thursday at 8 (Claypit).

Members of the school building and school committees will be on hand to explain the plans.

It is expected that an 8-10-room addition will be asked for Loker at the March 1962 town meeting for occupancy in September 1963.

The school committee's resolution passed unanimously, was that "the addition to the Claypit Hill School be eight rooms". Its goal: to take care of approximately 240 more pupils than the 460-plus now in the school.

Recreational Club OK'd In Weston

WESTON -- The Weston Board of Appeals gave the go-ahead this week to a recreational club off Conant Rd. on the Lincoln line, subject to some restrictions.

On May 15, the Valley Realty Trust asked for permission to create a recreational facility and conservation plot on 50 acres of land evenly divided between the two towns.

Under the terms of the Weston Appeals Board ruling this week, this will be permitted provided all money necessary for the construction of a reservoir for boating and water supply for swimming pool is in hand before construction starts.

Ranulf W. Gras of Lincoln stated at that time that the group intended to turn over to appropriate authorities in the two towns all development rights, so that the 50-acre facility would in effect be a conservation district.

Some Weston residents in that area protested then on the grounds that the facility might get out of hand if the trust did not get sufficient funds or needed too many members in order to meet its obligations.

The appeals board stipulated that the group may open "a recreational facility as a private club" and construct such service and utility buildings as are necessary.

The group is specifically forbidden to discharge firearms on the property or allow power boats on the reservoir.

It must also retain the same engineering firm throughout its period of construction that it has now.

The present directors of the trust are all residents of nearby areas in Lincoln and stated at the Weston hearing that they would preserve the natural state of the land as a matter of course.

Identification Gap Drops Wayland Voters – Unless...

WAYLAND -- Not so fast there. The Identification Gap is getting too wide at Town Hall. You may think you're a registered voter here. Your name is on the books, and all that. But wait --

The big catch: your name isn't going to stay on the books, and won't even make it as a new "voter" unless: you furnish your birth certificate, when you register, or your naturalization papers.

Things are just getting too confusing, the town too big. Registration books have too many gaps where proof of citizenship should be.

In other words -- if you've never offered official proof of your citizenship, you'd better do it now -- or you can't vote in Wayland.

Largest Class, 115, Graduates At Weston HS Next Thursday

WESTON -- Weston graduation ceremonies will be held next Thursday at the high school auditorium at 5 p.m. for 115 students, the largest graduating class in the history of Weston.

This number includes the two exchange students from Europe, honorary members of the class, Anne Wiest, from Rombas, France and Ulrike L. Wolff, from Reinbek, Germany, an International Christian Youth exchange student, sponsored by the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

The ceremonies will begin with an invocation by the Rev. John A. Heidt, minister of the Congregational Church of Weston. The class president, Robert B. White, will deliver the welcome address and the two top honor students, Linda Townsend and Keppler Stone will deliver essays.

These talks will be followed by several musical selections by individual members of the class. Diplomas will be presented by Dr. Robert H. Marden, chairman of the Weston School Committee and Wil-

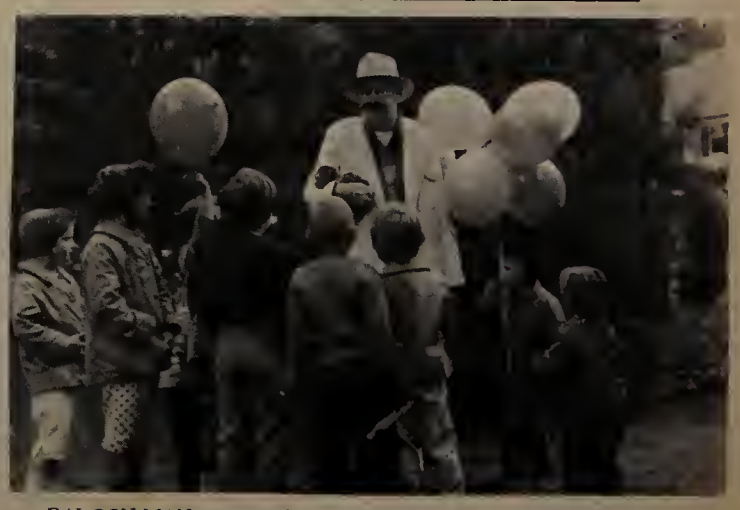
Yes-No-Maybe Stand Taken On Renewal by Finance Board

WAYLAND -- Renewal or not? That's up to the town meeting June 21 and the finance committee passes on the article with a yes-no-maybe recommendation.

The committee's word on the matter stresses:

That this is a matter of concern to 109 petitioners from the Dudley Pond area, that the committee believes the petitioners' fear of the renewal authority is misplaced but maybe the authority should have done more to instill confidence at the outset in the persons most directly affected by its program but --

Even if the town should vote the authority down, the finance committee believes the town must still continue the process of "demolishing dilapidated, condemned, vacant buildings and assembling the small irregular and substandard lots laid out in the days before there was any zoning."



This question and the school addition article are the top issues before the town meeting which will be held Wednesday, June 21, at

Regis to Award Honoraries To Mrs. Paine, Mrs. Cronin

WESTON -- Mrs. Frank Paine of 200 Old Connecticut Path, Wayland, is one of three area persons to receive honorary degrees from Regis College at commencement exercises, next Tuesday.

Others who will receive honorary doctors of law degrees are:

--Mrs. Grover Cronin of Wellesley.

--Mrs. Francis Crotty of Arlington.

Msgr. Walter L. Flaherty, director of the archdiocesan radio and television apostolate, will be the principal speaker at commencement.

Bishop Jeremiah Minihan will preside at the baccalaureate service Sunday at 10 a.m. in the Catherdral of the Holy Cross, Boston.

Mrs. Paine will be honored for her leadership and outstanding work in the liturgical apostolate, her unceasing inspiration in her own community, and for her sponsorship of lessons on Gregorian chant for a Wayland group through which she hopes to form a nucleus for congregational participating in Mass.

MRS. FRANK PAINE

"Her life exemplifies an active role in cultural and religious activities."

Mrs. Cronin will be cited for her "ethical and business principles at the Grover Cronin stores, Waltham. She assumed the presidency of the stores, which bear her husband's name, when he met an untimely death in 1953. She is affiliated with many guilds and associations; is trustee of the Grover Cronin Foundation and the Grover Cronin Realty corporation. She is engaged in charitable and religious works and has an interest in higher education: the establishment of a four-year grant for Waltham high schoolers, known as the Grover J. Cronin Memorial scholarship.

"Of her four living children, Grover J. Jr., Ph. D., teaches at Fordham University; two are merchants in the Grover Cronin corporation; and Mrs. James F. Kelley lives in Wellesley."

Mrs. Francis Crotty "is a charter member of the Guild for the Blind; a member of several charitable guilds and organizations and recent recipient of the papal 'Lady Commander of the Holy Sepulchre.'

"She has two daughters, one of whom teaches at Marycliff."

Mrs. Luther Davis Heads Wayland Women Voters

WAYLAND -- The Wayland League of Women Voters met to elect new officers for the coming year at its recent annual meeting.

Mrs. Luther Davis Jr. accepted the gavel as president of the local League for a two year term, and serving with her are: Mrs. Herbert Lipton, First Vice President and Discussion Leader Chairman; Mrs. Leslie Flood, Second Vice President and State Continuing Responsibilities and Legislation Chairman; and Mrs. Allan D. White, Secretary. Mrs. Gus Masiello will continue in her present post as Treasurer.

The elected and appointed Directors are as follows: Mrs. James H. Flanagan (retiring President), Bulletin; Mrs. David K. Biddle, Membership; Mrs. John J. Pratt Jr., Publications; Mrs. John D. Quackenbos, Local Agenda; Mrs. Kenneth E. LeBaron, Local Continuing Responsibilities; Mrs. Bruce Mansfield, Publishing; Mrs. Jesse F. Scott, State Regional Planning; Mrs. Warren T. Eriksen, State Constitutional Revision; Mrs. Richard E. Robinson, Public Relations; Mrs. Curtiss M. Bury, National Continuing Responsibilities; Mrs. William Frisbie, Civil Service; Mrs. George W. Pratt and Mrs. John C. Quinn, Co-Chairmen, Foreign Economic Policy; Mrs. Albert E. Slade, Finances; Mrs. Gerald S. Fahringer, Social; Mrs. Ivan M. Faigen, Voters Service; and Mrs. Royal S. Graves, Unit Organization.

The nominating committee will consist of Mrs. Robert M. Page, Chairman, Mrs. John G. Freymann and Mrs. Howard J. Jenkins.

Kiwanis Fun Fair Set for June 24

WAYLAND -- The Wayland Kiwanis Club has declared Saturday, June 24, Kiwanis Fair Day.

Activities at the fair will be capped by the appearance of WHDH-TV star, Bozo the Clown. Music exhibits and games will be other attractions at the Fair that will start at 2 p.m. in the New Wayland High School Field House. Children under 12 admitted free. The usual $1 admittance fee will also entitle ticket-holders to participate in the drawing of 100 valuable prizes.

Pres. Walt Cheslak urges all to support Kiwanis Fair and aid the Kiwanis Boys and Girls Fund. Tickets for the event can be purchased from any Wayland Kiwanis Member, from Vic Taricano at Cochituate Texaco, from John Santamaria at Benson's Store in Wayland Center and from Walt O'Connell at O'Connell Bros. on the Post Rd.

MRS. JOHN SIMONI
(Korday Photo)

Mrs. John Simoni Heads Co-op, Inc.

At the first directors meeting of The Co-op, Inc., this area's consumer-owned supermarket and fuel oil business, Mrs. John Simoni of 5 Timber Lane, Cochituate, was elected to head the $3,000,000 operation for 1961-62.

Succeeded as president was Walter C. Ward, local electrical contractor, who served in his former capacity for five years prior to retiring from the board. Like Mrs. Simoni, he has been a Co-op member since its inception in 1949.

Mrs. Simoni received her education in the Millis public schools and attended Medfield State Hospital Nurses' Training School. She has resided in the local area since 1938.

Her numerous civic and community affiliations include being a very active member of the Natick Girl Scout Council since 1945, a member of the PTA for 14 years; having served as an officer of West Natick, Cochituate Grammar and Wayland High School PTA's and is president of the Lak-Har-Tras Club. She served as an energetic worker on several community enterprises and is now a member of the Wayland Library Liaison Committee.

Also elected were: James Geoghegan, Framingham, owner of Sunshine Dairy as vice-president, George Rogers, Natick, principal of Wilson Junior High School to head the Nominating Committee, and Jackson Turner, Wayland, branch manager of the West Newton Savings Bank, to lead the auditing committee. Warren D. Brown Co-op general manager, was named assistant treasurer.

Elected to the Executive Committee in addition to Mrs. Simoni, Mr. Geoghegan and Mr. Brown were Charles Thrasher, Natick, Alvin Crain, Natick and Walter Ward, Cochituate.

Nicholas Willard Graduate of Brown

PROVIDENCE -- Nicholas Brooks Willard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Willard of 278 Old Connecticut Path, Wayland, received his bachelor of arts degree from Brown University Monday at the 193d annual commencement.

A graduate of Wayland High School, he served as vice president of the Inter-Fraternity Council and president of his fraternity, Lambda Chi Alpha in his junior year. In his senior year, he was vice president of his class.

H.S. Grads Honored At Weston Methodist

WESTON -- On Sunday, June 11, a Baccalaureate Service for Methodist members of the High School graduating class, will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Alan H. Moore in the church sanctuary at 10 a.m.

Members of the class will march in a processional with the choir and be specially honored in this service. The senior choir will sing a special anthem.

This day is also observed as Methodist Student Day, with a special offering for the Methodist Student Loan and Scholarship Fund.

Attractive summer coiffures are fashionable as well as comfortable. Choose the right one for your taste this year, then keep it sparkling clean by frequent shampooing.

Scott Kendall Running for Now, Faces More Surgery; Fund $2979

WAYLAND -- You'd hardly know Scott Kendall had been to the hospital at all . . . to watch him jumping all over the yard with his sisters and brother.

The five-year-old youngster was serously burned last November in a flash fire and was four months in the hospital, recovering from the burns.

Scott still has more skin grafts to contend with in the fall, according to his mother, Mrs. Delvin E. Kendall of Marshall Terr., North Wayland, but for now it's all a kid's good time he's enjoying: cowboys, sandpile earthmoving, baseball, trips on a trike.

"You know Scott just snapped back -- like that," his mother said this week, "when he got home in March. Couldn't walk a step alone when he came home, but in three days he was all over the place."

Mrs. Kendall was especially appreciative of the fund-raising on Scott's behalf by the Wayland Kiwanis Club.

Meanwhile, Co-chairman Frank Smith of the Kiwanis Club's Scott Kendall Fund reported that $2979 had been collected so far to help defray the upcoming medical expenses of Mr. and Mrs. Kendall. The coin collection boxes are still to be found in local stores.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

The Odds on Weeds

Thousand to One

Warning! This is the time of year when, for the unwary suburban gardener, the weeds take over. The odds in their favor are a thousand to one. The weed varieties number the thousand: you, the gardener, are the one.

In fact the thousand varieties of weeds, according to Professor Fernald of the Smithsonian Institution, are only the foreigners which have settled in New England since the white man came. They are all in addition to such disagreeable natives as poison ivy, and ragweed, the bane of hayfever victims. These were here long, long ahead.

Before we discuss those interlopers and how they got here, let me offer you the rule that my father, an experienced market gardener, taught me. The easiest and best way to get rid of weeds, he said, is to kill them before they start. Don't wait until they are big enough to pull: but cultivate the surface thoroughly before they are up; certainly as soon as anything shows green, even if you do nick a vegetable or a flower seedling now and then. Do it on a hot dry day if possible; but if it keeps raining discourage the weeds anyway.

Yes, a full thousand European and Asiatic plants, many with the most brash and vigorous habits, have settled here in the past 300 years. They came over with our ancestors, some in hay for the cattle that the ships brought, some with garden seed and nursery plants: and more keep coming.

All those dandelions which taunt you in your lawn, for instance. From their name, originally dent-de-lion, lion's tooth, you can tell that they are French. The English are responsible for that other curse of the lawn builder, the plantain. In fact the Indians named it "The Englishman's Foot, as though produced by their treading", the colonial naturalist, John Josselyn, tells us.

One of the most undiscouraged, cheerful plants in your garden is chickweed. It spreads all summer, often lives all winter, and seems to scatter seed every few minutes. This also the English had brought in before John Josselyn wrote in 1672.

Another universally vigorous 17th century immigrant is witchgrass, that underground subversive. Witch grass not only seeds prolifically, but is constantly pushing its sharp spear-points in all directions through the soil, out of sight. The only cure is to root it out completely; or else to bury it, leaves and all, as Kruschev would like to bury us Americans, under a solid layer of earth or mulch.

Purslane or "Pussley," we're not dead sure about as to origin. Some botanists claim that it is imported from the Old World. But Champlain, when he sailed to New England in 1605, wrote that "the Indians brought also some purslane, which grows in large quantities among the Indian corn." He was surprised that the aborigines didn't eat it, as many southern Europeans among us do today. Morton, an early Plymouth colonist, says "the Country . . . naturally affordeth very good pot herbs and sallet herbs . . . as . . . PURSlanD." Pussley is at its zenith in showery August. To control it, you must pull it root and all, and take it completely out of your garden. The only safe thing, the Indians say, is to lay it in the sun on top of a boulder, dry it as thoroughly as you can, and then drop it into a hot fire!

Among other immigrant plants we have to struggle with are shepherds purse, pigweed, fall dandelion, sorrel, mustard, thistle, orange hawkweed, burdock and, as the auction ads always end, "other things too numerous to mention."

Along with all these undesirables, our immigrants have included many wild plants which we enjoy, or at least tolerate. Most people like the daisies, both white and oxe-eyed; buttercups; and the blue chicory, yellow tansy and barberries that decorate our roadsides in late summer. Moreover, all our clovers, and such useful and decorative grasses as timothy, red top and orchard grass came from abroad, not to mention a long list of vegetables and cultivated flowers.

Conclusion: all sorts of plants good, bad and indifferent have landed here, along with all sorts of people. We have to learn to get along with every kind of both, I suspect.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Spooooks That Chill

Just Will O'Wisp

At four o'clock the other morning our pet beagle set up an awful howl, and after a few sleepless minutes, I looked out on the side hill near the kennel and there was a tall, shining skeleton standing here, glowing in the dark.

I don't blame the dog for being frightened, but all that it was, was some Will-O'-the Wisp glowing on the trunk and branches of a dead Cherry tree.

This reminded me of the nights when we were young and used to play spooks in the woods back of our house.

The first ingredient necessary was a good handful of will-o'-the wisp, then a liberal dose of imagination, and a small boy could be painted in a way that would make Lon Chaney look like an angel.

After cavorting around the woods, in all our phosphorescent glory, trying to scare each other, we would collapse in tired, snickering enjoyment in our pup tent and fall asleep -- providing the mosquitoes let us.

Evidently this glowing will-o'-the wisp stuff we used to find on rotted logs was some sort of phosphorus by-product of rotting vegetation.

On looking it up in Websters' I find it carries the Latin name of ignis fatuus (foolish fire). Later on we found that the Johnson Smith Co. had similar stuff advertised in their "Wishing Book" at 25¢ per bottle, but it was no better than that we found in the woods.

By the way, whatever happened to the Johnson Smith Co.? Remember the advertisement they always had in the back part of the American Boy Magazine?

They had everything to delight the heart of youth, from a small round gimmick that turned you into a ventriloquist, to a carbide cannon - but I suppose they have passed on to oblivion, along with the Jew's harp and the kazoo.

What's the Hurry?

Now this sounds silly. But we'll say it anyway. Kasavubu can't burp nor deGaulle weep but what we know it here the next morning . . . and wonder what it means. Right now. Right away. In other words, we're used to demanding immediate answers . . . immediate solutions. Get it over with. Don't wait it out.

Well, we'd just like to say we think that's what's bothering Gov. Volpe -- and us -- today. You know the highway bill was signed with a giant size joker in it -- a stipulation that no highway could be built in Boston and other big central cities if the city fathers vetoed the proposed route. This immediately affects the Inner Belt. And us, too, whether we like it or not. Federal funds, so essential to this in-town hoop, are definitely endangered because of this veto.

In other words, the governor, his advisers and other good people were so anxious to get the highway program on the road that they sacrificed a clear path for speed. This is not the first time. There are many cases over the years, most notably the hurry-up creation of the MTA which left the line hobbled with insufficient funds or power to efficiently operate. Get it through.

Here's one answer to the oft-asked question: what's going wrong at the State House?

We'd like to strongly suggest that this was one measure the governor might well have vetoed. The highway program could have waited for a special session, if necessary. What good is the program with a dead weight? It may yet take a special session anyway to shed the highway veto -- and we predict that it's going to be a lot harder to erase it than it was to get it tacked on.

Something About Birds

You Can Help Fledglings But Don't Worry

Their Parents Don't Really Forget Them

WESTON -- Large numbers of blue jays were migrating between May 22 and 25. These are the ones which will nest to the north of us. A black-billed cuckoo was seen on May 29 by Mrs. A. S. Fales, Merriam St., and blackpoll and Tennesee warblers. The spring migration is just about at an end, and now we become interested in the nesting birds. Reports from your vicinity will be most welcome.

A bobwhite was reported on May 25 by W. A. Martin, Wellesley St., and eight young with parents were seen on the same day at the Arboretum by H. Draper. A pileated woodpecker was seen May 31 on Church St. at Coburn Rd., by P. F. Coburn.

About baby birds: Every summer many well-intentioned adults and children ask how to feed and care for seemingly abandoned young birds. Nine times out of ten, this cannot be done successfully. It is best to LET THEM ALONE. Fledglings just out of the nest, and still being cared for by their parents, are apt to become widely separated.

The parents know where they are by hearing their calls, and will feed them in turn.

If you are concerned about cats or dogs harming a young bird on the ground, put it in a deep box so it can't easily get out, and hang the box in a tree near the place where you found it, or where you can see or hear the parents. THEN LEAVE THE SCENE.

Usually the parents will not return if they can see you, and even if they can't, it may be some time before they do come back.

But they will come eventually in answer to the young one's hunger calls, feed it, and finally coax it out of the box to a safe place. If anything has happened to the female, the male will care for the young -- and vice versa.

It is still a widely-held belief that parent birds will abandon young which have been handled by humans. THIS IS FALSE. C.E.S.

WESTON -- Judy Schofield of Wellesley will be the auctioneer on Saturday, when Saint Julia's Parish conducts a giant auction to benefit its building fund from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., rain or shine, at the barn on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Robinson 161 Boston Post Rd.

Mrs. John Schuch, chairman, and her committee which includes Mrs. John Duffy, Mrs. Robert Pettit, Mrs. Anthony Chibaro, Mrs. Harland Berry, Mrs. David Bourinot, Mrs. Homer Myers, Mrs. Louis Brunneau, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cleary and Mr. John Callinan insist that this is one event that auction lovers and collectors cannot afford to miss.

Letters to the EDITOR

Rombas Folks Nice, Too

To the Editor:

Weston resident's visit to Rombas:

Alison Hower of Weston recently had the opportunity to visit the family of her pen pal in Rombas, France. She has corresponded with her pen pal for eight years.

Alison was particularly impressed with the warmth and friendship of Rombas people.

She writes that many people she met reminded her of friends at home and could have come from her own neighborhood.

Her visit left her more and more convinced that cultural exchange on a personal basis is the very best way to establish world understanding.

She goes on to say that she is pleased to note that the Weston-Rombas Affiliation fund appeal mentioned that they are thinking of sponsoring student exchange programs in other foreign countries and she hopes that contributors to the Rombas Affiliation realize the important cause they are supporting.

Presbyterians Move To Sudbury Center

SUDBURY -- The United Presbyterian Church of Sudbury, which has been meeting in the Martha Mary Chapel since Oct. 16, 1960 moved into the old Methodist Church building in Sudbury Center last Sunday.

The sanctuary of the building and the church school area have been renovated.

The building has been leased for a year from the Methodist congregation of Sudbury, and the Presbyterians, which are now in the process of organization will offer a complete church program. Church school will be conducted every Sunday at 9:45 in separate classrooms in the school area, and morning worship will be held at 11 in the upstair's sanctuary.

Christian Science Service

WESTON -- The mental nature of fatigue will be explained at Christian Science services Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist, in a Lesson-Sermon on the subject "God the Preserver of Man."

The Golden Text is from the first chapter of Joshua: "Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest."

Carousel Opens June 12

Stare-at-People Time Again: Try Danny Kaye for Size

FRAMINGHAM -- It's stare-at-people time again. Which is to say Carousel's theater-in-the-round tent is opening a 14-show season Monday, June 12.

And if you get tired of staring at the knees, noses and neckties of Those on The Other Side of the circle stage, you'll find:

Danny Kaye and his international revue, Tony Martin, Shelly Berman, Kathryn Grayson, Giselle MacKenzie, Marguerite Piazza and Hugh O'Brian upstaging any audience attention-getter.

Those are the newcomers to the largest music tent theater in the nation. Returning are three all-time favorites here - Dan Dailey, John Raitt and Howard Keel.

The complete 1961 Carousel Theatre schedule is as follows: June 12 - 17, Tony Martin, Jaye P. Morgan and Alan King in "guys & Dolls"; June 19 - 24, Dan Dailey in "Take Me Along"; June 26 - July 1, Shelley Berman in "Where's Charley"; July 3 - 8 Kathryn Grayson in "Merry Widow"; July 10 - 15, Howard Keel in "Kismet"; July 17 - 22, John Raitt in "Oklahoma"; July 24 - 29, Giselle MacKenzie, in "King And I"; July 31 - Aug. 6, Danny Kaye and his internation revue; Aug. 7 - 12, Marguerite Piazza in "Song of Norway"; Aug. 14 - 19, Hugh O'Brian in "Destry"; Aug. 21 - 26, "Flower Drum Song"; August 28 - Sept. 2, Sept. 4 - 9, and Sept. 11 - 16 are still to be announced.

As part of a general facelifting, Carousel will be sporting a brand new tent this season, the largest of its kind in the country. Increased refreshment facilities and all new landscaping are other improvements at the nation's largest music tent theatre.

Individual mail orders and season ticket subscriptions are now being accepted by the Carousel box office. Season subscribers receive a 10% discount except for the Danny Kaye show which is included in the subscription at the full price. Preferred parking privileges and seating are other inducements offered the season ticket applicants.

Ticket prices at Carousel this season will be as follows: Monday-Thursday evenings, $3.95, $3.25, and $2.25; Friday and Saturday evenings, $4.50, $3.50, $2.50; Saturday (4:30 p.m.) matinee, $3.50, $2.50 and $1.55. For the Danny Kaye show only, Carousel prices are: Monday - Thursday, $5.50, $3.95, $2.95; Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, $6.50, $4.95, and $3.95. Sunday evening performance replaces the usual Saturday matinee during this week.

HOWARD W. JOHNSON

M.I.T. Prof. Aides In Dedication

WESTON -- Howard W. Johnson of 32 Shady Hill Rd., Weston, and Professor of industrial management at M.I.T., participated in the recent dedication of Huebner Hall, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

During the dedication program Dean Johnson served as a member of a panel of educators who discussed the qualifications of a life insurance company president.

Dean Johnson joined M.I.T. in 1955 as director of executive development programs. He became Asso. dean in 1958 and assumed his present post in 1959. Prior to coming to M.I.T. he was director of management projects of the University of Chicago's Industrial Relations Center. He has been a consultant in organization and personnel administration to a number of major companies and to the U. S. Government.

If you do get a painful sun or wind burn, avoid washing the area with soap and water for a few days. Use rich creams lavishly, instead and gently wipe the preparation off with tissues.

Dandelions vanish, grass grows greener

Nothing can do more to turn a self-respecting lawn into a shambles than a bumper crop of dandelions like we're having right now.

BONUS® makes short work of these persistent pests. Knocks out other ugly weeds, too—like plantain, buckhorn, English daisy.

At the same time, BONUS feeds grass a steady, protein-building diet. Result? Greener, thicker, stronger turf, unmarred by weeds.

Nice work for just half an hour. But that's all it takes to treat 5000 sq ft with double-duty BONUS and the precise Scotts Spreader. The time for BONUS is now!

Introductory offer saves you $5.00.
Ask us about it.

Whatever your lawn or garden problem, bring it to the Beals at Garden Toolhouse. Come to our new showroom for help, or just to browse.

East Middlesex Garden Club Feder. Receives Honor

WESTON -- The National Council of State Garden Clubs and the State Federation presented their most coveted awards for the year's most outstanding project to the East Middlesex District of The Garden Club Federation.

Mrs. B. Howard Spicker of Weston is the director of the East Middlesex District of which the Country Garden Club of Weston, the Weston Garden Club, and the Garden Interest Group of the Women's Community League are members. Mrs. Ralph A. Parker of Wayland is the president of the Massachusetts Garden Club Federation of Garden Clubs.

Under Mrs. Spicker, 19 garden clubs donated funds and actively supported an evening at the Carousel Theater last summer, the proceeds from which enabled the clubs to complete the entire planting at the Children's Unit of the Metropolitan State Hospital, Waltham.

Two From Weston Smith Graduates

NORTHAMPTON -- Two Weston natives will be among the 467 candidates for degrees from Smith College at its commencement exercises Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

They are:

Miss Christine Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Gibson Smith of 65 Rolling Lane, Weston, a graduate of Dana Hall. She has been on the dean's list for two years and majored in English. She was senior representative to her class and active in work for the Gray Ladies and singing groups.

Miss Blythe S. Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott F. Page, Beaver Pond, Lincoln, a graduate of Weston High School. She majored in sociology and has been on the dean's list this year. She was also a senior representative from her house to the class. Miss Page has also been a soloist with the college choir and a member of the glee club and Italian club.

Burial was in Linwood Cemetery in Weston, with committal prayers by Fr. Graf, assisted by Msgrs. Furlong and O'Connor.

Wayland Loosens Up For Good-Time Festival

WAYLAND -- Rain or shine, preparations have been made for the Strawberry Festival to carry on, June 17, at the Wayland High School Green or in the Field House, if weather necessitates.

Grounds Chairman Ralph Blanchard and Lighting Chairman Charles Peters have mapped plans for both indoor and outdoor arrangements.

Typical of the fun in store for the kiddies is the Balloon Man, Donald Zearfoss, Davelin Rd. He and Bruce Mansfield with 28 of their neighbors have been collecting, blowing and tying balloons for some time now in order to insure enough for all.

The program schedule is now complete, according to Mrs. Warren T. Eriksen, Festival chairman: -- 3 p.m. games and rides (ponies, fire engine, hay wagons); 4:30 - 5:30 folk dancing for small children; 7 - 8:15 family square dancing; 8:30 Strawberry Festival Queen pageant and coronation; 9 - midnight adult square dancing.

3 - midnight family eat out (hot dogs, hamburgers, beverages, and sundaes with strawberries).

Tickets are now on sale throughout town, and balloting for the queen is going on in business establishments all over Wayland.

Renewal

7:45 p.m. at the Wayland High School Field House.

Eight articles are included. All are approved by the finance board, as of this week.

Concluding its appraisal of the petition, the finance board states: "As in the general position which it takes in all matters affecting zoning, the finance committee itself takes no position in this matter, except --"

The board points out that it "still believes there are proper checks and balances provided in the law and that the authority would have to come back to the town for further authorization before anything could be done beyond the planning stage."

The board feels that the authority would steamroller its way through sections it could define as substandard. The authority holds no action will come before another year and that renewal in Wayland will be a gradual, self-help proposition, as it is in many other communities: no bulldozers.

The finance board points out that "an affirmative vote (to kill the authority) will not be legally binding on the authority" but that the petitioners felt it might serve as a caution.

Other articles call for $3300 to bring the snow removal account up to snuff and provide money for December clearance.

Also -- $2200 for garbage removal for the 1961 calendar year.

And $1500 for the water department to connect Grace Rd. with the water system, providing 250 feet of six-inch pipe. No additional takings or betterments involved.

Also approved by the finance board:

--Sale for "$100" of a town lot bounded by two streets at the entrance to the high school land, to Bishop & Ahern in order to make a 10,875-square-foot building lot.

--Authorization for selectmen to acquire by eminent domain, gift or otherwise a 1200-foot parcel of the George L. Nolan property adjacent to the high school for highway purposes (easterly side of Old Connecticut Path) -- to widen high school driveway. $100 authorized.

--Acquisition of a strip of land three feet wide and a slope easement of 10 feet for a sidewalk from the high school to Davelin Rd. along Old Connecticut Path.

Involved are 2757 square feet of land owned by George L. Nolan and 628 square feet of property owned by Evelyn M. Carpenter. Appropriation, $200.

Schools

warrant, stated that after having "reviewed all the data upon which the planning is based . . . it is satisfied that this program of additions represents the best plan of action for the town."

The town meeting warrant states:

"Article 7 -- To see if the town will vote to raise and appropriate a sum of money for the preparation of plans and specifications and for the construction of an addition to the Claypit Hill Grade School, and for originally equipping such addition, and for the purchase of land therefor, and to meet such appropriation, the treasury, by taxation and/or by borrowing; or take any action relative thereto."

The cost is expected to run from $275,000 to about $310,000, according to estimates from Stephen Brody, architect.

The low figure would be the approximate amount needed for an eight-room addition and the latter approximately correct for 10 rooms.

What the evening's debate at the school board session boiled down to was this:

Granted, a 10-room addition was possible, even while making for overcrowded conditions, was it best in the long run for the school system?

The arguments for economy and all-out educational advancement turned on this.

In the end Committeeman John Gregory pointed out that while the plumbing and cafeteria facilities might stand the gaff, the students and the system probably could not.

Supt. Edward J. Anderson said a 10-room addition might ease the strain temporarily but the increasing school population would make eventual solution of the space problem essential.

Mr. Gregory pointed out that continuing to build additions was only postponing eventual large-scale capital expenditures.

Support for the eight-room addition came from Mr. Gregory. Mr. Wolfe, John Arnold, Mrs. Allen Benjamin. The eventual vote was unanimous.

The school building committee then voted unanimously (Edward Thorburn, Raymond Thomas, Mr. Wolfe, Mr. Anderson and Mr. Arnold) to support an addition sufficient to accommodate 240 more pupils.

William A. Barker

WESTON -- William A. Barker, 85, well-known retired Boston druggist, died suddenly at home on South Av., Weston, on Memorial Day.

Until 1943, Mr. Barker had been president of Gammon Drug Co. of Brookline and Boston. He was a descendant of Asa Barker, one of the Andover Minute-Men who fought at Lexington and Concord. The Barker farm in Andover is still in the same family as it has been from the time it was a King's grant in the early 1600s.

Mr. Barker was a life member of the Corporation of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy. Born Feb. 4, 1876, he was the son of Charles V. and Mary Elizabeth (Barker) Barker, a family prominent in Maine textile interests. Mr. Barker was an avid horticulturist and had taken many prizes in Weston garden shows.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Robert T. Murkland of Weston; one son, Donald J. of Brookline; three grandchildren, Marilyn, Robert T. and Richard G. Murkland and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Friday at the Bigelow Chapel in Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, with Rev. Philip Krug of Weston officiating.

[illegible] work on the Connecticut College Radio. Miss Shaw is an English Major and a graduate of Weston High School.

Renewal Expert Hired for Wayland

WAYLAND -- Morton B. Braun Lincoln, a member of Planning and Renewal Associates, was hired by the Wayland Urban Renewal Authority as planner at the authority's meeting Monday night.

The vote was 3 - 0, with John McEnroy abstaining. Voting for: Harvey Newton, George Deverell and Lawrence Fordham.

Selection of Braun means that the authority will consult with him as to the types of Federal planning funds available and later -- if Federal funds are obtained -- he will make a survey of renewal needs in the town, such survey to take precedence over all previous ones such as the Harris report.

Renewal authority members were under attack at the Monday meeting from Wayland Civic Assn. representatives who objected to "one more step" to make the authority permanent.

No action is expected to be taken on any report without consultation with the area or areas of the town involved.

Bits & Pieces

Commencement time is back. And if you're not careful, you'll be getting " good thoughts " in wholesale lots . . . ready or not.

These little nuggets are designed as pep pills but when you come right down to it, they were the original tranquillzers.

You know how it is in the papers: page after page about the "stern realities" and "true to yourself" and "education stops only at the graves". And names of graduates -- from the East Doodleburg (Ohio) Normal to our leading local colleges. Endless.

We're working on two ideas that may simplify this wild annual scramble.

1 -- A sort of chart. Like a mileage chart. Along the left a list of colleges. Along the top, a list of the pearls of wisdom: "no short cuts" -- "knowledge is strength" -- "embark on the sea of life". Then, following the Yale line across, for example, you could check off the pearls that fell on the graduates. Simple. Quick. Understandable.

2 -- For the colleges with the longer lists, a simple statement that "B. U. awarded 2999 degrees -- names furnished upon request."

There -- we feel as if we've made our contribution to the simple life . . . if only you'd listen out there.

Thanks should go to Weston police chief Frank Shaw (also commander of the American Legion Post) for a smooth-running Memorial Day program this year.

Naturally, there's been some confusion about this Summit meeting. So little is known. So for the benefit of those sincerely interested in world affairs, here's the lowdown:

First of all, the main idea has been to get Jacqueline abroad, where foreigners could see what makes America happy. And of course, back home women have been wondering just what Jackie'd do with those Paris designers. We don't know anyone on either side of the Atlantic who's been disappointed.

The President, it should be noted, like a good husband went along to see what Jackie had in mind in the shops. But like a good husband, too, he slipped away to see what the boys in the back room would have. They spent most of the time talking politics. Also, how to keep Nina out of the art galleries and Jackie clear of the couturlers.

The one fly in the whole summit talks came the day Jackie wore the same outfit all afternoon . . . with the same hairdo, too, mind you. The State Department has been hard-pressed to explain THAT.

Nothing but Blue Laws from now on?

* * *

Of course, if they ever get the Inner Belt built in Boston et al, you know what the tunnels will be called, don't you? Inner Tubes.

He who knows not and knows not that he knows not is a fool.

Arthur Dudley

WAYLAND -- Funeral services for Arthur H. Dudley, 63, of 20 Mitchell St. who was stricken suddenly yesterday near his home while driving his car took place in the Gibbs Memorial Funeral Home, Sunday, at 3 p.m. with the Rev. Robert K. Jones Jr., pastor of the Cochituate Methodist Church, officiating.

A native and lifelong resident of this community he was born Mar. 24, 1898 a son of the late Harry G. Dudley and Edith Scotland Dudley - Ames. He was production manager for Bentley & Co. of Boston for more than 35 years and was a member of the Boston Wool Trade Assoc., the Martell Post American Legion, Boston Wool Trade, Meridian Lodge AF&A.M of Natick and the Yorick Club of Lowell.

He is survived by his wife Ethel J. (Stephens) Dudley of Cochituate; three sons, Arthur H. Jr., of USAF in California, Philip H. of Cochituate, Thomas A. of Dracut, a brother Lafayette Dudley of Boca Raton, Fla, a sister Mrs. Sarah Young of Chicago, Ill. There are also six grandchildren.

It's Simply Cuckoo At Sudbury Super

SUDBURY -- Don't be surprised if someone tells you they're going Cuckoo on Wednesday, June 14. This is the night Sudbury Supermarket in South Sudbury holds their annual original Cuckoo Night, from 9 to midnight.

Back for the second year, Cuckoo Night offers many zany tricks including the wheel of fortune and those hectic two-minute specials. Each arrival at Sudbury Super is given a registration number and receives free merchandise if their number comes up on the Wheel of Fortune.

Fun-filled two-minute specials are started with a bell at different sections of the store, and in most cases the special is exhausted before the two minutes are up.

Owner Jack McKinnon, who tried to disguise himself as a beatnik last year, encourages all who plan to attend to dress in wackiest outfit they can find.

Bonnie Campbell to Wed Charles Cutter in Fall

BONNIE CAMPBELL

WAYLAND -- Mr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Campbell of Sears Rd. announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Bonnie Barbara Campbell to Charles Thomas Cutter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Cutter of Concord Rd., Wayland.

Miss Campbell is attending Green Mountain College. Mr. Cutter is a member of the class of 1962 Dartmouth College where he is a member of Kappa Kappa Kappa.

An early fall wedding is planned.

2 Waylanders Complete Special Northeastern Class

WAYLAND -- Two Waylandmen are among 39 New Englanders to receive graduation certificates from Dr. Asa Knowles, president of Northeastern University, after completion of special workshops. They are:

Warren D. Brown, 21 Davelin Road, Wayland, General Manager, The Co-op, Inc. Wayland ; and Jackson K. Emery, 105 Plain Rd., Wayland, employed by Van Keuren Co., Watertown.

The executives have been participating in the University's pioneering Workshops for the Management of Small business. These are given in co-operation with the U.S. Small Business Administration and are taught by Harvey C. Krentzman, President of Advanced Management Associates.

Held over a period of eight weeks the workshops, one in distribution and the other in manufacturing, are designed to solve problems and give information in the areas of marketing, money, men, and management.

Kiwanis Talk Up School Key Club

WAYLAND -- At the last Wayland Kiwanis Club meeting Lyman Nevling, Chairman of Key Club Division 5 West and member of the Wellesley Kiwanis Club, gave the Wayland Club and guests of the Wayland Club, Max Griffin, Jay Demio, Wayland High School Principal and Vice Principal, along with six students, an introduction in the proposed Key Club, an organization sponsored by Kiwanis but governed and supported by the High School boys for the purpose of elevating the social and moral standards of teenagers.

Max Griffin offered his complete cooperation and is looking forward to having such an organization in the Wayland High School.

Those students interested may request information from the Wayland Key Club Chairman, Edward Anderson, Superintendent of the Wayland Schools.

Wayland Makes Finals

WAYLAND -- Well, they dood it. Wayland snapped all the way back and ended the Dual County League season with a 10 - 4 win record and the right to compete in the Eastern Massachusetts schoolboy tourney.

Bill Wilkinson threw a three-hitter last Thursday as the team knocked off Lincoln-Sudbury, 17-5. That left the Indians in second place behind Lynnfield. And that wasn't easy, starting, as it did, with a 3-4 record. Some contrast with last year's 21 straight wins. But they made it.

Thursday's game was a free-swinging, boot-it-around affair. Wayland got seven hits, its foes got an equal amount of errors and scored five runs on three hits.

Bill struck out 14 Regionals. It was the big first and the big fourth that did the job, as Wayland combined hits with Regional errors to run up 12 of its 17 runs.

The summary:

		R	H	E
Linc-Sudbury	001 022 0-	5	3	7
Wayland	510 704 x-	17	7	0

Corvettes Split Twin Bill; Donna Hebert Hurls No-Hitter

WAYLAND -- The Cochituate Corvettes split a doubleheader Sunday at Hartford, Conn., playing the Hartford Laurelettes, 1960 Connecticut champions, with Donna Hebert, 15-year-old hurler, pitching her second no-hitter this season in this fast Class A New England Girls Softball League.

Both pitchers had a no-hitter going until the seventh when the Corvettes got three successive walks off Hartford hurler, Shelley Shelson. Doris Drisdell blasted a triple to right center to clean the bases.

Another walk, singles by Carol Grendol and Mary Bennett brought the total to six runs. That was enough for Donna. She had six strikeouts in the 6-0 win.

But the Corvettes dropped the second game, 2-0, although they outhit the Laureletts, 4 - 3. However Peg Everone, veteran Hartford pitcher, turned back the Corvettes whenever things got tough.

The Corvettes meet the Orange Devils at Cochituate ballpark Saturday at 6:45 p.m.

Juniors Win Big At Weston High Annual Field Day

WESTON -- Junior class athletes swept the field to cop the annual Weston High Field Day, sponsored by the Weston Boosters, on Monday, May 29, at the high school.

The Junior Class under the leadership of Miss Rainer, John McKenzie and Bill Rizzo made it two years in a row for the class to win this event.

The Juniors started their win campaign with the first event of calisthenics where over 200 participants were in competition. After this event, other classes never came close.

The win for the Juniors was featured by Ted Herrick who won the 440 yard dash, Bud Foster -- Broad jump and baseball throw, Ann Molin -- Soft ball throw, Miss J. Hoagland 220 dash, Pete Pollock -- Football throw.

Outstanding work for the Seniors was by Pete Borrelli who won the 880 yard in 2.13:7 and the mile run in 5.13:3.

Surprise of the day was the outstanding work of the freshmen who scored twice as many points as last year and the only sophomore events were won by Miss J. VanNostrand field hockey drive and shot put throw by Dave Evans.

The final tally in all events were Juniors 77 1/2, Seniors 69, Sophomores 46 2/3, Freshmen 37.

This year as last year the Weston Boosters in appreciation for the work by John S. Proctor, director and his staff, gave awards to all winning events and served refreshments at the close of the events.

Linnehan 3-Hits Holliston – 6-0

WAYLAND -- Nobody exactly got their bats off their shoulders but Tom Linnehan hurled the best three-hitter and Wayland High topped Holliston 6 - 0 Wednesday, May 31.

Tom whiffed seven while his teammates were making their big kill in the third when they scored five runs. It was Tom's fifth win this season, aided by a two-run double of his in the big third.

The summary:

Wayland	005 001 x 6-3-2
Holliston	000 000 0 0-3-0

Weston Victor, 11-7

WESTON -- Weston High humbled Ashland High Monday, May 28, here with an 11 - 7 victory, aided by a triple by Ron Powers and a homer by Mike McDonald. Forbes McMullin was the victor with 10 strikeouts and five hits.

The summary:

Ashland	040 002 1- 7 5 3
Weston	501 230 x-11 9 1

Five Waylanders Named to Push M.I.T. Fund Drive

WAYLAND -- Named as regional vice-chairmen in Wayland for the MIT Second Century Fund drive by William S. Edgerly, chairman for the Wayland-Sudbury region, were:

Mr. Philip S. Benjamin, 29 Jeffrey Rd., Mr. Wallace R. McKinnon, 131 Woodridge Rd., Mr. William L. Maini, 107 Woodridge Rd., Mr. D. Bruce Montgomery, 24 Sherman Bridge Rd., and Dr. George W. Pratt Jr., 67 Glezen Lane.

The Wayland drive is part of a campaign to raise $66,000,000 for MIT's Second Century program to meet the rapidly changing requirements of Technological education. Funds will be used for development of the new courses, and contruction of the laboratories and other educational facilities necessary to enable the Institute to continue to provide technological leadership to the country.

By the census of 1810, East Sudbury (Wayland) had 824 inhabitants.

Weston Rate $63—Up $2.20

WESTON -- The 1961 tax rate here is $63 -- up $2.20 from last year.

That's approximately a case of eating one's cake and having it, too, because the small rise reflects the "full impact of maturing debt and interest charges on the new high school."

In fact, this year is the peak year in such bond costs. From here on in, until the town is forced to undertake new capital costs, the bond costs will dwindle.

The rate was announced this week by Geoffrey A. Sawyer, chairman of the board of tax assessors. W. Brownell Freeman and Robert P. Breck Jr. worked with him on the figures.

The $63 rate is 80 cents less than the estimated rate given by the Board of Selectmen at the town meeting in March.

Last year the tax rate jumped $8.20 -- from $52.60 to $60.80.

Total assessed valuation of both personal and real property is $29,297,225 -- compared with $27,577,528 last year.

The smaller increase was ascribed to a general rise in real and personal valuations. There were no major adjustments in valuation -- just growth.

Renewal Hotter Than the Weather

WAYLAND -- The only thing hotter than the unmentionable weather is the much-mentioned issue of urban renewal in Wayland.

This week, on the eve of the town meeting which may decide the fate of the urban renewal authority, the Authority and the Wayland Civic Assn. took opposite sides on this issue.

Details of their position may be found on PAGE 10 and The Crier comments briefly on the significance of the no-renewal article in the June 21 town meeting warrant on PAGE 4.

Bike Safety Program Saturday in Weston

WESTON -- Bike safety skills will be explained to Weston youngsters this Saturday by Weston police at the high school grounds a 9 a.m. And in case of rain, the affair will be held Sunday at 9.

The event, designed to help Weston youngsters use their bikes safely, was postponed last Saturday because of rain. It is jointly sponsored by the Weston Rotary Club and the Weston police with Officer Lawrence Tierney in charge. Prizes will be awarded to the top three in two age groups.

WESTON GRADUATION -- Weston High graduates 115 seniors tonight at 5 -- and this is how the stately procession looked to photographer Larry Forman who looked on rehearsal from the rooftop last week. Class president Robert B. White, youth with arms folded at end of the line, waits to make the long walk toward camera as he will tonight when he delivers the welcoming address.

Make It Town Caucus? Weston In a Quandary

WESTON -- Change marches into Weston with rapid strides.

The latest proposed alteration is the report of the Committee on Town Government that a town-wide caucus be instituted in the interests of promoting more competition for town offices.

The committee turned down, as did the Board of Selectmen who released the report this week, a proposal to set up a representative town meeting.

Not necessary at this point -- although maybe later as the town continues to grow was its reasoning.

The selectmen also rejected the town-wide caucus proposal.

Their reasoning:

"Weston is still in the fortunate position of having able men and women willing to volunteer services to assume the burdens of elective offices because of their disinterested desire for good government rather than because of personal ambition.

"It appears to us that a change which, in effect, invites and increases the prospect of contests

Railroad Spur Gets Heave-ho; Weston Firm Fights Bid to Kill It

WESTON -- The Board of Appeals Tuesday turned down the petition of the Massachusetts Broken Stone Co. for a spur track through residential property.

The board held, among other things, that the company had another spur track on the east side that could serve this purpose.

But even more important in the long-drawn-our case is an impending court case to decide if the 60-year-old firm has the right to process stone brought from another site under terms of its non-conforming use.

What this apect of the case boils down to is this:

The Board of Selectmen has informed the company that it agrees with the contention made at the April hearing before the Appeals Board that the firm cannot process stone taken from an outside quarry.

What lies behind the issue is this:

For years, many Weston residents in the immediate area of the quarry have hoped that the 60-year-old firm on the Waltham-Weston line would disappear once it had finished mining the local quarry.

What Norman T. Byrnes, attorney for the crushed stone firm, wants is this:

A speedy determination of whether the company can continue in business . . . to process stone brought in by "rail, trucks, wheelbarrow, or in our pockets" from a quarry the firm is purchasing in Berlin.

"If this is ruled out," says Byrnes, "we don't see that we have much chance of remaining in business."

Mr. Byrnes stated that once he has read the Tuesday decision of the Appeals Board he will decide what action the company will take with respect to that. It can go into Superior Court in a move to overturn the town board's decision.

Incidentally, all Appeals Board decisions must be unanimous. Making this decision were Chairman Guy Garland, Richard T. Wigginton and Everett A. Grant, secretary.

In 1950 the company took to the Court Puts Cats Out; Wayland Saved for People

WAYLAND -- No meows in Wayland. Superior Court Judge James Vallely ruled against a cat shelter in North Wayland in a ruling handed down last Thursday in Cambridge.

That is, he ruled that there'll be no cozy home for 100 cats more or less -- unless the Ethel M. Gifford Sheltering Home Corp. of Brighton gets a building permit that's valid.

Presumably this will not happen, since the issue in the courts was whether the town's revocation of the first permit was based on the fact that specific requirements in the law had not been met.

The anti-cat ruling, sought by Wayland Town Counsel Frank Kilburn, in effect found that there were certain specifications that had to be met, whether or not the cat farm supporters felt they had done what they'd been asked to or not.

For several months the fur flew about Wayland as the partially-completed shelter (foundation in) was fought almost on every street corner. It resulted in a special town meeting to head off an influx of cats.

So after nine months of caterwailing, Wayland has been limited to dogs, horses, cattle, ducks and people. But no cats.

If You Want Some Family Fun, Strawberry Festival's the Place

WAYLAND -- Keep your ear open for The Town Crier.

He'll be out your way in the bus donated by Wayland Motors today and tomorrow to give you the word on the Strawberry Festival scheduled Saturday on the Wayland High Green at 3:30 p.m.

The Town Crier bus will provide free Strawberry Key Chains at the Village Shopper Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. One to a person seeking a Day-Out-With-the-Family from 3:30 to midnight.

Another picture and another story will be found on PAGES 4 and 8.

YOUR PICK OF QUEENS -- It's Strawberry Festival Time -- and all is well beside the Wayland Motors - Town Crier bus which, with its Crier Bell, will be coming your way to remind you of Saturday's Festival on the High School Green (or in the Field House), starting at 3:30. Left to right, the contestants: Nancy Roehrig; Leo Flanagan of Wayland Motors which has donated the special bus; Sandi Owens; Wendy Brown, 5, who is the strawberry of the Festival; Pat Dyer; Penny Richardson; Randy Johnson. And get your Crier Key Chain at Wayland Shopper Saturday.

Carousel's Opener: 'Guys & Dolls'

Nathan Detroit & Gang Roll 'Em In The Aisles

BY ANNE HOCKING

It is only fair to admit at the outset of this review that it would take something of a clod or a number of clods to miss the spirit of any Damon Runyon-inspired script.

His essence is not elusive nor are his stories ponderous enough to give cause to a throwing up of the hands at the suggestion that one be set to music, like say Shaw's Pygmalion (My Fair Lady) or Molnar's Lilion (Carousel).

All you have to do in case you have any doubts is read a few of them and roll the name Harry the Horse, Angie the Ox or Nicely-Nicely Johnson around your tongue or let the implication of "she gave him a look that would cool a moose at mating time" tickle your sensitivities, and you'll see what I mean. Then add to this his absurd situations and what you've got is a sitting duck waiting for a Frank Loesser to come along and take a pot shot.

He did, and that's one of the reason Carousel Theatre opened its season with Guy's and Dolls Monday night, under the direction of Jerome Eskow.

This particular situation revolves around the vicissitudes of a Salvation Army mission (The Save a Soul) and its leader Sarah Brown set adrift in that sea of iniquity, underground Broadway, and also the travail of a floating crap game and its manager, Nathan Detroit, looking for a roost. All this somehow breeds romance and its usual complications which eventually culminate in a sewer where the toughest but most vulnerable of them all, Sky Masterson, finds himself shooting craps for the temporary salvation of 12 degenerate souls in exchange for the affections of Miss Brown.

I did not mean to imply earlier that all the performers need do is walk through their parts and all would be well but given a little enthusiasm things couldn't go too far wrong -- and they didn't, except that Jack Delon in the role of Nicely-Nicely had a way of annoying one with his absence.

Tony Martin, Jaye P. Morgan, Alan King and Jeanne Bal took the leads and with the possible exception of Mr. Martin who seemed to sort of Martin his way through the first act, all were just as they should be.

Miss Bal as Sarah had an extraordinary voice, one of the few whose volume did not seem dissipated by the theatre-in-the-round and under-the-tent set-up.

Jaye P. Morgan without a quality voice but a captivating one bounced in and out as Nathan's frustrated fiance of 14 years standing, with elan and West-side class.

Alan King was Nathan Detroit to a T, which is to say, not "the breakfast-eating, Brooks Brothers type." Mr. Martin can be forgiven his slow start for his performance in the sewer episode and for his rendering of "Luck Be a Lady Tonight". He gave the impression of being aware that it is without question one of the best scenes on the American stage today.

But if you really want enchantment get a look at how Jack Delon can undulate approximately 230 pounds of bulk around a stage and sing like a hopped-up angel at the same time. His opposite, Roy Stuart's Benny Southstreet was almost as good -- he just didn't have as much to work with.

The choreography, though without ingenuity, had mood and style. In fact, about all I can think to say in the negative is that someone in costumes permitted the Salvation Army ladies to wear pumps and the hotdogs ran out at intermission.

Every day 11 schools are destroyed or damaged by fire in the United States.

VOTERS OF WAYLAND

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

WEDNESDAY JUNE 21, 1961

Dear Voters:

The question to be answered by the citizens of Wayland is far more significant than that of a need for Urban Renewal in Wayland. The real question is do we support the principle of the United States going into a collectivist state with total dependence upon the government or are we to continue as a free nation, independent and responsible?

It is our feeling that the function of the government should be to protect the natural rights of the INDIVIDUAL; not be the aggressor against our rights. Further, people will eventually have to cease their request for more and more Federal spending. We can not undertake these spending proposals without the prospect of higher taxes. Money from the Federal Government isn't money that just comes from heaven.

Vote to recommend the dissolution of the Urban Renewal Authority in Wayland if you want to place Wayland on the side of a free, independent nation.

Board of Directors
Wayland Civic Association

P. S. We have been referred to as a pressure group. We are proud to admit that we are a pressure group for better town government in Wayland and would like to have others join us to increase the pressure.

Dr. Brackett Wins 2 N.E. Honors

WESTON -- Dr. Anthony Brackett, Superintendent of Schools in Weston, was doubly honored this month by being elected vice chairman of the New England School Development Council and a trustee of Middlebury College, Vt.

The New England School Development Council is an organization of 158 school systems in all New England states. Weston being one of the school systems belonging to the organization. The government of NESDEC is by an executive committee consisting of two representatives from each of the New England states, with three from Massachusetts. Dr. Brackett was a member of the executive committee while superintendent in Maine and was continued as a member upon assuming the superintendency in Weston. On July 1 he will start the second year of his third three-year term and will not be eligible to succeed himself.

As an alumnus of Middlebury College, Dr. Brackett has been president of the New England district of the alumni, agent for the class of 1933, and a member of the Alumni Council since 1951.

Weston Science Director To Attend Conference

WESTON -- Wallace Sawyer, science curriculum director of the Weston public schools, has been selected to participate in a special institute for science supervisors at the University of Colorado July 17 - Aug. 11.

This program is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and is organized for the purpose of formulating recommendations for more adequate integration of the various newly organized programs of physics, chemistry and biology.

Don't You Want Opera In Boston?

To the Editor:

Currently languishing for lack of buyers is one of the biggest bargains in the history of the arts ever offered. This once-in-a-lifetime bargain is available through the Boston Opera and Arts Fund, parent organization of what might accurately be described as a cultural community fund, whose members include the Boston Opera Assn., the Institute of Contemporary Art, and the Metropolitan Boston Arts Center.

Details of this bargain are as follows: The Boston Opera and Arts Fund is asking for $500,000. Of this total $300,000 is to go to the Boston Opera Assn., sponsor of the annual spring visits of the Metropolitan Opera Co., for the purpose of adding to the new Civic Auditorium 1) an orchestra pit large enough for a full operatic orchestra; 2) suitable dressing rooms; 3) a stage to meet the requirements of full scale opera and ballet; and 40 auxiliary lighting and storage facilities for large sets.

These changes will enable Boston, which is presently the only major city in the United States and Canada without an opera house, again to see the great visiting ballet and opera companies in appropriate surroundings.

The remainder of the total, $200,000, will be divided equally between the Institute of Contemporary Art and the Metropolitan Boston Arts Center.

This then is the bargain offered to a city once called the Athens of America. At present writing - this is shocking - it is only two-fifths subscribed.

Please help by sending amounts large or small to: Boston Opera and Arts Fund, 1175 Soldiers Field Rd., Boston. If desired, contributions may be designated to any one of the three participating organizations, and are of course tax-deductible.

Don't Leave Now...

This pack-your-grip-and-steal-quietly-away town meeting next Wednesday is more important than the big granddaddy one we had last March.

You can't run down government by running away from it. Just as many good efforts can go down the drain by getting right out of town for a much-needed vacation as by indifference to government at any other time.

We have a sneaky hunch that there's going to be a bit more than ordinary negative thinking at that meeting. And we'd like to point out two important matters on the agenda that could suffer:

1--An addition (probably eight rooms) to the Claypit Hill Schol.

2--Elimination of the newly-organized Urban Renewal Authority.

Just look at it this way. We've got so many pupils now that any failure to make an addition now at Claypit will mean double sessions there beginning next year. And if Claypit gets it, what will happen to Loker? To the high school eventually?

A new school in North Wayland may seem better to many interested in the neighborhood school concept but (with the town finances strained) this is no time to dawdle over an addition -- and maybe lose even that. But you need to show up -- and vote -- to get what you want.

As for the renewal authority, we feel that whatever your views on renewal (if you have any), you should vote to keep this board in business.

And our reason is basic: No board voted into existence by the town at large should be removed before it has had a chance even to begin the job it was set up to do. As the finance board points out, there are adequate checks on its moves. Let's see what it will do.

But whatever your views on these major matters, we'd suggest you pack that bag later. And we repeat; you can't run town government these days by running away from it.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Watch Out -- Eggs Are Cute But Snappers Are Mean

Probably the most dangerous creature around these parts is the snapping turtle. These beasts seem to hail from the pre-historic times, and I wish they had stayed there. DON'T mess with them unless you know what you are doing. They can snap off a finger with a strike as fast as a rattlesnake.

These turtles live in almost any permanent pond or river, and are seldom seen, except during this time of year when they wander in search of dry sandy soil to lay their eggs.

Usually during the first two weeks in June the old mamma turtle can be found sitting over a deep, tubelike hole she has dug in the ground, where she deposits a dozen or so eggs that look like soft shelled ping-pong balls.

These eggs are covered over and the warm sun hatches them in due time, and out of the hole come the small ones, about an inch long.

Fortunately skunks dig up and eat most of these clutches of eggs.

We usually go down along the railroad track behind the Wayland Town Dump to look for these eggs.

You can tell where they are from the freshly turned sand there, and if the eggs are put in sand in a shallow box, and kept in the sun (but you must water the sand every few days to prevent dehydration) they will hatch in a few weeks.

But then you'd better destroy them. This may seem mean to some folks, but I can't see one decent thing the snapper is good for -- except turtle soup and stew.

They will drag down young ducks and eat them, and also feed on young muskrats and any type of living thing they can handle.

Now these adult snapping turtles grow to as much as 80 pounds. They have a small plastron (bottom shell) and the rough carapace (top shell) which may vary from brown to black.

Their tail is similar to an alligator's and about as long as the top shell. The neck is quite long and the head heavy, with a pointed nose and strong, sharp jaws.

The eyes are small and mean looking, and don't miss a trick.

These turtles don't bask in the sun as do most turtles, but spend most of their time in the water. They are very hard to spot as they lie submerged, with only the point of their nose and eyes above the water, and sink quietly beneath the surface when approached.

Years ago we used to trap them and sell them to a Chinese restaurant for soup - and as I remember it, we got around a dollar apiece for them, and more for a really large one.

Now I have eaten all sorts of things from woodchuck to eels, but there's something about a snapper I just can't go -- so I'll save my share for the people with stronger stomachs.

In the meantime, I'll show no more mercy than the snapper does when I see one.

See You There...

No, we're not about to take a stand on THE choice for queen. We think we'd probably vote for all five.

But we'd like to say a word about the Strawberry Festival this Saturday. We're going to be there. Just for the fun of it. And that's saying something.

How many places are there today where it's fun -- for all the family? No ferris wheels. No hoarse barkers. That's enough to appeal to Waylanders, Westonites and suburbanites in general.

More than that, for more than a decade this event has been supporting a service that all of us at one time have appreciated -- namely the Junior Town House. The latter itself is a tradition in town, as every youngster entering its kindergarten grows up to know.

It runs from 3:30 to midnight Saturday. See you there.

Better Than Yawning....

Well, you can't win them all. Last year, Wayland High School's Indians won 21 games copped the Dual County League and Eastern Massachusetts Class C baseball titles. This year, it was an also ran, albeit game one.

Starting off lamely, Buzz Bowers' Indians snapped back to end the season with a 10 - 4 record and the right to enter the big tourney. Not only that, it wound up the season with two no-hitters: one by Tom Linnehan and the other by its Junior ace Bill Wilkinson in the tourney prelims.

At times, they hit well, they got good pitching and sporadic fielding. And they lost out. But we'd just like to say it again: you can't win 'em all. And if you did, we'd all be yawning, waiting for the unexpected. Better luck next year, boys.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Few Things to Tell Them About Bunker Hill

On the hilltop above the point of land where the Charles and the Mystic Rivers meet soars the granite shaft of Bunker Hill monument.

If you are familiar with the tangle of tenements, bridges, Navy Yard, freight terminals and elevated lines that characterize Charlestown today, you can hardly imagine it as it was in 1775, when June 17 became forever Charlestown's day.

For then on the green hayfields of Breed's and Bunker's Hills, interspersed with fences and stonewalls, 800 or a few more ill-disciplined but determined militia of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Connecticut held off the assaults of 3000 British regulars all afternoon; and left the field only when there was no more powder with which to charge their fowling pieces.

Among them were at least 52 farmers from Sudbury, of which what is now Wayland was then a part. These men formed with others, three companies, under Sudbury and Framingham officers.

It was now eight weeks since the first resistance of the Minute Men at Concord and Lexington on Apr. 19.

But General Gage was growing more and more uncomfortable. From all four New England colonies militia had poured into Cambridge and the surrounding towns, till now Boston was ringed around with 16 miles of camps, a thousand militia men to each mile. His supplies from the country were cut off: even the islands in the harbor had been cleaned of their cattle and sheep by the colonials.

To prevent the noose from drawing tighter, he determined to seize all the heights surrounding the town.

It was no more than dark on the evening of the sixteenth when 1200 Americans, armed with picks and shovels as well as guns marched quietly across Somerville and took over the Charlestown hills themselves.

When dawn came, these same ships began a cannonade; but the dirt continued to fly, and the redoubt to mount, as the farm boys sweated at their task, for it was a hot day, after an early spring. Where time was lacking to do it all, they wound the hay cut by the mowers the day before into the rail fencing to give some slight protection against the attack they knew would come.

In the early afternoon's heat, sailors from the warships rowed boatload after boatload of grenadiers across the Charles to Charlestown's shore, just about where the nest of bridges now bears unceasing streams of trains and traffic. The troops from across the sea formed, deployed and, as if on parade, marched up the hill to take the redoubt and breast works from the despised militia.

"Wait until you can see the whites of their eyes," were the American orders.

The breast works flamed, the British front lines fell, the officers especially. The troops staggered, then turned back to the foot of the hills.

A second time they advanced, and the carnage and disorder were repeated. From the roofs and steeples of Boston the crowded watchers could see the green hillside covered with windows of bodies, amidst this slope's uncut grass.

Now the powderhorns of the Americans was all but gone.

They met the third, a bayonet assault, courageously; but lacking powder and without bayonets, they were forced back across Charlestown Neck to Prospect Hill in Somerville, suffering heavily all the way.

At the end of that bloody afternoon, over one in three of the assaulting British grenadiers lay dead or wounded, 1052 in all.

You can go over to Charlestown on the 17th. There will be a parade, with bands and majorettes and balloons, and lots of speech making the night before.

Or you can, on some quieter ordinary day, visit the green park on the hilltop, and climb the austere column of Quincy granite, with the splended prospect of the city and harbor for you to enjoy from its top.

Just remember, and remind your children, that on that dingy hillside sloping down to the two rivers, some hundreds of good men died for the liberty you enjoy today.

For that day was proof, as Franklin wrote to English correspondents, that "Americans will fight, England has lost her colonies forever."

Attends Reunion

WAYLAND -- John T. Karman, 221 Lakeshore Dr., Wayland was among some 700 members and guests who attended the 92d Annual Reunion Banquet of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy Alumni Assn. at the Totem Pole Ballroom in Norumbega Park, Auburndale, Tuesday, June 6.

Weston School Orchestra Concludes 1961 Season

WESTON -- Two junior high school guest orchestras from Lexington (Muzzey Junior High and Diamond Junior High), joined Weston's Junior High School Orchestra in presenting the concluding assembly program of the year, on Monday, June 5. The program consisted of selections from Beethoven, Bartok and Prokofiev, performed by the two visiting orchestras, and of music from Grieg and Handel, played jointly by Lexington and Weston.

The following day the Weston students went to Lexington and presented programs both at the Muzzey and the Diamond Junior High Schools.

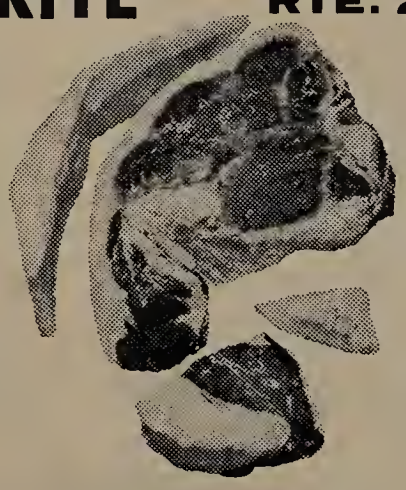
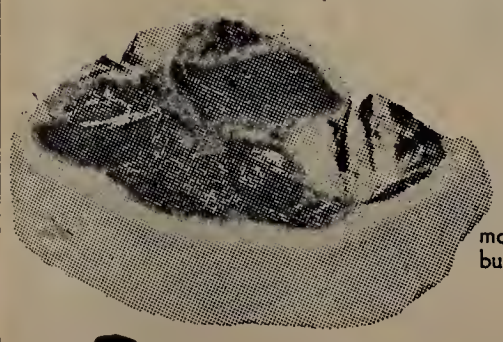
Serve a steak that tastes great

IGA TABLERITE...that is! Beef

BOUGHT RITE





We are constantly reminding you, "The Lady Who Pushes The Cart," of the tender, flavorful quality of IGA TableRite Meats. In the case of meat, as well as many foods, it is necessary that you begin with quality. The many IGA beef selectors buying beef in the various markets throughout the country choose only naturally aged, cornfed beef. This assures you and your family of complete enjoyment at meal time.

TRIMMED RITE

Naturally it takes a certain amount of fat to guarantee you and your family a tender, flavorful meal. But no one likes to pay for excess fat and bone on any cut of meat.

This is where the men in your IGA Meat Department enter the picture. Their experience and schooling has given them the advantage of knowing just how much to trim off of a cut of meat to allow for maximum consumer satisfaction. They are experts in preparing the varied cuts you see in the meat cases every day in your IGA Store. To add to the value you get when you purchase IGA TableRite Meats all cuts are weighed after trimming, thus giving you more edible meat for your buying dollar.

PRICED RITE

IGA TableRite choice beef is priced to save you money on your food budget every week. Buy rite... buy TableRite!!

Bits & Pieces

Had any wrong numbers on the phone recently? We have. And that recording . . . have you noticed? A lot of people have. They want to know if that woman ('This is a recording. .') is drowning. No she isn't. We checked.

We made a sort of informal check. They don't say so exactly but we understand she's talking under water. Something new. It's known as "burble talk". It gives you that extra trembling tone that keeps you keen and alert . . . to catch every syllable.

Supposed to make for clean, clear directions. And it's said she's trained with a ballpoint pen. Girls hoping to qualify must be able to take notes on mashed potatoes and soft butter.

There's other intensive training, too. Some say it's as intensive as that of the astronauts: must swim 50 yards freestyle; master exercises in weightlessness, timelessness and factlessness. All this to arrive at a state approaching tonelessness.

Sometimes we really miss up. Last week, Mrs. L. William Bertelsen voted along with other members of the School Building Committee in favor of the Claypit Hill School addition. Inadvertent. Actually, her contribution as chairman of the meeting helped to clarify the thinking.

Summit conferences are a breeze, Mr. Kennedy's soon going to discover. Tension, yes. But nothing like the tension in a household when three minutes before school bus time, your six-year-old can't find his only pair of suspenders.

* * *

And while we think of it: we've noticed several times recently one youngster on Stonebridge Rd. whose parents apparently think enough of him to buy him a nice little pedal car. But he's been taking some big chances, driving nonchalantly on a busy street.

Something About Birds

They Don't Get Lazy;

Keep Your Birdbath Filled and Fresh

WESTON -- A flock of 20 cedar waxwings was seen on June 4 by P. L. Albrecht, Spruce Hill Rd. There has been only one other report of these birds this year. A male mockingbird, singing, appeared on June 2 at the corner of Spruce Hill and King's Grant Rds. (Albrecht and others); and a warbling vireo was picked up dead on June 4 by Mrs. Albrecht. This could be the same bird seen and heard by Mrs. E. F. Foote, North Ave., on May 23.

Forty or 50 years ago, this vireo was a fairly common summer resident in the Northeast, but it decreased between 1917-1922 and is still rare -- both in migration and as a summer resident. It has not been reported in Weston since 1954 (Hastings, North Ave.).

Late parula and blackburnian warblers were seen on June 1 by Mrs. L. S. Hayes, Gypsy Trail, who also reports an olive-backed thrush on the same day. Blackpoll warblers were last heard on June 3 (Smith). A male bobolink was seen by Mrs. W. A. Elliston, South Ave., on June 2.0

This is another bird which has decreased greatly here, due mainly to the gradual disappearance of its favorite open areas -- hay fields and pastures. There have been more reports of indigo buntings this spring than usual. A male was seen and heard singing on June 7 in the shrubbery next to the big sign directly across from the Triple A Market in Weston Center (Smith).

Reports of ovenbirds, black-and-white and black-throated green warblers will be much appreciated. They were down in numbers last summer and appear to be scarce again this year.

About summer feeding: The main objection to this (but almost certainly groundless) is that birds will neglect their natural food and depend on "hand-outs" instead.

Even though we do put out food, their instincts make them feed largely on insects during the summer.

A small amount of seed and a bit of suet will certainly do no harm, and will give us much pleasure (which is actually the main reason we feed birds anyway -- winter or summer).

Then we can see at close range many species not present in the winter and learn about their interesting behavior during the nesting season.

A bird bath filled daily with fresh, clean water is a great attraction. Place it near thick shrubbery or evergreens, as birds like a protected place nearby in which to dry and preen. -- C.E.S.

Weston Girl Receives Degree

WESTON -- Miss Esther Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Fuller Jr., 40 Baker's Hill Rd., was among 236 women who received their associate degrees from Colby Junior College on June 4.

Miss Fuller was awarded a secretarian science associate degree. While at Colby she was a member of the Fine Arts Club, the International Relations Club, the Athletic Association, and the May Week-end Committee, and sang with the Chapel Choir.

Civic Assn. Gets Answers

WAYLAND--Just how far can a renewal authority go?

Members of the Wayland Civic Assn., strongest foes of renewal in town, got the low-down from officers of the non-profit Massachusetts Urban Renewal Assn. at a meeting Wednesday, June 7, at the Little Theater at Wayland High.

John Elliott and Paul May of the association outlined the formula followed in estimating whether an area is eligible for Federal and state funds under urban renewal:

1. There must be a written cooperation agreement between the town and the Redevelopment Authority.
2. There must be a Survey and Planning Operation - including a house to house survey of the area.
3. A specialist in marketability must be hired to determine what the area will be worth once it is redeveloped - thereby estimating if the plan is economically feasible.
4. The re-use of the area must be considered. What is the most profitable re-use of the land?
5. An appraiser is needed to determine how much money is required to purchase the properties involved.
6. After razing the buildings - a determination must be made by an architect of what should properly be put on this land from the standpoint of esthetic appeal and usefulness to the community.

The question of provision of new housing seemed to be uppermost in the members' minds. "Where will we go and how much will it cost us?" was the big question.

"The replacement cost would be greater than what we would get for our homes," one member argued.

This has been handled in some areas with projects of apartments and in some with projects of single family residences. Many people find more adequate housing in other parts of town or nearby towns.

In some cases people use the certificates of the Redevelopment Authority when getting mortgages from local banks to build new homes. These work somewhat the same as the G. I. Bill, being a guarantee by the government.

Wayland Artist In Arts Festival

WAYLAND -- The Boston Arts Festival will have a Wayland resident exhibiting this year. A painting by Marjorie Furrer, Pequot Rd., was accepted by the all artist jury for entry in the National Competition which runs at the Boston Public Garden from June 8 - 25. The 139 paintings on exhibit were selected from approximately 3000 paintings entered from across the Nation.

Mrs. Furrer is holding a one-man show of recent paintings thru the month of June at the new Medical Arts Building, 42 Weston Rd., in Waltham. This contemporary building was designed by architect Francis Morse of Reservoir Rd., Wayland.

For information on the Festival, call Mrs. Furrer, EL 8-4871.

Wellesley Graduate

WAYLAND -- Miss Vivienne Thomas, 15 Training Field Rd., is among 384 who received the degree of bachelor of arts at Wellesley college Monday, June 5 at the 83d commencement when degrees were conferred by Mis Margaret Clapp, president of the college.

Miss Thomas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert M. Thomas and is a graduate of Wayland High School. She has majored in English at Wellesley.

Mrs. Etta Doherty

WAYLAND -- Mrs. Etta J. (Maloney) Doherty, 85, widow of the late Thomas H. Doherty of 7 Pemberton Rd., died Sunday following a long illness.

A native and life-long resident of this community, she was born Feb. 28, 1876, daughter of the late Michael and Honora (Young) Maloney.

Surviving her is a son, Raymond C. Doherty who lived with his mother. There are several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held in the Gibbs Memorial Funeral Home, Tuesday at 9:15 a.m. followed by a requiem high mass in St. Zepherin's Church at 10. Interment was in St. Patrick's Cemetery, Natick.

Wayland Girl Wins $400 Scholarship Aid

WAYLAND -- Miss Patricia A. Cain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cain of Wayland, has received $400 in scholarship funds from the Carnegie Institute, Boston, as the result of a competitive examination given there in April.

Miss Cain is a graduate of Rose Hawthorne High School, Concord, and will be enrolled this fall at Carnegie for course in medical technology.

Weston Graduate In Navy Training

FRAMINGHAM William N. Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Turner of Sarasota, Fla., has enlisted in the U.S.N. and is now undergoing recruit training at Great Lakes, Ill.

Turner, player on the Weston High football team, graduated with the class of '58. Prior to entering the Navy he attended Miami University.

Rubbish Crackdown Begun by Weston Police

WESTON -- The crackdown is at hand. Weston police will begin prosecution of persons allowing rubbish to blow out of their cars while on the way to the town dump.

Recently, properties along Church St. have gained that littered look from blowing rubbish. Police point out that town by-laws specify that rubbish being carried to the dump must be securely covered.

Half a fact is a whole falsehood.

Wayland LWV Looks Over Town

To the Editor:

The League of Women Voters of Wayland during the coming year in line with their traditional policy is undertaking to attend meetings of town boards and committees.

This will serve as a basis for the League's exploration into the functions of town boards and committees under Massachusetts and Federal laws.

The item which was adopted at the League's annual meeting last month appears on the agenda as "a field study of town boards and committees and the means of communication between the town boards and the citizens."

The League hopes that citizens in town will check the times and places of these meetings and join us in attending them.

Sincerely,
Joanne W. Davis
Pres. League of Women Voters, Wayland.

CHECKOUT -- When the brakes failed on the car of a Needham Heights woman driver last Thursday at 9 a.m. Capps Super Market on Post Rd., Wayland, provided "drive in" accommodations. Crash just missed Mrs. Marjorie Connors Old Connecticut Path, Capps' checker. Final tally: No injuries -- temporary venting of Capps' air conditioning.

Weston Man Named Minister

WESTON A Weston man will become associate minister of Wesley Methodist Church in Springfield, Mass. The Rev. Dr. J. Alton Templin, 83 Webster Rd., has been associated with the First Congregational Church in Waltham while he was completing his residence work on a Ph. D. degree in Protestant Reformation at Harvard.

The Rev. Mr. Templin is a native of Colorado and a graduate of the University of Denver. At the end of World War II he served with the Fifth Air Force in Japan. He obtained his theological training, both the Master's and Doctor's degrees in theology at the Iliff School of Theology in Denver.

He has been minister of several Denver Methodist Churches, and for three years served as instructor of religion in Southwestern College (Methodist) Winfield, Kan. He has taught at several summer camps and youth conferences, including O-At Ka, East Sebago, Me., and Deering Community Center (Congregational), Deering, N. H. He will be associated this Summer with the camping program at Meadowbrook School in Weston.

Mrs. Templin, who holds her theological degree in religious education also from the Iliff School of Theology, has been director of religious education at the Waltham Church for the past three years. Dr. and Mrs. Templin with their daughter, Kayla Jean, will move from Weston to Springfield in August.

Co-Op Scholarship

WAYLAND -- Warren D. Brown, General Manager of The Co-op, Inc. has announced that Ashland High School Senior, Ingrid Maurice is the winner of the Co-op's fifth annual $2000 scholarship award made annually to a deserving student. The scholarship is in four annual payments of $500 each, made to the school of the recipient's choice. Miss Maurice has chosen Northeastern University and will major in business administration. Miss Maurice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Maurice, 24 Olive St., Ashland.

In Wayland, Mr. and Mrs. L. Knight and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Arthur Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keeley and another by Mr. and Mrs. Owen C. Howe Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Durant. Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Whitney Jr. and Dr. and Mrs. Paul F. Grysha will have 22 dinner guests. The girls in the Junior League's Professional Group hope that everyone will buy corsages from them when they arrive at the theatre.

Queen Crowned At 8:30 Saturday

WAYLAND -- Tension mounts as the day draws near when one of these girls will reign as Queen of the Strawberry Festival. The coronation will take place at 8:30 at the High School Green on Saturday, June 17 (inside the Field House in the event of rain).

Last Year's Queen, Mary Regan will crown the winner, and attendants will include some recent graduates of the Wayland Junior Town House Kindergarten.

Voting is going on apace throughout town.

Ballots must be signed and put in the ballot boxes provided for this purpose or they may be mailed to Mrs. Kenneth Brown, Highgate Rd., Cochituate.

Renewal Fears Misplaced?

To the Editor:

It is quite possible that the townspeople who read my letters in the May 18th issue of the Crier, and may have had similar questions to ask the Selectmen, would be interested to hear that letter was answered on May 20th.

Mr. Lewis, who is also Chairman of the Condemnation Committee, gave some very enlightening answers. Substandard buildings have been removed over the past 15 years, and the remaining ones will be condemned and destroyed, a few at a time, or the Town will insist they be put in proper condition.

Health hazards: Dudley Pond "pollution"; water to be tested twice this year at several points. These also include leaking roofs and leaking cesspools, but he told me last Monday the Board of Health is powerless to act in those cases unless there is a complaint.

Structurally unsound: Still vague. Naturally we all know it means a building which threatens the safety of the inhabitants. The only ones "under review" are barns and hen houses; poor cows; poor chickens.

Action: Yes; owners notified and given a specific amount of time to remedy situation. Well, there aren't very many of us who aren't constantly on the "clean-up, paint-up, fix-up" detail, without being "notified".

The most significant point in all the above is that there is no mention of the Wayland Renewal Authority. It refers only to the Town, through its various Boards, and to property owners. We have zoning laws and a building code. Isn't that enough?

A final question: Why does the Finance Committee, whose chairman is also the chairman of the Government Center Commission in Boston, feel our "fears are misplaced" and that we have a lack of confidence in the Authority? We know what has gone on in Boston, and in towns around here. Yes, it could happen in Wayland.

Sincerely,
Mary R. Goodnoh
5 Crest Rd., Cochituate

WAYLAND -- Herbert Hall, 77, of 10 Glen Rd., died Tuesday, June 6 at the Catherine Barton Nursing Home in Cochituate after an illness.

Born in Shipley, England, Oct. 18, 1883, he had lived in Wayland for 29 years. A carpenter, he had worked at the Dean Dairy in Wayland. He was a former member of the Sons of St. George of Waltham.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Jane (Smith) Hall, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Ada Watmough of England, and Mrs. Bertha Walker of Australia, a brother, William Hall of England.

The funeral took place from the Loker Memorial Chapel Friday at 2 p.m. with Rev. Dr. Ewing of the Trinitarian Congregational Church of Wayland officiating. Interment was in North Cemetery at Wayland.

Land Court and won its contention that it could quarry the "back land" on the stone firm property.

Over the years there have been several court and town board fights over the property. The property is located on Boston Post Rd. at the Waltham line.

Richard Robinson, president of the firm and a nearby resident, said he hoped something could be worked out for the company which is "among the town's biggest taxpayers and one of its biggest employers."

Mr. Byrnes pointed out that many nearby landowners had come there after the stone firm and had known when they'd moved in that the firm was there and that there was a business use in existence.

What the Appeals Board contended in its decision:

1 -- "The petitioner has in addition to its requested spur on the north side) other means of railroad track egress, without crossing the parcel (in question)."

2 -- Taking note of the petitioner's claim that the residential land in question was not "desirable for residential purposes", the board stated that:

It "feels that the undesirability has been to large measure created by the quarrying and stone-crushing operations of the petitioner."

3 -- "The board noted that the variance (for this parcel) granted by the Appeals Board in February 1956 contained specific conditions which were clearly intended to preserve the parcel as a buffer zone."

4 -- "To allow encroaching on the parcel in question," the board stated, "by railroad spur tracks not only further deteriorates the parcel as residential property but also lowers its value as a buffer zone against quarring and manufacturing operations."

Text of Civic Assn., Authority Stands

The Wayland Civic Assn. objects to the need of a Federal Urban Renewal program in the Town of Wayland. A few of the reasons are as follows:

Civic Assn.

1. We, as a town should depend upon ourselves to keep our town in good order without depending upon the Federal government. Taking care of ourselves is democratic whereas using the Federal government for this purpose is socialistic.

2. There are not sufficient safeguards in the Federal laws to insure that a program satisfactory to the townspeople will be carried out. (ie. There is no legal requirement that a plan has to come before a town meeting.)

3. Lack of communications between the present Urban Renewal Authority and the citizens has resulted in a lack of confidence.

4. Low income families and semi-retired persons who have been long time resident of the Town could be forced into Federal Housing projects or co-operative apartments.

It is the belief of the Wayland Civic Assn. that the town in the past eight or nine years has been operating it's own town-controlled redevelopment program with a minimum of cost to the taxpayer and the least hardship to the townspeople.

We advocate the continuance of this town-controlled program.

WAYLAND CIVIC ASSN.

In order that the Town may vote intelligently on Article 2 relative to the Wayland Urban Renewal Authority, the Authority submits the following statement of its activities and program:

Renewal Authority

PRELIMINARY INVESTIGATION

The Authority has accumulated considerable information, by personal observation and from several town bodies, relative to health and fire hazards, unsound structures, inadequate water mains and other service deficiencies in the Town.

From this information, it appeared that certain areas in the vicinity of Dudley Pond are badly in need of improvement. There are many health and fire hazards and unsound structures in these areas; water mains are inadequate; streets are unsurfaced; the street layout is very bad; and there are drainage problems.

Also, there are many vacant lots which, because of their size, should not or cannot be built upon under existing zoning. These should be sold to abutters wherever possible. Those that cannot be sold to abutters should be assembled into lots that can be developed in accordance with zoning.

Further Study of Conditions and Preparation of Plan

After interviewing many planners and consulting with experts in the field of urban renewal, the Authority has hired Morton B. Braun of Lincoln to make an intensive study of conditions in each of the above areas. When his study is completed, the Authority will prepare a preliminary plan and hold public hearings for the purpose of receiving comments on the plan. After the hearings, the Authority will formulate and make a specific proposal as to what it thinks ought to be done.

Further Action

Before anything else can be done, the Authority's proposal has to be approved by the Planning Board and by the Board of Selectmen, and the town has to determine at town meeting that there is a need for the program. The town meeting would also have to authorize the execution of an agreement which would commit the Town to pay its proportionate share of the cost of the project.

Finances

Funds for planning are advanced by the Federal government and do not have to be repaid if the town decides not to go ahead.

If the town decides to go ahead, the town would bear only one-sixth (1/6) of the cost, or 16-2/3 cents on the dollar.

The Federal government would bear two-thirds (2/3) and the commonwealth one-sixth (1/6) of the cost. In view of the financial condition of the town, it is felt that the job should be done with Federal and state financial assistance.

Rumors

There have been many rumors about what the Authority will do.

There are rumors that it will level the Pond area, put a road around the Pond, bring public housing to Wayland, and take perfectly good houses to improve the layout of roads, to decrease density, and to make way for more costly housing.

None of these rumors have any basis in fact, and the Authority has no intention of doing any of thse things.

The Authority intends to continue and accelerate the town's program of taking fire and health hazards and unsound structures and to do so with federal and state financial assistance.

It believes that the road situation can be significantly improved without taking any houses and that most health hazards can be eliminated by improvements in disposal systems.

The Authority therefore recommends that Article 2 be defeated.

Mrs. Mary Greene Dies Suddenly

WAYLAND -- Mrs. Mary (Buhay) Greene, 45, of 63 Woodridge Rd. died suddenly Sunday after being stricken ill.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Framingham Union Hospital where she was rushed early Sunday morning.

Besides her husband Holley B. Greene, she leaves two sons, Holley Jr., 20 and Richard, 18, Wayland High track and basketball star who graduated Tuesday, and a daughter, Barbara 17, a Wayland High student just elected to the National Honor Society.

Weston Man Named To Charity Fund Drive

WESTON -- A Weston resident is among 26 professional, public and industrial leaders named captains for $25,000 charity fund appeal of Italian-American Charitable Society, according to an announcement by Joseph A. DeMambro, Chestnut Hill, general chairman.

The Weston resident is Joseph Benotti, 49 Silver Hill Rd.

New Management of Hardware Store

WAYLAND -- Lawrence Cook of 5 Sylvan Way, Wayland, has been appointed new manager of the Elmwood Hardware in the Wayland Village Shopper. Mr. Cook formerly associated with A. L. Holden, hardware retailers of Boston, brings to Elmwood Hardware over 20 years of experience in the hardware field. Mr. Cook is treasurer of the Wayland Kiwanis and former Commissioner of the Algonquin Council of the Boy Scouts. Married with 3 children, Mr. Cook has lived in Wayland 10 years.

Advising homeowners as to what "Gizmo" is needed to make the garage door work easier is something Mr. Cook looks forward to, in his every day activities. He invites all Waylanders to drop in anytime for advice on painting all the way to lawn care.

One of the thrilling events scheduled in connection with the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Mt. Washington Carriage Road will be sports car races to the summit on July 8 - 9.

Caucus

with the inconvenience involved even in local 'political' campaigns, will have a strong tendency to 'deter admirable qualified citizens from permitting themselves to be presented as candidates.'"

A detailed report is being mailed to Weston citizens with the injuction to study it in preparation for a Fall town meeting on the subject.

The study committee comprises Chairman Richard H. Field, Raymond W. Coburn, Robert H. Marden, Eleanor B. Speare, Pauline P. Trumbull.

In essence, the committee finds that the biggest argument for representative town meeting is the rapid growth of suburban towns and the lack of space for town taxpayers to appear and be heard.

Its argument, in brief, to this:

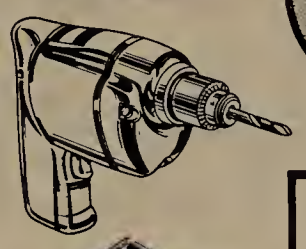
Only once has a town meeting drawn as many as 1300 persons and with construction of the new high school, it will be possible to accommodate 2400 persons at a town meeting.

The committee argued that the citizens' caucus has led foes to maintain that it "is set up in a way calculated to discourage contests."

It pointed out that in some cases a man defeated by a narrow margin was inclined to drop out of the subsequent election campaign, leaving the field open to the winner of the caucus.

It pointed out that "it is still considered somehow inappropriate to challenge the caucus choice."

And committeemen pointed out that any system that "would promote a healthy interest in town affairs and gives the voters a greater sense of participation in the election of town officials" would prove "more responsive to the will of the voters."



NOTE -- The Town Crier will publish a fuller and more descriptive summary of this important report in subsequent issues.

Wilkinson No-Hits St. Mary's -- 14-0

HOLLISTON -- Bill Wilkinson hurled a no-hitter to lead Wayland High to a 14-0 victory over St. Mary's of Milford -- and get the Class C champs off on the right foot in the Eastern Mass. Tourney.

Wilkinson struck out 14 and issued only two bases on balls in facing just 28 batters over the nine innings. Besides the two who walked, the only other batter to reach base was St. Mary's third baseman Bernie Hickey who got as far as second in the second inning when a double play threw went wild past first.

From that point until the eighth, Wilkinson retired 17 batters in a row until Hickey drew a walk.

In addition to Wilkinson's superlative pitching, Wayland displayed plenty of hitting power in upending the Worcester County Central Catholic League champs.

Wilkinson himself had three hits as did shortstop Dwight Perodeau. Center fielder Steve Kruse, third baseman Ken Houghton, first baseman Lee Paton and right fielder Ken Kane each had two hits as the Indians pounded out a total of 15.

The summary:

St. Mary's	000 000 000 -	0 0 1
Wayland	003 101 045 -	14 15 8

Lynnfield Knocks Wayland Out

WAYLAND -- Lynnfield High erupted for four runs in the sixth to snap a 2-2 tie and went on to eliminate Wayland High from Class C of the Eastern Mass. Tourney, 10 to 2, last Thursday at the Belmont High Field.

It was the third straight win for Lynnfield over Wayland this season. The Dual County champs previously turned the trick 3-0 and 7-2 in league games.

After Lynnfield scored in the top of the second, Wayland came back to knot the count in the bottom half of the inning when Tom Linnehan was hit by a pitch, moved to second on a passed ball and scored on Dwight Perodeau's hit.

The North Shore team went ahead 2 - 1 in the fifth and again Wayland tied it up, this time on singles by Ken Houghton and Alan Arnold.

Joe DeBella started Wayland's downfall in the sixth when he led off with a single. Garry Ross doubled off the right field fence sending DeBella to third and Dave Mees promptly squeezed home the tie-breaking run.

Jim Procurot's single off the shortstop's glove made it 4-2 before Charlie Meeker accounted for the final two runs of the rally with a 380-foot home run over the center fielder's head.

Billy Wilkinson relieved Wayland starter Linnehan after Meeker's home run and Lynnfield hopped on him for three more insurance runs in the seventh and another in the eighth.

Reliefer Procurot was credited with his sixth straight win. He took over with one out in the second and was replaced in the sixth after Lynnfield had a comfortable lead.

The summary:

Lynnfield	010 014 310 -	10 14 2
Wayland	010 010 000 -	2 6 5

Wayland Jr. High Has 6-3-1 Record

WAYLAND -- The Wayland Junior High School baseball team completed its season last week. Under Coach Leonard Ridini, the boys finished the season with a record of 6 victories, 3 losses, and 1 tie. This record provided a fourth place finish in the Middlesex Baseball League.

Democrats Call Better Government Session in Weston

WESTON -- A meeting of Democrats and "interested Independents" has been called here to promote improved standards in state government.

The meeting in the Lower Town Hall next Thursday at 8 p.m. has been called by the newly-formed Democratic Town Committee headed by John J. Lawless.

In a letter to fellow Democrats, the town committee announced: "Your Democratic Town Committee is determined to join with like-minded citizens in this and neighboring communities in a program of study and action to develop able candidates and better programs for our commonwealth."

Dan H. Fenn Jr., administrative assistant to Sen. Benjamin Smith 2d and an expert on suburban and state politics will speak at this first-in-Weston meeting.

In a town where the word Democrat is seldom mentioned above a hoarse whisper, Mr. Lawless points out that "we believe a Democratic party loyal to the high standards of service and honesty of Jefferson, Roosevelt and Kennedy is the best vehicle" for achieving higher standards in the state.

"We believe that an alert, informed, and active citizenry can improve ethical standards in government, encourage fiscal responsibility, and, at the same time, meet the pressing social, economic, and educational needs of our state."

Studies show traffic violations can be blamed for 2,600,000 injuries and more than 30,000 deaths during 1960.

Nancy White of Weston Receives B.S. Degree

WESTON -- Miss Nancy White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. White of 211 Conant Rd., was graduated from Bouve-Boston School, Medford, on June 10 with a professional diploma in physical education.

Through the affiliation of Bouve and Tufts University, she will receive a bachelor of science degree from Tufts.

Miss White has been an honor student and this year she was president of the Athletic Association and a member of the Student Council.

Saugus Rector Appointed To Episcopal Mission

BOSTON -- Bishop Anson Phelps Stokes Jr., D.D., announces the appointment of the Rev. Donald W. Noseworthy, presently rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Saugus, as vicar of the recently organized diocesan mission, the Church of the Holy Spirit, Wayland. The appointment will become effective in September.

Rev. Mr. Noseworthy came from Canada in 1950 to become the rector of St. John's. He is a graduate of McGill University and the Montreal Diocesan Theological College and saw service in the Royal Canadian Air Force during World War II. Before coming to Saugus, he held two rectorates in the Diocese of Montreal.

In 1957 Bishop Stokes appointed Rev. Mr. Noseworthy as Archdeacon of Lowell, now the Nortnern Archdeaconry, while he continued as rector of St. John's. As archdeacon he assisted in opening four Diocesan Missions - Trinity Church, Topsfield - Boxford; Church of the Good Shepherd, Acton; St. Mark's, Burlington; and St. Michael's, Holliston. Rev. Mr. Noseworthy resigned as Archdeacon in January 1960 and returned to full time pastoral ministry at St. John's.

From 1953-58 he was chairman of the department on youth of which he is presently a member as an elected representative of the Diocesan Council for a two-year office. Rev. Mr. Noseworthy formerly served on the Department of Christian Education and is secretary of the Department of Missions.

During his rectorship at St. John's a Building Expansion Program of $150,000 was completed the mortgage of which was burned last January.

Mr. Noseworthy is married to Natalie Harthorn Jones, of St. John, New Brunswick, and they have two children, Jane 12, and John 9.

In the community Mr. Noseworthy has been president of the Saugus Council of Churches, the Saugus Ministerial Assn.; vice-president of the Saugus Community Relations Committee; Protestant chaplain of the Saugus Fire Department.

In a telephone Survey of Wayland 350 families signified an interest in having an Episcopal Church in the Town which would mean a Church School of approximately 240 student.

Mr. Noseworthy and his family will move to Winthrop Rd., Wayland, around Aug. 1 and following vacation, he will assume his new duties as Vicar of the Church of the Holy Spirit in September.

Carolyn Hall Is Wed To John Paull Hejinian

WAYLAND -- In the Unitarian Church of Wayland, on Saturday, June 10, Miss Carolyn Frances Hall became the bride of John Paull Hejinian. The Reverend Dr. Dan H. Fenn and the Reverend Dr. Paul A. Wolfe officiated.

The former Miss Hall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee E. Hall Jr. of Wayland. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee E. Hall of Piedmont, Cal. and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Julian Erskine of Kodiak, Alaska and San Francisco.

The bride is a graduate of the Concord Academy and is now a student at Radcliffe College. She made her debut in June 1959 at the Concord Country Ball.

Her husband is a graduate of the Phillips Exeter Academy and is currently a student at Harvard College, where he is a member of the Spee Club. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Stacy Hejinian of Beekman Place, N. Y. He is a grandson of the late Dr. and Mrs. Henry B. Paull of New York and California.

Miss Marie Hall attended her sister as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Emily Alexander, Miss Frederica Drinkwater, Miss Louise Healy, Miss Elizabeth Hammond, Miss Laura McDill. Katherine Fisher was junior bridesmaid.

Mr. James Paul of New York was best man and the ushers were Douglass Hall, brother of the bride; John Hallowell, Gail Borden, Hampton Howell, and Gregg Loeser.

Mr. and Mrs. Hejinian will continue their studies in the fall and have taken an apartment in Cambridge.

Student Recital June 24

WAYLAND -- Students of Mrs. Louise Graham of 1 Autumn Lane will give a piano recital Saturday, June 24, at 3 p.m. for their parents. Recitalists are Jane Barrett, Debbie Eckler, Jeffrey Eckler, Kathleen Graham, James Graham, Dana Linn, Coleen McDermott and Janet Wedlock.

Garden Club Elects

WAYLAND -- The annual meeting of the Wayland Garden Club was held recently at the home of Mrs. Kempe Reade. The new officers elected for 1961-1962 were: president, Mrs. Parmelee C. Hill; vice president, Mrs. Clyde Collard; treasurer, Mrs. Howard Jenkins; recording secretary, Mrs. Kemp Reade; directors, Mrs. Frank Lamb and Mrs. Edward K. White.

Son to Grimshaws

WAYLAND -- The David M. Grimshaw's of 34 Old Tavern Rd., Wayland, announce the birth of their second child, a son, Jeffrey David, on May 24 at Richardson House, Boston.

Vokes Prepares Children's Theater

WAYLAND -- Members of Vokes Players who will work on the Childrens' Summer Theater are meeting at the theater this morning.

These include: Mrs. Philip Bassett, director; Mrs. Carol Foster, general assistant; Mrs. Benjamin Howard, costumes; Mrs. John Tanger, set and props; Mrs. Richard Eckler, rehearsal; Mrs. Francis Stites, make-up; Mrs. Harry Barrett, production; Mrs. William Vail, music; Mrs. Allen Barker choreographer; Mrs. Horace Gray, program and tickets.

Registration will be at the theater 10 a.m. Thursday, June 29 and will be open not only to children of Vokes members, but all children in Wayland from grades 6 through 8.

Mrs. Basset asks that mothers come to registration with their children, so that they will understand all of the plans. Children will have the opportunity to act as well as to work on all aspects of production under the direction of the committee. There will be a registration fee of $1.

Vokes Childrens' Summer Theater will meet Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 11 during July. The play wil be given in the middle of the first week of August.

Trailers are permitted at State Park campgrounds in N. H. if they fit conveniently into available tent sites. There are no special facilities for trailers provided at State parks.

Wayland Beach Open —For Residents Only

WAYLAND -- For local residents only.

Bulging population in the suburbs -- especially Wayland -- will force town authorities to limit the town beach, opening today at 10 a.m., to local residents.

Registration begins today at the beach house and continues daily. Formerly, area residents have been allowed on the beach at a cost of $25 per family but the lid is on -- as of today.

118 Wayland Seniors First Class To Graduate From New School

WAYLAND -- Wayland's bubble-top high school had its biggest moment thus far last week -- the graduation of its first class . . . 118 seniors.

Relatives and friends in the hundreds, attending by special invitation, saw a wealth of special prizes and scholarships awarded the graduates.

In impressive ceremonies, the 1961 graduates marched into the new Field House for the presentation of their special program and the receiving of the diplomas and special awards.

Most awards were presented by School Supt. Edward J. Anderson. John B. Gregory, a member of the School Board and William M. Griffin, school principal, awarded the diplomas.

Other special annual awards were presented by members of the organizations sponsoring them.

Award winners receiving their prizes from Mr. Anderson:

--Barbara Houk and David Joseph Porrell, Good Citizenship Award sponsored by the Natonal Society of Daughters of the American Revolution.

--Carl Gilbert Hansen, Charles H. Alward Social Studies Award, sponsored by the Charles H. Alward American Legion Post No. 133, Women's Auxiliary.

--Herbert C. Brannen, Bausch and Lomb Science Award.

--Patricia Allene Turner, Community Chorus Award (of Wayland).

--Dictionary Awards, presented each year by the Wayland High School PTA: Alton L. Flanders 3d, Maynard B. Hilton Jr., Peter W. Phylis, Barbara Ellen Poley, David J. Farrell and Lina Mae Zable.

Those receiving scholarships from special organizations and those making the presentations:

--Joy Kerr, presented by Mrs. Rexford N. Moss on behalf of the Girl's Piggyback Swim Ride For Friends Leads to Her Death

WAYLAND -- A 13-year-old girl's efforts to help her younger friends have a good swim led to her own death in Dudley Pond Sunday about 3 p.m.

Pamela Lois Reagan of 11 Wagner Rd., Stoneham, granddaughter of Mrs. Rose White of Sycamore Rd., Wayland, was drowned while giving some youngsters piggyback rides in the pond near her grandmother's home.

Wayland firemen called to the scene found the girl's body on the first attempt and worked for more than an hour with a resusicitator and aspirator to save her, according to Capt. Richard Gladu.

Pamela was a swimmer but apparently became overtired giving these rides to her friends and sank in about seven feet of water, 30-35 feet offshore, firemen reported.

Fireman William Profit recovered the body in his first dive as the human chain of firemen and swimmers moved into the pond.

The drop-off at that point is so sudden according to Capt. Gladu, that firemen could walk only about seven yards offshore before having to swim.

Dr. J. Harry McCann, medical examiner, prounced the girl dead from accidental drowning.

The incident occurred in Dudley Pond off the end of Simpson Rd.

Firemen received a box alarm at 3 p.m. and sent fire apparatus to the scene. A few minutes later, they sent boats and rescue equipment to the scene as the result of a follow-up phone call by a neighbor. The body was recovered at 3:19 p.m.

The Reagan girl leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo W. Reagan and four sisters, Rose, Marion, Roberta, and Deborah.

A requiem Mass was sung yesterday in St. Patrick's Church, Stoneham, with burial in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

Weston Graduates 115 – Last From Old School

WESTON -- Twenty-nine scholarship grants were made to Weston High School's record 115-member graduating class at exercises last Thursday evening at the high school.

Many special awards were made to high-ranking students.

Robert White, class president, gave the address of welcome and Linda Marie Sands Townsend who graduated with first honors spoke on "Keeping Up With the Jonses".

Matching her talk was that given by Keppler Stone (second honors) who discussed "The Joneses of Tomorrow".

The Weston High School Band, directed by Robert O. Corley, opened the program and the invocation was given by Rev. John A. Heidt, minister of the Congregational Church of Weston.

Paula Toner played a trumpet solo, "The Lost Chord," accompanied by Susan Gross of the Class of 1963. The entire class sang "O Brother Man," by Ringwald. The program closed with another selection by the band.

Dr. Robert H. Marden, chairman of the School Committee, presented the diplomas and the awards were given by Willard H. Smith, High School principal. The list of scholarship grants follows:

American Legion Auxiliary Nursing Scholarship, Marjorie Toppan, Malden School of Nursing.

Weston Post 214, American Legion, Education Awards, Charles Cahill, Class of 1957, Springfield; Kendrick Child, Bates; Robert E. White, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Weston Rotary Club Extemporaneous Speech Scholarships first place, Peter Borelli, Harvard; second place, Betsy Wigginton, Kalamazoo; honorable mention, Ronald Butcher, Paul Curtis and Joseph Karas.

David A. Perry Memorial Scholarship Loan, sponsored by the Weston Boosters, was granted to Robert E. White.

Horace S. Sears Scholarships: Richard Cutter, M.I.T.; Stephen Richardson, Tufts; Robert E. White.

Weston War Memorial Educational Fund Scholarship, Judith Helgeson, Westbrook Junior College.

Charles - Percy Foundation Scholarships: five given to members of the Class of 1961.

Charles J. Paine Scholarships, Richard Cutter and Keppler Stone, Harvard.

Women's Community League Scholarships, eight, totaling $2000 granted to members of the Class of 1961.

The awards and prizes were as follows: Alumni Association Award given to the senior with the highest four-year scholarship average, Linda Townsend.

Good Citizen Certificate, sponsored by the D.A.R., Rosamond Lombard; U. S. Constitution Prize, given by the Legion Post and Aux-

For many years Mr. Nagle lived in Roxbury.

Bedroom Damaged In Wayland Fire

WAYLAND -- Fire caused $200 damage to the ceiling of a bedroom at the Harold Ward home on Hemlock Rd. Wednesday, June 14. Wayland firemen put out the blaze, which started from wiring.

Power Boats on Dudley Pond Leave Local Police Powerless

WAYLAND -- It would be funny, if it weren't potentially tragic . . . speeding power boats on Dudley Pond.

Police Chief Ernest Damon told the Board of Selectmen Monday night that "boats were really hopping" on the pond when he was there Sunday investigating a drowning.

But it seems the town's regulations of boats on that body of water no longer apply . . . since the state took over the registration of boats with five horsepower engines and more.

The situation: danger to canoeists, row boaters and swimmers as a greater influx of power boat owners from outside moves in to rev it up on unregulated Dudley Pond as the state cracks down on Lake Cochituate.

The state has regulations but no one to enforce them.

Chief Damon would like to step in but he has no power boat and no crew.

Selectman Frank Tarr offered a resolution, passed by Chairman Thomas F. Linnehan and Selectman George Lewis to resubmit to the state regulations heretofore in force. If the state approves them, the chief can then enforce them . . . if the town provides a boat and police crew.

These would limit speeds to 8 miles per hour -- thereby cutting out water skiing which requires a 20 mph speed, and generally prohibit cowboy tactics.

Another complaint: unregulated town-owned beach property, not properly beaches, should be posted and a no-bathing rule enforced.

In other business, the selectmen:

--Voted to instruct Chief Damon to enforce a no-parking ban on Rte 30 from the cemetery to the town line at the turnpike overpass. Seems too many fishermen have been parking there, creating a traffic and pedestrian hazard that brought the state in with a request for action.

--Voted to borrow $200,000 temporarily to meet payroll expenses.

--Voted to open bids on town gasoline and fuel oil on June 26 at 11 a.m. at the Town Hall.

--Took under advisement a request for guidance requested by Chief Damon on Blue Laws enforcement.

Now that George Kaufman's dead, would it be too much to wonder whether the Book of the Month Club will bring out Mary Astor's diary?

In New Hampshire rare and unique Alpine flowers begin to blossom above the timberline along the crest of the Presidential Range of mountains about mid June.

Lois Ann Lovejoy Weds Burdette Johnson, Weston

WESTON -- Miss Lois Ann Lovejoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lovejoy Jr. of Green's Farms, Westport, Conn., was married Saturday, June 17, to Mr. Burdette Austin Johnson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of 110 North Ave., Weston.

The Rev. Bradford Lovejoy brother of the bride, performed the three o'clock ceremony in Trinity Church, Southport, assisted by the Rev. Francis X. Cheney, Rector. The Rt. Rev. John H. Esquirol, Suffragan Bishop of Connecticut, gave the blessing.

LOIS ANN LOVEJOY

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a princess gown of ivory peau de soie with a scoop neckline appliqued with Alencon lace and a bell-shaped skirt with a chapel train. Her veil was a mantilla of Alencon lace and she carried a bouquet of phalaenopsis, lilies of the valley, and variegated ivy.

Mrs. Sherwood Lovejoy of Fairfield was matron of honor for her sister-in-law, who was attended also by the groom's sister, Mrs. Roy McCanne of Denver, Colo., Mrs. James P. Bolin of Westport, Miss Frances O. Holt of Boston, and Miss Jane C. Edwards of Wilmington, Del. They wore sheath dresses of avocado green peau de soie with scoop necklines and English ivy headbands and carried yellow Shasta daisies.

Mr. Cal Batchelder of Arlington, Va., was best man. The ushers were Mr. Sherwood Lovejoy, Mr. Roy McCanne, Mr. Stuart Neily of Auburndale, and Mr. Donald Reed of Weston.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fairfield County Hunt Club. Mrs. Lovejoy wore a dress of pale gold silk alpaca with an Alencon lace bodice having a V-neck and short sleeves. She wore a greenleaved veil, matching accessories, and green cimbidium orchids. Mrs. Johnson wore a sheath dress of orchid silk chiffon with a scoop neckline and side drape, matching accessories, and gold cimbidium orchids.

Mrs. Johnson is a graduate of Abbott Academy in Andover, Mass., Vassar College, class of 1955, and Katherine Gibbs School, New York. She is a granddaughter of Mr. Harry R. Sherwood of Westport and the late Mrs. Sherwood, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lovejoy of Boston and New York.

Mr. Johnson, who served for two years with the Army, is a graduate of Tilton School, Tilton, N. H., and attended the University of New Hampshire. He is with Baird-Atomic Inc. in Cambridge. He is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond D. Richardson of St. Petersburg, Fla., and of Mrs. J. Austin Johnson of Pictou, N. S., and the late Mr. Johnson.

After a wedding trip, the couple will live in Watertown.

Wayland Man Wins 5 Firsts at Rose Show

WAYLAND -- David Berg of Gage Rd. won 5 first place awards, and three second place awards at the Rose Show at Horticultural Hall, Boston, June 19 and 20. The show is sponsored by the Horticultural Society and the New England Rose Society in both of which Mr. Berg is a member.

Five of the awards were for hybrid tea roses, and three for floribundas. Mr. Berg has grown roses for about seven years and has a collection of about 30 bushes in all.

A magnificent treat for lovers of flowers comes to full bloom when the famous stand of Rhododendron Maximum takes on blazing color at Rhododendron State Park in Fitzwilliam, N. H., around July 1.

Few Openings Left For DeCordova Summer Program

LINCOLN -- There are still a few openings in the DeCordova Museum's special outdoor summer program in the arts for children entering grades three to seven this fall.

The program is offered for two three-week terms beginning June 27 and July 18; children may enroll for one or both terms. Classes meet four mornings a week, Tuesday through Friday, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., with a mid-morning break for refreshments.

For additional information about this program call the DeCordova Museum, CL 9-8355.

The base station of the unique Mt. Washington Cog Railway is reached over a paved road of six miles from Fabyan on Route 302 in N. H. The season starts June 20.

Laurinda Lee Shepardson Becomes Bride in Weston

LAURINDA LEE SHEPARDSON

WESTON -- Miss Laurinda Lee Shepardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace L. Shepardson of 294 Highland St., became the bride of Mr. Arnold Manthorne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Manthorne of 11 Pleasant St., Ashburnham, Saturday, June 10, at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Weston.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The Rev. Philip S. Krug, rector, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a short-sleeved gown of white silk organza and rosepoint lace, fashioned with a portrait neckline and fitted cummerbund waist. Her bouffant skirt accented with this same lace terminated in a rosepoint lace chapel train, a matching lace crown with seed pearls held in place her pure silk illusion elbow-length veil.

Maid of honor was Miss Christina L. Shepardson, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Sally Anne Shuster of Sudbury, a cousin of the bride; Misses Francis Rizzo and Margaret Koester of Weston.

Best man was George Anderson Jr. of Wellesley. Head usher Roy H. Patterson of Rye, N. Y. Others: Jerome Dworkin of Shaker Heights, O., John Gillis of Ashburnham, Andrew Ferrentino of Great Neck, N. Y. and William Manthorne, the bridegroom's brother.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Manthorne will return to Middlebury (Vt.) College in the fall where both are students.

Joyride's Over – Boats Must Pay

BOSTON -- Registration numbers issued by the United States Coast Guard for boats principally using the waters of Massachusetts were outlawed Thursday, June 15. Starting on that date all motorboats of 5 horsepower or more must have numbers issued by the State Division of Motorboats, according to State Director Wilton Vaugh.

He said that all enforcement authorities including the Coast Guard started enforcing the law Friday, June 16. This applies to all numbers issued by the Coast Guard in 1960 to those boat owners who bought boating stamps at the U. S. Post Offices and also to the owners of craft which were numbered by the Coast Guard before that.

Boats bearing numbers issued by the Coast Guard to boat owners in other States as well as those obtaining numbers from the 38 other states which have been approved by the Coast Guard may use the waters on the Commonwealth for 90 consecutive days without taking out a Massachusetts registration.

All boat numbers must appear on the bows of boats of 5 horsepower or more. They must be not less than three inches high. They must be block numbers well proportioned. Their color must contrast with the color of the boat. The numbers and letters must be separated by hyphens or by black spaces.

The Silly Season ...

Go ahead -- take a deep breath: we're going to talk about silly days. They're upon us.

Never mind that this happened in Boston . . . at the Arts Festival. We'll wager as many Weston and Wayland residents are interested in that affair as are Bostonians. Probably more.

But really. First, Mayor Collins, a very able mayor as we see it, got mixed up as an art critic last week and insisted that one of the pictures in the photography exhibit be lifted. It was. Not exactly the mayor's idea. Pressure from the American Legion Department Adjutant Peter Pappas. But it led to bigger things . . . something that could've been predicted.

The latest is the threat of pickets when Langston Hughes, the Negro poet appears. The threat comes from a letter carrier from North Weymouth . . . a man named James A. McElligott who is deathly afraid, as are members of his rightist American Institute, that Hughes' appearance at night is "a danger to the children of Boston."

"If he (Hughes) appears," said McElligott, "we will have 40 or 50 pickets at the Public Garden to protest." And then he added: "I intend to find out what (Diggory) Venn's sympathies are, too."

Well, you don't have to be in sympathy (or empathy) with the original photograph that was banned to feel strongly that Mayor Collins and Diggory Venn asked for what Mr. McElligott was only too anxious to give them -- and their sympathies.

An Arts Festival may be largely incomprehensible, may even be downright sloppy and indifferent, even a dead-end as far as art is concerned. But it is there to let artists proliferate. And apparently to provoke discussion, however silly, But you can't legislate what it shall contain. The moment you start that, you're in trouble. You get people looking into others "sympathies."

The weather's bad enough without getting into the silly season.

In Brief...

Congratulations to the Weston's school superintendent, Dr. Anthony Brackett for his dual honor -- vice chairman of New England School Development Council and as trustee of Middlebury College . . . Hope all of you saw and will act upon plea for funds for Boston Opera House. Only ourselves to blame if we don't ante up . . . At the Arts Festival, the work of a Waylandite, Mrs. Marjorie Furrer, is on display . . . Keep an eye on our bird column by Mrs. Smith. She intends to have some handy summer hints helpful to bird lovers . . . Congratulations to the Strawberry Festival planners. Upwards of 4000 persons enjoyed what they set up . . . And congratulations, too, to Nancy Roehrig, voted Festival queen. Competition was keen . . . Something to watch: Weston Democrats' special efforts to encourage better government at state level.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

No Poisonous Snakes Here But Don't Take Chances...

There really isn't much to worry about as far as snakes are concerned in this area as our common snakes are non-poisonous, and only nasty to look at.

Ever since Eden, folks have had an uneasy feeling about snakes - but I think the surprise element when you come on one suddenly, even though you know they won't hurt you, is what sets the nerves on edge.

The most common snake hereabouts is the garter snake. They grow to about 18 to 26 inches, are usually dark green with two or three yellowish stripes running down their back. They will vary somewhat in color, but the pattern remains the same, and they make their home in the tall grass and along stream banks.

Then there is the black snake They come as long as six feet and are black on top with greyish-white underparts. These are really fast movers, and can climb through bushes well enough to reach birds nests and clean them out.

Around ponds and streams you will find the northern water snake. He grows to around four feet and is fatter than the black or garter snake. This creature is light brown on top with darker brown saddle-like bands across the back. The tummy is sort of a cream color with red checkering.

While the garter snake feeds mostly on insects, the black and water snakes feed on frogs, small birds and mammals and other small creatures they can grab. They don't chew their food, but bolt it whole, and you can watch the progress as the food slides down, making a slow moving bump along the snake.

Every once in a while we hear of a timber rattler being sighted in the Blue Hill area, and this year one was killed by a fisherman in the western part of the state, but these are exceptions to the rule.

Our common snakes are harmless and only will bite if cornered -- then it is nothing but a scratchy feeling.

However, if your child finds a snake, and you are unsure of its model number, better get rid of it, and let him take up collecting butterflies.

Rombas Aid Generous -- And Thanks

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Weston-Rombas Affiliatin Committee, we want to express sincere thanks to the Weston High School Class of 1961 for its generous gift of $300 to the Affiliation. This gift comes at a time when our activities are expanding, and we welcome it as an endorsement by the class of our broadened program.

Next year we shall again welcome to Weston a girl from Rombas, France, Josyane Bras. Our ambassador to Rombas will be Judith Hoagland.

In addition, we shall have two boys as our guests and members of next year's senior class: Fernando Viegas Rangel of Porto Allegre, Brazil, and John Sandur of Oslo, Norway. Jonathon Bump of Weston will be the guest of the Sandur family in Oslo this summer and return to Weston with their son in the fall.

In order to plan for these students, we would like to learn of parents of high school students who would welcome any one of them in their homes for a period of six weeks or more. Interested parents may call me at TW 9-0246, or may inform the High School office.

We also appeal again for increased financial help. An expanded program necessarily means an increased budget. Contributions in any amount may be sent to the Treasurer, Weston-Rombas Affiliation, 33 Rolling Lane, Weston.

It is our hope that the response of Weston's citizens and organizations to these activities will be as heartening as that of the Class of 1961.

Yours truly,
Florence B. Merrill,
Chairman
Rosanne B. Marshall
Treasurer.

Thank You, Everybody, From Festival

To the Editor:

The Strawberry Festival is the largest town-wide annual project for the benefit of our youth. The financial results make possible the continuation of present Town House activities and help to provide the wherewithal for future projects.

But the Festival just didn't "happen". It took hard working committees, coordinated and directed by the Festival chairman, Mrs. Warren Eriksen; it took the support of businessmen locally and afar; it took the help in publicity of the Town Crier; it took the cooperation of several town departments, and the assistance of so many other townspeople who helped in innumerable ways.

It is impossible to personally thank everyone who contributed his time, effort and dollars to produce the Festival. Therefore, on behalf of the Trustees of Wayland Junior Town House I would like through the Town Crier to extend a most sincere thank you to everyone who worked for and supported the 1961 Strawberry Festival, for you in turn have helped the youth of our town.

Sincerely
James T. Burgess, chairman
Board of Trustees
Wayland Junior Town House

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

They Bit Through The Thickest Boot

When you hear some pessimist longing for the good old days when life was simple and gadgets few, just consider how happy life was then for the mosquito. The good old times were truly trouble-free for him (I guess we should say her, for we are led to believe that it is the lady of the species who does the biting).

No D.D.T. then. No airplane spraying. No flit. No screens. A chance for a mosquito to snatch a meal at any hour, day or night. And in the Sudbury and Charles River valleys, plenty of stagnant water for the young fry to grow up in.

This prosperity of the mosquito didn't remain long unnoticed by the early settlers here, coming from the well-drained fens of England and the canals of Holland. And it was only a short time before the news of how everything was humming here in the warm season got back to the old country.

At Plymouth, our first town, not all the new comers were the bold, highminded pioneers you have read of in your school books, ready to overlook all the difficulties of a new country. Indeed some of them quite soon began to write all sorts of complaints back to England. Eventually Governor Bradford decided to reply to a round dozen of the criticisms.

Squawk No. 12 on his list, it seems, was that "The people are much pestered with mosquitoes." To this he replied testily: "They are too delicate and unfit to begin a new plantation who cannot endure the biting of a mosquito. We would wish such to keep at home." His view of the future, however, we might judge a trifle optimistic: "Experience teaches," he said, "that the more the land is tilled and the woods cut down, the fewer there will be and in the end none at all."

But Bradford failed to discourage all the mosquitoes. When the Puritans had reached Massachusetts Bay a few years later, Governor Winthrop records this, in 1632, a summer like our present one. "This summer was very wet and cold (except now and then a hot day or two), which caused great store of Musketoes and rattlesnakes." (Mosquitoes are enough: we won't attempt to cover rattlesnakes and other pests in this issue of The Crier.)

Boston, it seems, was a favored spot. William Wood reported it "a neck bare of wood," so that "they are not troubled with three great annoyances of wolves, rattlesnakes and mosquitoes."

Men weren't alone in not enjoying all they found in the new land. A snappish "gentlewoman," portraying the colonial scene to an English correspondent in 1637, was not altogether happy. "The air of the country is sharp," she wrote, "the winter cold, the summer hot, the gnats in summer biting . . ."

Jersey mosquitoes have always had a reputation. Peter Kalm, a Swede who travelled the Middle Colonies, described their new mean habits in 1748. "The gnats . . . called mosquitoes . . . In the daytime and at night they come into the houses and when the people have gone to bed they begin their disagreeable humming, approach nearer to the bed, and at last suck up so much blood they can hardly fly away . . . The inhabitants therefore make a big fire before the houses to expel these disagreeable guests by the smoke."

George Washington, who never told a lie, found some worse than Jersey's up at Lake Champlain. An English traveler says that the General averred that there the mosquitoes were so fierce they would bite through the thickest boot!

The mosquitoes here are not quite that savage, at least any that I have met. Nevertheless, just think how the babies and the mothers must have suffered here before screens and netting were invented.

That's all behind us nowadays. However, the mosquito is anything but fully conquered. Let me give you a tip though. If they do get into your house, when the children and the cat run in and out; or come down the fireplace chimney: if, as Peter Kalm recorded, they begin to buzz around in anticipation when they see you ready for bed, nothing is more effective, or gives me greater satisfaction than to invite them from the ceiling into the suction end of a vacuum cleaner hose. They actually jump at the chance to enter that hose, and you can clear a ceiling or wall of 20 in five minutes.

Yet, come to think of it, the vacuum cleaner's another of those complicated modern gadgets that was missing in those simple, good, old days.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- Another report of bobwhite comes from Mrs. J. H. Stewart, Meadowbrook Rd., who saw one in her yard on June 8. The screech owls nesting in a bird-box at the Smiths, Westland Rd., successfully raised two young which left the box on the night of June 7 and were seen with the parents in a nearby pine tree the following day.

An observer on Webster Hill was fortunate enough to see 17 baby wood ducks leave a nesting cavity on the morning of May 22. The average size of a wood duck clutch is 12, so this was a particularly large brood. Young wood ducks leave the nest when they are only a few days old and can flutter lightly to the ground from as high as 50 feet without injury, where they are rounded up by the female and led to the nearest water.

The only report so far received of bluebirds nesting successfully in Weston is from the Stantials, Kendal Common Rd., who saw a pair with two young about May 25.

An unusual nesting site for red-winged blackbirds was discovered by the Ellistons on South Av. -- a clump of peonies in their gardens! Although these birds commonly nest in marshes or low, wet meadows, they will sometimes (but not often) build in drier locations such as grassy uplands. The Ellistons report that there are now newly-hatched young in the nest.

It may be of interest to know that 95 species of birds (including 20 warblers) were recorded in Weston during the month of May. The many calls reporting observations were very much appreciated.

While driving on North Av. one afternoon last week, C. E. MacLeod, Willard Rd., and his son saw a gray fox cross the road near Merriam St. Gray fox are seldom seen here. They are a more southern animal, but have been extending their range northward in recent years. -- C.E.S.

Pedestrians crossing the street didn't make it on more than 170,000 occasions during 1960.

More than a half-million U.S. homes are destroyed or damaged by fire annually.

Blue Laws — We'll All Be Singing
The Speakeasy Blues in Suburbia

Some people are alarmed at the return of the Blue Laws. We're not. Just think -- Blue Law speakeasies. All the excitement of Prohibition coming back. And things were getting so dull. . .

You know how it goes: you slip up to the back door of the grocery, knock and whisper to the gimlet eye that appears: "Joe sent me." You're in.

Of course, this is a bit harder to carry off in the glare of Sunday midday. But what the heck, let's live it up. The way it'll work is this:

Hollowed out copies of the Sunday New York Times will become popular all over Weston and Wayland. They'll contain everything from five pounds of hot dogs for the unexpected Sunday-in-the-country-relatives-who-just-dropped-in to a lilac bush.

Of course, this may make for some S-shaped lilac bushes in your sideyard but think of the interesting tales you can spin for your youngsters and grandchildren.

'Smatter of fact, we wouldn't be surprised that one of the popular weekend diversions wouldn't become comparing experiences in finding B.L.C. (Blue Law Contrabrand): "And he says, 'Here, these just came in from Canada this morning . . .' "

One modern twist is bound to creep in: the Key Club. Instead, the more alert grocers, nurserymen, et al will furnish keys to their better customers. Imagine, an invitation in the mail to join a Key Grocery . . . at a price.

One risky thing in all this: you'll have to learn to park your car around the corner . . . where suspicion will fall on the other guy.

But for the timid retailer, we have a profound suggestion. Anybody who's been to New York or read the New Yorker has seen the sidewalk vendor who's always ready to run at the sign of a cop. Well . . .

You could have a sort of mobile store for the timid: Call the retailer. He says "Meet me at the corner of Glezen Lane and Concord Rd. Bring the cash in unmarked bills and don't tell the cops . . . or it's all up." We'd suggest Pelham Island Rd. near Hurd's Pond as another site. You can always skip over the line into Sudbury.

For the timid with little imagination, we have this idea: You could always have the retailer drop by as a friend (in an unmarked car of course) with some packages gaily wrapped. But you may find this cuts into your bourbon or scotch supplies.

Really though, can't you just see the return of the pre-wrapped packages . . . the peephole door . . . the tip up shelves that dump everything into the cellar? Isn't it just exciting?

Just imagine inviting friends in for some bootleg steak under the shade of the bootleg apple tree. And grocery-running on the Sudbury . . . and no police boats to hinder you.

Why didn't we think of this before? This will be a summer we won't soon forget. Let those State Police fellows be Nay Sayers, we'll show 'em.

Uh . . . keep this under your hat but we've got some bootleg . . .

Smoke Doesn't Always Hide Fire

WAYLAND -- Don't panic. That smoke you see may not come from a fire.

Wayland firemen were called out twice last Saturday -- at 8:54 p.m. and again at 11:54 on smoke investigations that proved to be mosquito-control sprayers operating first at Five Paths and next near 18 Glezen Lane. Chief Francis J. Hartin explained that the spray can look like smoke.

Other fire calls last week:

On Thursday, June 15 at 8:04 a.m., lockout at 9 Hammond Rd.

On Sunday at 12:47 p.m., brush fire at 121 West Plain St.

You'll Find Syncopated O'Neill Hard to Beat at Carousel

by ANNE HOCKING

Okay . . . so musicals are the American metier and what can't be put across to the shuffle of a soft shoe or a syncopated sigh wasn't worth saying to begin with. You just can't guess nowdays until you're handed your program what sober, soul-racked searcher has provided the inspiration for the next two hours of unrelieved merriment. Best not even try -- there's nothing like surprise to add to the zest.

Think how unutterably dull it would be to have known all along that the author of "Lights Out, Jocasta" was that old saw Sophocles. It might seem as though it wouldn't even be worth your while to go -- and that's where you'd be wrong. Because if you want to stay a number of things, you've got to keep in tune with the times.

No fair sticking at home and reading your O'Neill. You've got to learn how to hum him. And a night at Carousel under the spell of Dan Dailey's disarming charm is as painless a way as any I know of to do it.

"Take Me Along", a self-confessed lift from Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness" (book by Joseph Stein and Robert Russell; music and lyrics by Bob Merrill) opened Monday under the direction of David Tihmar and the baton of Richard Parrinello, both of whom seemed to know what they were doing.

Along with veteran Dan Dailey we were treated to a newcomer (he must be, for he doesn't look a day over 16, which is exactly what he was supposed to look) by the name of Jerry Dodge in the role of Richard Miller, the adolescent possessed with a passion for love, a passion for poetry and a passion for unleashed expression which he, typically for 16 took to be his own.

Jerry Dodge projects. In reading the play one's apt to regard son Richard as a bit fatuous. But Jerry's Richard was sympathetic to a fault. In short, he stole the show.

In the role of the tolerant, all-wise father, Nat Miller had great appeal and ran a close second to Dailey in the art of knowing what to do with one's body when there is music in the air. They are both the kind of men who can give you the impression they are dancing when they're not. It's a great gift.

Doris Dalton as the mother was motherly and fine and Alice Ghostley as Aunt Lily had the only real singing voice in the cast -- not that any self-respecting musical need depend on a voice, but it is a bit of a dividend.

Bob Herget, responsible for the choreography, also took upon himself the responsibility for expressing the old O'Neill pathos. He did right well in a little dance number designed to illuminate the unconscious cravings of an adolescent in an alcoholic trance. When you are looking for the meat of a thing today -- watch the dance.

Civic Assn. Airs Issues In Weston

WESTON -- A newsletter to keep Westonites alerted on town government and to give guidance on candidates is being distributed this week in Weston by the Weston Civic Assn.

Described as an informative bulletin, the letter proposes to present the controversial arguments on forthcoming Weston town government, along with the position adopted by the association on them.

Six issues will be published during the coming year to association members and to others at the subscription rate of $2 per year -- by writing to P. O. Box 296, Weston.

In a news release accompanying the first issue, the association points out that issues will deal with: "such varied problems as the construction of new police and fire headquarter facilities, to the evaluation of the success of Weston High School graduates in college competition.

"An interesting development is the entry of the Civic Assn. into the active political arena through their expressed intention to take positive positions on candidates for various town offices at next year's election.

"It is notable in this respect that their first Newsletter speaks favorably of the reaction of their members to the contributions of newly-elected Mr. Leo Glynn to the School Committee."

Fire has taken 116,000 American lives in the past decade.

Gets 18 Months In Car Chase Case

WESTON -- Bernard N. S. Sturre 21, of 8 Cumberland St., Boston, was sentenced to a total of 18 months in the House of Correction Tuesday when arraigned in Superior Court, Cambridge, on charges of driving without a license and operating a vehicle without permission.

Sturre was apprehended by Weston police officer David Cahill on May 24 within an hour of the car being reported stolen in Newton.

Car Overturns, Woman Injured

WESTON -- Mrs. Edith MacNeill of Concord received a fractured nose and other injuries when her car, proceeding north on Conant Rd., overturned about 5:30 a.m. last Saturday. The late model car was a total wreck.

NANCY A. SIDEBOTHAM -- daughter of Mrs. Anne R. Sidebotham of 21 Hill Top Rd., graduated on June 12 from Endicott Junior College in Beverly. Miss Sidebotham was a member of the photography club and served on the social committee.

Weston Youth Stars At Newton Jr. College

WESTON -- Lloyd W. David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor H. David of 179 Conant Rd. played an important part in Newton Junior College's winning baseball season just ended. In compiling a 7 won - 3 lost season the Gardeners took Harvard B and MIT Frosh into camp on its way to compiling a winning streak of six straight wins, one of the longest winning skeins in Greater Boston Intercollegiate circles this spring.

Coach Leo Judge presented a letter in recognition of Loyd's work at the annual Awards Day held recently at the college.

Heads Green Golf Squad

HANOVER, N. H. -- Junior Thomas Kent Graham of Weston, Mass., has been elected captain of the 1962 Dartmouth College golf team.

A former captain of the Weston High links squad, Graham, 20, has compiled a two-year varsity record at Dartmouth of 10 victories against 10 defeats despite some tough golfing luck.

He was low Dartmouth scorer in the Eastern championship at New Haven this season and the only Indian to achieve twin victories in the triangular meet with Army and Brown.

School Bus Contract Let For $57,720

WAYLAND -- The Wayland School Committee awarded a contract for 13 school buses for three years for $57,720 to William S. Carroll of Brookline, the low bidder.

The contract usually is for a three-year term for part of the total buses needed, but since the Oswald Garvey "defection" this spring, the committee decided to award a contract for all buses from next Sept. 1 to June 30, 1964, to one contractor.

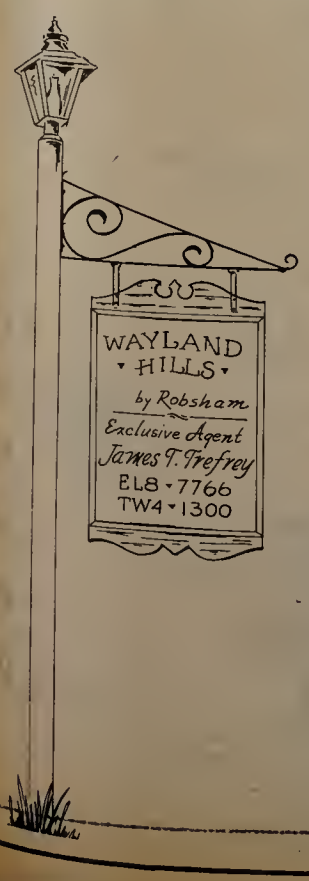
Five contracts were opened by the committee Monday night, ranging from Carroll's bid to one for $97,408.50.

Awards Dance, Musical Held at Claypit School

WAYLAND -- The annual awards dance for the fifth grade at the Claypit Hill School was held in the gym Monday evening. The boys and girls enjoyed square dancing and ballroom dancing. Refreshments were served.

An important part of the evening was the awarding of prizes to the winners of the science fair and the writing contest.

First prize in the area of physical science was awarded William Holmes for a study of the atom. In the area of natural science Charles Eckerline was awarded first prize for experiments on varying conditions under which plants are grown.



First prize for the best piece of writing was awarded William Holmes for The Siege of Atlanta. Honorable mention was made of Leonard Edgerly's story.

Peter Clark was awarded the Faculty Flag for the most exemplary record of citizenship during the fifth grade year. The Faculty Flag is the flag that has flown at the school during the past school year.

The fifth grade of the Claypit Hill School presented its annual spring musical on the evenings of Tuesday, June 13, and Wednesday, June 14, in the little theatre, This year's selection was the musical version of Johnny Appleseed. It was directed by Mrs. Pauline Radford.

The cast included: Peter Clark, Susan Chiasson, David Wellington, Martha Caraker, Kent LeMonte, Stephen Johnston, Jack Hewitt, Dale Cassidy, Daniel Engberg, John Houk, Susan Salomon, Betsy Nagle, James Graham, David Best. Members of fifth grade classes were members of the chorus and dancers.

Roads and streets in the United States totaled 3.5 million miles in 1959, says the Automobile Legal Association.

drive carefully!

WE URGE EACH OF YOU TO DRIVE WITH EXTREME CAUTION — DON'T GAMBLE WITH YOUR LIFE OR THAT OF OTHERS!

It's vacation-time again and millions of cars are crowding our nation's streets and highways. Don't spoil your vacation, or anyone else's, through a traffic accident. Drive safely and attentively at all times. Observe every traffic regulation. And be sure your car is thoroughly safety-checked before you drive, too.

A FEW SAFETY POINTERS:

- Give a signal for every move, and give ample time for others to act.
- Don't drive more than an hour without stopping to stretch your legs.
- If you need a map to guide you, give the navigation duties to passenger.
- Drive with extra caution wherever there may be any children at play.
- Carry emergency warning flares in case of unexpected roadside breakdowns.

Mrs. Peter Mezitt, Co-Founder of Weston Nurseries

WESTON -- Mrs. Peter J. Mezitt, co-founder with her husband of the Weston Nurseries over 30 years ago, died June 1 in Hopkinton, according to friends here. The nurseries are now located on Rte. 135, Hopkinton.

Her many friends filled the First Congregational Church in Hopkinton to overflowing at the services June 4.

Mrs. Mezitt was active as an executive of the Nurseries as long as possible and had introduced many new plants while quietly building the Weston Nurseries to its present top position in the horticultural world. She was also a director of the Engineering Model Lab., of Ashland.

Mrs. Mezitt was a resident of Hopkinton for the last 11 years and previously had resided in Weston since 1915 at "Hillcrest Gardens" now The Case Estates of The Harvard University Arnold Arboretum and later on Winter St. where the Weston Nurseries was started on the Weston Airport.

She leaves her husband, Peter J. Mezitt, of Hopkinton, President of Weston Nurseries; a son, Edmund V. Mezitt, of Hopkinton; a daughter, Laura, Mrs. John T. Russett of Weston, 4 grandsons, Wayne Mezitt, a sophomore at Cornell University, Roger Mezitt, who will be a senior at Hopkinton High School, Glenn J. Russett, on the U.S.S. Lake Champlain, and Peter A. Russett, serving on the U.S.S. Wasp.

Weston Firemen Try Softball— It's a Hot Time

WESTON -- The softball team of the Wilmington Fire Department has issued a challenge -- promptly accepted -- to the Weston firemen for a home-and-home series of two, starting next Monday at 6:30 p.m. at Weston High field.

Firemen here admit that what the game may lack in technical finesse should be more than equalized by the laughs and exercise provided, as both teams try for a first-game victory. Free -- except to kibitzers.

Gets Navy Reserve Diploma

WAYLAND -- Lt. Thomas C. Roches Jr., USNR, of 11 Pine Needle Rd., has completed a 40-week course in naval leadership and personnel administration at the Naval Reserve Officers School at the Navy Building, Boston and received a diploma at June 15 exercises. He has previously completed courses in combat information center, anti-submarine warfare, operations, aerology and meterology.

It Was a Ball for 4000 At Strawberry Festival

WAYLAND -- More than 4000 persons enjoyed themselves at one time or another at the 12th annual Strawberry Festival at the High School Green last Saturday.

It was a perfect day and evening for an outing to help the Wayland Junior Town House.

Miss Nancy Roehrig was voted Strawberry Festival Queen.

The games area was larger than ever and very gay where hundreds of children could test their skills and come away with pockets loaded with prizes. The smallest enjoyed the fishing pools and the grab wagons most of all, while the slightly older children patronized pitch ball and penny pitching . . . there were at least two boys in town with clean faces after their stint as waterboys!

The rides were a bigger success than ever before -- over 500 pony rides.

One youngster, surely a future volunteer fireman, rode the fire engine 17 times! And the horses which drew the hay wagon were fed as well as the townspeople: hambergers and ice cream! Just crazy.

The folk dancing for children was a big crowd-drawing activity. More than a hundred small youngsters found themselves doing authentic dances from many foreign countries.

At least 2500 people saw Miss Nancy Roehrig crowned queen, while the runners-up acted as her court.

And then, under the experienced calling of Ted Sanella, adult square dancers filled the green by the hundreds. The gaily colored lights and the warm night combined to make it the perfect end to a fun-filled day for the whole community.

Festival directors point out that it would be impossible to name all who had a part in making this "the most successful Festival ever. At least 500 townspeople spent about three hours apiece in helping 4000 people to about four hours apiece of pleasure. A real entertainment bargain!"

State LWV Names Wayland Woman To Regional Study

WAYLAND -- Mrs. Robert M. Page of Jeffrey Rd., Wayland, was appointed a director of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts in charge of the state regional planning study.

Mrs. Page comes to this post after serving with the Wayland LWV regional planning study committee for two years as its chairman. The Wayland Town Survey was the result of this committee's work. Currently, Mrs. Page is serving as chairman of the Wayland League's nominating committee.

A study of cities and their problems has long been of interest to Mrs. Page. In addition to intensive travel around cities in this country, she received her master of arts in geography at the University of Michigan with research on the city of Ann Arbor, Mich. Her undergraduate work was done at Smith College where she majored in history.

Six Injured In 2 Crashes Last Thursday In Weston

WESTON -- Six persons were injured in two accidents in one-two order here last Thursday night.

In a three-car collision on Rte. 20 near the Wayland line, three persons in one family were injured. Drivers of two other cars escaped injury.

Injured and treated at Waltham Hospital where they were held for observation were:

Helen Pitushe, 54, of 100 Neil st., Marlboro, who suffered a broken leg and injuries to her back and both knees; her husband, Kosma, 65, who had multiple cuts and abrasions to his forehead, nose and lips; their daughter, Alexandra, 34, of the same address, cut on left knee (four stitches) and head and elbow contusions.

Drivers of the other cars, Patrick Duffy, 55, of 24 Newcastle st., Brighton and William Floyd Jr., 32, of 67 Cochituate rd., Wayland, were uninjured.

Just an hour before a car operated by Andrew Clark Peters 3d, 19 of Marathon st., Arlington, skidded on the wet surface of Church st. at the Pigeon Hill rd.

IT'S ALL OVER BUT THE SHOUTING . . . and that will come later. Youngsters from Weston's C Building quit classrooms for a summer of fun. For an idea of what summer means, see pictures on Page 12. (Larry Forman Photo)

EDITORIAL

The If-Only'll Get You

We once knew a fellow, a close friend who was one whiz of a driver. Fast. A sort of bet-a-million guy on wheels. Never lost.

One mid-January night he was bringing his wife home from their honeymoon. Curves didn't slow him. And -- WHAM. His wife was rushed to the hospital. Oh, she lived all right. But she started married life in a strange community, marked for life with a scar from her temple to her chin.

And we'll always remember his remark:

"There's nothing I can do now. Nothing. It's done. Why didn't I go slow? It was snowing."

This is by way of reminding us all that the If-Only season is upon us.

Of course, properly speaking, there is no off-season for the If-Onlies. Maybe we should say that the end of school and the off-to-vacation rush only heightens the incidence of the If-Onlies . . . the regrets we feel -- after the accident.

On the editorial page we are printing a letter from Bryant Smith, president of Liberty Mutual . . . a list of If-Onlies. Every one of them is an accident stopper. But we'll let Mr. Bryant make his point. He does it very well -- and we recommend it to you . . . for reading before you get behind the wheel.

Rezoning Plan For Norumbega Loses 21-3

NEWTON -- Newton Aldermen Monday night virtually sunk the proposed multi-million business-commercial development at Norumbega Park.

The mammoth project, calling for zoning changes, had been attacked by Weston selectmen as detrimental to adjacent areas in Weston.

The vote Monday was 21-3 to uphold the aldermanic committee's stand against changing the zoning laws for Peter J. Kanavos, Dedham developer whose firm had purchased controlling interest in the corporation running the amusement park.

On a technicality, the final decision was postponed one more day but the overwhelming vote against the proposed change appeared to seal its fate -- at least for the present.

Most Weston objectors felt that Newton's edge-of-town re-zoning was unfair to Weston residential areas adjoining the park.

Blue Laws Closing Town Dump; There Goes Sunday Social Life

WAYLAND -- Don't say we didn't warn you -- the Blue Laws are going to close the town's Sunday social center . . . the town dump.

So if you get there Sunday and the state police have padlocked the gates . . . well, just wait until next Saturday when you next have a little time on your hands. How about that?

The reasoning: the dump is a business under contract to the town, and, according to state police, is not one of the 49 exceptions.

Town officials are not sure what they'll do but Chairman Thomas F. Linnehan of the Board of Selectmen and Charles Peters, road commission chairman, indicate that staying open after 5 p.m. two nights a week might do the trick . . . if the state police padlock the dump.

This will take care of the commuting husbands who are mighty blue about the situation but where does this leave the Sunday social life?

Lt. James Staverdes, in charge of the Framingham barracks, says any business which is not one of the exceptions must be closed under the Blue Laws -- and that's that.

Mr. Peters said: "We intend to keep the dump open on Sunday if it's possible within the law."

That's the road commissioners' view. The next move is up to the state police.

But it appears that unless you're exception-al, you've had it . . . on Sunday, that is.

Renewal Gets Reprieve, School Addition Wins; Wayland Meeting Rocks

WAYLAND -- Town taxpayers were in a giving mood a week ago yesterday . . . but it wasn't A-Okay all the way. There was a rebellious spirit in the air.

Some 700 taxpayers at the special town meeting voted to:

--Appropriate up to $285,000 from the Excess and Deficiency Fund to pay for an addition to the Claypit Hill School.

--Keep the Urban Renewal Authority in business . . . at least until it decides what to plan for the town.

But taxpayers were not buying some articles on the warrant about which they had heard little and about which town officials had a paucity of pertinent facts.

Rejected were:

--A move to sell for $100 a small lot to an adjoining owner at the intersection of Sycamore and Chestnut rds., making a 10,875-square-foot parcel for house lots. (minimum in the area: 20,000 square feet).

--An article providing for the taking by eminent domain of part of a lot owned by George L. Nolan in order to widen the high school drive entrance.

Also rejected: an article to dispose of 60,000 square feet of Claypit Hill school land to a private owner.

Car Flips, Man Hurt In Wayland

WAYLAND -- Robert D. Arritt, 31, of 7 Lamphere circle, Framingham, was injured about the face last Thursday about 1 a.m. when his car flipped over on Old Connecticut Path near the Red Coach Grille.

Injured about the chin and forehead, Mr. Arritt managed to crawl out of his car and summon help. The Natick Ambulance Service took him to Leonard Morse Hospital where he was treated.

Patrolmen Thomas Murray, Edward Burke and George Driscoll conducted the investigation. The car was towed from the scene by Wayland Motors.

At 1:24 a.m. Joel Nowel, 23, of 17 Highland rd., Waltham, and a passenger escaped injury when the car he was driving struck a cement post at Russell's Crossing on Rte. 20. Patrolmen Burke and Driscoll went to the scene.

Weston Police Warn...

Don't Let Culture Fool You, Her Voice May Clean You Out

WESTON -- Don't trust the lady with the cultured voice.

Don't do it at any rate when she's calling on the phone as a representative of a "department store" to ask if you'll be at home tomorrow afternoon when they make that delivery.

What delivery? Maybe your husband ordered something . . .

Chief Frank O. Shaw warns that the latest burglary gimmick is the cultured lady on the phone -- trying to determine when you'll be away so the gang can move in and clean out your valuables.

The next two weeks is the most dangerous, warns Chief Shaw. This is when Weston is apt to be cleared out and it's also when the unwary may be cleaned out.

Any such calls should be reported to police, according to the chief who advised residents to be just a wee bit more suspicious -- whether they get one of these choice calls or see someone strange "looking about".

Priscilla Mason Bride Of Robert Alan Ashworth

MRS. ROBERT ASHWORTH
(Loring Photo)

WESTON -- White gladioli formed the setting in the Weston Methodist Church last Saturday for the wedding of Miss Priscilla Helen Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Mason of Waltham (formerly of Weston) and Robert Alan Ashworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Ashworth of Lincoln.

The Rev. Alan H. Moore, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony assisted by the Rev. Morris Reed Robinson, rector of St. Anne's (Episcopal) Church in Lincoln. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Reginal L. Cahill.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white organza with lace bodice fashioned on princess lines with long pointed sleeves and with tiers of ruffles on the skirt which ended in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was caught to a crown of pearls and she carried a bible attached with three white rosebuds and streamers with stephanotis.

Miss Caroiyn Mason, her sister's maid of honor, wore mint green organza while the three bridesmaids, Miss Karen Leonard of Northfield, Vt., Mrs. Donaid Mason, cousin and sister-in-law of the bride and Mrs. Aian Stockelberg of Weston, wore shrimp organzas.

Dougias Ashworth of Lincoln was his brother's best man and the ushers were Donald Mason of Waltham, brother of the bride; Charles Campobasso of Lincoin and Alan Stockelberg of Weston.

The bride is a graduate of Weston High School and is employed at the Newton-Waltham Bank in Waltham. The bridegroom graduated from Concord High and ia a manufacturer's representative associated with Gist & Hoitz.

Following a wedding trip to Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Ashworth wili reside at 40 Fuller st., Waitham.

Mrs. Emma Pierce

WESTON -- Mrs. Emma M. (Knowles) Pierce, 92, formerly of 8 Brook rd., Weston, died Thursday in a local nursing home.

Born in West Campton, N. H., she lived in Weston for 60 years. She was a member of the Weston Methodist Church, the Order of Eastern Star, and the Pythian Sisters of Waltham, and a past president of its Chiefs' Club.

Widow of Frank B. Pierce, she leaves four grandchildren, J. Ellis Gammons of Braintree, Mrs. Virginia (Gammons) Henderson of Framingham, Walter B. Pierce of West Newton, and Mrs. Edith (Pierce) MacClary of Waltham and 14 great-grandchildren.

The Rev. Hugh C. MacLean of the Methodist Church of South Ashburnham officiated at services Saturday in the Wentworth Chapel, 30 Prospect St., Waltham. Burial was in the family lot in Linwood Cemetery.

Escapes Unhurt in Crash

WAYLAND -- Richard B. Provencal, 27, of Main st., Hudson, escaped unhurt just after midnight last Friday when the car he was driving struck a cement post on Old Sudbury rd., near the Wayland Golf Club. Patrolman Thomas Murray investigated.

Linda Appleyard Becomes Bride of George L. Rice

NEWTON -- Candelabra, all-white flowers and fern decorated the chancel of the First Church in Newton, congregational, on Saturday evening, June 24, where Linda Karen Appleyard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman M. Appleyard Jr., 26 Cart Path rd., Weston became the bride of George Lawrence Rice. The Rev. John Heidt and the Rev. Frank Weiskel were officiating clergymen.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was attired in white silk organza and silk-cloud satin. The gown was fashioned with a circle neckline, short sleeves, embroidered princess-line bodice and skirt with a plain satin back flowing into a chapel length train from two satin and pearl roses at waistline. Her satin crown with lattice work of seed pearls held in place an elbow length veil of silk illusion. She carried a semi-crescent bouquet of stephanotis, white delphinium and variegated ivy.

MRS. GEORGE LAWRENCE RICE

Miss Barbara Ann Appleyard, maid of honor, wore a full length silk organza sheath in Hawaiian cherry, fashioned with a square neckline and short sleeves, with a free-flowing chiffon panel in back caught at the waist with an obi sash and on her head a bandeau of ivy with flower accents. She carried a bouquet of carnations, sweetheart roses and Alba lilies.

The bridesmaids, gowned as the maid of honor, but in jewel pink, were: Judith Taylor Appleyard and Joan Bergstedt of Weston, Candace Monroe and Dorothy May Bartel of Newton, Janet Reidel of Medfield and junior bridesmaid, Martha Joan Cawley of Needham.

George Lawrence Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard W. Rice of 130 Montvale rd., Weston, was attended by best man Ross Loring Trenholm Jr. of Framingham. Ushers were: Abbott Eames Rice, Millbrook; Willard Wardworth Rice Jr., Foxboro; George Marble, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Richard Sinclair Boynton Jr., Needham; Norman Middleton Appleyard 3d, Weston and Howard Bradner, Norwood.

The bride's mother wore mauve-pink peau de soie with irridescent applique and the bridegroom's mother wore acqua taffeta with accents of deep turquoise.

The bridegroom graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, class of 1958. He is an electrical engineer, presently employed as a civilian by the U. S. Army.

The bride attended Kentucky Wesleyan.

Following a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mr. and Mrs. Rice will make their home in Washington, D. C.

Charlie Vas Dere – But Where Was The Humor?

BY ANNE HOCKING

If anyone around can think of a good definition for just exactly what humour is, he might go a long way towards defining what Where's Charlie wasn't Monday night, opening night, at Carousel

Or if anyone can rattle off all the ingredients necessary for a memorable musical, he will most certainly hit one or more strikingly absent in this same performance.

Shelley Berman as Charlie and sometimes Charlie's Aunt wasn't absent nor was David Daniels, Woodrow Parfrey, Preshy Marker, Patrick Waddington and a slue of other probably notable performers, but along about the middle of the last act this reviewer was.

Book by George Abbott, music and lyrics by Frank Loesser, script based on Brandon Thomas' Charley's Aunt, all directed by Christopher Hewett with a nationally accepted comedian to strut his stuff - it sounds like the hit most people take it for.

So just let me creep out between the tent flaps with the stuffy apology (cooked up for the occasion) that not everyone goes for this who's-a-woman-and-who-isn't sort of thing, especially when set to music. But you see it.

ADVANCED DEGREE -- Robert Allen Mosher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Mosher of 68 Summer st., Weston, is a graduate of Northeastern Universith with a master's degree in business administration. Mr. Mosher is a 1956 graduate of Brown University where he received his B.S. in engineering. He was a 1952 honor graduate of Weston High School. Mr. Mosher is employed by Polaroid Corp. as a facility design engineer and recently attended the summer meeting of the A.I.E.E. at Cornell University.

Blue Law Fever

Blue Law Fever is upon us. And we can not help but be appalled at this sudden zeal for law enforcement that has turned the state upside down.

We might add that any state in an upside down condition is slightly ridiculous.

In short -- we think all this razzmatazz about studies is so much nonsense. Gov. Volpe ought to act now to call the Legislature back . . . and recall the Blue Laws before this Blue Law Fever gets us all.

For one thing, it is a well-known fact that businessmen, especially in the suburbs and in the summer resorts, have built their businesses on the Sunday-holiday trade.

Look at it this way. Until last year when the issue was raised by the Springfield case, realtors showed houses, people bought butter and eggs and husbands (egged on by their wives) bought trees for the bare suburban lawns.

Was there a crackdown then? No there wasn't. It was recognized that you couldn't in this day and age, buy a home in the darkening twilight or on a special day taken off from work. You took a good look on Sunday . . . and whenever else you could. And police did not look down their blue noses and write you up.

Now suddenly, since the Supreme Court's decision upholding the laws that have always been on the books, there is a sudden rush to enforce with a capital E.

Maybe someone should point out that a sudden strict enforcement of a law that everyone has interpreted loosely over many decades is not exactly justice. Many persons have predicated their summer's living on continued business with the tourist and others. Now -- suddenly -- this is out.

We'd just like to point out one fact which everyone accepts and which authorities might do well to recognize:

The public, by and large, is on the side of the shopkeeper -- and against the law.

Witness the 23-cent bubble gum and gift bread, the $10 ice cream cones and the $9.90 gifts bought in Cape antique shops.

Pretty ridiculous isn't it? And wait until 545 state troopers, many of them desk sergeants and many others forced to patrol traffic, try to police 351 cities and towns for violations.

That, too, is ridiculous, and will appear more so.

We might add we think there has been, as one realtor pointed out, a stringent enforcement in our area while many others have gone scot free.

Let's not be ridiculous. Let's face the facts. Let's rid ourselves of this Blue Law Fever. And after that, let's get rid of the Blue Laws themselves -- pronto.

Good Drivers Are Bad Ones This Weekend

To the Editor:

The appalling number of highway accidents continue to mount with each holiday. Four-hundred and eighty-three human beings died through the May 27-30 holiday weekend. Estimates that as many as 583 will die -- all needlessly -- have been made for the July Fourth holiday.

The snap reaction to such facts and forecasts is to lament the ill luck of innocent vacationers and assign blame to habitually irresponsible motorists. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., which has long studied the vagaries of highway safety, has isolated two sets of figures that discredit these beliefs.

One is that eight out of every 10 traffic accidents occur within 25 miles of the drivers' homes.

The second is that eight out of every 10 drivers involved in accidents are normally "good" drivers.

It would appear from these two statistics that the habitual speed demon, the cowboy driver, the irresponsible drunk and the driver-away-from-home are only a part of the problem.

The main problem is you!

But you can avoid becoming the cause of a serious accident:

If only you would recognize your own fallibility . . .

If only you would keep your mind on your driving . . .

If only you would keep alert to traffic lights, signs and laws . . .

If only you would stop and rest when tired . . .

If only you would keep your temper under control . . .

If only you would not trust playing children . . .

If only you would slow down when traffic is heavy or streets are slick . . .

If only you would dim your lights for approaching cars . . .

If only you would not pass on hills or curves . . .

If only you would not take occasional chances. . .

If only you would keep your brakes adjusted . . .

If only you would foreswear drinking when driving . . .

If only you would keep to the right of the center line . . .

If only you would replace your worn tires and windshield wipers.

If only you would start your trip a few minutes early . . .

If only you would check for trains at every crossing . . .

Sometimes no power on earth seems omnipotent enough to force sanity on drivers. On the fourth day of July or on the fifth day of Judgment, highway safety is yours if only you drive with care.

Sincerely yours,
Bryan E. Smith,
President
Liberty Mutual.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Red Strawberry Moon

The Red Strawberry Moon is the title that certain of our Indian predecessors gave to this abounding month of June.

Like you and me, the Indians were exceedingly fond of strawberries, finding them delicious not only just as they grew but also with maple sugar, if they lived in the maple country. Mixed into strawberry bread, they ate them all year.

In fact the luscious modern strawberry is the result of hybridizing the delicately flavored native berry of the eastern United States with the Chilean shore strawberry, both from the New World.

There were lots of strawberries here when our ancestors arrived, and they dipped right into them. Governor John Winthrop records that at the end of the Arbella's voyage from England "Most of our people went ashore on the land of Cape Ann . . . and gathered store of fine strawberries." Master Graves, the first engineer and surveyor, must have taken a few minutes off at his work now and then, like the surveyors you sometimes observe along our roads; for he remarks on the "exceeding sweetness" of the native strawberries. "In summer all places are full of them," Pastor Higginson of Salem notes.

To the south of us one traveler wrote that "they covered the ground as with a red carpet," while in Canada one of the earliest French administrators found them everywhere plentiful in the fields and a pleasure to eat with maple sugar.

Roger Williams, founder of Rhode Island, was a sober sort of man, but about the native strawberries he grew enthusiastic.

"In some parts where the natives have planted," he writes, "I have many times seen as many as would freight a good ship, within a few miles compass."

It must have been such prolific spots, that resulted in the naming of various localities "Strawberry Bank", one of them in Sudbury.

What these early descriptions refer to is, of course, the native strawberry that we now call wild, though it is not at all certain that the Indian gardeners had not by selection improved them.

During colonial times these were for a long time the only berries brought to the Boston and New York markets. But eventually horticulturists began to experiment with them.

The Boston area has the distinction of having developed the first good commercial berry, the Hovey, introduced by a Boston seedman of that name in 1838.

In more recent times, the modern berry which for years has been the most popular, the Howard 17, sometimes called Premier, was the production of a horticultural enthusiast in Belchertown in the Connecticut Valley, named A. B. Howard.

This small farmer "had an irresistable urge to work with plants," as his niece expresses it. He spent the best part of his life trying out 3000 different strawberry seedlings, and the Howard 17 was the most famous result. It spread in no time all over the country. (Unfortunately for Mr. Howard, no plant patents then.)

The sandy soils of our neighboring towns of Concord and Acton, a generation ago were green with berry fields, and there the Howard was a favorite.

Other important sources for Boston's berries were East Falmouth on Cape Cod, and Dighton, near Fall River. Many of our late berries come from Cape Elizabeth, near Portland, Maine, and from Nova Scotia.

A century ago they grew closer still to Boston.

One distinction of nearby Belmont, which then raised heavy crops of berries for the Boston market, is that there, a little over a century ago, the Strawberry Festival originated.

Another local distinction was the immense blood-red Marshall strawberry, never to be forgotten by those able to remember when they topped the market, only a dozen or so to a quart. Sadly enough, this variety was over-susceptible to modern diseases.

But to return to Roger Williams and the native berries he was so fond of. He didn't rely entirely on his own opinion as to the merits of our June strawberry, though "it is of itself excellent," he writes:

So good "that one of the chief doctors of England was wont to say that God could have made a better berry, but He never did."

To this I am sure that you will nod your head in approval, at any rate until the raspberry, another native North American fruit, comes along.

Something About Birds

Your Chance for a Rarity:

Red-Breasted Nuthatches Prevlent Here

WESTON -- Two more bobwhite were heard calling recently by Mrs. D. R. Davidson, Golden Ball rd., and Mrs. A. S. Fales, Merriam st. A Virginia rail in juvenile plumage was found June 18 near the street in front of her house by Mrs. W. R. Koe, Plain rd., Wayland -- apparently killed by flying into wires. On June 18, Mrs. M. T. Stantial found a dead black-billed cuckoo which had flown against one of her windows.

A red-breasted nuthatch has been heard several times since the first of June (C. E. Smith, Westland rd.).

Although these birds nest regularly in Berkshire County, summer reports in the eastern part of the state are scarce. This year, however, there are more reports than usual, including one from South Lincoln (W. H. Drury Jr.). Several small flocks of cedar waxwings have been seen recently (Gorely, Boston Post rd; Belles, Wayland; Smith Westland rd.) Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hubbard, Sunset rd., heard three ovenbirds in the area around the Ash st. Reservoir on June 17.

Indigo buntings continue to be numerous. A male in high plumage was found dead on June 14 (Washburn and Derbyshire, Weston-Lincoln line); the one seen in Weston Center on June 7 is still present and was singing from the top of a small tree next to Leiby's Nursery on June 21 (Smith).

From now until about the middle of August, it is easy to find indigo buntings because the males sing persistently during the hottest part of the day when other birds are silent.

By color-banding or noting plumage differences (especially the size and shape of the rost breast-patch), it has been possible to identify 11 individual male rose-breasted grosbeaks (7 banded, 4 unbanded) coming to the Smiths' feeder, Westland rd., between July 18 and 21. During the same period, several of the banded birds were seen by Mrs. A. S. Fales, Merriam st., about half a mile away.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Canoes Just Right But for Vrrrooom Boats

In these days of speed, power and swept up fins you see darn few canoes on our local waters any more, in fact its all your life is worth to paddle down the Sudbury River in a canoe on weekends or holidays.

The rules of the road don't seem to apply there, and a twin-engine outboard is likely to come busting around the corner at 30 knots, leaving a wake that all but swamps a canoe.

The best thing to do in that case is to head into the wake and settle on the deck of the canoe and pray.

The next best thing is to take your trip in the early morning -- before the power boats are out.

This is the prettiest time anyway, as you will see more of the wild animals and birds then, and believe me, there are plenty in the Sudbury marshes.

Back in the twenties the canoe was the rage, and in the small town I lived in there were two large canoe clubs and the river was fairly crowded on weekends with young men and their ladies.

Some of these canoes had little canopies overhead, complete with a fringe, and were painted all sorts of bright colors, with polished mahogany decks.

I'll never forget the Fourth of July pageants. In the morning they had canoe races, then in the afternoon a parade on the river with huge floats made up of four or six canoes joined together and bedecked with flowers and crepe paper. As this was soon after Lindbergh made his famous flight there was one large float with the Spirit of St. Louis made of carnations sitting on top. In the cockpit sat a local boy who happened to look like the famous flyer, all duded up in helmet and goggles.

As evening approached all the back lawns along the river were lit up with Japanese lanterns and people danced as a float came by with a small band playing on the deck.

Now I have digressed from the Nature "bit" in this article, but the canoe has come down through the ages from the Indian, and it is one of the best type craft to use around here for fishing and viewing the wild things you find around water.

Canoes can be as quiet as you wish, and they are easily transported and can be loaded on a car by one man, but they demand a lot of respect as they tip quite easily.

I've always wanted to go down the Sudbury River to the ocean where it finally ends up at Newburyport, after going in with the Concord and Merrimack Rivers. That should be quite a trip.

Tickets Available For 'Raisin in Sun' In Weston Area

WESTON -- Mrs. Campbell L. Searle, of Weston, and Henry G. Pearson of Wayland, chairmen of their towns respective Fair Housing Practices Committees, have announced their organizations are joining in sponsoring the New England premiere of the film "A Raisin in the Sun."

The benefit showing of the movie version of the N. Y. Drama Critics Circle Award-winning play by Lorraine Hansberry will be at the Capri Theatre, Copley Sq., on Tuesday, July 11.

Members of the committees serving as sponsors include Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Osborne 2d, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wickham Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Hoge, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Robins.

"A Raisin in the Sun" concerns members of a Negro family in Chicago who become embroiled in the problems of housing and civil rights. Produced by David Susskind and Philip Rose, the Columbia Pictures film stars the original cast, including Sidney Poitier, Claudia McNeil and Ruby Dee.

The premiere is being co-sponsored by the Fair Housing Federation of Boston, the local fair housing committees, and the Boston Branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Tickets may be reserved by calling Mrs. Skinner at TW 4-2210 or Mrs. Hoge at EL 8-2570, or Mrs. Robins at EL 8-7556.

Wayland Youth Wins Honors

WAYLAND -- John Henderson, son of the late Selectman Gerald Henderson and Mrs. Mildred Henderson of Plain rd., graduated recently from Newman Preparatory School, Boston, with first honors in advanced German and social science. He is also a member of the National Honor Society.

Weston Jr. High Has Library Club

WESTON -- A group of Junior High School students organized into a Library Club has helped run a fiction and biography collection throughout the 1961 school year.

This Lending Library now numbers 460 volumes and is growing. Sixty per cent of the school population are regular borrowers, others occasional readers. Between 80 and 90 books are in circulation all the time. Fines for books kept overtime have brought in sufficient funds to purchase 200 plastic covers. Mrs. Rosamond Howe is faculty helper.

Members include:

Nadine Berry, Billy Burt, Bill Carlsen, Ginny Della Rocca, Jane Dengler, Debbie Ellis, Elaine Harrison, Chris Marden, George Mayforth, David Reid, Karen Ryan, Joan Sawyer and Karen True.

ST. ANN'S WINNER -- Mrs. Anne Mattioli of East Main st., Southboro (wife of Police Chief Frank Mattioli) picks up brand new Falcon from Wayland Motors owner, Thomas F. McManus. Mrs. Mattioli received the Falcon given away at the St. Ann's Fair. With her are her children.

2-Day Celebration of 4th in Sudbury

SUDBURY -- Sudbury celebrates the Fourth of July this year with a Field Day at the Town Field July 3 and 4 sponsored by the Sudbury Firemen's Assn. A large parade is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. on July 4 beginning on the Boston Post rd. in South Sudbury going up Concord rd. and ending at the Town Field in the Center.

This is the 30th annual parade and field day and as in the past exciting events have been planned with a band concert and fireworks featured both nights.

Guests of honor this year will include 18 NATO journalists who will view a real Fourth of July celebration for the first time. Accompanied by Rep. James DeNormandie of Lincoln, the NATO journalists will see most of the activities on the 4th from a reviewing stand along the parade route.

An antique fire engine will be auctioned, a beauty queen will be crowned, and many prizes donated by the Sudbury merchants will be awarded to children participating in the parade for best displays, costumes and floats.

DIED JULY 4, 1961

And his mourners will lament, "If only..."

If only he hadn't been speeding . . . if only he hadn't passed on the hill . . . if only he hadn't cut out of line. If only . . . Over the coming holiday week-end, more than 500 people will die in "if-only" accidents. Thousands of others will end up in the hospital. Or, if they're lucky, in the courthouse. Don't be one of them. Keep your car and tires in good shape. Drive carefully. Drive as though every other driver were an "if-only" driver. Drive as though your life depended on it . . . every minute, every mile, every moment of the day and night. Then they won't have cause to say of you, "If only . . ."

intersection and was in a collision with a car driven by Richard C. Wildes, 65, of 12 Boynton st., Waltham.

Mr. Peters was cut about the face and needed eight stitches at Waltham Hospital. Warren French, 17, of 309 Conant rd., riding with Mr. Peters and Mr. Wildes' wife, Winifred, 65, were treated for contusions and released.

Chief Frank O. Shaw warned motorists of oil slicks on this stretch of road which make it more slippery when wet.

He said the full oil trucks and other trailers trying to make the grade spill over on the road.

NEARLY EVERYBODY PLAYS TENNIS -- For the first time, tennis lessons are being offered this summer by the Junior Town House at . . . (you guessed it) the High School courts. And most everyone is welcome, as this picture testifies. The Rossboroughs of Davelin rd. are ready and waiting: Scott, Cynthia . . . and Amy. But Amy, nearly 2, won't make it: too young. Got to be of school age.

2 Weston Sisters Beat Boys In Weston Bike Safety Program

WESTON -- When it comes to safety, Weston girls are right up there with the boys.

And this is the kicker -- some families apparently believe in bike safety: four of the winners of the Police-Rotary Bike Skill Program are from two families.

The winners in the 10-14 age group:

1 -- Holly Mackintosh, 13, of 77 Byron rd.

2 -- Bryan McCarthy, 12, of 9 Valley View rd.

3 -- Andy Karas, 14, of 20 Willard rd.

Winners of the 6-9 group:

1 -- Lorna Mackintosh, 9, of 77 Byron rd.

2 -- Debbie MacCausland, 9, of 3 Warren lane.

3 -- Stefan Karas, 6, of 20 Willard rd.

There now -- if you've been watching closely, you'll see that the Mackintoshes came off with two firsts and the Karas boys took third in each class.

"This shows two things," said Police Chief Frank O. Shaw. "Girls can be good bike riders . . . better than the boys who may think they're good. We wish the boys had shown up better. There are so many of them. This is potentially dangerous.

"It also shows that some families take a firm interest in bicycle safety. This pays off, as you can see from the two families that produced winners here."

Serving as judges beside chief Shaw were Edward M. Dickson, chairman of the board of selectmen; Officer Robert C. Millen and Safety Officer Lawrence Tierney.

Officer Tierney, who directs the bike safety program and helps instill the safety laws in the children, also called on parents to take a keener interest in bike safety.

About 45 youngsters participated in the program, and copies of their record and where they should show improvement are being mailed to parents.

Trophies were donated this year, as in the past, by the Weston Rotary Club.

State Director Wilton Vaugh of the Division of Motorboats explained that for the first time the owners of the boats will be requested to give the names of the engines and hulls and the numbers on the hulls and on the engines. They are also requested to tell when and from whom they purchased the boats.

Twelve Local Residents Receive Degrees at NU

Degree recipients from this area included:

WAYLAND -- Eleanor M. Landrigan, 72 Draper rd., master of education; Elaine A. Storella, 11 Rich Valley rd., master of arts in history, and Raymond L. Stevens, 156 Boston Post rd., master of science in electrical engineering, all from the Graduate School. Jacobus T. Anthony, with honor, 14 Brook Trail rd. and Melvin D. Boget, 3 Graybirch lane, bachelor of business administration in engineering and management, both from the Lincoln Institute.

COCHITUATE -- John C. Mackeen, 13 Harrison st., bachelor of science in electrical engineering from the College of Engineering; Richard R. WESTON -- Arthur B. Follansbee, Oakdale ave., bachelor of science in mechanical engineering from the College of Engineering; Timothy G. Greene, 713 Boston Post rd., and Robert A. Mosher, 68 Summer st., both master of business administration from the Graduate School, and Robert E. Knell, 17 Longmeadow rd., bachelor of business administration in management from the University College.

Labrador Retriever Wins Third Place

WAYLAND -- Mrs. Robert Donaldson of 26 Sedgemeadow rd., won third prize at the North Shore Kennel Club Obedience trials, held on June 17 with her labrador retriever, Staw Hollows Black Jack, C.D.X. in the Open B class.

Mrs. Donaldson is a member of Mr. Schulmann's Weston Dog Training Club held at the Weston Dog Ranch.

$285,000 School Annex Whips Through

Passage of the biggest item, the school addition, was as quick and quiet as a grain of sand dropping into the Sudbury.

Mrs. Luther Davis, speaking for the League of Women Voters, just had time to announce the League's approval when the gavel fell and the voice vote was taken with only a flea's echo of noes.

The vote means that the town will take from its E & D Fund any sum necessary up to $285,000 for the construction and equipping of the Claypit addition.

The exact number of rooms is not known. It may be eight classrooms . . . enough to provide for 240 more students in the overcrowded school by September 1962.

It probably means that, with another addition to the Loker School voted for next March for use in September 1963, school needs will be taken care of in Wayland until 1965 which will be "handled by other means", according to Allen Finlay, chairman of the School Building Committee who made the report at the meeting.

Other means: probably consideration of new school in North Wayland.

By the unusual method of committing E & D funds to construction (with eventual return of one half of the total cost from the state), Mr. Finlay said there would be a minimum effect on the tax rate. Reason: short-term borrowing.

By far the biggest wrangle came on the second article of the warrant -- the bid to kill the renewal authority. About 70 minutes was consumed on this.

Its defeat came on a 333-268 vote.

Center of this fight:

1 -- Whether or not the authority would have to come back to town meeting for approval of any plan for renewal.

Town officials said the URA must do so -- as well as to seek funds for going further.

Proponents of the article -- the Wayland Civic Assn. -- denied this, quoted Moderator Roger Stokey and officials of the Massachusetts Municipal Association as the leading authority on the subject in Massachusetts, for the need to get town meeting approval.

2 -- Question of road width. Atty. Norman Ross, among others, insisted that the Federal authorities would insist on 40-foot roads, thus imperiling many homes built along narrow Dudley Pond roads.

Lawrence Fordham of the authority denied this, said it had been told that narrower roads could be approved and that some could be one-way and meet U. S. approval.

Later Chairman Robert Charnock of the planning board said the board would not require such widths where it was inimical to the surrounding property. He said there is no minimum road width in Wayland.

3 -- Whether or not the planning board and renewal authority had to do just as Federal government ordered.

Mr. Charnock said final determination of a town renewal plan would be made by local persons "and not some Federal official in New York."

He pointed out that under the town's plan to remove substandard property and improve roads and other town services it would be years before sufficient funds could be had to do these jobs. Hence -- Federal aid.

Paul Poirier of the Wayland Civic Assn. spoke against Federal aid and Clifford Goodnoh of the same organization said: "Just leave us alone. If we want betterments, OK -- accept them or reject them, but no Federal interference."

On Article 3 -- the move to sell for $100 a piece of property obtained by the town in 1958 for $1500 -- so much opposition developed over what opponents felt was the small sum that an amendment to make the sales price not less than $1500 was offered.

This was defeated 225 - 203 but the original article failed on a voice vote after Luther Davis pointed out that although others in the Dudley Pond area had asked to buy such lots, they had been informed by town officials that it was impossible while the land was in line for urban renewal revisions.

John Howard, noted city planner, opened up this area of thinking by asking if the sale had been approved by the planning board or URA.

Mr. Davis also pointed out in connection with the move to take by eminent domain part of the Nolan property that taking eminent domain proceedings seemed extreme in such cases where there was no evidence of prior attempts to reach agreement more amicably.

This move was also defeated after spirited opposition by the Nolans.

The move to sell part of the Claypit Hill School land ran afoul a suggestion the town should not dispose of town land for immediate profit.

The Claypit Hill property, according to Bruce Kingsbury, might better be held for some future town use . . . such as a branch library.

In other action, the meeting:

--Appropriated $6700 for additional funds for garbage renewal, snow removal and extension of the water main system to Grace rd.

--Unanimously voted to take a three-foot width (with 10-foot slope easement) on the easterly side of Old Connecticut Path from the high school to Davelin rd. for sidewalks in connection with the town's sidewalk extension plan.

--Voted unanimously to appropriate $2750 for the acquisition of land adjoining Lakeview Cemetery for cemetery expansion.

--Defeated a move to widen the high school driveway entrance by acquisition of land of George L. Nolan.

Corvettes Win League Twin Bill; Drop 2 Close Ones to Brakettes

WAYLAND -- Cochituate Motors' Corvettes dood it -- and then again they didn't . . , although it was close.

On Saturday the Corvettes breezed through to a double win over the Blue Sox in East Greenwich, R. I., 11-0 and 12-4 to keep their first place hold in the fast Class A New England League intact.

Donna Hebert pitched a no-hitter in the opening game and Carol Marshall yielded four hits in the nightcap in which Rhode Island jumped off to a 3-2 lead which it kept until the fourth inning. Joyce Letourneau hit a triple with the bases loaded for the Corvettes to keep the Blue Sox sagging. That was only a start and the Corvettes went on to garner seven runs in this inning.

It became 12-4 an inning later when Diane Potter tripled with two aboard and scored herself on Doris Driscoll's single.

But on Sunday at Cochituate ballpark the Corvettes came close but fell short on both ends of a doubleheader with the world champion Raybestos Brakettes -- 1-0 and 3-1, the latter in 13 fast-paced innings.

This was one of the Corvettes best doubleheaders in the three years they have been organized.

Donna Hebert was locked in a sizzling pitchers' duel with the Brakettes star, Bertha Ragan in the opener. But the Corvettes just couldn't solve Bertha's hurling. She has been picked on the All-World Team All-Stars for 10 years running.

In the second game Carol Marshall faced Joan Joyce of the Brakettes in a 13-inning pitchers' duel in which the Corvettes got off to a 1 - 0 lead in the fifth. The Brakettes tied it up in the sixth and both teams were unable to score until the 13th when the visitors put across two runs,

In the 13th Joan Joyce singled with one out and was sacrificed to second. Marge McIntire was given an intentional pass and Ottaviano came through with a single to score both runners. Joan fanned 20 Corvettes.

NEXT WEEK: The Corvettes will enter the Eastern Seabourd Tournament at New Haven.

300 Lost Items At Wayland JHS

WAYLAND -- It's pickup time at Wayland Junior High School. Authorities list more than 300 lost articles, awaiting students -- or parents -- who can identify (as soon as possible) the following lost -- and found -- at the school this year:

Twenty-four blouses, 43 sweaters, 25 coats and jackets, 41 caps and hats, 19 pairs of shorts, 80 pairs of boots, shoes and sneakers, 16 undergarments, two skirts, 100 kerchiefs and scarfs, assorted gloves and mittens, two towels, two face cloths and five belts.

Old Peppersass, first locomotive of the famous Mt. Washington Cog Railway, was shipped by sections from Boston to Littleton, N. H., and then hauled 25 miles by ox teams to the base of the mighty mountain.

"No inflation Here" could be a sign displayed at the ticket office of the Mt. Washington Carriage Road in Pinkham Notch, New Hampshire. The road is 100 years old in 1961 but the toll of $5.00 for car and driver was started back in 1911, just 50 years ago, and has not changed to this day.

Now's the time to start planning his future. Just a baby now — but you'll be surprised at how fast he'll grow. Before you know it he'll be ready for college. Will you be ready to give him the assistance he needs? You will if you start right now with a program of regular, planned deposits. Wes-Lex Corp. Buys 70 Acres in Lincoln

WESTON -- Purchase of approximately 70 acres of land by the Wes-Lex Corp. was announced by Robert G. Brownell, president, of 20 Spruce Hill Rd., Weston. The rolling, wooded land is located in Lincoln at the Weston line, off Tower Rd.

Mr. Brownell stated that it is planned to subdivide the property into approximately 24 building sites. In addition to this, it is planned to deed a reserve of approximately five acres to the Lincoln Land Trust, a non-profit organization.

William Berkes of Concord is working closely with the Wes-Lex organization in laying out the lot subdivision in order to maintain the natural beauty of the land, and to predetermine the optimum house sitings and wherever possible, to work the lot lines so as to properly encompass the sites. The proposed subdivision will be restricted to custom, contemporary architecture.

Bits & Pieces

We understand police are having trouble recruiting recruits these days -- what with all the extra work the Blue Laws are making for officers.

Troopers, they say, wear blue uniforms because their main job now is to enforce the Biue Laws.

Some of their wives, who like a little butter and eggs or sun tan iotion on Sunday, are talking up a change in fashions for troopers -- like something old, something new, something borrowed but definiteiy not something you-know-what.

Speaking of the Blue Laws -- and who isn't? -- we understand there's been some barbering going on after hours -- by youngsters not even licensed to barber. But police took a hand in that.

This Blue Law fever is affecting everyone.

Traveiers returning from Sudbury report mosquitoes bigger than horseflies with jet-speed attack. The spray didn't take over there, it seems.

* * *

Now it doesn't take a genius to tell you that since the state police got so active that being blue is just like being in the dumps. Weil, maybe we shouldn't have mentioned it -- the patient isn't doing too weli as it is.

Someone slipped this under the door as a grim reminder in this hot, sticky weather they're passing off as summer:

If a man's after money, he's money-mad; if he keeps it, he's a capitalist; if he spends it, he's a playboy; if he doesn't get it, he's a ne'er-do-well; if he doesn't try to get it, he iacks ambition; if he gets it without working for it, he's a parasite; and if he accumulates it after a iifetime of hard work, peopie call him a fool who never got anything out of life.

Sort of reminds us of the rooster's complaint: "What's the use? Yesterday an egg, tomorrow a feather duster."

Wild Animals Invade Weston for a Day

WESTON -- Wild animals in Weston -- just for the fun of it.

The MDC's Traveling Zoo will appear at Weston Junior High School playground next Thursday at 1:30 p.m., according to John S. Proctor, town director of recreation. And -- children will be permitted to handle most of the following zoo inmates:

Two bear cubs, a cockatoo, two honey bears, a Scotch Highland calf, a chinchila, a sparrow hawk, a squirrel monkey, crow, llama, two pygmy goats, raccoon and an African gray parrot.

WALTHAM -- A recent change in the social security law now makes it more important that people who hire baby sitters, maids, cleaning women, or other household help report the earnings of thse workers if they are paid $50 in cash wages in any calendar quarter, stated Norman A. Keyes, manager of the Waltham district office.

Audubon Society Conducts Two-week Camping Tour

LINCOLN -- On Aug. 7 - 18 the Massachusetts Audubon Society will hold a 2-week natural history camping tour, for boys from 10 to 14 years of age.

Mr. Richard Haskell, a teacher from Stony Brook, Long Island, will be the director.

Plans call for the group to climb three mountains -- Monadnock in N. H., and Greylock and Mt. Tom in Mass. Also on the agenda will be visits to six of the Society's wildlife sanctuaries, and a four-day tenting outing at the Wellfleet Bay Sanctuary on Cape Cod.

For further information call Miss Frances Sherburne at the Society's Drumlin Farm Wildlife Sanctuary in South Lincoln, Clearwater 9-9500. Registrations should be made by July 3.

Weston Student Going to Africa

WESTON -- Richard Hannah of 44 Hubbard St., Weston, a Dartmouth student, will be among 15 American students who will visit Africa as part of a special program this summer.

The group will join Prof. Vernon L. Ferwrda of Trinity College (Hartford) on a tour of several African nations under the auspices of Operation-Crossroads Africa, Inc.

Mr. Hannah will visit Nigeria, Ghana, Togo and Dahomey and will spend most of his time in Dahomey where an African student group will join his group.

Probably Mr. Hannah and the others will help build a dispensary in a small village already selected. This sort of pre-Youth Corps group will meet President Kennedy in mid-June for an orientation session.

If it paid to be just a little more suspicious than you are apt to be, wouldn't you do it? Well, now is the time -- and if you're in doubt, read editorial on PAGE 4.

DOWN WHERE POP FOUL THRIVES -- Wayco finals in Cochituate. (David Newton Photo)

Pop Fouls Nest in Wayland

Indians Cop Wayco Title But Mother Is Confused

WAYLAND -- The Cochituate Indians trimmed the Wayland Pirates, 2 - 0, last Wednesday night to take the Wayco League championships . . . but that's only part of the story.

We wanted the real lowdown on how mothers see these games and we sent one of our colleagues from the drama department -- and also a mother of a Pirate -- to see what happened.

This is her report, as far as we are able to state after recovery of her notes and our sanity.

"The Indians won, 2 - 0 and their pitches struck out 7, walked two and gave up four. What does that mean? Four?"

Hits, we told her. But who scored the big runs?

"Richard Dodge hit a home run in the last of the fifth, bringing in one," she said, somewhat mechanically, we thought. And before we could stop her:

"There was a wonderful pop foul caught by the catcher in the fourth inning." She said pop foul as if she weren't sure this was an exercise in bird-watching, baseball or drama. She seemed real gone with the memory, however.

We waited a moment, to let her recover, and then we asked: "Who caught the pop foul? "Don't know," her reply.

So we stuck to practical matters: who was on base when Dodge homered?

"Well, you don't want to know that do you?" she said, turning us aside. Yes was our reply.

Seems there were a few phone calls. Turns out it was David Bicchieri who was on base when the homer was hit.

She referred to her notes again. Bobby Dodge hit an almost-homer but he was out. He got no hit. Baseball fans were drifitng into The Town Crier by this time to work out the growing puzzle.

We looked over her shoulder at her notes:

"Possible home run by Bobby Dodge. Put out at home base by ss, thrown from right field."

At that point, it was decided to leave the mothers of ballplayers to cheering, painting scoreboards and warming up pitchers, The rest of the story is this:

Managers Joe Biccieri and John Kealty of the Indians were very happy. George Mayberry and Jim Richardson of the Pirates were gloomy. ("It did seem too bad.")

All-star teams from Wayland Cochituate will play during July and in August one team will be formed from these players to meet, Sudbury, Allston and other teams.

One other bit of information we garnered from our notetaker: Al Black and Win Leavitt were the umpires "and they yelled ouch whenever the ball hit them. My husband said they should have been thrown out."

Mrs. Barr Dies, Ran Benson's For 35 Years

WAYLAND Mrs. Myrtice Barr, 68, wife of Thomas Barr and for many years co-proprietor of Benson's Variety Store, died Saturday night at Leonard Morse Hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Barr was born in Weston, daughter of the late Charles and Emma Benson, and was well-known in Wayland as owner for 35 years of the variety store in Wayland Center. Mr. and Mrs. Barr had lived for 37 years in the town. She was a member of Trnitarian Congregational Church.

Besides her husband, she leaves four daughters, Mrs. Myrtice McInnis and Mrs. Beverly Germano, both of Wayland, Mrs. Alberta Buckingham of Waltham and Mrs. Ethel Ferguson of San Francisco, five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Private funeral services were held yesterday morning in the Loker Memorial Chapel with the Rev. Dr. Donald S. Ewing, minister of Trinitarian Congregational, conducting. Burial was in the family lot in North Cemetery, Wayland.

Firemen Probe Fire in Condemned Wayland Cottage

WAYLAND -- Fire in an unused camp and the attempted burning of an adjacent unoccupied cottage were under investigation by Wayland firemen this week.

The incidents which took place early last Wednesday morning followed upon a fire of mysterious origin in the "old freight house" near the B & M property in Wayland Center on June 20.

Fire Chief Francis J. Hartin said the suspicious fire started in an unoccupied cottage at 34 Cedar Crest rd. early Wednesday, June 28.

He said firemen also discovered an oil-soaked pillow near an adjacent cottage also on the condemned

Wayland Still in Dumps But No One Blue Over Law

WAYLAND -- Just about everyone was down in the dumps here Sunday but no one was blue about it.

The Town dump was open for business . . . and chitchat, if you weren't away for the weekend and caring less.

The way it worked: Selectman Chairman Thomas F. Linnehan issued a special emergency permit to Peter Lagasse, dump operator, for Sunday only.

The procedure from here on it: Probably a special emergency permit every week for Sundays only.

This step followed on the heels of Highway Dept. Comr. Charles Peters' call to State Police stating that an emergency existed since the town had no regular trash collections.

The dump had become the center of a Blue Laws controversy in this area as State Police said it would have to be closed since it was not one of the exceptions allowed to stay open on Sundays.

About 40 cars showed up, according to Mr. Lagasse, but there was little time for social chitchat Sunday. Just business.

The emergency measure came as a great relief to townsfolk who were hard put to find time, other than Sundays, for trash disposal.

Thus the State Police's motto, Never on Sunday, has to be amended as follows:

What never?

Well, hardly ever.

Weston Firm Fights Track Ban in Court

WESTON -- This town's off-again-on-again zoning dispute with the Massachusetts Broken Stone Co. is headed for the courts . . . again.

This time over the Appeals Board refusal to allow a railroad spur track over company-owned land in a residential zone.

Norman T. Byrnes, attorney for the Weston firm, filed a notice in Middlesex County Superior Court, Cambridge, Monday, claiming a "substantial hardship" on the firm if it cannot build the track to bring in stone for processing.

A court trial can be expected in the fall - maybe in early September.

The land involved is a 13.6 acre lot wedged in between the company's "front lot" and the railroad tracks.

Mr. Byrnes maintained this week that the appeals board's contention that a buffer zone was needed was puzzling.

"A buffer against what?" said Mr. Byrnes "There is the town dump, our quarry, the railroad tracks and the Esso tank farm.

"This land, because of its location will never be used for residential purposes. We're being hurt."

Lurking behind this court action -- a bill in equity -- is another court move: determination in Land Court whether the firm can continue to process stone from whatever location.

The Board of Selectmen recently told the firm that it could not continue to process stone from another site under its non-conforming use of the land.

The firm agreed in 1951 not to challenge the validity of the zoning laws for 30 years, but reserved the right to seek variances. It obtained one in 1956 -- to per-

Wayland Man, 41, Fatally Injured As Car Rams Pole on Rice Rd.

WAYLAND -- A Wayland man was fatally injured Tuesday, June 27, when his car shot out of control and struck a pole and a tree on Rice rd. near the Mainstone Farm, according to Wayland police.

John W. Hession, 41, of 43 Dudley rd. was rushed to Leonard Morse Hospital where he died Wednesday at 6 a.m., nearly nine hours after the accident.

According to police, Mr. Hession, a restaurant worker, was on his way to the Red Coach Grill to pick up his wife, Mary, who works there.

He managed to get out of his car, flag down a passing motorist to get help. It is thought he may have suffered a heart attack either before or after the crash. The car was not demolishd.

The accident occurred at 10:20 p.m. on a sharp curve on Rice rd. known as the "corner field", Chief Ernest Damon and Registry Inspector Francis Bracken investigated, with Officers Edward Burke, George Driscoll, Thomas Murray and Cliff Wedlock assisting.

The funeral was held Saturday morning in St. Peter's Church, Dorchester.

MRS. FREDERIC BETHELL

Anne Louise Denty Bride Of Frederic C. Bethell

WESTON -- Miss Anne Louise Denty, daughter of Mrs. Joseph E. Denty, of Lake Worth, Fla., formerly of Auburndale, and the late Mr. Denty, was married June 10, to Mr. Frederic Chester Bethell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Bethell, of 51 Pinecroft rd., Weston.

The Rev. Thomas F. Murray performed the ceremony at Corpus Christi Church, Auburndale.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, wore a bouffant gown of appliqued and embroidered organza over taffeta, with a Sabrina neckline, fashioned with a fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. Her finger-tip silk illusion veil was held in place with a pearl tiarra and orange blossoms and she carried a small cascade of white butterfly roses.

Miss Susan Tague, of Auburndale, was maid of honor. She wore a ballad blue sheer taffeta street-length dress, with a scoop neckline, three-quarter length sleeves and a bell-shaped skirt, and wore a matching flowered band in her hair with a face veil, and carried a Colonial Bouquet of pink carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Frances Denty, of Lake Worth, Fla., sister of the bride, and Miss Lorraine Marie Bethell, of Weston, sister of the bridegroom. They wore similar dresses and accessories and carried Colonial Bouquets of yellow carnations.

Mr. A. John Gradeski of Waltham was best man. The ushers were Mr. William Denty, of Lake Worth, Fla., brother of the bride, and Mr. Ronald E. Young of Ipswich.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Beaconsfield Hotel in Brookline.

Miss Denty is a graduate of Newton High School, and Mr. Bethell is a graduate of Weston High School, attended Newman Prep, Newton Junior College, and is now attending Northeastern University - College of Engineering. He is also with Technology Instrument Corp. in Acton.

Following a wedding trip to Lake George and northern New York state, the couple will make their home in Waltham.

Janet Lee Shepard Weds Richard Allen Germaine

WAYLAND -- Pink carnations in two shades and white stock decorated the Trinitarian Congregational Church in Wayland Saturday afternoon, June 24, for the wedding of Miss Janet Lee Shepard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Washington Shepard of Wayland, to Richard Allen Germaine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Germain of Flint, Mich.

The Rev. Donald S. Ewing, D.D., minister of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white imported silk organza styled with a portrait neckline with applique scroll, elbow sleeves, full skirt cut on redingote effect with matching applique ending in a sweep train, and a bustle bow. Her veil of French illusion was attached to a dipper circlet of imported blossoms, and she carried a cascade of white roses and ivy. Miss Sharon Shepard was her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Josephson of Boone, Ia.; Miss Marcia Butler of River Forest, Ill.; Miss Barbara Johanson of Milton and Miss Nancy Reager of Bryn Mawr, Pa.

All the attendants wore peony pink silk organza gowns with portrait necklines, short sleeves and waltz-length dome-shaped skirts. They wore crowns of ivy and carried ivy bouquets.

Linda Christie of Marlboro, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Mark Shepard, younger brother of the bride was the ring bearer.

The bride's mother chose a cymbibium orchid corsage to wear on her champagne chiffon gown with which she wore pink accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige and lavender gown with beige accessories. Her corsage was of purple orchids.

MRS. RICHARD A. GERMAINE

Hazen Germaine Jr. of Flint, Mich., was his brother's best man and the ushers were James Germaine of Flint, Mich., another brother; Robert Daughtery of Davison, Mich.; Peter Willard of New York City, and George Shepard Jr. of Wayland, brother of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Wayland High School and Wheaton College (Ill.), class of 1961.

The bridegroom was graduated from Davison High School, Moody Bible School and Wheaton College, class of 1960. In the fall, he will enter Gordon Seminary, Beverly Farms.

Following a wedding trip to the White Mountains, the bridal couple will spend the summer at Forestdale on Cape Cod where Mr. Germaine is head counselor at Camp Good News.

Nancy Smith Engaged

WAYLAND -- Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gaston Smith, Parmenter lane, Wayland, announce the engagement of Miss Nancy Phillips Smith, daughter of Mrs. Smith and the late Norman Blondel Smith to Richard Peter Hedblom Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peter Hedblom of Norwood Heights, Annisquam, and grandson of Mrs. Russell Smith of Annisquam.

The future bride attended St. Mary's in-the-Mountains School and was graduated from the Brimmer and May School. She made her debut in the Country Ball in 1960 and attended Bennington College with the class of 1964. Her fiance was graduated from Milton Academy in 1960 and is a member of the class of 1963 at Harvard College. A fall wedding is planned.

Weston Schools' Supervisor Attends Teachers Convention

WESTON -- Mrs. Marjorie Burrill, elementary school supervisor in Weston, attended the 1961 convention of the National Education Assn. in Atlantic City as a representative of the Middlesex County Teachers Assn. of which she is president. Mrs. Burrill has been with the Weston school system for 16 years. She lives at 25 Bemuth rd., Newton Highlands.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Don't Worry -- Toads Keep Their Warts

The poor old "hoptoad" is one of the ugliest members of his family we find around here.

Most children firmly believe that touching a toad will surely bring on a nice mess of warts, and I guess they have believed that since Tom Sawyer's days -- but it just isn't so.

True though, when you pick up a toad you'll find he isn't exactly housebroken, but then, he's probably just scared.

The American toad is the common type found around here, and they grow to about three and a half inches long, folded.

They are bumpy things, and range from gray to reddish-brown with a few dark spots on the back.

In the largest dark spots there are one or two warts which stay right with the toad.

As far as I know toads do no harm, they hang around dark wet places and eat bugs, and if it gets too dry, they will burrow into the damp ground for moisture.

As do their cousins the frogs, toads evolve from tadpoles, and the tadpoles come from eggs which are encased in a long, tube like mass of jelly about as big around as a pencil and several feet long. The eggs are spaced in this tube about one-half inch apart, and the whole mess is deposited in the water to hatch.

During the mating season (from March to July) toads attract each other by puffing up a vocal sac under their chin and slowly letting the air out in a long, musical trill lasting between 6 and 30 seconds. This is rather a pretty sound which I am sure you have all heard.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Betsy Ross Had It Easy
Flag Change Is Rule Now

If you are a stamp collector, or if you follow current history, you will have noticed how the number of stars in our United States flag has been growing.

As to the postage stamps, the flag design has appeared on them quite frequently in recent years; and each new issue has some story to tell.

Back in 1948, the stamp which commemorated the writing of our national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," by Francis Scott Key, showed our flag as it continued to fly amid the "bombs bursting in air" over Fort McHenry in Baltimore in 1812. That flag had only 15 stars.

In 1957, on July 4, appeared our first flag stamp to be printed in multiple colors. This stamp showed 48 stars, white on a field of blue above the stripes. Independence Day of 1959 brought another stamp, the flag this time counting 49 stars.

And on last year's July 4 commemorative, this time a vertical red, white, and blue banner, the number had grown to 50. Thirty-seven states had been added to the Union in 150 years.

Though so many white stars have been brought into the blue, the stripes of red and white still remain 13 as they were in the Grand Union flag that General Washington raised to the wintry wind at Cambridge, Jan. 1, 1776, with our men from Wayland and Weston there in the army he had come to command. The stripes of the Cambridge flag, of course, were one for each of the 13 colonies, four of them in New England, which had rebelled against British tyranny.

Not yet, however, despite Concord and Bunker Hill, did the colonists consider themselves other than outraged and estranged citizens of Great Britain. Hence on the blue field or canton of Washingtons Grand Union flag appeared the red and white crosses of St. George of England and St. Andrew of Scotland, much as you see them on the flag of our neighboring nation of Canada today. "Thus far," as Benjamin Harrison wrote, the colonies "had continued to hobble along under a fatal attachment to Great Britain."

But after the colonies learned that King George was impressing their seamen and hiring German mercenaries to overcome their obstinacy, they took the bold step of issuing the Declaration of Independence, to which our Massachusetts John Hancock, as President of the Congress, affixed his unflinching signature on July 4, 1776.

It was a whole year later, however, before thirteen white stars took the place of the British emblems in the flag's blue field. On June 14, 1777, which we now commemorate as Flag Day, Congress resolved "That the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." Just whence came the idea of the stars is not certain, though the general design is sometimes credited to Francis Hopkinson, a Philadelphia signer of the Declaration of Independence.

When that July 4 of 1777, the first anniversary of the Declaration arrived, ships and boats in the harbor of Philadelpha are said to have flown the new emblem. At Philadelphia they will take you to the house where Betsy Ross, engaged for the task by Congress, sewed together the first flag. If you can't get to Philadelphia, any stamp collector will be happy to show you the scene on the 1952 United States stamp which honors the 200th anniversary of Betsy Ross' birth.

A month later, on August 6, 1777, the new flag first flew over a battlefield; but this flag was not the work of any painstaking Betsy Ross. It was after the bloody struggle at Oriskany, New York, that the American commander, Colonel Willett, raised the new standard for the first time. The white for the stripes and stars was cut from a shirt; the red stripes were torn from the red petticoat of a soldier's wife; the blue was cloth from an old blue jacket. The whole was put together in haste, but with a will. When the New England militia defeated the Hessians at Bennington, Vt., four days later, a flag of 13 stars and 13 stripes led them to their hard won victory.

Flag Day and Independence Day have come and gone for this year; but through the next each of us can carry a love and respect for this flag. Every stripe and every star of it not only is alive with history and meaning, but together they recall to us the 185 years of liberty with which this nation has been blessed.

$51 Million Payoff

Nyaah. We hate to say we told you so, but we're only human -- and so we do.

Our point several weeks ago was that the Legislature had been just a bit scared of us. They'd pocketed a $1500 raise -- at their own request -- and they'd stalled until they'd had the longest session ever.

And to make up for this, we intimated, they'd made sure they finished at a sprinter's pace. We said it had made for sloppy legislation. . . and that more would turn up to plague us. And it has . . .

Now it seems that the Legislature increased the minimum weights permitted to trucks on state highways. Fine for the trucks. But a mess for the state.

Unless a special session is called to wipe this provision out, the Federal government will refuse this state $51 million in Federal highway funds. And we can't do without that money . . . unless you're feeling more generous with your state tax payments than we are.

Haste makes waste. And what are we to say of a Legislature that is so concerned about its own skin that it put one over like that? You can't be indifferent. That's what bad government is all about.

A Little Suspicion, Please

Well, it would help to be a bit more suspicious. Somehow people think nothing bad could happen -- here.

But Suburbia is not Utopia. Shrewd cookies are always trying new gimmicks to make breaks just a bit easier to carry off out here.

And it really comes down to this in the vacation seasons (summer and winter): you've got to help the crooks . . . or be a bit suspicius of the odd-ball incident.

Weston Police Chief Frank Shaw puts it this way: it wouldn't do any harm to jot down the number of any cars that look suspicious -- to you. Or to give police a ring when you see strangers -- to you -- in your neighborhood. Especially in the vacation season.

"No need to get suspicious of everyone," says Chief Shaw, "but you'd be surprised how often we have people tell us -- afterwards -- that they thought something was wrong but they never thought of calling us."

Well, as we say: a little more suspicion might help keep your neighborhood free of wise guy burglars while the folks are away. You're going away later, too, aren't you?

Something About Birds

Robins & Catbirds Love Dried Currants; Another Gray Fox Seen in Weston

WESTON -- On May 20 Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brothers, Legion rd., discovered a wood thrush nest in one of their hemlock trees -- only four feet from the ground. They were able to keep track of the entire nesting and take photographs. Four eggs hatched on June 11 and the young left the nest June 18 - 19.

Mr. L. N. Franzosa at the Woodland School, has been keeping an eye on the nesting bluebirds there since school closed, and says that three young left the box on June 23. The pair which nested in a box at the home of Miss G. B. Bissounette, Kendal Common rd. (reported by Mrs. Stantial) are already using the box again for a second brood.

A mockingbird was seen June 23 on Chestnut st. near the Mercer home, by Mrs. D. R. Davidson, not far from where one was reported in May by Mrs. H. P. Morton.

A prairie warbler was heard singing June 26 by Mrs. E. F. Foote, North av., and Mrs. Davidson saw a golden-winged warbler on June 23 at the same place where she observed a pair on May 31. A few black-and-white warblers have been reported (Smith - 2, and Guest), and ovenbirds were heard recently by Mrs. W. R. Dewey, Pigeon Hill rd., and Mrs. H. Ecker, near Cat Rock standpipe. No black-throated green warblers have been reported, and it seems strange not to hear them singing in their favorite white pine woods.

Mr. T. M. Batey, Silver Hill rd., saw a bobwhite strolling through his yard on June 21. It is good to have reports of this bird which was once a common resident here.

Another report of a gray fox comes from Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Gorely Jr., Boston Post rd., who saw one on their property June 18.

Did you know that catbirds are very fond of dried currants, especially after they have been softened by soaking in hot water? Robins like them, too.

C.E.S.

HOW TO BEAT THE HEAT, if we may editorialize.

The Headache Begins

Just a reminder. Paste this in your hat.

The Turnpike extension into downtown Boston is presumably dead. The alternative ia a freeway to the Inner Belt but there's the joker . . .

You may recall a few weeks back that we pointed out Gov. Volpe's haste in signing into law some highway bills would bring him road funds NOW but headaches for himself and us . . . later.

Newton has the right to veto any proposed freeway route to the Inner Belt. Cambridge, Somerville, Brookline and Boston have the right to veto the belt route. Both -- or something resembling them -- are needed now.

Some compromises are inevitable. They bring vital results where a roadblock intervenes. Others are not. Allowing the veto to be written into law was not essential to getting highway funds, especially when the veto tied a lead balloon to the general highway hibbledehobble.

We think it makes sense to press Gov. Volpe and our legislators to put a revision of the veto high on the priority of any special session Volpe intends to call this fall to do something about the Blue Laws and other pestiferous pestilences.

Christian Science Services

WESTON -- Genuine appreciation of the sacrifice and triumph of Christ Jesus must be expressed in daily living. This is a theme of the lesson-sermon on "sacrament" to be presented at the semi-annual communion service, First Church Scientist, Weston and in other Christian Science churches Sunday.

Paul's charge to Timothy, "Watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry" (II Tim. 4). will be included in the Bible readings.

Wayland LWV Lists Members To Watch Over Town Boards

WAYLAND -- "A field study of town committees and boards and the means of communication between the town government and the citizens" will be undertaken by the Wayland League of Women Voters this coming year. Mrs. John D. Quackenbos and Mrs. Kenneth E. LeBaron will serve as co-chairmen.

The study will involve attendance at all town committee and board meetings where League members will act as observers only in an attempt to learn more about how the Wayland town government functions and how it communicates with its townspeople.

Sub committees are now being formed for the purpose of studying each town committee in depth, and listed below are committee chairmen and their area of concern:

Board of health, Mrs. Allan D. White; school committee, Mrs. George P. Little; urban redevelopment authority, Mrs. Norman B. Cochran; park commissioners, Mrs. Charles J. Owen; planning board, Mrs. John T. Bennett Jr.; selectmen, Mrs. Kemp B. Reade; school building committee, Mrs. Paul J. Pontecorvo; library trustees, Mrs. Dunbar Holmes; finance committee, Mrs. Loring H. Raymond, and zoning board of appeals, to be assigned.

In line with its stated purpose, the Wayland League hopes to "promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government" through the study of this local item.

Attend School Lunch Parley

WESTON -- Mrs. Richard Raymond, director of the Weston School Lunch program and Mrs. Germaine French, manager cook of the High School, were two among more than 200 registered at the First Annual School Lunch Conference at the University of Massachusetts. The conference was sponsored by the State Department of Education.

Weston Officer Helps On TV Safety Hints

WESTON -- That police officer who looks remarkably like Weston Safety Officer Lawrence Tierney on those WBZ-TV safety broadcasts . . . is Lawrence Tierney.

He appeared with Registrar Riley and state police officers over the holiday with safety reminders. Tierney's reminder: It's too late after the accident to say "I wish I'd kept farther behind that car." Hope you followed his advice.

Trip-Surance: a bright new idea for people on the go

Ahh, vacation time! Seems like every tourist and his cousin is driving past our office in Wayland Center these days.

At the risk of sounding gloomy and typically insurance-minded, we can't help but wonder how many of these vacationers are enjoying the protection and peace of mind of Trip-Surance.

This Trip-Surance is really quite a thing. What it is is low-cost term insurance. You can buy it to cover you against accidents for any length of time from 3 days to 6 months. You can also use Trip-Surance to cover your baggage and personal belongings, too.

Trip-Surance is so inexpensive we hardly make a nickel on it as an Agent. (You can get $5,000 worth of coverage for a premium of only $1).

Still, as a fellow resident, we'd feel easier if we knew you were well protected before you took off for Maine, Montana, Monaco or wherever. Wouldn't you?

If you're interested, stop by the office or give us a ring. We can fix you up with the Trip-Surance you need in two minutes flat.

DONNA ATKINS

Wayland Girl Wins Award in Design Contest

WAYLAND - Miss Donna Irene Atkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkins of Pelham Island Rd., Wayland, has received congratulations for her outstanding performance in the 1961 Silver Opinion Competition entered by nearly 15,000 university women from William Hurley Jr., design director of Reed & Barton, Taunton, and the dean of women of the University of Massachusetts where Donna is enrolled.

Donna was the only winner from the university and received the eighth grand prize, a $100 cash scholarship. Donna graduated from Wayland High School in 1960.

Francis Gladu Is Honored For 33 Years at Wayland HS

WAYLAND -- Francis R. Gladu, for many years teacher and athletic director at Wayland High School, was honored recently by 60 fellow teachers and former students at a testimonial at the Lobster Haven.

For many years Mr. Gladu has lived on Richard rd. He retired this year and will spend his winters in Florida and his summers on Cape Cod in his Eastham home.

He taught every subject but Latin and coached four sports in his 33 years on the faculty. David J. Allen, for many years Wayland High principal and his wife sat at the head table. Robert H. Scotland and Charles "Buzz" Bowers, fellow teachers, were toastmasters.

Vice Principal Julian Demeo was in charge of the testimonial and presented Mr. Gladu with a purse as a token of the esteem felt by the school department and townspeople for Mr. Gladu.

Wayland '09 Holds Reunion

WAYLAND -- The class of 1909 of Wayland High school, held its 52d reunion at the Toll House in Whitman on Sunday, June 25.

There are five members of this class still living. Four members attended the reunion.

They are: James O'Brien, Essex; Margaret Ward Kenney, Waltham; William Loker, Cochituate, and Ernest Lawrence, Cochituate.

Mrs. Abby Burns Kelley, one of two remaining teachers of the class served as hostess. She was accompanied by her husband.

Also in attendance was Mildred Loker, wife of class member William Loker.

The group made plans for their 53d reunion, to be held next summer, William Loker to be host.

Weston Youth Will Study In Germany

WESTON -- The Weston Methodist Youth Fellowship held a farewell party for two of its members last Sunday night at the home of Charles and Kathy Donaldson on Rolling lane.

Ulrick Wolfe, who is leaving on July 12 to fly back to her home in Hamburg, Germany, was presented with a silver church charm for the bracelet which was given to her by the Weston High school students. She also received a photograph album. Miss Wolfe is a foreign exchange student, brought over here last year by the International Christian Youth Exchange and sponsored by the Weston M.Y.F.

Roy M. MacArthur of 27 Valley View rd., Weston, has been selected as one of 56 students, by the I.C.Y.E., to be an exchange student from this country.

Roy will report to Columbia University on July 16 for a day of orientation. On July 17 he will fly to Altankirchen, Germany for three weeks orientation before being assigned to his home in Schoningen, Germany. He will live with a family having two sons, 15 and 20 years old, for the next year. He will attend school next year with his 20-year-old German brother.

Roy graduated with the class of 1961, Weston High. He has been active in school affairs and in the local M.Y.F., serving as treasurer, vice president, fellowship chairman and last year he was Boston District M.Y.F. president.

Roy was presented with a gift of money from the M.Y.F.

Language Study Explained To Wayland Parents

by BETTY HAMILTON

Recently the parents of Wayland High School students attending the School Committee meeting walked into the language lab and sat down in the booths designed for language instruction. They put on headsets and adjusted mikes.

"Bonsoir, monsieurs et mesdames, comment allez-vouz ce soir?"

It was the voice of Mr. Francis Rivers, a French teacher, who was about to demonstrate how their children would be taught the day's material -- how they would listen, write, pronounce, and correct their mistakes while every point stood out fresh in their minds.

The instructor's voice came through loud and clear, telling them how to proceed in the evening's lesson. Following him on the mimeographed paper they heard each world pronounced carefully, with emphasis on the new words for the day.

They listened while he read the sentences, and when he paused they pronounced these new words in the proper place. Their pronunciation was being recorded. After having read the story through twice in this way they saw a movie of it which was flashed on the wall.

The association of voice and action had its place in helping them to understand the words and to start them in the all important habit of thinking in French.

"This is the most important single factor in learning a foreign language", commented Mr. Robert Fraser, Coordinator of the Language and Arts Center. "The habit of thinking in the language you are attempting to master is vital in comprehending and being able to converse.

"The teaching of languages is going through a tremendous transition period at the present time changing from the purely academic or text book instruction to a combination of this training coupled with emphasis on listening and speaking.

"In order to do this successfully," Mr. Fraser continued, "the language lab should also be used for the important drill phase of learning. Three steps or exercises are used for this purpose:

"1. The student listens, repeats the words and then writes them.

"2. He corrects the answers to what he has just done.

"3. He listens to sentences in which one word is missing and fills in the missing word.

"When this can be done satisfactorily his understanding of the material is complete."

A very useful feature of the language lab is that students may make an appointment to come in after school for more instruction. If there is any doubt in their minds about their understanding of the day's material they can go over it until they are positive. Their individual tapes can be replayed and questions on it answered by the teacher.

Also, if they are capable, they may take additional work and receive extra credit.

The marvels of the electronic age are reaching into all phases of life and the language lab is one way it is benefitting our children.

Tres bien!

GRADUATE DEGREE for General Manager Richard Palmer of Eastern Technical Associates, Acton, was presented at recent Northeastern University commencement exercises. Leave Fawns Alone, They're Not Abandoned

BOSTON -- Dr. Eric H. Hansen, president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, cautions sympathetic and well-meaning suburban animal lovers to stay away from any fawn that they might come upon that appears to be abandoned.

Dr. Hansen says that at this time of year many young deer are picked up and taken away, only to die, as few know how to care for them properly. The mother deer often leaves her young for several hours, or even a day, while she searches for food, but does return to feed them.

And unlike many other animals, the mother will run when strangers approach, giving the impression that the fawn has been abandoned; thus making it an easy prey for well-intentioned, but misguided people.

Corvettes Take 4th in Northeast Softball Tourney

WAYLAND -- The Cochituate Motors Corvettes just ran up against the Raybestos Brakettes twice too often and split the four games the local girls had to play in two days in the Women's Softball Tournament in New Haven last weekend.

On Friday night and again Saturday night, the Corvettes lost to the Brakettes, 3 - 0 the first time and 7 - 0 on the second try. In all they got one hit, Joan Fitzgerlad's single in the Friday game.

Donna Hebert, the Corvettes' 14-year-old star who has been doing an outstanding job this season was greeted with a home run by the lead-off batter in Friday's game. Donna held the Brakettes until two were out in the seventh when she yielded two runs on a walk and three singles.

Between the twin defeats the Corvettes managed to win two games in a busy Saturday that saw them playing three times.

They took fourth place in the tournament against the best teams on the Northeast seaboard.

At noon Saturday, the Corvettes beat the East Greenwich, R. I., Hamilton Oil Blue Sox and emerged with a 7 - 0 triumph behind Carol Marshall. The Corvettes jumped off to a 3 - 0 lead in the first on Sylvia Beaudoin's homer, added four more to win.

At 4 p.m., with Donna again pitching, the Corvettes took the Plainfield, N. J., Burry Marauders 3 - 2 in 10 innings. This was the third team in last year's tourney. Donna topped their ace, Met Metzzer when Sylvia Beaudoin's triple with Diane Potter aboard tied the score in the sixth and Mary Bennett, star second baseman, doubled Joan Fitzgerald home with the tie-breaker in the 10th.

The Hartford Laurelettes unfortunately upset the Brakettes who turned their fury on the Corvettes and trimmed them behind Bertha Ragan's no-hit pitching, 7 - 0.

If a man have strong faith he can indulge in the luxury of scepticism.

TWOFOLD IN DOUBLES is the happy situation in the Humphrey household. From left to right Kimberlee Anne holding Kelly Anne and Kathleen Marie holding Kris Raymond. Kathy and Kim were born in 1959 at Fort Devens, Kelly and Kris, 1961, in Stuttgart, Germany. Parents, Alma (Foley) and Raymond Humphrey, now stationed with the U. S. Army in Germany, will soon return to Wayland.

ANTHONY J. WOODWORTH, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Woodworth of 51 Church st., Weston has been awarded the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from Babson Institute in Wellesley.

A 1956 graduate of Browne and Nichols, Woodworth attended Cornell University for two years prior to enrolling at the Institute to major in Accounting.

He was a member of Alpha Kappa Psi Fraternity.

Stone Firm

mit dumping of sludge on the lot in question.

If this stand by the selectmen is upheld, Mr. Byrnes contended, this would put the stone firm in danger of going out of business.

The Appeals Board decision on June 13 held, among other things, that the concern had another siding over which it could make its deliveries.

Involved is the assumption by many Weston residents that once the firm had finished mining its quarries there, it would go out of business.

Cheerleaders' Conference

WESTON -- Four Weston High girls were among more than 200 girls from all over the East who attended a five-day clinic on cheerleading at Springfield College. The girls sponsored their own stay Monday through Friday last week.

They are: Stephanie Rizzo, Linda Heywood, Ann Ford and Veronica Duffy.

list. It had burned out.

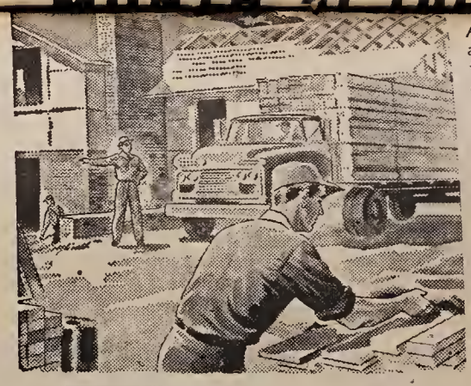
The fire was discovered by a milkman, Stewart Dutton of Indian rd., about 3:16 a.m. as he was preparing to go to work.

The cottage was located in an isolated section off Old Connecticut Path and had been scheduled to be bought as condemned. Helen C. Duggan is listed as the owner. No one has occupied the dwelling for some time.

Other fire calls since June 20:

June 20, at 12:48 p.m., a fire along the B & M tracks led firemen to stop a freight train at Tower Hill to warn them of the fires being set along the tracks. At 2 p.m., grass fire on Cochituate rd.; at 2:38 p.m., dog rescued from storm drain on School st.; at 6:20 p.m., rubbish fire on Loker st.

At 9:36 p.m., firemen put out a fire of suspicious origin in the freight building formerly owned by th B & M on Concord rd. There was $200 damage.



On June 24, firemen were called to the high school where lightning had set off, internally, the school's fire alarm system; at 8:25 p.m., call to Roycroft Nursing Home to check out emergency caused by power failure.

HAPPY 50th ANNIVERSARY -- Mr. and Mrs. John A. Swanson of 16 Jones rd., Weston, mark their Golden Wedding anniversary with a party with friends.

John Swansons of Weston Celebrate 50th Anniversary

WESTON -- It was a golden day Saturday for Mr. and Mrs. John A. Swanson of 16 Jones rd. who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary by welcoming friends and relations at their home.

The Swansons have lived 33 years in Weston.

Mrs. Swanson was born in Weymouth, Nova Scotia, and Mr. Swanson was born and educated in Waltham. Mr. Swanson worked for some years in the Waltham Watch factory and later was employed by the Howard Clock. Recently he has been affiliated with the Sulzley Co. of Syracuse, N. Y. He is well known at present as the sexton of St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Weston.

Assisting their daughter, Mrs. Everett Furniss of Canton, were Mrs. Ralph Talbot of Falmouth rd., Waltham and Miss Amelia Bridgeman of Clovelly rd., Wellesley Hills.

Weston Yanks Win All 14, Cop 2 More for Championship

WESTON -- The Weston Little League Yankees last week completed an unprecedented perfect season by defeating the Phillies 11 to 6 in the first round of the play-offs, and then shading the tough Cardinals 4 to 2 in the championship final.

The Yankees had won 14 straight regular season games without defeat to finish first in the final league standings.

This is the second straight championship for the Yankees and for pitcher Billy Baine, ace lefthander, who last year defeated the Red Sox in the finals after the Yankees had finished fourth in the regular season.

Pitcher-outfielder John Byrne was the heavy hitter with seven home-runs and two triples for the season.

In one mid-season game against the threatening second-place Cards John hit three consecutive home-runs in his first three times at bat to lead the way to a crucial victory.

Catcher Danny Aquilino caught every inning of every game, and was a fine receiver with a strong accurate throwing arm and a good batting eye.

Other members of the team who batted and fielded their way to this all-winning season were John Winsor, Steve Kellogg, Steve Gardner, John Perry, Richie Ryan, Jack Brush, Kim Hoar, and Rusty Shriner, all fine players who could and did excel at any position they were asked to play. It was in every sense a team victory.

Cochituate Pack 55 Holds Final Event

Cub Scouts and their parents enjoyed an outing at Camp Resolute on Sunday, June 4. It was the final event of the season with Pack 55 winning the award as the most uniformed group.

A Pinewood Derby race was held at the last Pack meeting on May 23. The following boys were the winners: Den 1, Ricky Crozier; Den 2, Randy Griffin; Den 3, David Streeter; Den 4, Bruce MacLeod; Den 5, Roddy Griffin; Den 6, Billy LaGasse; Den 7, Allan Hibbert, and Den 8, Bruce Sweeney. These boys competed again and Bruce MacLeod was the final winner.

The Cub Scouts winning awards during the months of April and May are as follows: Michael Knous was inducted as a Bobcat; under the wolf badge, Steven Kavanaugh received a silver arrow; Mark Smith, gold arrow; Richard Harris, silver arrow; Dale Dean, silver arrow and Edward Rudeneaur, badge plus gold and silver arrows.

Bear badges were awarded to Charles Keith, Bruce MacLeod, James Karman and Richard Fifer. Mark Brown, David Wentworth, Brian Keyes and James Crozier received bear badge and gold arrows. Edwin Rudeneaur got his bear badge plus a gold and silver arrow and Rodney Griffin received a gold arrow.

Under the Lion Badge, William Mercler and Robert Stone received their badges and Timothy Wentworth received his badge plus gold and silver arrows.

Bruce Sweeney was presented a gift for collecting the largest number of baked items at our recent food sale.

Bits & Pieces

We see that grasshoppers have taken over in the Midwest. What this means: harried parents can now send animal-catching youngsters out there for a holiday . . . a real ball.

* * *

We thought the peak had been reached the other day when it was reported that one bring-em-back-alive five-year-older was bringing mosquitoes home for over night stays. That tops even frogs in the refrigerator.

* * *

Bats are driving people bats. So at Middlebury College (Vt.) two professors are engaged in some research . . . with our assistance: they're tagging bats and turning them loose . . . to find out where New England bats migrate to.

"If you find a banded bat," reads a card we just received in the mail, "report it by mail to the Fish and Wildlife Service in Washington -- the tag, number, date and place where found."

If the bat is dead, mail the tag in. If not, don't handle unless with gloves (rabies) and release the bat after you've got the details. This will please the professors and later, you'll be told where the bat came from.

If you're not doing anything else this summer.

And speaking of animals: we understand some B-52 mosquitoes have been imported to pester those who don't get out of town soon.

* * *

Now here's a mystery: when you dial a wrong number, the Underwater Lady comes on to tell you the number is not in operation at this time. OK? Of course, it is. That's her way of telling you to wait for help.

But the other day, we called a number we knew was out of order "temporarily" as they put it but guess what -- the number kept on ringing (or wringing) and we never heard from the lady with the burble talk.

After that -- and much more -- we've concluded that language don't mean nothing any more. "Out of order" means wrong number and we're forced to conclude that wringing an out-of-order number is just dialing the wrong number.

* * *

As we understand the latest on Blue Laws: Atty. Gen. McCormack Intends to be very strict about the enforcement . . . except where it might hurt the Fourth. This sounds more like it. Now if some bright boy can figure out holiday designations for the remaining Sundays this year, we may just make it to the next session of the Legislature without so much as breathing hard.

Weston Alumni – From 50 Years Back – Enjoy Big Night at Town Hall

WESTON -- It was a big night at Town Hall for members of the Weston High Alumni Assn. which drew members from the 1901 class to the affair.

Following the dinner, dancing and entertainment made it the ideal evening out. Stephen Richardson of the senior class and his orchestra played dinner and dancing music.

Highlighting the entertainment was the singing of Miss Claire McDonough of the faculty and numbers by graduating seniors.

Gifts were presented for scholarship funds to benefit Weston High graduates. This was started by the association and later put under the care of the town.

The 1936 class gave $159 to the fund. Mrs. Ella McNutt Morse gave a money gift in memory of her uncle in the class of 1886 and Rosamond Lombard, vice president, presented $100 from the senior class.

Members of the 60-year class greeted were Edward C. Green Jr. and Edward S. Coburn, both of Weston, and Mrs. Helen Guthrie Hill of Littleton. Members of classes over 40 or 50 years ago were Mrs. Ethelyn Otto, Mrs. Mary Tulis May, Mrs. Mabel Barton Barclay, Mrs. Earl Townsend, Mrs. Raymond Coburn, Mrs. Helen Wells, Mrs. E. C. Green Jr., Mrs. Edward S. Coburn, and Mrs. Ruth Sylvia Morse of the class of 1916, who came from Texas for the reunion. Also coming from a distance was George Jones from Georgia.

Officers of the executive committee were Mrs. Alice Tyler Fraser, president; Milton Theall, vice president; Mrs. Elsie Foote Cooke, secretary; Jack Williams, treasurer; Russell Johnson, David Martin, Joseph Benotti, Mrs. Betty Lou Bolster Schwartz, Miss Alice Ayer and Charles B. Cutter.

Other seniors taking part in the entertainment: Richard Cutter and Edith Wypler who gave a violin duet accompanied by Susan Hulsman, a junior, who will study in Europe for her senior year.

Betsy Wigginton, also a senior, sang "Honey Bun" from "South Pacific." Richard Cutter played a piano solo and Joseph Ewers entertained with a monologue, both are seniors.

Seated at the head table with the officers were Principal Willard Smith and Mrs. Smith and Rev. Donald Morris, minister of the First Baptist Church in Weston, who gave the blessing, and Mrs. Morris.

SALLY LEE BIRCH

Sally Lee Birch Graduates From Principia College

WESTON -- Miss Sally Lee Birch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Birch, 221 Boston Post Rd., is a member of the 1961 Graduating Class at The Principia, St. Louis, Missouri. Upper School graduation exercises were held June 10, on the Country Campus.

During the past year, in addition to being on the honor roll, Sally Lee's activities included Varsity Hockey, Varsity Tennis, Chorus, Pep Club, and Class Basketball.

Word has been received from the American Red Cross, Boston Chapter that Miss Birch will be a member of the National Aquatic School held every year in Hanson, Mass. Upon completion of this course, she will spend a few days with her parents before going to Harrison, Me., where she will be the waterfront director for Camp Newfound.

Mr. and Mrs. Birch are driving to St. Louis to attend the graduation exercises and to vacation in the midwest.

FORD FUND SCHOLARSHIP WINNER -- Christopher L. Lascoutx, North Mill st., Hopkinton, was among the 70 winners of Ford Motor Company Fund scholarships who received their certificates at a three-day awards conference in Dearborn, Mich. Lascoutx, a graduate of The Cambridge School of Weston, is shown with William C. Pine, director of the Fund's scholarship program for sons and daughters of Ford employes. Lascoutx' mother, Mrs. Ruth A. Lascoutx, is employed at Ford's Lincoln-Mercury Division district sales office, Boston.

He graduated from Everett High School in 1928. He joined the Sanborn Company 14 years ago as a field manager and has risen rapidly.

Born in Everett, he was married to the former Thora C. Sveden of Lynn in 1936. He is a member of the Alumni Council of Northeastern University, the Marketing Committee of the Nationai Association of Manufacturers and the Boston Sales Executive Club. He also holds membership in th Scientific Apparatus Makers Assn. and is chairman of the Electronics and Electrical Instrument Division

No Vacation for Bonnie McLane, She's Off to College–Early in July

YELLOW SPRINGS, O. -- Fourth of July has a new meaning this year for Bonnie McLane, daughter of Mrs. J. S. Bruner of 751 Boston Post rd., Weston, and June graduate of Weston High school.

Usually the holiday marks the official start of summer vacation.

But for Bonnie this year it marks vacation's end. As a member of the first class to enter Antioch College under a new year-round plan of operation, she reports to campus July 5 for a week of orientation before classes being on July 10.

The liberal arts college, famed for its cooperative program of study-plus-work, is one of the first private colleges in the country to require that all students participate in a full 12-month schedule.

By utilizing a year-round calendar and the co-op plan, Antioch can split its student body into two colleges of about 750 students each, using one campus, one plant, one faculty. While members of "College A" are on campus studying, those from "College B" are off campus on jobs secured for them in any one of 30 states or 14 foreign countries. Periodically, the two groups trade places.

Antioch's desire to take its fair share of rocketing enrollment, together with the recognition that efficient use of college resources will keep costs down, motivated the change.

Half this year's class, or 225 students, begin their college studies on July 10. Another 225 begin classes Oct. 10. From there on out each group will alternate periods of study on campus with periods of work off campus.

At Weston High school, Bonnie participated in several activities, was captain of the field hockey team and received honors in English.

Wayland Man Heads Federalists

WAYLAND -- Francis Morse of Wayland was elected president of Framingham Area Chapter, United World Federalists at a well-attended supper meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Howes, Beiknap Rd.

Mr. Morse succeeds Rev. Arnold Thaw of Natick in the presidency of the Chapter. Other officers include: Stephen Pratt of Framingham, vice president; Mrs. Burton Foster of Ashland, secretary; Mrs. Herman Schutt of Framingham Centre, treasurer. The nominating committee report was made by Miss Vera Hemenway.

Daniel Coakley Vice Chairman of Insurance Group

WESTON -- Daniel H. Coakley of 56 Doublet Hill rd., yesterday was elected vice chairman of the National Assn. of Life Underwriters' Million Dollar Round Table during the organization's annual meeting at Bal Harbour, Fla.

An agent for New York Life Insurance Company since 1946, Mr. Coakley has qualified for MDRT every year since 1948 and now is a life member. Membership in the Round Table -- granted on the basis of sales to members of NALU -- numbers less than 3000, less than 2 percent of all life underwriters in the United States.

Mr. Coakley is a native of Bourne, Mass. He holds a B.A. degree from Holy Cross and an LL.B. from Boston University Law School. He practiced law from 1935-1943 and served in the Massachusetts House of Representatives from 1936-1938.

The prominent Boston underwriter was president of New York Life's Top Club in 1957. He is a member of the board of directors of the Boston Life Underwriters Assn.; cooperation committee of the Boston Life Insurance and Trust Council and the board of government of the Catholic Alumni Sodality of Boston. He was elected to the executive committee of MDRT last year.

The dry chlorine that really works!

It's concentrated in safe, convenient foil packets... No danger of broken glass, splash-burns, ruined clothing. And it's completely soluble... No calcium to irritate eyes and form scale in pool and filter. Ends storage problems too... A few small cartons last for months.

Weston Researcher Named To New Harvard Medical Post

WESTON -- Dr. Mahlon B. Hoagland of 121 North ave., associate professor of bacteriology and immunology, has been named the first Ruby Boyer Miller Fellow in Medical Research at the Harvard Graduate School of Medicine.

His appointment will become effective July 1. The gift of $109,123 establishes the Ruby Boyer Miller Fund.

Its income -- deriving from a trust established by the late Mrs. Ruby Boyer Miller of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. -- will provide support "for an extraordinarily qualified man or woman working in the field of medical science, hopefully with a focus on cancer research, according to Dr. George P. Berry, dean of the faculty of medicine.

Dr. Hoagland is a distinguished biochemist who, after receiving his M.D. from Harvard in 1948, worked on studies related to protein synthesis and to a more enlightened understanding of diseases involving abnormal growth -- such as cancer.

Recently, Dr. Hoagland announced the discovery of a new class of enzymes (chemical catalysts), the precursors of protein, thus adding to the knowledge concerned with the chemical requirements for normal cellular growth and action.

Dr. Hoagland was born in Boston in 1921.

For two years (1951-53) following his graduation from Harvard Medical School, Dr. Hoagland was a Fellow of the American Cancer Society, working first with Dr. Kai Linderstrom-Lang at the Carlsberg Laboratories in Copenhagen and, during the second year, with Nobel Laureate Dr. Fritz Yipmann, Harvard professor of Biological Chemistry at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

As a scholar in cancer research of the American Cancer Society from 1953 to 1958, he was one of the promising young American scientists to be encouraged by the Society to obtain basic scientific training for research careers in cancer.

A year later, in 1958-59, Dr. Hoagland worked with Dr. Francis Crick in the Cavendish Laboratories at Cambridge University, England.

While working in the Huntington Memorial Laboratories, Dr. Hoagland contributed to the teaching of a cancer course for fourth-year medical students.

JOHN NOBLE FISHER

Weston Man Treasurer of Cambridge Trust

WESTON -- John Noble Fisher of 75 Brook Rd. has been elected treasurer of the Cambridge Trust Co. He attended Browne and Nichols School and is a graduate of Northeastern University and Stonier School of Banking. Mr. Fisher joined the bank in December 1946 and became assistant treasurer in January 1954.

He has been active in various civic organizations in Weston and is now serving as treasurer of the PTA, president of the Men's Club and director of the Red Barn Nursery School.

He is married to the former Cynthia Gruener and has three sons.

Weston Contracts For Fuel, Trucks

WESTON -- Contracts for two half-ton pickup trucks for the Highway Department and Water Department were awarded last week by the Board of Selectmen to the West End Chevrolet of Waltham, low bidder.

The net cost to the town, after allowing for the trade-in of a station wagon and pickup truck was $2809.44. The six bids ranged to a high of $3050 net.

The board also awarded the following fuel oil contracts to low bidders:

--For No. 2 fuel oil (for use in all town buildings but schools), Concord Oil Co. of Concord.

--For No. 5 (schools), Petroleum Heat & Power Co. of Boston.

--For bituminous coal for one school, B. L. Ogilvie & Sons, Inc. of Weston.

DONALD T. FLUEGEMAN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Funderburk, 669 Boston Post Rd., Weston has received a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from the University of Massachusetts where he was a member of the psychology club, a house counselor and served on the carnival committee.

If the multiple use resource policy is to be applied to water, as the National Wildlife Week theme this year suggests, pollution must be stopped. Pollution can be cleaned up if each user adopts the practice of returning water in a condition at least as clean as when it was taken.

People who live in cities or towns are users of water through municipal systems which must adequately treat their wastes.

Upholstered fabrics in automobiles would be kept cleaner, fabric authorities believe, if it were more generally realized by motor car owners that it is dirt, not normal wear, that reduces seat cushion life.

The unabated demand for tent sites in N. H. resulted last season in an eight percent increase in the number of camper days (one person staying one night) to 175,449 from 162,961 for 1959 at State parks.

Norumbega Council Gets $100,000. Will Expand Camping Facilities

WESTON -- Norumbega Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America, has received a grant of $100,000 from the Charles Hayden Foundation of New York for development of the new camp site in Gilmanton Iron Works, N. H. according to J. M. Bradley, council president.

According to Mr. Bradley this gift brings the camp purchase and development fund to $220,000 and enables Norumbega Council to proceed with plans to provide a Scouting wonderland, second to none.

Roger Bloomfield, council vice president and camp development chairman, reported that renovations are being made to existing buildings to adapt them to current and future needs. He said that a new road and parking lot are being built with the help of a company of Sea Bees under the leadership of Commander Flynn of the First Naval District. A new water system has been installed, troop sites built and activities areas developed.

He stated that thanks to the help of the Sea Bees, the Alpha Phi Omega, The Scouting fraternity of M.I.T. whose members built tent platforms on several weekends, and devoted Scouters of Norumbega Council who have spent much time working on various projects the new camp will be in operation this year.

According to Mr. Bloomfield future plans include the completion of a central lodge with a feeding capacity of 250 Scouts, a central shower and laundry building, and an Explorer base.

Amos Kent, chairman of camping and activities said that in 1961 more Scouts in Norumbega Council will benefit from a Scout camping experience than ever before because the Council can now provide a full eight week Scout camping program. He stated that six (6) Scoutmasters will be in camp with their troops and expressed the feeling that in future years this number will increase as will the percentage of Scouts in camp.

Camp opened on July 2 for eight weeks with an average attendance of 90 Scouts and Explorers expected.

William E. Vail Gillette Manager

WESTON -- The next two weeks will be busy ones for William E. Vail, 50 Laurel rd., trade relations manager of the Gillette Safety Razor Co.

During this time, his company will hold its annual meetings to map its future sales and advertising plans, particularly for the 1961 World Series campaign.

Gillette's major sales effort each year is tied in with its sponsorship of the World Series and the drive is always accompanied by heavy advertising, as well as on the Cavalcade of Sports' weekly boxing shows. This will be the 23d consecutive year in which Gillette will bring the October baseball classic to fans at home.

The phrase "brake linings are designed to wear out" is one that puzzles many motorists. The explanation lies in the fact that since something must wear when two surfaces come together the lining is chosen in preference to metal

"Green thumb" can be another term for extra wear and tear on the nails in summer, when you're gardening and caring for flowers. Gloves help, but you'll probably still get broken nails and they'll get dirtier in 20 minutes in the garden than they will normally in two months.

Day Camp for Retarded Opens For Waltham, Weston

WALTHAM -- A special summer day camp for retarded children, one of the few throughout the state, opened Monday on the tree-shaded grounds of the Warren School, Waverley Oaks Rd., Waltham, serving children from Waltham and Weston.

Originally organized by the Greater Waltham Assn. for Retarded Children, which also serves Weston, the Happy Hollow Summer Camp is now operated by the Waltham Recreation Department, with the state and city sharing the costs of operation.

In its first year, the camp was wholly supported by the association which in turn was supported by contributions during the annual fund drives. Weston in 1960 raised more than $900 in the annual fund drive.

The local area association, hailed for its energetic program to aid the mentally retarded children at the recent state convention at Cape Cod, also operates a special workshop training course for older children and a nursery for the younger child, during the school year, one of the few in the state.

Some 40 to 45 children for the next nine weeks will find stimulation and will receive specialized training in arts and crafts on the fully-equipped playground, staffed by three instructors, plus volunteer teachers.

Buses will pick them up daily at designated spots and return them in the afternoon. The playground is fully equipped.

In company with other children, the youngsters are taught the mores of social behavior, how to play with other children, all part of their need to build up their self confidence.

E. NEVIN KATHER

E. Nevin Kather Is Raytheon VP

WAYLAND -- E. Nevin Kather, general manager of Raytheon's Semiconductor Division, was recently named a vice president of the electronics firm.

Mr. Kather joined the company in 1943 as an engineering section head in the Microwave and Power Tube Division. He served successively as production engineering manager, manufacturing manager, and assistant division manager. In July, 1959, he was named division manager and in Feb., 1961, was appointed general manager of Semiconductor Division.

Mr. Kather is an Iowa State College graduate with a B. S. degree in electrical engineering. He did graduate work at the University of Tulsa, University of Colorado and M.I.T.

He is married to the former June W. Caruth of Williams, Iowa. They and their four children reside on Woodridge rd., Wayland.

Specially built locomotives with horizontal boilers, lower in front so that they are level while on the mountain, tug cars seating 48 to 56 persons up Mt. Washington on the Cog Railway in N. H. The season starts June 20.

'Hire Now' Project Pays Off – in Jobs

BOSTON -- Job openings offered through state public employment offices are running 10 percent above a year ago since the nationwide "Hire Now" campaign began in mid-May, according to Antonio England, director of the Division of Employment Security.

From May 10 to June 10, the employment service has been asked by Massachusetts industry to fill 23,722 jobs. In the same period last year, when business conditions were better, only 21,557 job openings were offered for filling by the state service.

England attributed the increase to the intensive drive for job openings put on by the division's 42 employment offices during the "Hire Now" drive. The purpose of the campaign is to get some of the unemployed back to work.

The director said that while he was pleased with the results of the job campaign, the filling of job openings isn't as easy as it would first appear, even though many thousands in the state are currently unemployed.

"A major difficulty in matching jobs and job seekers," he said, "is the disparity between the skills required in the jobs and the skills of the unemployed."

The matching problem is pointed up by a recent survey in Metropolitan Boston which showed that 80% of all job offerings at the area offices were in the professional, managerial, clerical and service occupations, and only 24% of the unemployed possessed experience or training in these occupations.

Yours For The Asking...

They're yours for the asking . . . all those graduation photos which your sons' and daughters' colleges mailed in to us. We've got them tucked away, and those who can make it to Wayland Center may have them. Also -- we still have the ones you loaned us for graduations, weddings and other announcements. NOTE: Let us know when you drop by what date the picture appeared -- and we can dig it up in a jiffy.

You Can Swim in Dudley If... But Think It Over

WAYLAND -- Dudley Pond is in the news again -- or yet.

1--It is clean enough for swimming at five points.

2--Town police can act against those creating a nuisance on the pond. Also, speeders . . . if they can catch the fast boys.

All that's official. But it's also official that:

You swim on the pond at your own risk. No beaches there are town-protected. And there is a difference.

Only the Town Beach on Lake Cochituate has safety measures worth parents' concern:

--Four lifeguards are on duty at all times when the beach is open.

Probably even more important: the fact that all children (or others) reported missing to lifeguards get extra protection from the fire department.

Every parent knows that a child may be missing at the beach and turn up five minutes later... safe, and eligible for a good sound smack.

Fire Chief Francis J. Hartin, acting on the theory that the sooner rescue gear can be brought to play on a drowning person, has an agreement that as soon as a person is reported missing, the department is notified.

"Better a needless run for the

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

You Only Think You Know All About Old Houses Here

Strange how many things that everybody knows, just aren't so!

For instance, even so carefully edited a publication as The New York Times Magazine refers, as common knowledge, to how Salem burned the witches.

No witch ever was burned in Salem, or in any of the English Colonies.

And everyone knows, of course, that the first settlers here in New England lived in log cabins: artists dream up pictures of these log cabins, and architects are commissioned to copy the pictures for suburban dwellings. It's all moonshine.

The Englishmen who came here to Massachusetts Bay had never seen a log cabin, let alone knowing how to build one, a quite skilled and ticklish job to do well, it is said; and a knack brought over to the Middle States by the Swedes, I believe.

The Englishmen who settled these parts were, however, well acquainted with oak timber squared with the adze, with sawing out plank and boards, and with splitting clapboard - and those are the building materials they used here.

At Plymouth, at the first, they built the principal buildings of squared timbers, or, as a Dutch visitor described them in 1627, of "hewn planks".

The Blue Laws'll Get You If You Don't Find Loopholes

BY PHYLLIS WEAVER

"The Blue Laws as they exist today are in such a confused state that repeal is a necessity."

This statement came not from a determined local merchant, but from Sgt. Lingley of the Weston police force. Sgt. Lingley was speaking of such confusions and idiosyncrasies as the facts that on Sunday:

You may buy ice-cream or soda-water, but you may not purchase aspirin or sunburn lotion without a doctor's prescription.

You are allowed to stop in at the local pastry shop for a doughnut and a cup of coffee, but you can not buy a dozen doughnuts to take home for breakfast.

Gasoline stations may sell gas, but are not allowed to lift a car on a jack (this involves "unnecessary labor").

Butter and cheese may be made in abundance, and milk may be bought, sold, or delivered, but bakers may bake or sell bread only until 10 a.m. and between 4 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Work may be done by you in your private garden or on any of your private grounds, but you must not fix a shutter or attempt to paint your house.

It is this confusion over exactly what is and what is not permitted under the puritanical Blue Laws that have local merchants wishing that their ancestors had never landed in Massachusetts.

But You Could Hear a Cricket Sneeze

Busload of Friends for Anniversary Surprise

WAYLAND -- Nothing like a surprise for your 15th wedding anniversary. Say a busload of friends dropping in for the weekend.

Oh yes, it did. Mrs. Albert DeStefano of 124 Woodbridge rd., looking forward to a quiet weekend of the Fourth, looked up that Saturday to see an interstate bus stopping outside.

"Oh no -- he isn't doing this to me," she said to her brother - in - law, Clement Sansone.

"But he is. Oh he is," she said as the crowd from Bloomfield, N. J., piled out of bus and up the drive . . . like those circus cars that never seem to unload. Thirty-eight in all.

Wacky enough, isn't it? But how about adding this: They came and went . . . without a fuss.

And the aftermath? "Albert was dazed from the moment he walked into the house and saw the crowd on the back lawn," says Mrs. DeStefano. "He hasn't really recovered yet. But he will. What a time!"

Well, this Wayward Bus incident starts in Hawaii where Albert DeStefano and Philip Cochran of Bloomfield became fast friends. Married about the same time. Kept in touch. Last winter, Cochran said to Mrs. DeStefano:

"What'd you do if I dropped in on you with a busload of friends next summer?"

She said she'd "throw you out" but on July 1, there he was. And there he stayed for the

Weston Police His Nemesis: Cost: $90

WESTON--Higinio R. Castro of Waltham is a two-time loser with Weston police. In 36 days it's cost him $90 and court costs.

Officer Thomas Healey picked up Mr. Castro last Sunday for failing to give the proper signal for a turn and for failure to have a driving license with him. It cost the Waltham man $50 and costs in Waltham District Court Monday.

This occured only a month after Mr. Castro had been nabbed for failing to stop for a stop sign and driving without a license...again.

Louise Taylor Bride Of Mr. Edward Varnum

COCHITUATE -- On July 1, Miss Louise Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fern A. Taylor of 73 Edgewood rd., became the bride of Edward David Varnum Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Varnum of 21 Clinton st., Lynn.

Miss Taylor was given in marriage by her father at the double ring ceremony held at the Community Methodist Church, Rev. Robert K. Jones Jr., officiating.

The bride was gowned in white organza. The chantilly lace of the tiered skirt beneath was repeated in applique outlining the neckline and chapel train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a miniature crown of pearls and she carried her Rainbow Bible with an orchid and stephanotis cover. Her only jewelry were the pearl earrings of her maternal grandmother.

Mrs. David C. Wilson of Natick, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her gown was nile green silk organza with bouffant skirt. The isle green of the draped cummerbund matched the bow and veiling of the headband and she carried a basket of pastel flowers and ivy. The bridesmaids, gowned as the matron of honor were Miss Constance Mayo of Boston, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Richard P. Wile of Stoneham. Miss Diana Lee of Lynnfield, cousin of the groom, was flower girl and Bradford W. Ricker, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Robert L. Varnum of Lynn was best man for his brother. Ushers were Carl H. and George M. Taylor, brothers of the bride; David Ricker, Marblehead, cousin of the bride; C. Dexter Taylor Jr. of Nahant, cousin of the groom, and Arthur Temple of Wellesley.

The bride's mother chose a dress of orchid chiffon with matching flowered hat. Her corsage was a white orchid. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in dusty rose chiffon and lace with accessories of contrasting shade. Her corsage was of white roses.

The reception was held in the church vestry.

Mrs. Edward D. Varnum Jr. graduated from Wayland High in 1954 and Chandler School for Women in 1956, she is a member of Aurora Chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Edward David Varnum Jr. is a graduate of Lynn English High and served four years with the U.S.A.F. He is now attending Bentley College of Accounting and Finance and is employed by the United Fruit Co. of Boston.

Following a motor trip through the mid west the bridal couple will make their home at 7 Atherton st. in Natick.

Illawana Jim At Morgan Show

NORTHAMPTON -- The Tri-County Fairgrounds will be the setting for the National Morgan Horse Show July 27 - 30.

A black Morgan stallion, named Illawana Jim, will highlight the show. Illawana Jim has won many trophies and ribbons in parade and pleasure classes and performs 25 tricks under the direction of his trainer David Cravatta.

More than 400 entries are expected for the 84-class event. The show will also feature the Cavalcade Americana, seen only at Morgan shows, parade horses, jumping events and harness racing.

Horse show sessions on July 27 and 28 will be held at 9 a.m., 1 p.m. and 7 p.m.; on July 29 at 8:30 a.m., 1 p.m. and 7 p.m., and on July 30 at 1 p.m.

Barbara Crockett of 2 Ripley lane, Weston, has entered her Morgan horse, "U. C. Pentora" in the horse show.

1747 Farm Horse Show Sept. 16, 17 in Weston

WESTON -- The fourth annual 1747 Farm Horse Show will be held this Sept. 16 and 17 in Weston. Using the same grounds as last year the show will be held all day Saturday and Saturday evening under lights. It will continue Sunday from 1 p.m. on.

This year's show will have several unusual innovations. All the award ribbons are being imported from England. These are large ribbons with leather centers and are a good deal different from American styles. Also, the numerals used to identify contestants are English and will be worn on the horse's bridle instead of on the rider as is common in this country.

The show will have just under 90 classes and will continue to feature junior riders although adults may participate in "in hand" and "harness" classes. This will be by far the largest American Horse Shows Assn. Show to be held in or around Boston in many years.

Red Barn Nursery Announces Fall Openings

WESTON -- At the recent annual meeting of the Red Barn Nursery School Corp., it was announced that Mrs. Weston Blake, one of the original founders of the school will be the new director, replacing Mrs. W. Wentworth Perkins. Mrs. Perkins resigned in order to become director of the Laboratory Nursery School at Brandeis University. Mrs. Blake will be available during the summer to meet prospective parents of Red Barn children.

Newly elected officers of the corporation are Mrs. Richard W. Clare Jr., president; Mrs. Peter S. Mansfield, vice president; Mrs. Gustav Fleischmann, coordinating chairman; Mr. John N. Fisher, treasurer, and Mrs. L. Wallace Dean, secretary, all of Weston.

Mrs. James P. Maynard, admissions chairman, reports a number of vacancies in both the nursery school and the kindergarten. She can be reached at TW 4-0868.

Miss Katharine A. Kenney Weds Stanley Marshall Jr.

AUBURN, Me. -- The marriage of Miss Katharine Ann Kenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Kenney of Auburn, Me. and Stanley Nickerson Marshall Jr. of Bar Harbor, formerly of Wayland, son of Mrs. Stanley N. Marshall, Sr. and the late Mr. Marshall was solemnized Monday, June 12 at the Sixth Street Congregational Church of Auburn, Me.

Rev. M. Ronald Beinema performed the double-ring ceremony at 2 p.m.

The bride's gown was of white silk organza and she wore a white bow band and veiling on her head. The matron of honor, Mrs. Edwin Ranzoni of Bucksport, Me., was attired in orchid taffeta with with matching bow band. The bride's mother wore beige with bone accessories, and the mother of the bridgroom's dress was of dusty pink lace with matching flowered hat.

Thomas P. Jones 3d, Kennebunkport, Me., cousin of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Richard Irwin, Cochituate, and Kenneth Atwood, Brewer, Me.

Miss Darlene Worthen of Newport, Me., a sorority sister of the bride, was the organist.

After a wedding trip to Bar Harbor, the couple returned to Orono, where they will both attend the summer session at the University of Maine. The bride will be graduated as an English major from the University in August and will teach English at Machias (Maine) High School in the Fall. Her husband, who received his bachelor of science degree in Chemical Engineering from the U. of Maine in June, will teach math and chemistry at Machias High School.

Something About Birds

American Bittern in Rare Appearance

—Maybe You've Heard This 'Stake Driver'

BY CHARLOTTE SMITH

WESTON -- Since May an American bittern has been making daily visits to the J. D. Murphys' pond on Winter st. These birds are more often heard than seen. Their odd call has earned them names like "pumper" because the notes suggest sounds made by an old-fashioned pump, and "stake-driver" because at a distance only the last syllable, sounding like a whack on a stake, is heard.

The Smiths, Westland rd., saw a sharp-shinned hawk fly into their yard and take a young, sick grackle which had been seen earlier in the day sleeping on the ground.

The Drapers at the Case Estates had a fine view on June 30 of three young screech owls, apparently not long out of the nest, sitting side by side on a low maple tree limb. Mr. Draper also says that the nesting mockingbirds raised three young which he saw with the parents about June 20. In recent years there have been many reports of mockingbirds in eastern Massachusetts, but they are usually single birds and nesting pairs are rare.

Since about the first of June, Miss Charlotte Paine, Highland st., had been hearing what she was quite sure was a cardinal, and finally she saw it (a male) on June 30. It seems very likely that this is the same bird reported by Mrs. D. R. Davidson, Golden Ball rd., on May 23.

The pair of bluebirds which Mrs. H. B. Atkins, King's Grant rd., discovered nesting in an oak stub near her home, raised two young and now have newly-hatched nestlings of a second brood. They used a different natural cavity this time.

Two black-throated green warblers have been reported (Hayes & Paine), and another prairie warbler (Paine) which seem scarce in Weston this year.

On July 4 Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hubbard, Sunset rd., heard a white-throated sparrow at the Wellesley st. end of the Ash st. Reservoir lagoon. This bird is a common summer resident in the higher elevations of the state, but rarely nests near the coast. Most summer records in Eastern Massachusetts have been of non-breeding birds.

Are hummingbirds visiting your garden? There is a feeling that they have decreased in numbers during the past year or two. Reports will be welcome.

Lawn Party Tomorrow For Weston Methodist Fair

WESTON -- A lawn party will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Brooks of 254 Merriam st., Weston tomorrow 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. with the proceeds going to the Weston Methodist Church Fall Fair.

There will be a social hour and coffee and doughnuts will be on sale, as well as aprons and there will be a white elephant sale. In case of rain the event will be held in the house.

Serving on the white elephant committee are Mrs. Frank Whelpley, Mrs. Harold McRae, Mrs. Grace Radford; aprons, Mrs. F. H. Brooks, Mrs. Samuel Johnson, Mrs. Charles Wark and Mrs. Charles Enstrom; coffee and doughnuts, Mrs. Martha Bickford, Mrs. T. A. Beach, Mrs. Ralph Boutell, Mrs. Harold Merry, Mrs. William Cail.

Christian Science Service

WESTON -- The vital importance of the inspired word of the bible will be emphasized at First Church Scientist and at all Christian Science services Sunday in the lesson-sermon entitled "Truth."

From Romans this passage will be read (15): "For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope."

Correlative citations will include the first tenet of Christian Science: "As adherents of Truth, we take the inspired Word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to eternal life" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 497).

The Golden Text is from Psalm 57: "I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people: I will sing unto thee among the nations. For thy mercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds."

THOMAS COOCH

Weston Man Appointed Raytheon Patent Counsel

WALTHAM -- Thomas Cooch of Weston has been appointed patent counsel of Raytheon Company, according to Paul F. Hannah, vice president and general counsel.

Mr. Cooch, who joined Raytheon in 1960, has been associate patent counsel of the firm and was previously a partner for seven years in the Wilmington, Dela. law firm of Connolly, Cooch and Bove. Prior to that he had been a partner in the firm of Morford, Bennethum, Marvel & Cooch of Wilmington.

A 1938 graduate of the University of Delaware, he received his LL.B. degree from the University of Virginia School of Law in 1941 and was admitted to the Delaware bar in that same year. In 1948, Mr. Cooch became a member of the Bar of the United States Supreme court. During World War II, he served with the U. S. Army as an artillery officer.

He is a member of the American Bar Assn., Delaware State Bar Assn., American, New York and Philadelphia Patent Law Assn., Pennsylvania and Delaware Societies of Mayflower Descendants, and the Society of Friends.

Mr. Cooch is married to the former Ruth Rhoads, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rhoads of Wilmington. The Cooches and their two sons, Thomas and Peter, live at 120 Montvale rd., Weston.

The 1812 HOUSE in Framingham, Massachusetts

Located on what was once an old Indian trail from Salem End to Connecticut, The 1812 House offers excellent food in gracious surroundings to modern day turnpike travelers. Built by John Fiske in 1812 this building became a boarding school for boys. In the newel post of the front hall is a silver dollar bearing the date of 1812. In 1903 it was opened as a restouront for fine foods.

1812 CLAM CHOWDER

(Dining Room Specialty)

2 cups soup or fish stock
1-inch cube fat salt pork, diced
3 sliced onions
2 cups potatoes, diced
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 pt. clams; cut in small pieces
2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups scalded milk
1 cup cold milk
6 chowder crackers

Place the fat pork in a frying pan with the onions and cook for five minutes until brown. Strain into a saucepan and add the fish stock, potatoes, salt, pepper and the clams. Cook until the potatoes are soft. Melt the fat, add the flour, and when smooth add the scalded milk. Stir until this boils and then add to the soup stock. Bring to boiling point, season to taste, and serve hot.

You're Our Consultant...

No, we didn't know that . . . So often friends and casual needlers tell us, "Oh, we thought you KNEW that." Well, we didn't know it. There's lots we don't know. The way we get that all-knowing look is from you.

So it stands to reason that we like to hear what you know when you bump into us (and please, no elbows) . . . about you and yours first of all.

But if you know of a friend whose daughter is getting engaged, going away to school or who does something you think others are interested in -- well, pass it along to us. We'll check it out. Glad to. Anyway, drop by and get acquainted.

When you drop us a line (Box 247, Wayland) or call us (EL 8-7700), we get to know something we didn't know before . . . and we pass it along to others. And then they sometimes pass something along to us. And we pass it out to you.

The point is: we don't consult a seer for our news. We consult you. Hope to see you soon.

...And You Haven't Got a Flashing Light

If you're going on a trip this weekend . . .

Please remember: five MDC policemen are in the hospital as of this moment.

How come? They were struck on the expressways around Boston.

So? Their police car's flashing lights were flashing mightily . . . and they were still struck by the driver who sees nothing at night.

If this happened to these policemen, with their protection, think what your chances are. And think twice when you stop-on-the-highway-at-night.

Recommended: leave your blinkers and dome lights on. And get out of your car until help arrives. Good luck. Keep your eyes peeled.

Letters to the EDITOR

Some Police Who 'Fill in' Help, Too

To the Editor:

Through the co-operation of the Selectmen and the Chief of Police, the Auxiliary Police have been partially uniformed and assigned to duties for training and experience. Over the 3d and 4th of July they were on duty around the clock for 48 hours assisting the regular police in patrolling the town.

Any equipment these men have is purchased by themselves. They have been attending classes on all matters with which they might be concerned. The group recently completed the Advanced Red Cross First Aid Course.

They are required to qualify with the pistol every three months and will be firing the Police Combat Course as soon as targets are available.

These men believe in the need for a strong Civil Defense as an added deterrent against enemy attack. They are working to develop a strong, well balanced organization.

Charles M. Nelson

Ed. Note -- The auxiliaries are much more active than the public realizes. They deserve credit. In this growing town, they'll undoubtedly play a bigger role.

In Brief....

Sympathy goes to the family of Donald Bernardi of Framingham who was killed on the Fourth of July on the Toll Road, trying to complete a Good Samaritan deed. His death came as he stood on the running board of a tow truck and serves as a reminder that high-speed highways are death traps . . . Congratulations to Francis Gladu, for 33 years a teacher and coach at Wayland High -- and now looking forward to retirement in Florida. A warm send-off from high school friends and alumni . . . Also congratulations to Weston High alumni, especially the 1911 graduates who made the get-together recently a happy affair . . . Norumbega Council, Boy Scouts, serving Weston, now has $100,000 to improve its summer camp facilities in Gilmanton Iron Works, N. H. . . . Well, that was short - Bonnie McLane's vacation after graduating from Weston High. She's busy at her college career since July 5, at Antioch College. That's life today: you start college when there's an opening -- and GO.

Early Homes No Treat -- Many Scooped Out of Hill

Less elaborate were some of the ordinary dwellings, fashioned, as Bradford records, of "bowes" (boughs) "wattled up with clay," somewhat after the fashion of the half-timbered buildings so often photographed at Stratford-on-Avon in England.

The word booth is sometimes used in old writings to describe the simplest of them. Almost all were thatched at first with marsh grass, "bluejoint;" or rushes.

And some habitations were just a square space dug out of a sandy hillside, walled and roofed over.

The Puritans who came to Salem, Boston, and the rest of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, 8 or 10 years later, had more money and more tools, and brought expert artisans.

They began, from the first, to get out lumber with an up-and-down saw from logs laid across a pit. The principal men soon had substantial houses; but not everybody, by any means.

What about the livestock farmers who pushd through the woods to settle Sudbury (now Wayland) a decade later, and Weston, then Watertown Farms, later still? Direct evidence is sparse, but we do know what the first settlers did just down the Sudbury River at Concord, settled three years or so earlier.

They scooped room-sized holes into the long sandy hill that parallels Lexington rd., put up corner posts, or vertical timbers set in the ground, closed them in and roofed them.

The long sandy hillside, also facing the south west, on Old Sudbury rd. and Bow rd. where the first Wayland houselots were laid out, would certainly lend itself to similar treatment.

Here's how it was done, as told only a few years later by a Woburn man, Capt. Edward Johnson:

"After they have found a place of Aboad, they burrow themselves in the Earth for their first shelter under some Hill-side, casting the Earth aloft upon Timber; they make a smoky fire against the Earth at the highest side, and thus these poor servants of Christ provide shelters for themselves their wives and little ones, Keeping off the short showers from their lodgings, but the long raines penetrate through, to their great disturbance in the night season: yet in these poor Wigwames they sing Psalmes, pray, and praise their God until they can provide them houses, which ordinarily was not wont to be with many till the Earth with the Lord's blessing, brought forth bread to feed them, their wives and little ones."

The best of such dugout homes must eventually have been made fairly comfortable, for we find them conveyed by deed, elsewhere. Healthy, too, for the Sudbury settlers were noted for good health.

In fact only a few years ago, I called at a friend's house, very comfortable and nicely kept, built into the hillside on the main street in an old Worcester County town.

Weston was for many years a part of Watertown. The first buildings in that town must have been fairly simple too, for there, in 1630, the record states, "Mr. Firmin of Watertown lost his wigwam by fire."

But three years later, when fire destroyed Mr. Oldham's house, the chronicles notes that it was "made all of clapboards." Such fires brought rules against the use of thatch dangerous in this climate so much colder and dryer than England's.

With the growth of means of subsistence, the increase in number of artisans, and the use of water power for sawing, there was soon plenty of lumber, and houses became "orderly, fair, and well built."

Here are the specifications for the two-room house which Edmund Rice built in Wayland in 1655.

The plan called for a structure 30 feet long, 16 feet wide, 10 foot stud; the sill to be a foot above ground. The whole was to be "well planked under foot and boor(d)ed sufficiently to lay corn in the story overhead."

Not exactly a mansion such as a Wayland mill owner built on Dudley Pond two centuries later, but a reminder of the old saying: "Comfort lives in a small house, and needs no servants."

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Crickets Give Weather But Gentlemen Prefer Blondes

One of the many old wives tales we hear in New England has to do with figuring the temperature by counting the cricket's chirps.

As the cricket was invented before the thermometer, maybe the cricket's chirps were used to set the scale on the thermometer - who knows?

Anyway, the story goes like this, you count the number of chirps the cricket makes in 15 seconds, then you add 35. This is supposed to give you the temperature in Fahrenheit.

We tried this a while back and came up with a temperature of 180 degrees and were all set to buy an air conditioner at any cost when we found that we had counted the chirps of two crickets that were serenading under our porch.

On dividing our mistake by two we came out with a figure pretty close to the thermometer reading.

There are many ways we can forecast weather by observing nature.

One is to look at the width of the brown stripe on the wooly worm, a wide stripe means a cold winter ahead.

A ring around the moon means rain shortly.

Cows seem to all lie down just prior to a rain, and the maple trees leaves turn over in the breeze - showing their silver side.

The robins sing loudly and bring on rain, red sky at night, sailor's delight, etc:

I suppose that if we became acquainted with all of these folk tales on weather forecasting we wouldn't have to sit up 'til 11 o'clock at night and look at the pretty blonde who stands behind the Plexi-glass panel and writes with both hands - backwards yet.

Letters To The Editor

You Call Those Sidewalks? Better Start Over Again

To the Editor:

Some time ago you announced to me that you would support a campaign to install sidewalks in Wayland particularly for school children.

I would like to call your attention to the fact that a great deal of the time was spent at the special town meeting discussing the taking by eminent domain, pieces of land from George L. Nolan and Evelyn M. Carpenter, for the purpose of installing sidewalks from Rolling lane to the high school along Old Connecticut Path.

An inspection of the sidewalks already put down along Connecticut Path by the town public works is an eye opener.

If Selectmen Tarr, Lewis and Linnehan allow the public works department to put in any more such excuses for sidewalks we should take steps to prevent further waste of money.

These sidewalks are covered with a sort of coarse broken stone that nobody could walk on in anything short of a sneaker or ski-boot. I have always wondered at the children walking in the road, and now I know. It is because the road is actually safer.

There have been no such sidewalks built in any modern community since before World War I and I heartily suggest that whoever built the gravel bank along the road and calls it a sidewalk should either quit his job or go to someplace where they have heard of hot top.

That is what all sidewalks have to be made of or they cannot be plowed in winter.

There is small wonder that the taxes in Wayland are higher than any town can afford if this type of work is what we have been getting for our money.

I call the sidewalk on Old Connecticut Path a menace and I believe the town is open to suit if it is not resurfaced correctly.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT C. CODMAN

Wayland Gasoline Contract Awarded

WAYLAND -- Marlboro Coal Co. of Marlboro has been awarded the gasoline contract for town vehicles for one year, by vote of the Board of Selectmen.

Bids were received from Texaco and Cities Service. The Marlboro firm's bid was the lowest.

At the July 3 meeting of the selectmen it was also voted to renew the auctioneer license of George Robinson of White rd.

Bits & Pieces

Now they want us to spend $23 billion to give every child who's interested in science a crack at it . . . by 1970.

Think it over -- you've got the summer off. Ouch. Have you really thought -- scientifically, that is -- what all this all-science thinking will bring us to? Well, we have -- and it's alarming.

In 1970 Worried Mother Writes; My Son Is 5

And He Shows No Interest in Logarithms

Now the year 1970 is apt to bring us something like this -- if we spend another $23 billion to bring our frog-lovers of today into the realm of outer space:

Weston-Wayland Highs to Meet in Science Countdown on Thanksgiving, the headline will read. No more football. No baseball. Or basketball. Just science.

Your boy will be bragging about his letters in calculus, chemistry, paleontology and the topography of the moon.

But if you can stomach that, try this:

High schoolers will be sent to the office for passing love notes . . . in square roots. Formulae will replace blank verse. And the rebel of 1970 (what will he wear -- a Herbert Hoover collar?) will prop up his Principia Mathematica to hide his surreptitious reading of Finnegan's Wake.

And the worried mother will be writing to Dr. Spook:

"My son Jamie is almost six and he shows almost no interest in his logarithm tables. What can I do?"

Probation officers will be agog with the prospects of working on the latest problem: the mathematics delinquent, the biology delinquent . . .

And the chemists' smock will replace the leather jacket with the teenagers. And the Redstone 85 will supplant the Harley Davison with the high-elbows handlebars. And the parent who's so square as to give his eight-year-old an old-fashioned chemistry set will be fissioned in the backyard.

Too bad. Changes are in the wind. You can't run off this summer and forget them.

Just think, too -- your favorite magazines will be banished by the Scientific Giant of the Future: No more Time and New Yorker. But you'll get used to the Journal of Elipsoidal Electrons or the bound volume of case studies of the psychopathology of outer-space travelers -- or you've had it.

Oh yes, favorite reading for the six-year-olds: Tom Swift, Space Traveler or the Rover Boys at M.I.T. And you'd better be prepared to substitute Square Root Tales for Hans Christian Anderson.

And the baby's formula had better be figures out down to the 10th decimal place if you don't want to be reported by you-know-who . . .

Poor Dr. Spook will make way for Dr. Einstein.

But the smart parent of that day will look to find the child who can find a scientific way to eradicate the Blue Laws . . . about 1971, at least.

* * *

For those with bird-watchers' syndrome: by July 17 if you cannot bring your extended elbows down to a point within four inches of your hips, most authorities agree you should consult your family doctor . . . unless, of course, he is similarly afflicted. In that case, best not to venture into crowded subways.

* * *

Like to see what the Urban Renewal Authority can do for itself -- and the town. So far the URA has worn the seat out of its pants, sliding back into first base.

Voice of girl being kept in her room (tremolo): "But, mother, you don't understand -- I'm not getting my share of Vitamin D."

Bus Load

weekend, with his wife, 36 Jerseyites and 33 more from Boson's suburbia.

The crowd moving up the driveway was gowned in Hawaiian costumes, laden with Hawaiian food and drink -- all set for a Hawaiian Luau. And they had it -- twice over, Saturday and Sunday, with a bus trip to church sandwiched in between.

But a bus on Woodbridge rd. Mrs. DeStefano was not the only nonpulssed. A police cruiser rolled by. Its occupants did a double take. Came back later for another look.

And a friend of the family dropped in Sunday morning, looked around, dazed.

"Things were so unbelievable anyway," says Mrs. DeStefano, "that I looked at him. Wondered who he was and how he got there. Then it clicked.

"I just didn't know whether I was going or coming. I was never so happy in years."

It was fun for everyone. Even. The DeStefano's children (Evelyn and Norma, 12, Michael, 8 and Philip, 6) and the rest had their own special food. Nothing was forgotten.

Just one disappointment: the girl from Newton who just didn't want to go home for one night. All those cots: "Let me sleep here with the rest."

How does it sound with 71 persons on your back lawn?

That could vary, but things were so well organized from the time the bus left Bloomfield, that on the DeStefano lawn and on that of their in-laws, the Virgil Bartone's across the road, you could have heard a cricket sneeze . . . if crickets are sneezing this season.

Organization was the word.

Cochran got together on the sly with Clement Sansone, Mrs. DeStefano's brother and Virgil Bartone, her brother-in-law. They took care of coffee and sleeping arrangements. He did the rest.

--Everyone had a cot assigned to him in the Bartone and DeStefano houses. The older persons had a bed. No hitches.

--Food enough for two days came with the bus . . . all prepared by the Jerseyites in the two days prior to the trip.

--Even the bus ride was organized: disposal bags, assigned seats and song sheets for the long ride.

Mrs. Julia Miller, Mrs. DeStefano's aunt acted in the spirit of the occasion, took the visitors on a tour (with the bus, of course) of Boston on Saturday.

--Cooking was done by the men, in rotation. No woman raised a hand, except to say: "No more."

--And when they came to go, everyone had his assigned job. One moment the lawn was a milling throng. Half an hour later, all the tables, chairs and impedimenta had been cleared and the rubbish piled up . . . under a plastic cover to protect it against the rain.

--And as a final touch, Cochran stepped out on the back lawn with a package:

"Here's some new hose and sprinklers. We figured we might scuff up the lawn a bit, so maybe this will help you get it back in shape." P. S. It is.

The big event was for the Sansones, the Bartones, the DeStefanos and Mr. and Mrs. James Quinn of Bloomfield, all close friends whose weddings occurred in June-July, 1946.

They say the infantry is what makes the difference in war, but they neglected to say it gives you the knowhow for a harem-scarem 15th wedding anniversary. But it does.

Weston Youth Wins ROTC Promotion At Fort Devens

FORT DEVENS -- Cadet John K. Wyman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Wyman of 102 Wellesley st., Weston, was appointed cadet first sergeant of Company "H" today at the Reserve Officers Training Corps Camp here.

In his new assignment, he will be the senior cadet non-commissioned officer in the company at its morning and evening formations, weekend parades, and on marches to and from training areas. Cadet Wyman was selected for this position as a result of his outstanding performance as a student of military science.

The six-week encampment which began on June 17, is being attended by approximately 1090 students, most of whom come from college and universities in New England and New York.

Cadet Wyman is a graduate of Weston High School, and is now majoring in economics at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me. where he is captain of the Bowdoin tennis team. He is a member of Psi Upsilon fraternity. Upon successful completion of summer camp and graduation from college, Cadet Wyman will become eligible for a commission as a 2d Lieutenant in the United States Army Reserve.

4 Stolen Cars Lost & Found

WESTON--A rash of stolen cars have disappeared or appeared in Weston in the past few days.

On Jyly 4, George Amedon of South av. reported his car stolen from the driveway sometims after midnight.

About 4:45 Officer Larry Tierney located a car stolen from Hull in the woods near Winter st. The car was owned by Henry T. Lahage of 41 Shore dr. Mr. Amedon's car was recovered last Monday in Hingham, near the Norwell line.

The car stolen recently from Richard Segien of Kendal Common rd. was recovered in Waltham on July 5.

The late model Cadillac of William Gibson was reported stolen from the Weston Golf Club on July 6 about 10:55 p.m. and was recovered last Sunday in Lincoln stripped of three tires.

Police also have a girl's bike lost in town on July 6. Police say anyone able to identify this steel blue English bike may have same.

Wayland Teachers Get Lowdown On Latest in Math Methods

WAYLAND -- All mathematics teachers in the Wayland public schools attended a workshop sponsored by the mathematics curriculum committee. Teachers from grades 1 through 12, meeting at the Loker School, participate in a study of newer approaches to mathematics instruction.

Frank Fitzgerald from Boston University was the featured speaker and traced the history of developments in mathematics stemming from projects at the University of Illinois, Yale, University of Maryland, Syracuse, and Stanford. He pointed out that mathematics is man-made; it is "what you make it".

The important underlying concept is that of "sets", rather than "function". Thomas Misch, representative of the Scott Foresman Co., demonstrated the approach to problem-solving used in the Seeing Through Arithmetic series. This series has been adopted for use in grades 3 through 6 in the Wayland schools.

The mathematics committee recommended the adoption of this series to give pupils a basis for understanding the more complicated mathematics required in today's world.

One of the guideposts followed by this committee has been the recommendation of the College Entrance Examination Board Committee on Mathematics that: "The curriculum should concentrate on important long-range ideas, not on topics of supposed immediate utility that do not contribute to the basic mathematical knowledge of students".

In the afternoon the teachers divided into two sections. Teachers from grade 4 and up met with Richard Randlett of Wayland High School and chairman of the curriculum committee.

Teachers from the primary grades met with Pauline Natale, an elementary teacher member of the curriculum committee, who conducted a demonstration class using pupils who had received instruction in the "Seeing Through Arithmetic" series in Ann Hartig's class at Happy Hollow. Pupils in the class were: Susan Abbott, Neil Crockett, Elaine Cummings, Steve Hansen, Julie Rossborough, Brenda Stinson and Dean Wilson.

In addition, Kay Barron presented the Catherine Stern Discovering Arithmetic materials used in grades 1 and 2 of the Wayland schools. Nancy Haynes and Judith Mohnkern spoke of the cuisenaire materials which is a European approach to understanding numbers that is finding increasing acceptance in the United States.

Hospital Hails Weston Police

WESTON--Weston police are trained to take good care of the injured. And they do.

On July 5, David O'Brien of 8 Chester Lane, Waltham, received a compound fracture of his right leg when his trailer hitch snapped back on him.

Safety Officer Larry Tierney responded to the call about 4:58 p.m. on Sibley rd. and applied splints to the leg. At Waltham Hospital, where Officer Tierney brought Mr. O'Brien, authorities complimented the officer on his application.

'Copter Crashes Near Wayland Line, One Hurt

WAYLAND -- Those buzzing helicopters and speeding Air Force engines Monday night were involved in a helicopter crash off Danforth st., Framingham.

No one was seriously injured but the rescue efforts tied up traffic in the Wayland-Framingham area for a while about 6 p.m.

This was the second 'copter crash of the day in Greater Boston and follows by less than two weeks a fatal crash on the North Shore.

What happened Monday was this: Attempting to crash-land an H-13 Bell helicopter of the U. S. Army en route from Maynard to the Natick Quartermaster Corps Laboratory, the 'copter upended in a gravel pit of the N. E. Sand and Gravel Co.

Chief Warrant Officer Robert Kibler, 27, was operating the craft which was also carrying Capt. Joseph Senna, 31. Engine failure disabled the craft at 1500 feet.

The 'copter skidded over a 15-foot gravel pile, breaking the glass dome and scattering parts of the craft 60 feet away.

Capt. Senna sustained a sprained right ankle. Both men are attached to the Quartermaster Corps.

Soft Shoulder Flips Car 2 Hurt

WESTON--John H. Connolly, 26, of 9 Avon pl., Newton, and a passenger were injured last Thursday about 9:52 p.m. when the car Connolly was driving flipped over on Newton st., opposite the Pine Brook Country Club.

Police said Mr. Connolly told them his car struck a stone on the soft shoulder and turned over.

Mr. Connolly was treated at Newton-Wellesley Hospital for a fractured nose. His passenger, Kay-ellen Carnes of 62 Maple st., Newton, was also treated at the hospital for an injury to the nose.

Wayland Dogs Due for Day in Court--at $15 Per

WAYLAND--Every dog is entitled to his day in court--and in this town he's apt to get it, soon, if the owners of some 25-50 dogs don't register them, pronto.

That's the word from Town Hall where license fees have been due since Apr. 1 and all but a few of the 1300 dogs have been registered. If you've had a visit from the police, the next step is court--and a $15 fine.

One added note: all dogs three months or older must be registered. A word to the wise.

Venice Biennale Winners on View At Boston

Ten days after the closing of the Adriatic Sea, a sampling of last summer's Venice Biennale comes to Lincoln this week. Seventeen prize-winning artists from six countries -- France, Greece, Italy, Poland, Spain and the United States -- are represented in the exhibition, "Venice Biennale Prize-Winners, 1960" which opened at the DeCordova Museum on Sunday and closes Aug. 13. The exhibit was organized by the American Federation of Arts and is presented under the auspices of the Italian Cultural Institute.

This show is described by the museum director Frederick Walkey as "the European counterpart of the Patrick McGinnis exhibition (shown at the museum last fall) . . . one of the most provocative and at the same time most important exhibitions of modern art this year."

The Venice Biennale is the world's largest art exhibition. Initiated in 1895 by the playwright Riccardo Selvatico and a group of artists, the exhibition is held every other summer in a public garden on the Adriatic. Until 1929 it was sponsored by the City of Venice, but now the Biennale functions as an autonomous organization, perenially engaged in planning and preparing this most important of all international exhibits.

The executive committee of the 30th Biennale in 1960 expressly requested "that the participating nations focus their selection on avant-garde works."

Wayland Youth Heads ROTC Unit

FORT DEVENS -- Cadet John L. McEwan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon N. McEwan of Hayward rd., Wayland has been appointed cadet company commander of Company "B" at the Reserve Officers Training Corps Camp here.

In his assignment as cadet company commander, he was in command of approximately 136 college and university ROTC students at their morning and evening formations, weekend parades, and on marches to and from training areas.

Cadet McEwan was selected for this position as a result of his outstanding performance as a student of military science.

Cadet McEwan is a graduate of Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt. where he majored in economics. While at Middlebury he was a member of the varsity soccer and track teams and a member of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity. Upon successful completion of summer camp Cadet McEwan will be commissioned a 2d Lieutenant in the United States Army Reserve.

Your Child Can Learn to Swim Free – at Wayland Town Beach

WAYLAND -- Free Red Cross swimming lessons are in full swing at the Wayland Town Beach.

All of the standard Red Cross courses are offered and approximately 1000 children and adults are expected to learn water safety this summer.

The classes are full; however, after the week of July 4th when vacations usually begin, more children may be added to the classes. The Red Cross cannot afford to over crowd the classes especially in open water.

Of special interest to people is the new Advanced Beginners course.

One of the required skills in this course is to be able to jump off the end of the pier in a life jacket.

Many people drown every year while wearing life jackets because they do not know how to stay afloat in one by keeping the proper body position, for example.

With boating becoming so popular the American Red Cross recognized the need for such a skill.

Woody Hoblitzell Victor in N.E. Doubles Play

WESTON -- Woody Hoblitzell of 81 Woodchester dr. recently won the New England 13 and under doubles championships at Wellesley College.

His partner was Michel Scheinmann of Paris, now residing in New Bedford. In the finals they defeated Eliot Berry of New York City and Norman Holmes of Melbourne, Fla. 6 - 1, 6 - 3.

Woody, since returning from Palm Springs, Cal., has been a finalist in the Eastern Massachusetts and the Southern New England Invitational Singles, a semi-finalist in the New England Singles and recent singles winner of the Greater Boston Junior Chamber of Commerce 18 and under championships.

Both he and his partner are undefeated in New England doubles play. He has been chosen by the New England Lawn Tennis Assn. to represent it in the National 13-and-under championships at Chattanoga, Tenn.

TENNIS WINNER -- Woody Hoblitzell (right) of Weston and his partner, Michael Scheinmann, formerly of Paris, won the N. E. 13 and Under Doubles Championships. With them, W. W. Hoblitzell 3d.

Wayland Richer

WAYLAND -- This town is $10,318 richer today -- the result of a check from the Federal government covering assistance for schools in Federally-affected areas.

In plain words, Uncle Sam is paying in part for the schooling of about 100 students whose parents work on Federal property and live in Wayland. The funds cover the 1960-61 year.

'Kismet': Harem Hokum; All's Fair at Carousel

BY ANNE HOCKING

All's fair in love, war and anything on the stage with an Arabian Night motif. If you have any doubts see KISMET which opened Monday evening at the Carousel in Framingham.

Adapted from Edward Knoblock's play of the same name by Charles Lederer and Luther Davis and set to Alexander Borodin's music by Robert Wright with lyrics by George Forrest, it might seem as though there were a few too many cooks for the broth -- yet, no spoil. The reason being that when you're in the Orient there's so much room, creative room, to move around in.

Along with the Oriental flavor, Carousel also offers us a number of talented performers to do the actual moving. Howard Keel for one. There are few who can match Mr. Keel in vocal virility. Physically he's no slouch either.

Virginia Martin and Beverly Allyson together balanced the scales on the feminine side. At the same time they managed to grace each other with contrast. I doubt if Virginia can boast of any horizontal dimension exceeding 30" (a bean of a woman), yet she can exude as much voluptuousness as I'd care to see in mixed company. Never mind the voice.

Miss Allyson was all purity with a nice supporting ability to sing. She and Lester James collaborating on "Stranger in Paradise" made you wish that every other number at least was "Stranger in Paradise". It almost was.

It is a tribute to the visual aspect of KISMET that it stood up so well under the adverse atmospheric conditions Monday night. Intermittent rain, occasional peals of thunder and a generally saturated atmosphere under the tent lost to this reviewer much of the story's continuity and all flashes of humor.

But thanks to David Tihmar's direction and superb choreography the eye was ever delighted even when the ear gave out.

If you entertain a weakness for Americanized harem dance hokum, as I do, it would be worth your while to go to KISMET for this alone and pay homage to Eugenie Hunt, Tina Ramirez, Zebra Nevin and Beatrice Kraft.

Can they dance! Just don't worry too much about the ethnology of their numbers. Anything goes.

Even if you suspect more than a shade of the American Indian influence beating about -- well, what's wrong with the American Indian?

Blue Laws

Mr. Cincotta, of the Red Coach Farm Market, Rte. 20, Wayland, was scheduled to appear in court on July 7, not because he refused to close on Sundays, but because he sold watermelons instead of strawberries.

The reason? His strawberries are home-grown, while his watermelons are not.

Mr. Cincotta has stated that until the present confusion over the laws is clarified, he will be open on Sundays and selling all of his products.

Wayland Police Chief Ernest Damon feels that "although the Blue Laws, which were fine in the horse-and-buggy days, have outlasted their original purpose, they are still laws and will be strictly enforced until repealed."

This is only as it should be, and yet this enforcement has caused protest because officials in other towns have chosen to disregard the Sunday rulings.

"Forty years ago", relates one Wayland shopkeeper, "these same Blue Laws were in action, but at that time, everything was closed - hotels, package stores, fruit stands, car-washes, etc. We didn't care for the laws, but at least enforcement was uniform. As the situation stands now, your store may be forced to close, while your competitor up the street is allowed to continue his business. This is just not fair."

What is to be done about a situation which is, indeed, "just not fair"?

OPEN PROTEST
BY PUBLIC - ONLY WAY?

While the merchants, police, and townspeople seem to be unanimous in their belief that the Blue Laws should not be allowed to slide by continuing to issue "special licenses" or by ignoring the rulings, and they all feel that the laws must be repealed, opinions differ as to the best method of ending the Sunday blues.

Mr. Cincotta believes that open protest by the public is the only way to hasten action.

Mr. Rousseau, proprietor of Al's Variety Store" on West Plain st., Cochituate, tends to agree, but acknowledges the sad truth that "most merchants cannot afford the court costs of remaining open."

The Foote brothers, Earl and Harold, co-operators of Foote Brother's grocery in Weston, however, feel that open protest would impede rather than hasten the repealment of the law.

Said Harold Foote; "We've been here 12 years, and no one has ever bothered us about the Blue Laws. The situation is inconvenient now, but I think most people realize how useless the laws are, and they'll be quickly repealed."

Chief Damon explained that many Blue Laws -- such as those prohibiting football and baseball games, and the operation of amusement parks and concessions -- were repealed some time ago because there was literally no opposition. Evidently, no one was against such "harmless amusements."

YOU CAN ALWAYS GO TO FENWAY PARK

There is, however, active and formidable opposition to the repeal of Blue Laws concerning the closing of business establishments on Sunday. This opposition comes from the state Federation of Women's Clubs, the clergy, and the Lord's Day League.

In spite of their feeling that people should not disrupt the peaceful quiet of Sunday by purchasing bread and meat, the public opinion seems to be that once the Blue Laws are again placed before the legislature, they will be abolished with ease.

Meanwhile, food must be bought on Saturday and laundry done on Monday, and grocers, house-painters, etc. are advised to pack up their families in their unwashed cars and head for Fenway Park.

In 1907, the Wayland tax rate was $16.60.

In the year 1898, in Wayland, there were 42 births, 27 marriages and 32 deaths.

Dudley Pond

missing child who turns up," says Chief Hartin, "than to show up too late to do good.

"Being on hand when the person is taken from the water can make the difference."

Town Sanitary Engineer Thomas Renaldo reported that Dudley Pond is "acceptable" as to bacteria count in five locations:

Beechwood Point, Lakeshore dr., opposite Beechwood Point, area near MDC aqueduct outlet, Mansion rd. beach and the cove near Curtiss rd.

Town officials have received word from Wilton Vaugh that, pending approval of certain regulations proposed by the town, the state will permit local police to carry out certain provisions in the state law, which now governs the pond.

These would include control over those making noise, creating a nuisance and presumably speeders.

Speeding, a growing menace there, provides a problem for police. They have no boat. But then, that's Dudley Pond and it's problems.

But You Can Beat Blue Laws — So Where Does That Leave Us?

To the Editor:

The sudden passion for law enforcement in the field of Sunday Blue Laws raises the question as to the political motives behind the move.

After all, these same laws were on the books last year and all the long years back to the witch-hunting days.

There had grown up a tolerant attitude toward some practices not wholly within the law.

And those who shout loudest about enforcing any law "on the books" still have plenty of fields that have not been cultivated for a while.

There still is no real awareness of what the U. S. Supreme Court said. It said that this is no longer a religious law but a secular law for a needed day of rest and devotion to the family.

In Massachusetts the law is strictly a religious law and is steeped in religious politics.

HOW TO GET AROUND LAW

We have, I expect, as much morality amongst farm people as may be found anywhere. Yet we can hardly reconcile the things that are permitted with the practices that are taboo.

There is one system of getting around the law - the permit system. It is hardly uniform, and not at all acceptable.

We believe that no one can legislate morality. We also believe that the Legislature must stand up and be counted. The economic consequences of this unusual and curious zeal to enforce one law spectacularly is not appreciated.

It is time for legislative action now.

It has already opened the eyes of a multitude of people who are asking the same question we are asking -- who is behind the stubborn refusal to modernize these laws?

There is no general desire to run factories, open department stores, or force the laborer to work seven days a week.

It takes no special skill to draft reasonable legislation. It does not even require a battery of professors or sociologists. Plain Yankee sense recognizes that you can't treat the seasonal the same as the regular, continuing service.

Right now the Blue Law enforcement is tough on resort areas and a major annoyance to farming. But we have a harvest coming up with rain, wind, hurricane season, and imminent frosts to compete with.

Blue law enforcers or permits depending on whim, favoritism or stubborn conviction cease to be just annoying and can become downright disastrous.

Wayland Man Heads Management Seminar in N.Y.

NEEDHAM -- David C. Gabriel of 110 Concord Rd., Wayland has been appointed chairman of the American Management Assn's. 1961 seminar which studied the use of electronic data processing in personnel administration.

Mr. Gabriel is manager of personnel for the Data Systems Operations of Sylvania Electric Products Inc., located in the New England Industrial Center, Needham.

The Data Systems Operations is engaged in the design, development, and fabrication of large-scale general and special purpose electronic data processing systems.

The seminar, held in New York City on June 5 - 7, was attended by personnel executives from a wide variety of industries throughout the United States and Canada.

In addition to the American Management Assn., Mr. Gabriel is a member of the Research Institute of America, the Electronics Personnel Assn., and the Boston Survey Group. He is cubmaster of Wayland's Cub Scout Pack 51.

GRADUATE of Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, is Mrs. Carolyn Goetz Lindberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy E. Goetz of 14 Lincoln dr., Wayland, who received her A.B. in economics. A graduate of Cambridge School in Weston, Mrs. Lindberg has worked with the National Opinion Research Center in Princeton, the Harvard School of Public Health and studied in Mexico as part of Antioch's work-and-study program. She has a fellowship for further study in Latin American studies at the University of New Mexico. She is married to Richard Lindberg of Sycamore, Ill., who also received his bachelor's degree from Antioch in June.

ANTIOCH GRADUATE -- Jeffrey Robbins, son of Mr. James Robbins of 38 Highland st., Weston, received his A.B. degree in secondary education from Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, recently. Mr. Robbins' work-and-study program included work with Kiplinger's Washington agency, City Planning Commission in Cleveland and Laboratory for Electronics in Boston among others. A graduate of Weston High School, Mr. Robbins is married to the former Diana Brill of Bala Cynwyd, Pa.

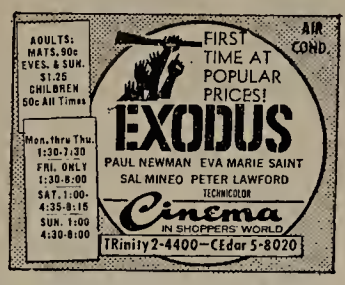
3 Injured In Weston Crash

WESTON--Three persons were injured in a two-car crash on Church st., about 50 yards from the intersection of Church st. and Conant rd. last Saturday about 1:15 p.m.

Police said that Frank B. Riley, 70 of 1495 Concord rd., Framingham, driver of one car, was treated at the Waltham Hospital for a fractured collar bone, sprained left shoulder and arm.

John Cardillo, 13, son of Mrs. Rose Cardillo, 33, of 41 Hammond st., Waltham, driver of the other car, was treated at the hospital for contusions of the lower rib cage. His mother was also treated at the hospital for injuries.



Marie E. Sautter of 33 Paragon rd., West Roxbury, was treated for injuries to the nose and right leg at Newton-Wellesley Hospital Monday as the result of a rear-end collision between Mrs. Sautter's car and one driven by Edith Caverly of 10 Wyman ct., Winchester, about 2:40 p.m. The accident occured on Rte. 128, just north of the Massachusetts Turnpike entrance ramp.

In storing baled hay, any damp or "heavy" bales should be set aside. To cover them with other bales may cause dangerous heating to develop.

The 4th on Kendal Common: Independence & Watermelons

WESTON -- Fourth of July is celebrated in many ways. Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grant and of Mr. Everett Grand gathered at Kendal Common for a lawn party.

Highlight of the party was the reading of the Declaration of Independence by four of the young people Martha and Cello Castillo, Erika Saunders and Victor Capoccio, attentively listened to by the group of adults and more than forty children. The Star Spangled Banner and God Save the Queen were sung.

In the picture Victor Capoccio begins his part of the reading. By him is Caroline Giuld of Kendal Common rd., (holding flag) and Ruth Whitman formerly of Manchester, England whose family are now in the United States and living temporarily on Ellis rd.

Refreshments: a wheelbarrow of watermelon.

Allen Benjamin In Nicaragua

WAYLAND -- Allen Benjamin leaves tomorrow for Managusa, Nicaragua, on a two-month assignment with the National Office of Urbanism of Nicaragua to study recent changes in the capital city and to recommend revisions in the zoning plan.

Mr. Benjamin is on loan to the local government by the International Corporation Administration's Point 4 program of technical aid to Latin America. Last winter, Mr. Benjamin had another assignment under this program, in Costa Rica.

Mrs. Benjamin and children (John, Martin and Jane) will join Mr. Benjamin in Managua in early August. They will stop in El Salvador en route to take in the annual fiestas and also spend a week visiting friends in Costa Rica.

Weston Observatory Aids U.S. Outer Space Race

BY ROBERT A. WILKIN

WESTON -- You may never have realized this but the quiet, tucked-away-in-the-hills Weston Observatory is reaching into outer space for Uncle Sam.

It's one of the most recent developments of the long-time job undertaken at the observatory on Concord rd.--namely, probing into the cause of storms from outer space that raise havoc with our television and other forms of electronic communication.

For most persons, perhaps, the delving into earthquakes is the big job at the observatory. Well, it is.

Fr. Daniel Linnehan is now away in the Far East helping some of the quake-plagued nations learn how to deal with this costly phenomenon.

Actually, the work of the observatory takes it deep into the earth--and now, far out into space.

As a matter of fact, the observatory has helped on such every-day matters as finding water for the Town of Weston...through its underground probings.

A continuously moving graph designates the magnitude of the earthquakes and one of the women members of the staff, Mrs. Rita Comeau, operates a series of computing machines that log the information--making the data available in hours instead of the days it took formerly.

In its newer ventures, the observatory conducts experiments designed to measure the magnetic force of the earth.

200-Car Parking Lot in Center Proposed by Wayland Selectmen

WAYLAND--A peek into the future of Wayland Center: a municipal parking lot caring for 200 cars in the area of the B & M station.

That's the move initiated Monday night by the Board of Selectmen who voted the Town Council Frank Kilburn do a title search and George Robinson make an appraisal of the land involved.

And the land involved: the present B & M station site, together with a triangular piece of the Lovell property and an adjacent area owned by Raytheon Co.

Also in view, according to Selectman Frank Tarr: use of the decaying railroad station as a town building--after repairs.

In this connection: Selectman George Lewis said the condemnation committee had condemned this station on "about 10 counts" last week and ordered that it be torn down or improved.

It was declared structurally unsound and lacking in adequate toilet and wiring among other things, according to Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Tarr pointed out that a sizeable municipal parking lot near the B & M tracks would ease parking in the center and look to the future business development in the center.

Mr. Lewis said that if the station building were brought up to snuff, it could provide a building for use of civic organizations.

On the parking question--the board directed Chairman Thomas F. Linnehan to have parking signs on Pelham Island rd., in the center changed from 15-minute limits to one hour.

A recent test made by the board's order made this short stretch of road open to two-way traffic and imposed a 15-minute parking limit.

A beer and wine license requested by Joseph DeBiarsi doing business as Collins Market, Wayland Center, was turned down.

This is the second time in a year that Mr. DiBiarsi of Tremont st., Newton, has been turned down.

The selectmen also voted to instruct Chief Ernest Damon to paint white lines in the town roads forwith.

Mr. Tarr stated: "I can't see why these lines are always painted in the fall after the heavy travel season is over. We owe it to the motoring public to give them clear lines now."

Wayland Selectman Chairman Awarded Town Oil Contract

WAYLAND--Wayland Oil Co., owned by Chairman Thomas F. Linnehan of the Board of Selectmen, was awarded a town fuel oil contract on which it was the lowest of three bidders.

The award, made Monday by the board with Mr. Linnehan absenting himself during the discussion, involved two votes to avoid conflict with the town's conflict of interest by law.

----The town bylaws prohibit any town officer from doing business with the town--unless the selectmen vote an exception..

Selectmen George Lewis and Frank Tarr voted such an exception upon the request of Mr. Linnehan. This enabled him to appear as a bidder.

They then voted to award the contract to Wayland Oil Co. after determining that its bid was $6.70 lower than Coan Bros. of Natick, next lowest bidder.

The figures were $4143 for Wayland Oil and $4149.70 for Coan Bros.

Such a small margin is not unusual. The difference in this case was Wayland Oil's $80 service charge, compared with $100 for Coan.

Mr. Tarr and Mr. Lewis took a preliminary vote awarding the contract to Wayland Oil, pending a reading of the conflict of interest law which Mr. Tarr cited but which Mr. Lewis had not read.

Mr. Lewis requested an examination of the conflict of interest law before making the award final.

Both he and Mr. Tarr looked over the bylaw after the meeting

Hit-Run Crash on Concord Rd. Injures One; Serviceman Held

WAYLAND--A serviceman stationed at the Lincoln Nike site was booked in Framingham District Court Tuesday as the aftermath of a hit-and-run accident on Concord rd., Wayland, in which one man was injured.

Carl C. Thompson, 19, arraigned in Framingham District Court Tuesday, pleaded not guilty to charges of leaving the scene, driving under the influence, driving to endanger, causing bodily injury and property damage.

His case was continued until Saturday.

Injured in the two-car collision at the corner of Plain rd. and Concord rd. about 8:23 p.m. Monday was Dixon W. Colley, 58, of 239 Ayer rd., Littleton.

Officer Thomas Murray, investigating the accident, arrested Thompson after Officer John Phylis had picked Thompson up in a private garage not far from the scene.

Police said Thompson was found by a nearby resident in his car and that he reported he had been struck by a hit-and-run motorist.

Police said Mr. Colley reported that he was proceeding north on Concord rd. when another car struck his car on the left side and left the scene.

Arnold Bradley of 2 Plain rd., who described the crash as "tremendous", took Mr. Colley to his home in Littleton and on Tuesday Mr. Colley was admitted to the Ayer Hospital with injuries to his left elbow and body.

Officer John Brady assisted Officers Murray and Phylis in the investigation.

Officer Outsprints, Captures Escapee

WESTON--A Lyman School escapee who'd hidden out for two nights and two days in the woods was captured Monday noon by Officer John Clark who proved he could outrun a youngster on the lam.

Officer Clark tried to have a word with a lonely hiker on Boston Post rd. only to find he had to take off into the woods for a quiet word with Robert F. Kelly of 63 Russel st., Worcester.

Turned out that Kelly had escaped Saturday from the Lyman School and had it in mind to keep right on going until he lost the sprint with Officer Clark. Now he's changed his mind but not his location: he's right back at Lyman.

Mainstone Farm Reorganizes

Now It's Night Baseball For Wayco Leaguers

WAYLAND--Now it's come to night games for the four teams of the Wayco League. The first will be held tomorrow night at 8:15 at the Cochituate field--and the second next Friday, same time and place.

July is the four-team month for the youngsters who play in this small fry league. Ball-playing picks up and the eye is on the All-Star team which will be chosen next month to play teams from surrounding towns.

Nearly 400 youngsters took part in the opening phases of this unique Wayland league.

The difference here: eight and nine-year-olds did not mix with the 12-year olds on the same teams or league.

Why not ? After all, the Little League does this--and Wayco follows the Little League in most things?

The reason is most beginners (age 8 and 9) don't have the ability and knowhow to stand up against the 12's who are beginning to acquire some of the skill that will make them high school atheletes.

"Some 12-year-olds can really burn them in there," says Will S. Brown 2d, manager of the Wayland Dodgers. "And what chance does a beginner have against that?

Mrs. John Arnold, Active in Scouts, Is Dead at 49

WAYLAND -- Mrs. Shirley (Gibbs) Arnold, 49, wife of School Committeeman John W. Arnold, died early last Saturday at the Massachusetts Osteopathic Hospital, Boston, after a short illness.

A native of Newton, she was born July 4, 1912, the daughter of James F. and Marion R. Gibbs. She had lived in Wayland for the past 10 years.

She was a member of the Cochituate Mothers' Club, the Wayland High School PTA and was active in the Girl Scouts for many years.

Besides her husband with whom she lived at 169 West Plain st., she leaves a son, Alan, a senior in Wayland High, and a daughter Miss Judith Arnold, a sophomore at the University of Michigan.

Services were held Monday at the Cochituate Community Methodist Church.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

You Haven't Seen Bad Roads -- Really

When we were visiting in West Virginia some years ago, where my sister was a county home demonstration agent, the County Agricultural Agent invited me to ride with him on a day of farm visits.

West Virginia is all hills and valleys, with a stream in each valley. Often the country roads are plain rough dirt, not even gravelled.

His car was a jeep and I soon found out why. Not only were the roads rough, but on some such roads, when we came to a stream, there would be no bridge. Our jeep would just splash across the ford.

In fact, on one visit, the county agent left the traveled way altogether and drove right up the stream bed to an outlying farm: there was no road.

Yet West Virginia has been settled for a century and a half!

Jane Warman Bride Of Melvyn Roy Drew

WESTON--Miss Jane Elizabeth Warman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Warman of Danvers was married recently to Melvyn Roy Drew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Drew of Weston.

The ceremony was performed in the Maple Street Congregational Church by L. Byron Whipple. A reception was held at the Masonic Temple in Danvers.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a floor length gown of white silk organza appliqued with garlands of roses. She carried a boquet of white roses and stephanotis with ivy.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. Judith Perkins of Andover, sister of the bride, who wore a deep shade of blue organza and carried a boquet of white roses, white carnations and blue marguerites.

The bridesmaids, Miss Jane Drew of Weston, Miss Tina Moustakis, Miss Jeanne Spakas, Miss Roberta Tomer of Danvers wore dresses of pale blue organza and carried boquets of white roses, white carnations and blue bachelor's buttons.

Leonard Drew of Weston, served as his brother's best man. The ushers were Douglas Perkins, Wesley McAnulty, Frank Thistle, and Paul Lessard.

Miss Jane McCarty, cousin of the bride had charge of the guest book.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Warman wore a sheath of blue lace with a matching hat. Mrs. Drew wore a rose silk dress with matching hat. Both mothers wore white baby orchid corsages.

The bride is a graduate of Holten High and Tilton School in New Hampshire.

After a wedding trip to Montreal and Quebec the couple will live at 129 Dudley rd., Wayland.

The scholorship provides for full-time graduate study in the field of public health. Candidates must be registered nurses and training provided by the Christmas Seal scholorship must be undertaken only in approved institutions.

Miss Jeanette Plourde of Arlington, currently studying at Simmons' College, Boston, was the recipient of the award last year.

Applications may be obtained by writing or calling the Middlesex Tuberculosis and Health Assoc., 35 Winn st., Burlington. Deadline for receipt of all applications: Midnight, July 31, 1961.

Power Failure Hits Wayland

WAYLAND--Much of the center of Wayland was out of power for up to four hours Sunday as the result of a power failure believed caused by Saturday's storm.

An Edison spokesman said a regulator (used to regulate loads in a given area) had burned out on Cochituate rd. near the Sandy Burr Country Club.

Temporary repairs brought service back for most of the area by early afternoon and replacement of the regulator was completed Monday night. Emergency generators kept the electric power on at the town office building where the police and fire headquarters are located.

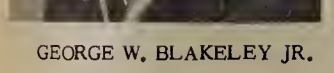
Something About Birds

Long-Eared Owl Seen in Weston; Goldfinches Just Now Nesting

WESTON -- The two owls regularly seen or heard in Weston are the screech Owl and the Great Horned Owl. Both have ear tufts (not really ears -- just feathers). There is another owl with "ears" -- the long-eared -- for which there are only two Weston records: Dec. 23, 1919 (Warren F. Eaton), and Apr. 14, 1958, I found dead (Martha C. Mills).



Now there is a third record, as on the morning of July 8, David MacLeod, Warren av., saw an owl on the ground near his home and was able to catch it. It was identified by C. E. Smith as an immature long-eared owl. David planned to release the bird that night, but it died in the early evening. Apparently it was sick or injured to allow itself to be caught so easily.

Without doubt it was raised nearby as it was in fluffy juvenile plumage and could not have been long on the wing. These owls nest in thick evergreen woods, and there are such areas of white pine in the Jericho Town Forest. In the official Massachusetts bird list, this owl is called "a rare and local resident," so a breeding record for Weston is most interesting.

Bird song is diminishing now and young birds are becoming more evident every day. Woodpeckers, nuthatches, rose-breasted grosbeaks, towhees, catbirds, orioles and many others have full-grown young. The only birds which are just starting to nest are the goldfinches -- always late nesters.

Many people were concerned last summer about the low numbers of robins, so it is good to see them this year, in Weston at least, back to just about normal.

On the morning of July 11, after the thunderstorms of the previous day brought much cooler weather and a northwest wind, a Nashville warbler was heard singing briefly (C. E. Smith). This could very well be a first sign of southward migration, as some warblers start on their way about the middle of July.

GEORGE W. BLAKELEY JR.

Blakeley Elected Pennsalt Board

WESTON -- Gerald W. Blakeley Jr., president of Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Company, has been elected to the board of directors, Pennsalt Chemicals corp.

Blakeley is also president and director of Laguna Niguel Corp., a director of Aberthaw Construction Co., Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Co., Textron Electronics, Inc. and a trustee of Suffolk Franklin Savings Bank.

Included among his many other civic, philanthropic and educational responsibilities are: president, Board of Overseers, Boys Clubs of Boston, Inc.; member of the executive committee and director, Committee on Civic Progress (Boston); vice-president, Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce; trustee, joint council on economic education; vice president of the executive committee of the board of trustees, Museum of Science; director, New England Council.

Blakeley resides with his wife, the former Ann Whitcomb of Worcester, and their four sons in Weston. He served with the Navy in the Caribbean and Pacific Theaters during World War II.

Protect Your Cat, Disease on Rise

BOSTON -- A virus disease, sometimes called cat distemper has again made its annual appearance in the New England area, according to Dr. Jean Holzworth, head of the Cat Clinic at the M.S.P.C.A's Angeli MemoriaiAnimal Hospital.

The disease may affect cats of any age, but is most serious in kittens and cats up to two years of age. It manifests itself by vomiting, unwillingness to eat and high fever.

Local Boys Attend North Woods Camp

Thirteen boys from Weston and Wayland are among those currently enrolled at North Woods Camp on the easterly shore of Lake Winnipesaukee, just above Wolfeboro, N. H.

Local North Woods campers include:

Tad Barrett, Steven Covington, Edward H. Gibson, Stephen H. Goodhue, Steven D. Hocking, Stephen P. Johnston, Timothy G. Kingsbury, Charles and David Morgan, Brian W. Sibley and Harvey P. Turner of Wayland. Bruce A. Stoffel and Frank A. Vaughan of Weston.

Now in its 33d year, North Woods is conducted by the Youth Division of the Boston Y.M.C.A.

Currently, Mr. Allen Morgan of Wayland serves on the nine-member North Woods Camp Committee which has general responsibility for camp policy matters.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Cowbirds Lazy Mothers, Let Babysitters Do It

The other morning I watched a male yellow throat warbler, babysitting for a young cowbird. This big fat baby sat around the edge of the lawn while the foster parent, a full grown warbler, worked his feathers off gathering insects and feeding them to his young charge.

They tell me that the mother cowbird is pretty lazy herself, and rather than build a nest of her own, will lay her eggs in other birds nests. Probably this young cowbird was hatched in the warbler's nest by the mother warbler and the father warbler still felt pretty responsible.

The eastern cowbird is about seven or eight inches long and has rather heavy bill similar to the goldfinch. The male is black with a brown head, and the female is just plain grey. The young cowbird I saw was a pretty light gray and had some streaks on its chest.

There are lots of American bitterns in the marsh. They move in about sundown and spend the night there. Broods of black ducks are flying now, and there are a few wood ducks and bluewing teal trading between the potholes, but they are impossible to see until they fly as the reeds are too high.

Marsh wrens are chattering along the edge of the channel and hundreds of tree swallows come out in the evening to feed on hatches of insects near the water.

The river is high so we really don't get a chance to view the many shore birds that usually are feeding on the mudbanks at this time of year.

Mosquitoes are almost nonexistent on the river, even though they do not spray the marsh by airplane. I guess the fish eat up most of the larvae.

Fishing in the Sudbury River has been poor this year, but there have been some good catches of bullheads. These are ugly looking fish, but their pink meat is right next to the trout in delicacy.

Soprano Scratches Finish Of First American Festival

BY FRANCIS J. HARTIN JR.

CAMBRIDGE -- It is unfortunate that the American Festival couldn't match their good orchestra and production with an adequate soprano in Benjamin Britten's Turn of the Screw.

Patrica Neway, singing the governess, produced far too many rasping and throaty tones for a mere "bad night." Ruth Kobart, in contrast, playing a less important role, sang strong, clear, beautiful notes.

The action centered around two children, Jeffrey Meyer and Michele Farr. Ghosts of a former valet and governess attempted to draw the children from their present governess.

In the aria "Malo" the boy shows his possession by the spirit of the valet. This little aria returns at the end, an anticlimax when sung by the governess who has sought to expel the evil throughout the opera.

The music, though undeniably Britten's, bears certain vocal resemblences to Menotti, especially at the beginning, but as tension increased the resemblance ceased. The orchestration was light. Solo oboe and snare drum were employed extensively for other worldliness and tension.

The sets were on stage continuously, reveald by drawing away a part of the house, painted on curtains. A gray, streaky curtain was drawn in front of the sets when a heath was desired.

The opera should not carry all the psychological implications of the James novel, as some critics ask. The opera must be taken as a separate work.

As such the plot and the theme were worked out not in a literary but in an effective musical way.

Help Wanted

BURLINGTON -- Frederick Y. Briscoe of Sudbury, newly-elected president of the board of directors, Middlesex Tuberculosis and Health Assn. announced recently the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has certified a name change for the Middlesex Christman Seal organization.

Formerly known as the Middlesex Health Association the new title incorporates the word tuberculosis in its name: Middiesex Tuberculosis and Health Assn.

The state certification was signed by Kevin H. White, secretary of the Commonwealth.

The Middlesex TB and Health Assn. -- commonly called the TB Christmas Seal organization -- has its offices on Winn st. in Burlington.

The local association depends on volunteer services to assist in its year-round program of fighting tuberculosis and respiratory disease. Volunteer workers are needed constantly for clerical duties. Call Burlington, BRowning 2-2866 for further information.

Season for Board-Watchers

Always room for one more . . . and one more after that. And let's not stop -- still another, too.

We're thinking primarily of the action taken by the Wayland League of Women Voters to sit-in on town government, see how it works and pass the word to others.

They're the latest to join a growing throng of watchers in suburbia. Board-watchers, we might call them, if we weren't afraid of puns. But board-watchers are nothing to laugh at. As the cost of living goes up, that includes the cost of government. No one believes in playing pinch-penny but you can't afford these days to be other than . . . watchful.

Formal organizations, like the League, are putting on their collective prince-nez for a closer look. We have the civic associations in Wayland and Weston. We also have the Committee of 14 in Wayland. All of them are curious, just as a matter of policy.

But when we say there's room for more . . . and more . . . and more, we're also thinking of the private citizen. There's room for him in good government.

More of us ought to get out nights to watch our government function. Watching is more than snooping. It's learning. The more we can learn, the better off we're going to feel about local government.

And the best of us, trying hard every day, can always stand a kibitzer at our elbow. We try just a bit harder -- and if Weston and Wayland officials do that, we're all the winners.

See you out there, board-watching.

Need We Be Powerless?

Now that Dudley Pond is pretty safe, in parts, of any germicidal dangers, we wonder if anyone will remember there are other dangers--from swimming on an unprotected beach.

When firemen and lifeguards team up to make your family safe, it would seem unwise to court danger, swimming where no one is watching over them.

No matter if it is closer to home.

Finding Dudley clean enough for swimming in spots only reminds us that there are other problems there. Namely, protection from speedboats.

On this score, the pond is still murky. Until the new power boat division was created at the state level, the towns had some control over ponds like Dudley. Now it's all state-controlled.

Of course, town police can step in to enforce state laws--and town laws, too, if the state approves of those submitted by our selectmen recently--but the question is:

How can Wayland police keep law and order on Dudley pond without a boat capable of cutting off those speedsters who've been making the pond an unauthorized nautical playground?

It seems to us, in all seriousness, that here's an opportunity for some civic-minded groups to raise money for a police power boat and donate it to the town.

Maybe to some this would seem outrageous or ridiculous to put the town in the boat business.

Not so. With power boats taking over the waterways and leaving us powerless to regulate them with our present facilities, we are faced with keeping up with the times.

What's the alternative?

We Hope You Noticed

We hope you noticed something good in The Town Crier last week. We're thinking about one of our volunteer authors, Miss Phyllis Weaver of Stonebridge rd.

On her own, Miss Weaver sought out the shopkeepers and citizens of Wayland in her spare hours from her job at Dennison Mfg. Co. and got the lowdown on the lowdown Blue Laws.

The Town Crier thought her efforts merited attention. She seemed clear, concise . . . and witty. We like that. We hope you do. And we hope Miss Weaver will continue to keep a bright eye open on the local scene.

Why Old Conn. Path Walks Looked Like That–Temporary

To the Editor:

It seems appropriate to point out a few facts concerning the sidewalk along Old. Connecticut Path.

Last summer during the first phase of the sidewalk construction from Maiden Lane to the High School it was necessary to place fills over a trench for a new drainage line and along the edge of the existing berm slopes on soft material.

The confined space in which the fills were placed did not permit the use of any rollers or other compaction equipment. As a result considerable settlement was anticipated during the following winter and spring. Accordingly the highway superintendent recommended a rather unusual sequence of construction which the Road Commissioners heartily endorsed as most appropriate under the circumstances mentioned above.

A pea stone surface which would not be damaged by settlements was placed on the fresh fills. This summer the pea stone will be leveled and paved with bituminous concrete. The highway department's consulting engineers are presently finalizing plans and specifications for this work and extension of the sidewalks towards Davelin rd. The contract will be advertized shortly and the sidewalk should be completed by school opening date.

This program was adopted since the road commissioners felt that it would have been a gross and negligent waste of tax dollars to place a pavement on a fill that would be subject to settlements of a magnitude that could necessitate immediate patching or replacement of the pavement.

Two additional facts may also interest your readers.

Considerable mileage of pea stone walks are built within the commonwealth annually.

All GOOD sidewalk plows are equipped with shoes or skids that permit plowing over any surface without digging it up.

Very truly yours
CHARLES H. PETERS, P.E. E/L.S.
Chairman, Wayland Board of Road Commissioners

Letters to the EDITOR

Impure Remarks On Dudley?

To the Editor:

Your account of the examination of Dudley Pond for "purity"-or for lack of pollution-gives a different impression than was actually in the report submitted by Mr. Rinaldo. Here is Mr. Rinaldo's interpretation of the tests made:

"The results of the laboratory examination indicate that the water is of acceptable bacteriological quality in all the locations noted above at this time, in accordance with the recommendations of the American Public Health Assn. for a natural outdoor bathing area."

This speaks for itself. Is the water in Lake Cochituate this pure? Is the cost of the paper used in the Town Crier so expensive that you could not use this paragraph? Or is it the Policy of the Town Crier to continually bludgeon the people of the Dudley Pond area into believing that they live in the slums?

You say, in effect, "Let us take care of you." Your paternalistic attitude is not wanted; it is resented.

No body of water is "safe" either for small children unless watched every second by adults, or for people of age who abuse it; the lifeguards may prevent horseplay at the Town Beach, but it would be impossible for them to keep an eye on every child when the beach is crowded. Mothers can easily watch their little ones here at the much-maligned Dudley Pond.

Sincerely,
CLIFFORD A. GOODNOH
5 Crest rd.
Cochituate

Ed. Note--Never, never had it in mind to malign a charming pond. We'd have nothing against our children swimming there, too... at our own risk. But that was just our point...our only point: The risk. This is not our concern alone but that of town officials, too, who can't police everything.

But really--couldn't you have found a nice thing to say about our concern over the speedboat problem you also are concerned about?

There Are Worse Roads

Here in New England we often fail to appreciate our blessings.

We are so used to well-crowned surfaces even on the back roads in Vermont, to stout culverts and sound bridges on even the most inconsequential highways, that we have almost forgotten that there was a time when there were none of these amenities, when our people here had only mud and rocks and fords and ferries.

Before the whites arrived, every Indian path was routed to avoid crossing the larger rivers except where they ran shallow, and to keep away from marshy stretches where possible.

For example, the great path from the Connecticut Valley to Boston Bay branched when it reached the Charles and the Sudbury valleys.

One path led east on the south side of the Charles. The other forded the Sudbury where it was shallow, at Framingham, and came east to the north of the Charles through Weston and Watertown.

The early whites followed the Indian routes.

But even such smaller streams as Stony Brook and Beaver Brook, would be almost impossible to cross at high water; and the Sudbury and Charles might be in flood for months.

It was this difficulty of ready access, fully as much as the dreaded wilderness, that caused every possible site with a harbor along the coast (and some without) to be settled before the interior of the colonies filled up.

Transportation by water through the bays and estuaries to the market towns of Salem, Boston, Providence and New Haven was comparatively easy and cheap.

But to build causeways and bridges for oxcarts and horse travel across the mudflats of the Charles and the Sudbury marshes (even across Beaver and Stony Brooks) was a heavy burden on farmers starting out in a new and unaccustomed land.

And as with most first attempts, the early structures were often flimsily constructed, and soon undermined or washed away.

Our highways have been a long time improving.

Year after year rocks and gravel were dropped into the sloughs.

Decade after decade a few inches were added to the height of causeways across the marshes.

Generation after generation one field stone drain, and another, was laid to carry the little brooks under the highways that crossed them. Then on the more important roads the MacAdam system brought the crushed stone surface, followed a half century later by the tar top.

Now, at the end of three centuries and a half, you have no fords or ferries to hinder. You may ride in any direction, on any public road, in the smallest town in Massachusetts, knowing that you can get home again: even in March and April, mudtime as it was once called; and do it swiftly and safely.

As you wait for a few minutes, impatient in the heat, at the new construction on Rte 128, while the giant trucks dump their loads of gravel and then at 50 miles an hour speed off for more; as your engine idles while a 60-ft. crane lowers into place the steel for a great highway bridge, you have time to reflect.

Have you ever brought to your mind's eye the 15 generations of men with shovels; oxen, then horses, and tipcarts; who in heat and in cold toiled to give you all but a few of the most recent of the roads you enjoy today?

When, at the gasoline pump, you growl at the tax slice taken by state and nation, has it occurred to you that every day you have the use, free and clear, here in New England, of a heritage of highways and bridges and drains and culverts and land-takings and shade-tree planting such as not alone West Virginia lacks but few other parts of this nation possess?

Think on these things and for a moment, at least, be grateful.

Goodwill Bags Increase At Morgan Memorial

BOSTON--Last year, a total of 356,302 filled Goodwill Bags were received for sorting. This compared with 104,014 Bags in 1957; 169,196 Goodwill Bags in 1958; and 270,267 Bags in 1959.

The increase in the amount of repairable material made it possible to help more handicapped people, Clarke said. Last year, the normal weekly payroll was 483 persons, in 1959, 375 persons, and in 1958. 28 persons.

2 Weston Youths On Guided-Missile Cruiser

WESTON--Serving aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Little Rock, now one year old, are David R. Grapes, seaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Q. Grapes of 95 Newton st., Weston and George Tobey, fire control technician seaman, USN, son of Mr. John M. Gourgas of 190 Conant rd., Weston.

The ship and crew have recently visited Istanbul, Athens, Malta, Naples and Genoa and is scheduled to return to the U.S. in August.

Wayland Youth Serves On Anti-Sub Patrol

WAYLAND--Serving aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Essex operating out of Quonset Point, R.I., is John E. Haynes, fireman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Haynes of 254 Boston Post rd., Wayland.

In her role as an anti-submarine warfare (ASW) carrier, Essex is an integral part of Task Group 83.3, a group composed of air, surface, and sub-surface units.

Bits & Pieces

Don't worry about those blue laws too much. Section 7, Chapter 136 of the General Laws is taking care of them around these parts.

In other words, special permits have been issued for Walnut Farms, Red Coach Farm Market and Lee's Farm Market...three markets plagued with those blue notes sounded by the State Police.

The permits have been granted by the Board of Selectmen who, acting in their wisdom conferred on them in this case by the above law, decided that:

"The selectmen of a town may grant to any reputable person who on secular days is a retail dealer in frozen desserts and/or ice cream mix, confectionary soda water or fruit and who does not hold a license to keep his place of business on the Lord's Day for the sale of...."

Nobody in business is mixing fruit and alcoholic beverages (of course on the screened porch that's another matter), so Bye Bye Blues.

We understand that the only trouble with the Junior Town House tennis lessons is--they're beginning to worry that some of these brighter, lesson-taking youngsters might beat the Old Man. And then what happens to the annual donation?

What next? Anything can happen when you consider that next year (1962) the Thoreau Society will meet in New York City. That's right--in the CITY.

We'd like to ask what Thoreau'd say...if he could find voice? On the other hand, what would he say if he could see Walden Pond today.

Just learned that one parent had a devil of a time with her 15-year-old's spring cold. Tried everything. Finally, after six weeks took him to the doctor about this persistent huskiness. After a quick examination, he was out again, the doctor smiling: "Did it ever occur to you, Mrs. , that your boy's growing up -- and it's TIME for his voice to change.

Presidential immunity: The Cape towns are enjoying just that when it comes to the Blue Laws. The President's there. Police too busy watching him to snoop on shops. Now then -- isn't there anyone in Weston or Wayland who could invite Mr. Kennedy in for a weekend or two? Think it over.

Talk about being careful -- This accident reported to us: farmer pours a little gasoline into tractor: in a hurry: can slips, contacts battery terminal, gives farmer a super shock: he drops can: gasoline spills and ignites: he is painfully burned... ruining the tractor.

And while you're at it: don't start your power mower while it's in the garage. May ignite "stray gasoline" and start expensive fire in garage.

Toads may keep their warts, as our Will Ryder says, but the argument still goes on. There are still those who don't believe him: generally the youngster who hasn't captured the amphibian.

The Wayland Kiwanis Fair netted $150 for the Boys and Girls Fund, according to Vic Taricano. Everyone had a ball at the Field House.

We've seen more good fights start over someone's corner hedge. We knew one motorist who got so mad at that "dad-blasted thing", he used to honk his horn loud and mightily every time he approached it . . . even if it was 3 a.m. Never did get the homeowner to trim it though.

Now the ALA (Automobile Legal Assn.) is asking homeowners to remember "hedge-trimming could save a life". We wonder if that moderate voice will do any more than our friend's loud horn. It is a thought though: the hedge may be the most beautiful ever but provide just the blind intersection that makes for one more accident . . . maybe even a fatal.

Well, think it over. Maybe your motto can be: Don't hedge with another's life.

Some of the nicest people in town are outlaws

If you have recently moved to Massachusetts, but are still driving a car with out-of-state plates -- please don't. Legally, your car is an outlaw. You could get yourself into serious trouble.

For example, suppose you were slowly and safely negotiating that wicked curve at Sandy Burr. And suppose some fool comes tearing along on the wrong side of the road and smacks you head on.

What happens to you? Nothing good. Because you're driving an unregistered car (and you are), you have no legal rights whatever.

As a starter, you will probably get a good stiff fine. Worse still, no matter how much in the wrong the other guy may have been, you won't get a cent for your injuries -- and most likely you will be sued in the bargain.

So please, don't play footsy with the motor vehicle registration law. Remember, as far as the Registry people are concerned, if you work in this State, or have kids in school here, you are a legal resident of Massachusetts.

If you have any questions about this, just give us a ring, or stop in.

Swimming in Rain All the Same To Beginners at Red Cross Classes

WAYLAND-- Swimming in the rain? Makes no difference at the Town Beach where the Wayland Red Cross is holding its lessons--rain or shine--for youngsters who've kept up attendendance pretty well this summer, whatever the weather.

The children are being tested every day and are passed as soon as they are ready. Interested parents can check up on details of any of the tests by reading the reverse side of the Red Cross bulletin board at the beach.

A new class for junior and senior lifesaving will begin next Monday. The other classes, from beginners through advanced swimmers, will continue until Aug. 31.

New pupils are being added to old classes every week.

J. A. Wilson Named Day Camp Director

FRAMINGHAM -- Joseph A. Wilson of 8 Maple lane, has been appointed Director of the Regional YMCA Day Camps, Camp Adventure and Kiddie Kamp which will be conducted for four weeks this summer, according to Robert A. Strine, YMCA general secretary.

Mr. Wilson is serving as youth director of the Federated Church in Ashland and is well known throughout the Regional YMCA area for his youth work and civic activities. Mr. Wilson has previously served two years at the New England Home for Little Wanderers in connection with his training at Northeastern University.

For several weeks Mr. Wilson has been working closely with the program committee of the Regional YMCA heldping to set-up and organize the camps for the coming season. Mr. Wilson is currently conducting, planning and training sessions for the camp staff and will be largely responsible for the counselor-in-training program for future leaders which will be conducted in conjunction with the Day Camp operation.

Cambridge School Seminar on China

WESTON -- "Chinese Political Traditions" was the topic of a talk given at the Cambridge School of Weston Summer Session by Dr. George O. Totten of Boston University. Dr. Totten, who will join the Far Eastern Department of the University of Rhode Island this fall, was the first of a series of guest lecturers to speak at The Cambridge School on China.

The school is currently in the midst of its summer program, and as part of that program it is again offering a seminar on the history of China from 1800 to 1961. The seminar is directed by Marshall Kaplan of Milton Academy and includes high school students from many areas.

Other guest speakers this summer will be: Dr. Milton Sachs of Brandeis University who on July 21 will speak on "Emergent Nationalism; Sun Yat-Sen and the Three People's Principles."; Mrs. Ann Clark of the Harvard Far Eastern Research Center who, on Aug. 4, will speak on "Chiang Kai-shek and Mao Tse-tung"; and Dr. Alan Cole of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, whose topic on Aug. 11 will be "Continuities and Departures in Contemporary China."

The China Seminar is part of The Cambridge School summer program directed by George St. John Jr. and William Clark, a program which includes class and tutorial work in high school subjects, developmental reading, and a drama workshop, lead by Whitney Haley of The Cambridge School Faculty.

Nuclear Dirigible for World's Fair

Wayland Prof Brings Atoms to Promotion

WAYLAND -- Well, nuclear science is about to move into the promotion field -- in a big way, naturally -- with the assistance of a forward-looking Wayland professor.

The big idea: A giant nuclear-powered dirigible to promote the 1964 World's Fair.

The man behind the idea: Francis Morse of Reservoir Rd., assistant professor of aeronautical engineering at Boston University's College of Industrial Technology.

This dirigible would be a bigger dirigible than the ill-fated Hindenburg -- 176 feet in diameter and 980 feet in length, with a volume upon inflation of 12 million cubic feet.

The idea would be to promote America's nuclear technology as well as the fair. In effect, this would combine the oldest method of flight and the most recent concepts in nuclear theory and aero-dynamics.

As Prof. Morse sees it: the dirigible would travel at speeds upwards of 100 miles per hour with its dual rotation propellers and nuclear reactor engine assembly. Capacity: 400 passengers, cargo and storage space.

Also: a maintenance and hangar area IN the dirigible capable of housing a shuttle plane to ferry passengers and dignitaries to and from cities while the dirigible was in flight.

And if that wasn't enough: a night club with dance floor and a motion picture theater to keep passengers happy while flying all over the world to promote the World's Fair.

The World's Fair promoters are ecstatic. All that is lacking is money for the project and so far the Federal government hasn't come through with any assistance.

But hope rides high at B.U. that the government will get behind this nuclear cigar.

Tomorrow at Cochituate Baseball

"That's why someone, in the beginning of this league, separated the young from the old. Otherwise, the little boys wouldn't be playing much ball...if the team wanted to win."

One Wayco rule is that everyone gets to play two innings.

During the May-June phase of Wayco play, about 400 youngsters had a part--about 20 teams in all. That's the shakedown, everyone-gets a chance phase.

Now, the four-team league (Indians and Yankees in Cochituate and Pirates and Dodgers in Wayland) have 12-15 players each who have made the grade.

Their schedule continues until Thursday, Aug. 3 after which an all-star squad to represent the town will be chosen August will be Wayland-vs.-the World month as the local team. plays in Sudbury Framingham,...wherever there's an open date.

Wayland's teams have always done well in this competition.

Right now the uniformed players are at it Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6:15 p.m., either at the Wayland Junior High grounds or at Cochituate field.

For example:

The Wayland Dodgers, with some alert base-running and the fine pitching of Kim Teger defeated the Wayland Pirates, 4-0, last week to open the July schedule.

And last Thursday, the Dodgers continued with an 8-2 win over the Cochituate Indians on the strength of a very strong sixth-inning pitching job by Steve Brown, the fine fielding of Angus Makay and the heavy hitting of John Pelletier.

Now, if you're looking for an evening out...in the fresh air, here's the schedule:

Tonight (at Wayland) Yankees vs. Pirates; tomorrow (under lights), Dodgers vs. Indians; Tuesday, 25th (at Wayland), Pirates vs. Dodgers and (Cochituate), Indians vs. Yankees; next Thursday (Wayland), Indians vs. Dodgers; July 28, Pirates vs. Yankees (Cochituate, under lights), Pirates vs. Yankees.

Aug. 1 (Wayland), Yankees vs. Dodgers and (Cochituate), Pirates vs. Indians; Aug. 3 (Wayland), Dodgers vs. Pirates and (Cochituate), Yankees vs. Indians.

Seventy-seven percent of the families in the United States own automobiles.

Genovese Heads Babson Program

WELLESLEY -- Dr. Frank C. Genovese, chairman of the Economics Division at Babson Institute, has been appointed director of the evening program which will officially open on Sept. 25.

The program consists of a graduate course of study which will lead to an M.B.A. degree, and will operate on a normal two semester basis. A candidate with an undergraduate business administration degree from an accredited college can normally complete degree requirements in three years by carrying two courses a semester.

A graduate of the University of Toronto in 1942, Dr. Genovese took his doctorate at the University of Wisconsin in 1953. While working on his Ph.D he taught in the economics department at Wisconsin from 1946-48. He has also taught in Louisiana and Ohio, and is currently a visiting lecturer at Wellesley College.

He has co-authored "Economic Effects on U. S. Grades of Beef" for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and contributed to another report, "Factors Influencing Competition Among Flour Mills in the Pacific Slope States." He has also written a new preface to Bagehot's "Lombard Street," which will be published sometime in 1962.

Morgan Memorial Wins Top Award

BOSTON -- The Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries of Boston has won a national award for the most outstanding gain in hours of service and opportunity given to handicapped workers during the past year.

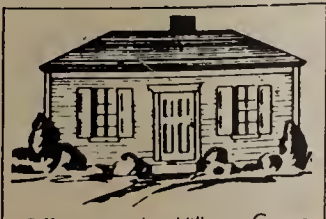
The top citation, a coveted honor amont 128 Goodwill Industries in the United States and seventeen Goodwill Industries scattered around the world, was given by the Goodwill Industries of America, Inc.

The Goodwill Industries began in Boston 59 years ago.

Today Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries is the largest private agency serving handicapped regardless of race or creed in New England.

The award was received by Atty. Vincent P. Clarke of Winchester, president of Morgan Memorial.

Mr. Clarke said that during the past year, Morgan Memorial had paid $1,160,485 in wages to 2389 handicapped workers. Total working hours: 1,021,624.



The key to the increasing volume of man hours and work for handicapped people at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, Mr. Clarke said, was the continued jump in the number of truckloads of clothing and usable materials donated by more than 200,000 friends in Eastern Massachusetts.

Albert Brandt of New York became the 21st bowler elected to the Hall of Fame.

In 1960 Alcoholics Anonymous had a membership of 300,000 in more than 8,000 groups.

Dr. Dammin, Pioneer in Kidney Twin Operation, Named to New Chair at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE -- Dr. Gustave J. Dammin of Weston a pathologist whose research in the area of tissue and organ transplantation and in cardiovascular and renal disease has received international acclaim, has been appointed the first Elsie T. Friedman professor of pathology at Harvard, according to Dr. George P. Berry, dean of the faculty of medicine.

The Friedman Professorship was recently established at the Harvard Medical School on the basis of a gift to the university from the trustees of the Elsie T. Friedman Charitable Foundation of Boston.

Dr. Dammin has been a member of the faculty of medicine and pathologist-in-chief at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital since 1953. He is the president of the tri-service (Army, Navy and Air Force) Armed Forces Epidemiological Board.

With his colleagues at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and the Harvard Medical School, Dr. Dammin is responsible for the development of a series of tests requisite to the successful transplantation of a kidney in patients who were twins, but not identical twins.

The tests involved a series of skin grafts exchanged between donor and recipient to determine whether they are, or are not, identical twins. With one exception all successful kidney transplantations to date by the medical-surgical group at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital have involved identical twins.

Dr. Dammin's research studies involve the cellular and chemical changes incorporated in the rejection of transplanted tissue and organs, and with tropical diseases.

At Peter Bent Brigham, Dr. Dammin will serve as director of a cardiovascular-renal and transplantation center soon to be established with the help of a half-million-dollar grant from the National Institutes of Health, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The enlarged program will encompass the major portion of Dr. Dammin's research activities and will be housed in a portion of the Tackaberry Building at the Brigham.

More specifically, the research work will be concerned with studies of vascular patterns in coronary and pulmonary disease, experimental coronary arterial occlusion, whole organ homotransplantation in animals, the effects of marrow following ionizing radiation, and the prolonged functional survival of the kidney homograft in man and the experimental animal following administration of synthetic drugs.

Dr. Dammin has also received recently a grant from the National Heart Institute of the NIH for the purchase of an electron microscope. The higher magnifications of this instrument will be invaluable to his tissue studies.

Dr. Dammin's interest in tropical diseases dates from 1937, when as an exchange student he studied parasitology and tropical medicine at the University of Havana. During World War II he served with the U. S. Army as executive officer and parasitologist with the Dysentery Commission in the India-Burma Theatre.

Later, he was director of the Laboratories Division, Office of The Surgeon General. He left active service in 1946 and is now a Colonel in the U. S. Army Reserve.

For his World War II service, Dr. Dammin received the Legion of Merit.

Currently, Dr. Dammin directs a study sponsored by the U. S. Army Medical Research and Development Command seeking the relative roles of microbial agents and malnutrition in fatal diarrheal disease in Guatemalan children. The research also includes a general study of intestinal infections in man and experimenal animals.

Prior to joining the faculty of medicine at Harvard, Dr. Dammin was pathologist-in-chief at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, Mo. He is a member of the Scientific Advisory Board of Consultants for the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology; consultant in pathology to the Surgeon General of the Army; consultant to the Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service; laboratory consultant to the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

He received the A. B. degree in 1934 and the M. D. degree in 1938 from Cornell University. He was born in New York city on Sept. 17, 1911.

Dr. Dammin is a diplomate, American Board of Pathology and of the National Board of Medical Examiners. He is a member of the Association of the U. S. Army, Alpha Omega Alpha and Sigma Xi, Society of Medical Consultants to the Armed Forces, and of several other national associations and societies.

Dr. Dammin is married to the former Anita Coffin of Nantucket. They have three children, Susan, Tristram and Abigail. The Dammin's home is at 102 Sudbury rd., Weston.

Fr. Linehan's Know-how on Quakes in Demand

As every student of high-school physics knows, bands of magnetism flow about our planet, lying horizontal at the magnetic equator and being bent until they are vertical at the poles. While these bands are behaving themselves all is well. But when disturbances known as magnetic storms occur, strange things happen to communication systems.

Teletype becomes garbled and telephoto transmission turns out some original pictures. Radio messages often end up thousands of miles from the intended reception area. Such storms are often accompanied by the beautifully eerie sky displays known as aurora borealis or northern lights.

Why do these storms come and go at random? Are they, as some theories hold, related to electrical disturbances in the sun? Is there anything that man can do to forecast them and can a remedy be developed to keep such storms from disrupting the systems dependent upon normal-behaving electricity?

At the Weston observatory, instruments have been devised in an attemp to fathom these questions.

Mounted on missiles launched from Cape Canaveral and other sites, the observatory designed instruments travel outwards for hundreds of miles relaying vital information back to earth.

Perhaps the secrets of space seem remote to most of us. And when ir comes to earthquakes we can take them or leave them. But the same techniques which go into earthquake hunting have meaningful application for all of us.

For example, the present water supply utilized by the town of Weston was discovered through seismological tests carried out by the observatory.

"Actually," says Fr. Linnehan, "our biggest function in this respect is telling town officials where NOT to drill. Through setting off small underground explosions, we can tell by the way in which electrical waves pass through subsurface strata just what the geological formations are.

"When we discover a combination of formations we know offers a possibility for the presence of a water supply we pass such information along to the drilling officials. This, of course, saves needless and expensive experimentation on their part."

The first seismological instruments arrived on the Weston campus in 1928, the gift of Georgetown University. Originally, the testing station was located in the basement of the "mansion" where bedrock was but a few feet below floor level. Father Linnehan is the third observer to serve at the Weston observatory and was appointed in 1934.

While the observatory has been connected to Boston College since its opening, this arrangement was informal until 1947. At that time it became an official department of the college and offered courses in geophysics and geology to students at the graduate level.

In 1949, the scientific and office equipment was moved to the new building built for the needs of the observatory staff and its work. Although the building originally had 7000 square feet of floor space, and its 15 rooms included a geological museum, offices, library, instrument rooms, electronic laboratory, garage for field units, dark rooms and other specialized areas, it was soon too small. Today, the observatory occupies 10,000 square feet and its many faceted activities occupy 12 other buildings.

Graduates of the observatory's training program have occupied and continue to occupy positions of professional importance throughout the world. One, for example, is director of the observatory in Ethiopia, the only station on the world's magnetic equator.

Fr. Linnehan, whose adventures include measuring the North magnetic pole and being caught during 1955's Hurricane Carol in the wild reaches of Baffin Bay, feels that one of his most interesting assignments involved a seismological search beneath the Vatican for documentation of religio-historic theory.

GRADUATE--Alan R. Emery, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Emery of Plain rd., Wayland, has been awarded the B.A. degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Emery was a member of Theta Xi fraternity and the University of Pennsylvania Glee Club. In his senior year he did volunteer work in the activities program of the United Cerebral Palsy Assn. of Philadelphia, specializing in swimming instruction and water therapy. He is a graduate of Browne & Nichols School.

Oklahoma Entertaining as Ever With John Raitt at Carousel

By FRANCIS J. HARTIN JR.

Carousel Theater's production of OKLAHOMA is good entertainment. The Rogers and Hammerstein musical, with the superb voice of John Raitt, several excellent secondary role castings, and a consistently good orchestra, yields a pleasant evening to anyone who is willing to overlook a few inferior factors.

Usually there was enough action on stage to divert attention from Mr. Raitt's poor acting. Wendy Martin, playing opposite Mr. Raitt was as sweet as could be. Her voice was often good.

The choreography was well thought out although sometimes it did not seem to get out of the mind of the choreographer and into the limbs of the dancers. Contrary to dance custom, the male corps and soloists were better dancers and actors than the girls.

The plot might have been the drab nothing of many musicals had not Kenneth Smith (Jud) provided some demonically good acting. The foil of the lead, Mr. Smith adds meaning to an otherwise insipid plot. The stabbing of psychotic Jud by the All-American Curley is most ironic.

Less important roles were well played by Edith Gresham (aunt Eller), Chauncy Conklin (Will), and Dorothy Keller (Ado Annie). Mr. Conklin couldn't have been much better. He acted his amusing role delightfully, sang and danced well. Miss Keller has very expressive eyes, singing adequately, though her squeaky part became rather tiresome before the play was over.

The evening was a masculine triumph in both plot and performance. Usually the girls just didn't measure up.

of the disastrous fire which completely destroyed the main barn" in February, the "operation of the farm has been discontinued."

"The sale of milk and other produce sold under our name has ceased as of July 10th," according to the statement.

The trustees urged the farm's customers to patronize Mainstone Dairy, Inc., whose directors are Walter F. Pratt and Nathaniel Hamlen.

Thus came to an end the operation of a farm nearly 100 years old. It boasted the oldest Guernsey herd extant in the United States.

The farm trustees' statement To Friends and Customers of Mainstone Farm....

"The trustees of Mainstone Farm announce with sincere regret that because of the disastrous fire which completely destroyed the main barn the operation of the farm has been discontinued and the sale of milk and other produce sold under our name has ceased as of July 10th.

"However, a successor enterprise Mainstone Dairy Inc. of which the directors are Walter F. Pratt and Nathaniel Hamlen will supply of Guernsey milk which will enable former customers of Mainstone Farm to receive the same high quality products.

We wish to thank all of you who have favored us with your business in the past and again reiterate our regret that circumstances have forced us to this decision. We urge that you continue your patronage of the successor operation.

and then formally reconvened the board to entertain a formal request for an exception from Mr. Linnehan before voting to award the contract.

The bylaw, Section 6 of Article 5 reads :

----"No town officer, no salaried employee of the town, or member of any committee appointed to act for the town, and no agent or employee of such officer, employee or committee shall sell materials or supplies to a board or committee of which he is a member, or receive any compensation or commission for work done by him as such officer, employee or member of a committee, except his official salary and the fees provided by law, without permission of the Board of Selectment expressed in a vote which shall appear in their records, together with a statement of the reasons therefor."

The selectmen's reasons : Wayland Oil was the lowest bidder.

The price on oil contracts is based on the posted tank car price (which may vary through the winter), plus whatever the dealer may regard as a profit margin..

The bids were on 2500 gallons

With Newest Color Mixer

Introduction of a new scientific paint color mixer is highlighting the first anniversary observance of the retail division of the Stanmar Lumber Co., Boston Post rd., Sudbury.

Called the Val-o-Matic tinting machine and produced by Valspar Paint Co., this new feature will custom blend more than 1200 beautiful decorator colors for every part of the home--and at no additional charge to the customer.

To emphasize the special birthday occasion, the retail branch of this Sudbury firm is also providing exceptional values on fencing, hardware, tools, paint accessories and lumber.

An additional discount percentage is being allowed on most lumber and building material purchases with all tool rentals at one-half normal costs.

The anniversary theme will be carried through to the end of the month with more daily and weekend features scheduled for presentation to the do-it-yourselfer as well as those employing skilled craftsmen for home repairs.

Stanley Snider, owner of the Stanmar Lunber Co., points with pride to the rapid growth of the retail department. With Robert Worters as general manager and Gene Harden, his assistant, the store is now catering to the kitchen remodeling needs of homeowners and is also capable of administering to general home repairs and improvement projects of all types.

Open daily, Saturday and Friday evening, the Stanmar Lumber Co., has constantly maintained a fix-it guidance clinic, free carpentry service and convenient budget terms.

Wayland Youth On Polaris Sub

HOLY LOCH, Scotland--To keep its Polaris-loaded missile submarines "on station" as much of the time as possible, the Navy has devised a unique two-crew system, whereby one crew goes to sea while the other stays ashore for leave and refresher training.

Serving with the Gold crew of the fleet ballistic missile submarine USS Patrick Henry, which recently completed its first and the Patrick Henry's second underwater patrol, is William B. Archer, electronics technician third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Archer of 132 W. Plain st., Wayland.

This patrol, which began and ended at Holy Loch, Scotland, included more than 50 days of continuous submerged sailing, completely sealed off from the earth's atmosphere.

This nuclear-powered submarine, virtually brand new, had made one previous patrol, with its Blue crew aboard. When the Gold crew returned from its patrol, the Blue crew took over again and the Gold crew returned to New London, Conn., its home port, with official commendations for the outstanding performance of every member.

Outdoor-Indoor Lab Awaits Alert Weston High Biology Club

BY HARRY PATTERSON

WESTON -- The Weston High School Biology Club was founded about three years ago. It now has over 50 members - money in the bank - and a project that is believed to be unique in the annals of Massachusetts public schools.

The project will begin to take shape this fall, at the time of the move into the new high school building at Wellesley st. and South av.

There the club -- and all other boys and girls electing to study biology -- will enjoy not only a fine suite of biology rooms but also a two-acre outdoor laboratory in the school's front yard.

This natural area, undisturbed by men for hundreds of years, will give Irving Keene, biology instructor, and his students the opportunity to study the flora and fauna of the area in its natural environment. The area is rich in both plants and animals of lowland and woodland habitats.

Since it is only a three-minute walk from the biology laboratory, many activities will be held there.

There will be a nature museum with a roofed-over porch where students can study their collected specimens and where microscopic and stereoscopic studies can be conducted, without being interrupted by bad weather.

The museum will contain preserved specimens found in the area as well as student-made biological exhibits which will enrich their learning experiences.

A greenhouse is planned, and an animal room, or "snake pit", housing live specimens - frogs, guinea pigs, hamsters, turtles and other creatures.

The museum will be of inexpensive portable log cabin or garden house construction. The only modern facilities considered necessary are light and heat.

The Biology Club is anxious to start a fund which will eventually make it possible for Mr. Keene to conduct the study of biology near the source of living specimens -- to make it actually a living science.

The club itself got the ball rolling with a gift of $50.

Members are hoping that possibly the local garden clubs and others interested in providing a nature museum at the outdoor laboratory will help toward financing this unique and worthwhile project.

Algonquin Scouts At Devens Parley

FRAMINGHAM -- Explorers of Algonquin Council, Boy Scouts of America, had a "wonderful experience in democracy in action," according to Raymond Hilliard of Framingham, council president.

He referred to the 14 local Explorers who attended the first Regional Elected Explorer Delegate Conference at Fort Devens. They were among 1000 Explorers representing the Scout councils of the region. . . Explorers from Posts in Saxonville, Holliston, Milford, Marlboro and Northboro.

Mr. Hilliard said that 12 regional conferences across the nation were organized, planned and conducted by Explorers, the high school age program of the Boy Scouts of America. They were aided by a few adult advisors. "In spite of fears that some adults have for puting things into the hands of teenage boys," he said, "this was done across the nation and the results have been terrific." The Conferences turned out better than anyone expected, he added.

At the conference the Explorers elected one of their number to represent the region on the Steering Committee which will plan and direct the first national elected delegate conference to be held at the University of Michigan Aug. 26 to 30, 1962. More than 3000 are expected.

Weston Man Named Co-Chairman Of United Fund Drive

WESTON -- Robert Haydock Jr., of Weston, an attorney and Carl N. Schmalz of Belmont have been selected to jointly head next fall's Greater Boston United Fund campaign, according to an announcement by Joseph A. Erickson, president of the United Fund.

The naming of Schmalz and Haydock marks the first time in local United Fund history that two men have shared the task of directing Greater Boston's biggest annual public fund drive.

When You Get Down to Brass Tax, It's About Time to Find a New Tack

Ever get the feeling life is taxing?

Like this:

At 7 a.m., you turn off the alarm clock (price, $5, tax, 50 cents), push down the electric blanket (tax, 84 cents) and stumble sleepily through your house (tax, $800-plus) and to the music of your bedroom radio (tax, $1.80) shave.

You dress hurriedly, fastening cuff links (50-cent tax) and tie clasp (30 cents) and Swiss watch ($6 tax). Tucked under your arm, a leather dispatch case ($2.50).

Grabbing a quick toast (about 150 hidden taxes in bread) from the electric toaster (48 cents), you take coffee from gas stove ($5.70) and juice from refrigerator ($9).

Calling your wife (marriage license, $2) to phone ($2.50) office you'll be a bit late, you jump into car (total taxes $500-plus) and drive (operator's license, $2.50) to the railroad station . . . if it's still there.

Relaxing with a cigarette (price per pack, 13 cents; tax 15) that you lit with a match (tax, 2 cents per 1000), you board the train for Boston.

On your way to the office, you pick up the roll film at the camera store (price 40, tax, 2) that you'd promised your son (birth fee, $1), and the lipstick ($1, plus 10-cent tax) you'd promised your wife. Friends coming for dinner, so a bottle of liquor ($3.40 - plus $2.10 tax).

Settling down to work at the office (income --?; tax -- always too much), it really dawns on you that it's been a taxing day . . . and there's more ahead.

If you work hard enough for the rest of your life, maybe you'll be able to present the government with a respectable inheritance tax.

These taxing thoughts are enough to make the summer wilts turn on full force. Don't blame us -- the Tax Foundation Inc. says it's happening all over suburbia.

Well, if it is, we're for buying a ticket to Bali. . . if the tax isn't too much.

Weston Teacher At Math Institute

WESTON Miss Ellen C. Holt, Weston High School teacher, is among more than 140 teachers from all over the United States who are attending a summer mathematics institute at Boston College.

The six - week institute sponsored by the National Science Foundation, is designed to introduce junior and senior high school teachers to a modern concept of mathematics.

Rev. Stanley J. Bezuszka, S.J., B.C. mathematics professor and director of the institute, throws out many of the old concepts of math which, he says, have little value in an age in which the electronic computer has come into its own.

His idea: Teach the students a mathematics they can use, in light of this developement.

Dean Yields in Gravel Pit Fight

WAYLAND--The gravel pit fight is over. Louis Dean, seeking the right to dig gravel in a pit off Boston Post rd. near Old Connecticut Path, has given up his rights.

A year ago the Town of Wayland won its fight in Superior Court to block Mr. Dean's efforts to mine a gravel bed near the Weston line but he took his appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Alan R. Trustman, attorney for Mr. Dean, notified Town Counsel Frank Kilburn of his client's desire to abandon the appeal.

Strange Birds May Be Seen In This Area

SOUTH LINCOLN - Dr. William H. Drury Jr. of the Massachusetts Audubon Society announces that the gull project is well underway.

Gulls are colored in brilliant hues. The purpose is to learn as much as possible about the herring gull -- its migration habits, resting and feeding areas and breeding grounds in an attempt to ascertain where the gulls that are harassing aircraft at Logan Airport come from.

Eighteen men are involved in this project utilizing all manner of vehicles from helicopters to lobster boats to reach bases of operation. It is hoped that the necks of 10,000 gulls will be colored with the harmless dye by the end of summer.

Gulls from the Isles of Shoals, N. H. will be colored red; Cape Ann and north shore island gulls, green; Boston Harbor gulls yellow or international orange; Muskeget Island gulls, blue, and gulls from the Elizabeth Islands, black.

Rowley Elliston, son of Dr. William A. Elliston of 263 South ave., Weston will be in charge of work on the Isles of Shoals.

In our area gulls are most commonly seen in the Sudbury Valley, at Norumbega and at town dumps.

Should you see a colored gull, a call to the Audubon Society headquarters in South Lincoln would assist this important project.

Cookouts may interest small children in fire, watch out that they don't experiment alone.

Corvettes Win 2 From N.J. State Champs

WAYLAND--Cochituate Motors Corvettes won a double victory Sunday against the New Jersey Champions, Burry's Marauders, 2-0 and 3-2. At the Mount Hope Park, in Rockaway, N.J., Carol Marshall hurled a one-hitter, winning on two runs in the third brought in on singles by Doris Drisdell and Diane Potter.

Donna Hebert pitched a two-hitter in the second game. Diane Potter led off the fourth with a triple and scored on Sylvia Beaudoin's single, but the Marauders went ahead, 2-1, in the fourth, holding the lead until the seventh when Sylvia Beaudoin led off with a homer.

After some fine fielding had held the Corvettes in check, Joyce Letourneau stole home for the winning tally. Actually, it was an up-and-down inning. Breathtaking:

Claire Mosher walked but was thrown out at second as Doris Drisdell reached on a fielder's choice. But Doris tried to score from first on the pitcher's wild throw on Joyce Letourneau's bunt. But Joyce reached third on the play and stole home.

NOTE--the Corvettes have played 31 games this year for a 19-12 over all record, including a 7-1 mark in the New England Girls Softball League. They are favored to win the Massachusetts State Championships and a strong contender in the Amateur Softball Assn. N.E. Championship to be played in Rhode Island. The Corvettes were runners-up last year.

The Massachusetts State Championship will be played at Cochituate ball park Aug. 4-6.

365 Entries In Morgan Horse Show July 27-30

NORTHAMPTON--A total of 365 horses have been entered in the 1961 National Morgan Horse Show which will be held Thursday-Sunday, July 27-30 , at the Tri-County Fairgrounds here. Seventy-two equitation riders and 4-H exhibitors have also entered the show.

With classes increased to 84, and the show increased for the first time from three to four days, the 1961 National Morgan Horse Show is expected to draw an unusually large number of spectators.

Highlight of the event will be performances at the Friday night, Saturday afternoon, Saturday night and Sunday afternoon sessions of the Morgan show of a black Morgan stallion, "Illowana Jim," who will perform more than 25 tricks under the direction of trainer David Cravatta.

This will be the first appearance in the East for the talented Morgan horse which delights audiences with his many skills including bowing, praying, giving yes and no answers to questions, throwing kisses, drinking from a bottle and doing a hula hula.

Entries from as far away as Kansas, Ohio, Iowa and Canada , as well as eastern United States and New England , point up the truly national character of the show.

National Morgan Horse Show sessions on July 27 and 28 will be held at 9 a.m., 1 p.m., and 7 p.m. July 29 sessions will be at 8:30 a.m., 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. The closing session of the show will be Sunday afternoon, July 30, at 1 p.m.

Weston Man Does Prison Work

WESTON -- Charles A. Janeway, Harvard College sophomore is doing important rehabilitative work in Massachusetts prisons. Mr. Janeway, who lives at 445 Concord Rd. is working with the Prison Tutors Committee of Phillips Brooks House, Harvard's leading social service organization

Once a week Janeway travels to Concord prison, where for one or two hours he teaches English literature to ten people. To his surprise, he found the prisoners most interested, and their interest centers on plays, particularly modern plays. Bored with prison life, which, they feel, offers them little or no diversion, they are almost all avid students, willing to read almost anything Janeway can provide them with.

Janeway began teaching in the prison because of his interest in seeing a different segment of the population, broadening his own scope. He was also interested in trying teaching, since he might perhaps go into teaching as a career. In addition to his work with the Prison Committee, he works for the Phillips Brooks House Tutors Committee, teaching geometry to twelve people.

Janeway is a graduate of the Phillips Exeter Academy, where he was in the glee club and the orchestra and a member of the varsity cross country and varsity skiing teams. At Harvard he holds an Honorary Harvard National Scholarship.

After college Janeway hopes to go to medical school. Since he is a member of an advanced placement program, he may go through Harvard in three years enter medical school ahead of his class. Son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Janeway, Janeway is majoring in chemistry at Harvard, in preparation for medical school.

Delicatessen Opens In Cochituate

WAYLAND -- Almost every day a new business opens in Cochituate. Latest on the list is Mick's Luncheon at 76 Main st. next to Bill LeBlanc's Barber Shop,

Featuring a full line of delicatessen products the new store is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin London of 125 Bishop Dr., Framingham. The London's formerly of Duluth, Minn., where Mr. London was in the meat business, hope to move to Wayland shortly to make it their permanent home.

Serving a featured daily luncheon special the delicatessen will be open from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. Opening officially on July 10, Mr. London reports a substantial business has started. Local businessmen remembering this was the former location of Peck's Market which served Cochituate for many years, are hoping that Mick's enjoys similar success.

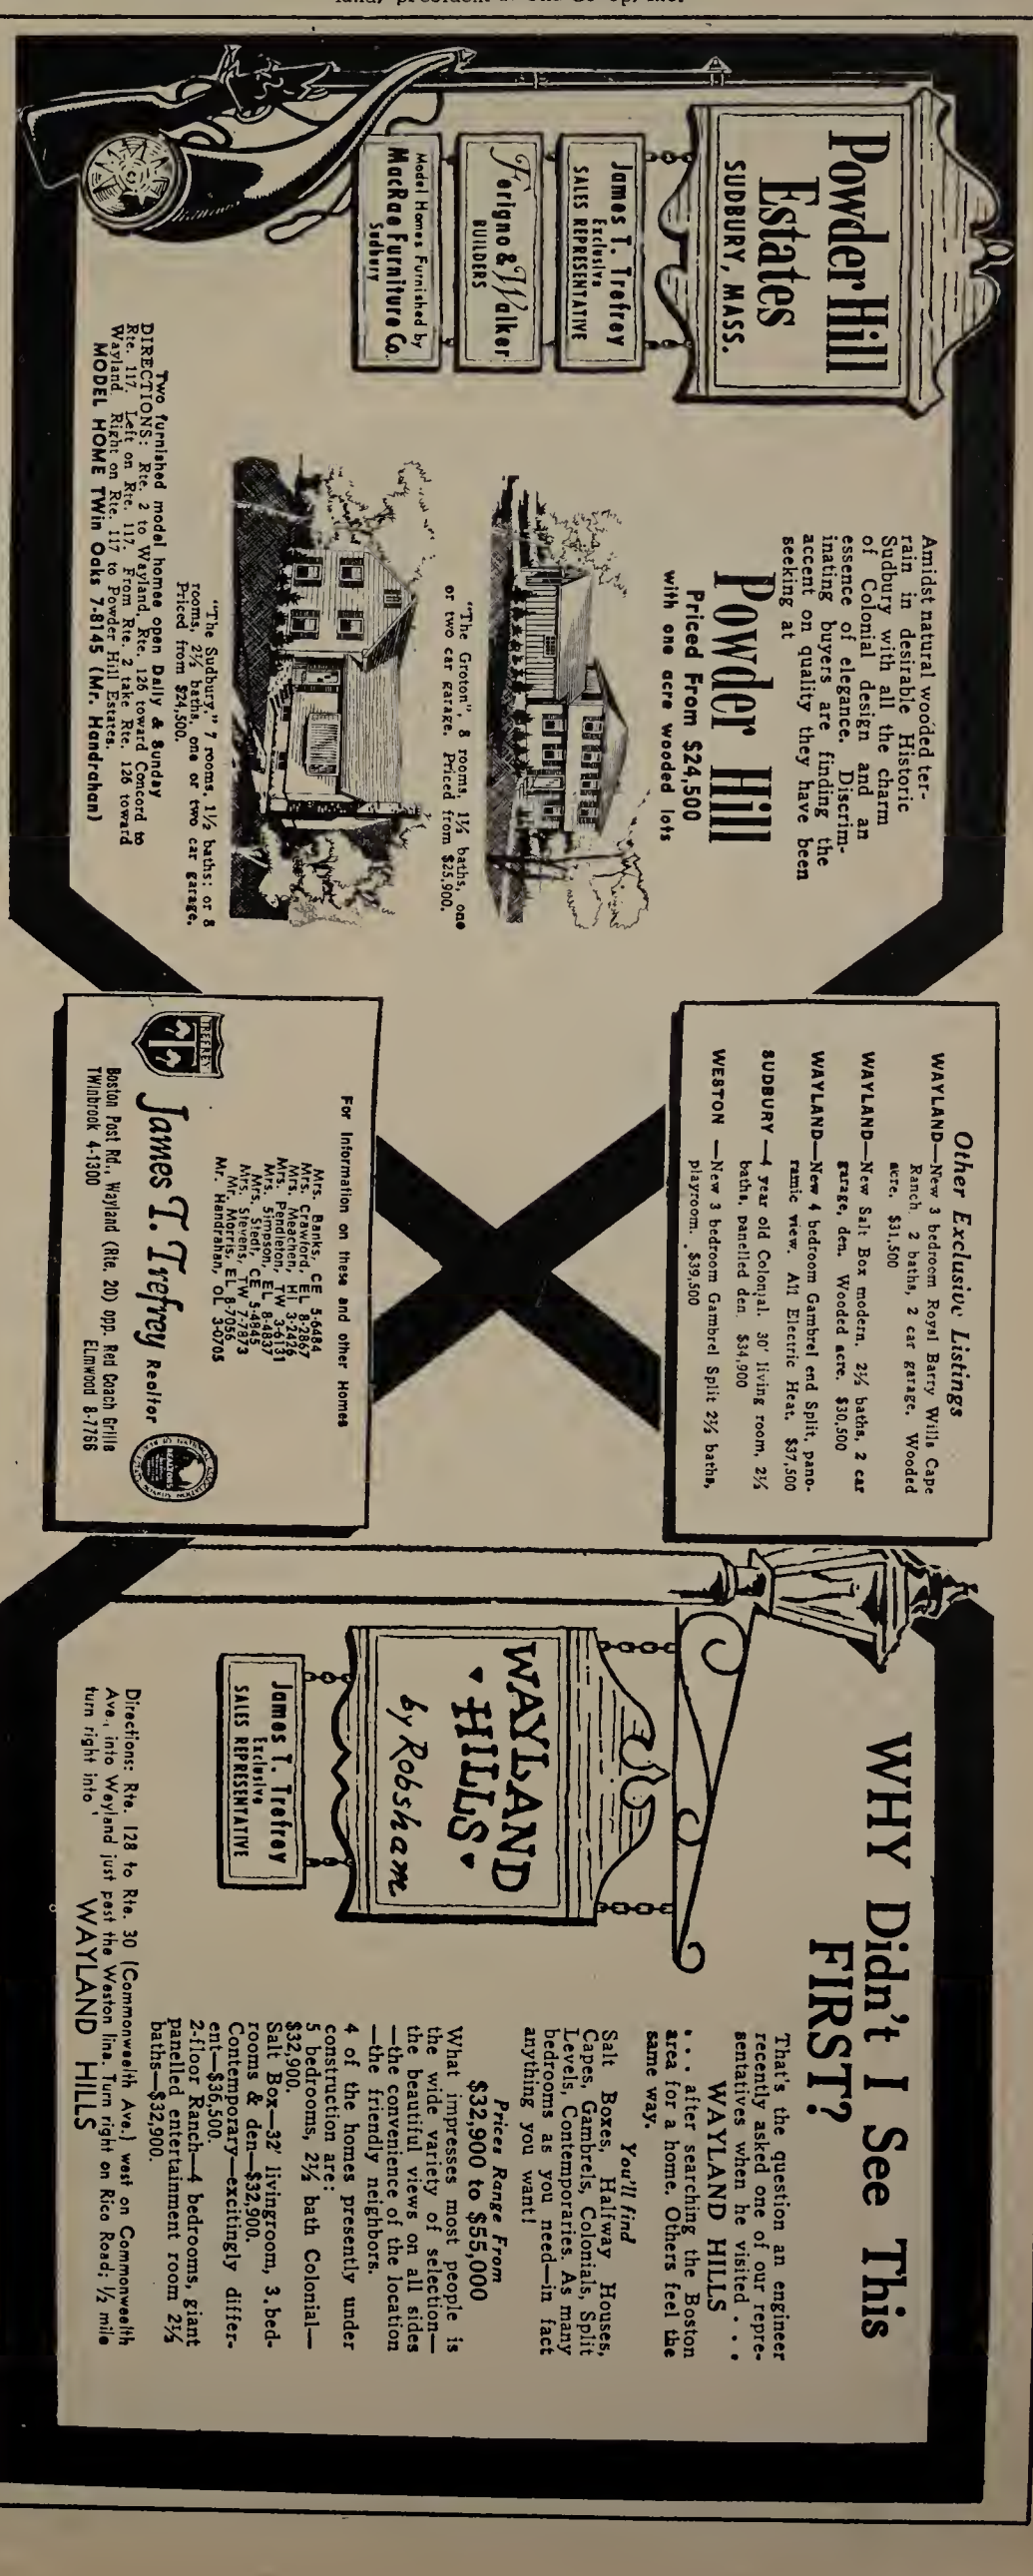
Wayland Schools Concert, At Arts Center in July

WAYLAND -- The Instrumental Music Department of the Wayland Schools has announced that plans are now underway to present an evening of music at the amphitheater at the rear of the arts center of the new Wayland High School sometime during the latter part of July.

This program will present a variety of musical performances featuring vocal and instrumental soloists and ensembles. Any student or resident of the town, or surrounding towns is invited to participate. A special invitation is extended to those who play string, wind, or percussion instruments.

If enough instruments are represented an orchestra or band will be organized. The first rehearsal was held at the Little Theater of the new Wayland High School Tuesday and each Tuesday 7 - 9 p.m. thereafter, with the possibility of extra rehearsals.

Mrs. Simoni Heads Delegates to Parley On Co-operatives



WAYLAND--A delegation of Co-op member-owners and their families left Sunday to represent the Co-op at the 32d Annual Co-op institute on the campus of Hobart College, Geneva, N.Y.

The purpose of the institute is to promote the development of consumer cooperatives and the cooperative movement as a whole by providing information, training, and inspiration for cooperative directors, committee members, employees, and all other persons interested in cooperatives.

Heading the delegation is Mrs. John Simoni, 5 Timber lane, Wayland, president of The Co-op, Inc. Mrs. Simoni, the fifth president in the Co-op's 12-year history, will be accompanied by her husband.

Also attending will be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carlson, their two daughters and son, of 149 Summer st., Framingham. Mr. Carlson is treasurer of the board.

Mrs. Ethel McNeil of Ashland, an active Co-op member and treasurer of the Wellesley Employees Federal Credit Union will also be attending.

Y Day Camp Plans Counselor Training

FRAMINGHAM Joseph A. Wilson, day camp director and Robert A. Strine, general secretary of the Regional YMCA announces that a counselor-in-training program will be conducted for four weeks this summer in conjunction with the YMCA Day Camps.

The training program, according to Mr. Wilson is designed to provide on-the-job-training, so to speak, for potential camp leaders. The program will give school age young men and women an opportunity to gain valuable leadership experience, under supervision, so that they will be prepared to assume full staff responsibility when they become of age.

The training program for the C.I.T.'s will take place at the camp site during the actual camp operation and will include classroom sessions, practical experience and testing all under the direction and observation of Mr. Wilson and the camp staff.

The number of trainees is limited, there will be no fee for the program, nor will there be any material remuneration for the C.I.T.'s. Applicants are still being accepted at the Regional YMCA office located in the Smith Building in Framingham. Applicants must be young men or women of at least high school age.

According to Mr. Strine the Regional YMCA will conduct a similar leadership training for club, social, recreational and physical education volunteer leaders for students and adults late this summer or early fall in preparation for the year-round program of the YMCA.

If you happen to be involved in a traffic accident, don't move anyone who is injured. You may cause serious complications.

In 1960, the passenger car was involved in almost 80 percent of all fatal accidents and more than 85 percent of the non-fatal accidents.

Retiring Now? Don't Wait to Check On Social Security

WALTHAM--If you have reached retirement age (65 for men and 62 for women) and have never inquired about social security benefits because you are still working, you should talk to a social security representative right away, Norman A. Keyes, manager of the Waltham District Office, advises.

Because of recent changes in the law, a great number of older people whose earnings were high enough to keep them from collecting social security benefits, will now be able to receive some benefits during the year.

Up until this year, social security beneficiaries who earned more than $1200 in a year lost one month's social security benefits for each $80 of earnings in excess of $1200.

Under the new law, only $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings in excess of $1200 and up to $1700. Thus, the beneficiary who earns exactly $1700 would lose $250 in benefit payments.

For earnings above $1700, benefits are reduced $1 for each $1 in earnings. Mr. Keyes invites anyone who is now of retirement age and who has not previously asked for information about his rights, to telephone or visit the local social security district office in Waltham, 11 Spring st., open Monday through Friday, 9 to 5. Telephone, TWinbrook 4-4890.

The motor vehicle industry purchases nearly $6 billion worth of goods produced by other industries in a single year, plus vast quantities of steel, rubber, leather and other raw materials, the Automobile Legal Association states.

League of Women Voters was founded to promote informed and active participation of citizens in government.

The first cross-country automobile trip in 1903 took 800 gallons of gasoline and 63 days -- and covered more than 6000 miles.

Hearing Set Tuesday To Decide New Look For North Av. Curves

WESTON--A new look for a 2100-foot section of North av. near the Waltham line will be aired next Tuesday.

Middlesex County Commissioners have set a hearing on the project for 10:50 a.m. in their quarters in the Superior Courthouse, East Cambridge. All abuttors have been notified.

The stretch involved runs from Church st. to the Waltham line.

The proposal: straightening and easing of curves, most noticeably at Church st. and Lexington st.

Another project, involving Lincoln, Waltham and Weston, may hold up construction on this North av. proposal...if the latter is approved by the county and the state. Weston selectmen have already given their approval.

Weston officials would prefer to spend their share of Chapter 90 funds to effect an extension of Winter st., Waltham to North av.

Learn About Water Safety Today at Weston Pool

WESTON--A water safety and rescue program will be a worthwhile take-in at the Weston Memorial Pool Thursday, July 27, at 2 p.m. The only fee for this program will be your presence at the pool and your attention. A vast amount of knowledge may be attained by persons young and old.

Anyone participating in any water activities should have some idea of what can be done to effect a rescue by oneself or to assist in a rescue operation.

This program will be presented by the Weston Police Department whose safety education is handled by Safety Officer Larry Tierney, and the Weston Recreation Program which is headed by John Proctor, Weston's Director of Athletics and Physical Education.

Ernest Trowbridge and his lifeguards will show a "water rescue" as taught in the life saving program at the pool.

The actual water rescue program will demonstrate the use of water rescue equipment of all types including a spare tire res-

Wolfe Takes Latin Aid Post

WAYLAND--Gregory B. Wolfe has been appointed director of a new privately-financed project on underdeveloped areas.

Mr. Wolfe has resigned as chairman of the School Board effective next Tuesday and will move to Washington to direct the project for the Committee on Economic Development, a national business research group.

The new project will concentrate on private development of underdeveloped areas in "countries washed by the Caribbean", according to Mr. Wolfe.

Later, it is expected the results of this three-year study may be applied to Africa and Asia.

This is not a government project but Mr. Wolfe, an expert in Latin American affairs, will be working closely with the State Department and the International Cooperation Administration in Washington.

Mr. Wolfe is also leaving Arthur D. Little Co. of Cambridge, a research concern with whom he has been associated since 1951.

From 1957 until April of this year, Mr. Wolfe was director of the Greater Boston Economic Study Committee which has made several base studies of the Greater Boston

THIS IS SUMMER FUN: Young stars and starlets of the Vokes Children's Summer Theater get the knack of entertainment down pat--so their summer play will hold an audience even younger than themselves. But painting and backstage work goes on right on stage. Note Dan Engberg, left rear, painting the set while big doings go on downstage. Others in scene (from left): Peter Clark, Noble Barker, Susan Sherwood, Jill Mosedale, Jeff Harris, David Gardner, Bruce Foster and Don Jones.

Play for Youngsters — by Youngsters

Vokes Children's Theatre: Adults Are Seen, Seldom Heard

When you're reading to your children--ever find you were getting more of a kick out of the children's story you'd picked out than they were?

Well, closing this sophistication gap is just what Vokes Children's Summer Theater is all about.

When the young audience shows up for an evening's entertainment next Wednesday and Thursday, the show will be theirs.

For James Thurber's "Many Moons" is a children's show put on by youngsters for the small fry--with a minimum of adult guidance.

And probably the light reins held by Mrs. Mercedes Bassett, director, and other adults backstage is the key to the whole affair.

If you're wondering how your child might fare in this first children's summer theater at Vokes, the answer is he'd have a chance to do most anything he's cut out for.

Backstage, working on lights, costuming, makeup, properties or sets are fully as many youngsters as appear on-stage.

These are all youngsters from the fifth to ninth grades--doing the work themselves.

And their guides? Teen-agers who have been "in the field". For example, Karen Eckler and Roberta Lombardo are coaching the dancers, working out the steps.

How did this come about?

Well, if you're going to put on a show that will reach a young audience and hold it, you've got your work cut out for you.

The actors must be alert, remembering every minute not to let the story line lag. And to do that, they must be enthusiastic.

Actually, it starts with registration day when, as Mrs. Bassett says, "you have to remember that youngsters like to see things happen at once."

Even before the first youngster had shown up, she points out, work was ready for them to do: sets waiting to be painted, poster cards awaiting lettering, properties to be selected and costumes to be readied.

That way, no delay. Action on the first day.

But for those who wanted to act, a surprise was in store. There was no play to be read. Nothing like that.

Instead, youngsters were given a chance to come back in a week with a story, poem or some favorite part that they wanted to read for Mrs. Bassett.

The reason: reading for a part in a given play makes for more competition than necessary right

Dr. Scott Named to Replace Wolfe on School Committee

WAYLAND--Dr. Jesse F. Scott of 18 Country Corners rd., has been named to the school committee to replace Chairman Gregory B. Wolfe who has resigned effective Aug. 1.

Dr. Scott is engaged in research in nucleic acids at the Huntington Laboratory of Massachusetts General Hospital.

The action was taken Monday night at a joint closed meeting of the Board of Selectmen and the Wayland School Committee, with all present but Mr. Wolfe.

Mr. Wolfe had another half year to go on his first term on the committee. He had served as chairman, a rotating job, since the first of the year. He is assuming a new position with the Committee on Economic Development in Washington.

John Arnold, vice chairman of the school committee and now serving as chairman, made the announcement after a two-hour session at which, Mr. Arnold said, several candidates had been con-

Burglar Found in Weston Home, Departs Without a Scent–

WESTON -- An alert neighbor who believes in following police suggestions tipped off the Weston police to a burglary at a local residence last Saturday.

Checking the home as the vacationing owners had suggested, she discovered something resembling the aftermath of a tornado:

Drapes ripped from the walls, wallpaper gouged in mysterious places, glass and expensive chinaware broken--and everywhere general disorder, from cellar to second floor.

Investigating police found an open cellar window, gradually came to suspect an animal but could find none...until Chief Shaw looked into the open dishwasher, straight into the startled eyes of a skunk.

Police departed as quickly as they had come, leaving the back door open. Sure enough, Mr. Skunk left that night....without a calling card.

The most lush and varied forest in the United States is in the southern Appaiachians, centering near Chattanooga, Tenn.

The eyes of Buteo Hawks are four to five times better than those of humans.

Caryl Jean Fahey Weds David Edward Oliphant

WAYLAND--Miss Caryl Jean Fahey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dixon of 210 Oxbow rd., recently became the bride of Mr. David Edward Oliphant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Oliphant, of 43 Carlton st., Brookline, in a double ring ceremony at the Trinitarian Congregational Church.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Donald Ewing. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Linda Swenson of Waltham was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Judy Oliphant, sister of the groom, Miss Judi Worthington of Waltham and Miss Sweetser of Gorham, Me. Flower girl was Miss Lisa Swenson of Waltham and ringbearer, Scott Dixon, brother of the bride.

Best man: Mr. Alward Pinard of Brookline. Ushers: Mr. Carter Fahey of Wayland, brother of the bride, Mr. Robert Direng of Quincy, Mr. John Oliphant of Brookline, brother of the groom, Mr. Richard Miller of Boston, cousin of the groom and Sava Tarr of Brookline.

The bride was gowned in white dotted swiss with oval neckline and old-fashioned bell-shaped skirt with nylon netting, shoulder-length veil and carried a bouquet of baby roses and stephanotis.

Miss Fahey's attendants all wore printed dotted swiss, yellow, orange and green. The maid of honor's shoes, hat and flowers were orange and her other accessories were yellow. The maid of honor carried orange african daisies and the bridesmaids carried yellow african daisies. All wore old-fashioned leghorn hats.

The reception was held at the Sandy Burr Country Club. After a wedding trip to Marshfield and Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Oliphant took up residence in Brighton.

The groom is employed as a management trainee at Liberty Mutual. The bride attended Wayland High School and Lasell Junior College. Mr. Oliphant attended Brookline High and graduated from Boston College last June.

Wayland Girl Is Wellesley Intern With Boston Firm

WAYLAND -- Miss Barbara Spaulding, 20 Jeffrey rd., Wayland, is a participant in the summer internship program in economics offered by Wellesley College in cooperation with the National Assn. of Business Economists.

Gaining practical experience in various phases of economics research, the interns are working this summer, at regular salaries, under the direction of professional economists.

Miss Spaulding is with the economic research department of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co., in Boston.

This is the second year of the economics internship plan. On the basis of the success of the 1960 pilot program, in which only Wellesley students participated, the project has been expanded this summer to include undergraduates from Mount Holyoke, Simmons and Swarthmore colleges, as well as from Wellesley.

Students have been assigned as interns with a leading life insurance company, a book publishing house, a steel manufacturing company, an investment firm, an industrial research organization, the U.S. Treasury, and the New England Council, an association of the region's business interests.

Miss Spaulding, who will be a senior at Wellesley in the fall, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Spaulding. An honor student and an economics major, she currently is president of the service organization at the college.

Mrs. Louise Carr

WAYLAND--Mrs. Louise (Hammond) Carr, 76, died suddenly last Friday at Boothbay, Me. She was the widow of William H. Carr of 12 Rice Spring Lane, Wayland.

She leaves a son, Victor H. Carr and a daughter Miss Phyllis M. Carr, both of Wayland.

Funeral services were held Sunday at the Wheeler Funeral Home, Bristol, N.H. Burial will be in Homeland Cemetery in Bristol.

Discuss Caucus Plans

WESTON--Officials of the Weston Civic Assn. and the committee on town government met Tuesday night at the Town Hall to discuss suggested changes in the caucus system in Weston.

Homer Myers, president, and Hillard Weich, vice president, represented the association.

Mrs. Mary Hapgood

WAYLAND -- Funeral services at graveside were held last Thursday for Mrs. Mary J. (Baker) Hapgood, 86, of 178 Commonwealth rd., East, with the Rev. Robert K. Jones, paster of the Cochituate Community Methodist Church, officiating. Mrs. Hapgood died Wednesday, July 19, at Leonard Morse Hospital, Natick.

A resident of Wayland for 18 years, she leaves a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Keefe of Cochituate and a grandson, Robert Keefe, also of Cochituate.

New Posts Open In Waltham With Hospital Shift

WALTHAM -- "The forthcoming transfer of young tuberculosis patients from the North Reading to the Middlesex County Sanatorium, Waltham will create many positions which must be filled soon," according to Howard M. Payne, MD, Middlesex County Sanatorium superintendent. Dr. Payne, newly-elected first vice-president of the Middlesex Christmas Seal Assn., speaking at the Christmas Seal annual meeting emphasized that the children will receive the best in modern treatment for the care of TB patients.

Target date for the transfer from North Reading to Waltham is late June or early July of this year. With the plans for transfer come naturally many employee openings which are to be filled by the Middlesex Sanatorium Personnel Office. One of the criteria for such employment is a genuine liking for children and the ability to work with kids.

Positions which now are open include: head nurse, licensed practical nurses, assistant cook, kitchen helpers, waitresses, seamstress, porters and launderers and licensed attendants. One experienced pediatric nurse of teaching calibre is also necessary. The state category for the pediatric position is 16 - 1.

Anyone interested in applying for the positions should contact the Middlesex Tuberculosis Sanatorium personnel office for full information at TW 4-4600. The Sanatorium is located on Trapelo Rd., just off Rte 128 in Waltham.

Elizabeth Frye Weds Douglas E.R. Kee

NEEDHAM--In the First Baptist Church in Needham, Miss Elizabeth Ann Frye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Frye of Athol, and formerly of Weston, became the bride of Mr. Douglas Elmore Ralph Kee of Fishers Island, N.Y., son of Mr. Elmore V. Kee and the late Mrs. Ruby Root Kee. The Rev. Donald B. Morris, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Weston officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza, appliqued with Alencon lace and seed pearls, a portrait neckline, and the skirt terminating in a chapel train. Her French illusion viel was caught to a cloche of silk organza petals and she carried a white Bible with a boquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Carolyn Frye was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a gown of blue silk organza with a matching picture hat and carried a bouquet of deep red and white miniature carnations, baby's breath and ivy. Identically attired the bridesmaids were Mrs. Donald Helms of Watertown, Mrs. David Helms of Boston, Miss Cynthia Prosky of Ardsley, N.Y., and Miss Cynthia Murray, cousin of the bride, of Weston.

For her daughters wedding, Mrs. Frye wore a blue lace sheath with matching accessories and a corsage of deep red roses.

Miss Suzanne Prentice of Eastchester, N.Y., sang "Bist Du Bei Mir" -- J.S. Bach, "Wedding Hymn" -- Handel, and "O Perfect Love" -- Joseph Barnby. she was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Victor Gould of Holliston.

Mr. Walter Taubert of Framingham was best man. The ushers were Mr. Merrill B. Frye, brother of the bride, Mr. Harry Knorr of Darby, Penn., Mr. Thomas Pyle and Mr. Eugene Dzicek, both of New York, and Mr. Arthur Roy of Framingham.

Mrs. Kee is a graduate of Weston High School and the School of Fine and Applied Arts at Boston University. Her husband is a graduate of Boston University's School of Fine and Applied Arts and received his master's degree at Columbia University.

After a wedding trip to Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Kee will make their home at Farmingdale, Long Island, N.Y.

Weston Man Heads Northeastern Class

BOSTON--Twenty-seven Northeastern University alumni have been elected officers of their respective classes at class reunions held during the past few weeks.

Elected officers will hold their positions until June 1966, when their next five-year class reunions will take place.

Local Northeastern graduates elected include: Gerard R. DeNapoli, 27 Brook rd., Weston, president, Class of 1941.

Accepted at U Mass

WAYLAND -- Robert Terry Burkinshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burkinshaw of 30 Bayfield rd., Wayland, has been accepted at the University of Massachusetts where he will study forestry. Terry was a 1961 graduate of Wayland High School.

Big Worlds Around Us

Maybe you noticed. Within the past two weeks it has been brought forcefully to our attention how close the American astronauts are to this area.

First, it was the revelation (to us, at any rate) that even the Weston Observatory is working on our outer space projects. And now our next door neighbor, Atkins & Merrill, has also become involved.

Atkins & Merrill, as you may have noticed in driving by on Rte. 20, has been involved in doing a mock-up of the Freedom VII Mercury space capsule. As a matter of fact, A & M did nine full-size ones so quickly that it received a special award from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

For a while this mockup was on display outside A & M, complete with the "picture window" but now all mockups are in service around the country as part of NASA's technical and scientific information and education programs.

Atkins & Merrill also has produced full-sized mockups of other U.S. space vehicles, such as the Pioneer V, Tiros, Transit, Vanguard, Explorer and Discoverer satellites.

We think it is remarkable the extent of the Weston Observatory's concern with practical aspects of the space exploration program, such as measuring the magnetic force of the earth.

In an area so close to the scientific capital of the United States, we are accustomed to connections with big doings in space and other national scientific concerns but it is still a matter of surprise to us to discover each new contributer to the national effort.

SPACE SPEEDSTER-- --Whfft....almost as fast as the Freedom VII Mercury space capsule itself, Atkins & Merrill created nine mockups. Looking on : Dr. John White, director of Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge and Donald L. Atkins, chairman of Atkins & Merrill, Inc.

EDITORIAL

The Easiest Mistake...

The easiest mistake in the world to make is to think you've got the problem licked.

And in this driving season, when you're carefree and vacation-bound, it could well be fatal to you and yours.

The fellow with the smirk above knows he will be able to do just what the state trooper says--see the hazard. He knows, because he's just had his car gone over.

And so did you get an official sticker--but that was last spring.

The National Safety Council says: Be sure your windshield wiper blades and arms are in perfect condition. You need an ounce of arm pressure for each inch of rubber blade length to sweep off rain--for clear vision.

Can yours do that? Can your brakes do the extra-sure stopping you'll want sometime on your vacation?

The best answer is an unofficial checkup--right now, before you take off for two or three weeks.

Something About Birds

BY CHARLOTTE SMITH

WESTON--Several calls have been received recently asking for help in identifying young towhees.

They are confusing birds when seen for the first time because they are so different from the adults, being dark brown above, buffy below and heavily streaked all over. The "give-a-ways" are their towhee actions and the white on the tail.

Miss G.B. Bissonnette, Kendal Common rd., reports that the second brood of the bluebird pair nesting in her yard left the box during the week-end of July 8-9. All three pairs reported in Weston have now raised two families each, and it will be interesting to see if any of them raise a third -- which bluebirds sometimes do.

In response to the question about hummingbirds, these reports have been received: Mrs. C.J.Paine, Old rd., (pair), Mrs. F. Pooler, Church st. (1f.), Mrs. E.C. Johnson, Jeffrey rd., (1 f.). Mrs. W.C. Ross, Applecrest rd. (pair), and Mrs. H. S. Draper, Wellesley st. (1 m.). Any more?

Of the 12 male rose-breasted grosbeaks color-banded by C. E. Smith, Westland rd., seven are still being seen regularly , coming to feeders for sunflower seeds--four by Mrs. A. S. Fales, Merriam st., and three by C. E. Smith. Several have been seen feeding young.

Nine females were color-banded, and one, banded July 9, appeared July 16 at Mrs. Poolers feeder on Church st., a mile and three-quarters (as the grosbeak flies!) from Westland rd.

A brief word about banding for those not familiar with it: this scientific work is done by well-qualified volunteers (about 2000 in the U.S.) through the Fish & Wildlife Service in Washington. Strict regulations require (among other things) federal and state licensing.

Be sure to see the "Pyramid of Bird Books" now at the Weston Public Library.

This attractive exhibit was prepared by the Education Department of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, and displays books for beginners at the apex--more advanced volumes at the pyramid widens to its base.

It shows graphically the wide field of bird study beyond the first step of identification.

Letters to the EDITOR

Bird-Watch Syndrome -- And Doctors

To the Editor

I got a chuckle out of the paragraph in "Bits and Pieces" last week about the "bird-watchers' syndrome," and the advice to consult your doctor "unless, of course, he is similarly afflicted."

It may surprise you to know that many of the best-known ornithologists of the past generation were M.D.'s; and that still today many doctors (and I could name, among others, several Boston specialists) find bird-watching, bird study, or whatever you want to call it, a particularly relaxing interest, and a relief from their busy days and hectic schedules!

Sincerely,
CHARLOTTE SMITH

Weston Teachers At Science Institute

BOULDER, Colo. Twenty selected science supervisors from elementary and high schools throughout the nation are attending a special institute on the University of Colorado campus.

Wallace W. Sawyer, 10 Granison rd., Weston, is attending the institute.

The three-week institute which ends Aug. 11, is financed by a $13,380 National Science Foundation grant and deals with biology, chemistry, physics and the earth sciences.

Participants receive $300 plus dislocation and travel allowances.

Doing what's right is no guarantee against misfortune.

Even Physicists Must Write

I feel that the most important subject in the entire course of study in the elementary and college preparatory years is the English language. What can be more important than to handle our own work-a-day language with facility, no matter what the life work, business or profession? I have some younger physics colleagues who obviously write with difficulty. They are promising scientists who love to work in the laboratory but they are laggards when it comes to writing papers to describe their results. But what good are research results unless they are properly described in a well-written report?

Also, it is most important that a scientist or engineer be able to get on his feet and speak clearly about his work. Some practice in public speaking, debating, or dramatics should be a part of every student's course.

I am pleased to note that one of President Conant's main recommendations is that all school students should study English every year, and that half of this work should be composition. W. W. Watson, Chairman of the Physics Department of Yale University.

Grissom's Go-Go Cart Offers Ideas for Blow-Out for Little Man

Everyone is talking about space these days. Can't help it. It's all around us. And now Capt. Grissom in his go-go cart has simultaneously made flying and swimming popular.

About that escape hatch. One enterprising builder we know has come up with something like it for the home--for the Little Man who wants to get away from the Little Woman for a big blowout. Only trouble is, he hasn't figured out how to put a silencer on the gadget.

Some note was take on quips passing back and forth between Capt. Grissom and Comdr. Shepard. One was about Jose Jiminez and some crying. A spaceman's joke it was called.

Actually Senor Jiminez, on one version we've heard, is the man chosen to be the first American to go to the moon. He's being interviewed:

ANNOUNCER: You'll be all alone out there. No one to talk to. Nothing but space around you. A long trip. Nobody else there. What to you plan to do?

JIMINEZ: All alone? Out in space? Nobody talk to? What I gone do?.....Well, I plan to cry a lot.

While everyone is concentrating on space, may we just point out that America on the New Frontier is concentrating great efforts on learning more about the oceans and what lies thereunder. No greater proof can be found, we think, than Capt. Grissom's adventure where in we sunk $5 million in the Atlantic.

Now that they've just about devised the neutron bomb that can pierce anything--even a mother-in-law's hide--the Federal government is toying with an idea to push for a bomb shelter for everybody. Hello, out there.

And speaking of science, President Kennedy could look for some help in his man-on-the-moon project from the Pediatrics Institute of Lower Upsala, Pa., which would like $2 billion for a study of the technique used by the cow that jumped over, once upon a time.

As a weather predictor who said, erroneously that summer should be limited to July 4 and 5 this year, we'd like to point out there are some straight ones around--like E.B. Rideout of Station WEEI who not only are accurate--we won't say good because some of their predictions don't find favor with us--but win recognition.

E.B. recently celebrated his 73d birthday and received personal congratulations from President Kennedy, a fellow who stage-managed a political tornado about a year ago. E.B. , as we recall (to our sorrow) forecast last winter pretty much as it turned out. We hope he's around for many more winters but we'd like for him to do a little better by us.

Just like to note that about the only family we know of who's been having peace and quiet since school let out is the one who sent their five children out to play in quicksand about June 25th.

Some people from the Automobile Legal Assn. figured out something just for us commuters: Boston parking lot costs are the highest in seven big cities -- about 20 cents an hour more on the average. Well -- they're not getting any smaller either. One bright thought: the lowest rates are in San Francisco . . . about 80 cents for all-day parking, compared with $1.75 in Boston. Frisco, anyone.?

* * *

Well, maybe Frisco is lower but it hasn't got a James Skeffington -- or a State House full of Johnny-Stay-Latelies -- or sidewalk-width streets -- or the MTA deficit -- or cellarsful of bright how-to-improve studies -- or the now-we'll-build-it, now-you-won't-either fight over the Turnpike extension -- or . . . Well, we can't see why anyone'd want to move way out to Frisco, even for the low rates. Nice place to visit, you understand, but any good Bostonian would take the last flight back East at midnight, we're sure.

Teittinen Heads Weston JHS; Other School Staff Promotions

WESTON - Aimo H. Teittinen of 50 Westland rd., has been elected by the Weston School Committee as principal of Weston Junior High School to succeed Philip H. Wye, who has resigned to accept the position of principal of the new junior high school in LaDue, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis.

Mr. Teittinen has taught in Weston High School since 1939, except for a three-year interruption for war service during World War II. Since 1958 Mr. Teittined has also served as vice-principal of Weston High School.

A graduate of Fitchburg State Teachers College, Mr. Teittinen has a master's degree in educational administration from University of Michigan. He has also done graduate work at Boston University in administration and guidance.

Before coming to Weston, Mr. Teittinen taught in Gardiner. He has also taught summer courses at Fitchburg State College.

Donald G. Hale, a teacher at Weston High School, has been promoted to the vice-principal's post.

Other administrative shifts in the Weston Schools include assignment of Walter P. Gleason as Director of the Accordian Plan from his position as part time principal of the Country School and coordinator of the Accordian Plan.

Henry W. DeRusha, formerly teaching principal of the Woodland School, has been promoted to supervising principal of the Country School.

Chester L. Towne, fifth grade teacher in the Woodland School, has been promoted to teaching principal of that school.

Wayland Scientist In New Position

BOSTON -- John Ohman of 83 Old Sudbury rd., Wayland, has been appointed as head, physical sciences, by Bay State Electronics Corp., Boston.

Since 1958, Mr. Ohman has been head of the physics laboratory at Melpar's Applied Science Division. For seven years prior to that, he was associated with Southwest Research Institute, San Antonio, Tex., in several technical management positions, the most recent being vice chairman, department of physics. His total of 29 years of responsible technical work and publication have included comprehensive experience in many phases of instrumentation and geophysical experimentation.

Mr. Ohman will be active in Bay State's expanded research and development program in the earth environmental sciences, emphasizing oceanography and geophysical experimentation.

3 Little Pigs In Wayland Next Tuesday

WAYLAND--The famous Boston Children's Theater Stagemobile is coming to Wayland next Tuesday at 11 a.m.

This year they are presenting "The Three Little Pigs."

The cast is comprised of children who have been trained in the Boston Children's Theater and play parts during the winter season at New England Mutual Hall. This is a fascinating sho guaranteed to delight both children and mothers.

It is so good that the July Adventure leaders decided to make it available to everyone who wishes to attend.

The one performance in Wayland is at the new high school. Admission 35¢.

Registration Opens For Y Day Camps

WAYLAND -- Camp Adventure and Kiddie Kamp the Regional YMCA summer Day Camps for boys and girls age 6 to 14 are nearing capacity enrollment it was announced today by Mrs. Anne C. Fletcher and Samuel Carpinetti, co-chairman of the 'Y' Program Committee. Both Kiddie Kamp which is open to boys and girls age 6 to 8, and Camp Adventure for boys and girls age 8 to 14, will be conducted from July 24 - Aug. 18, under the sponsorship of the Regional YMCA.

There are still openings for all four weeks but it is estimated that the capacity of 100 campers for the first two weeks will be reached this week. There are more vacancies for the final two weeks Aug. 7 - 18, however, many first period campers are expected to extend their stay at the camp. In any event, registrations will close July 10.

The YMCA Day Camp will be conducted on the Ashland Girl Scout site adjacent to the Ashland reservoir and the camps, particularly the 'Y' Kiddie Kamp, are not to be confused with camps of similar name being operated in the Sharon area by a Boston organization. The Regional YMCA camps will feature instructional swimming, pioneering, crafts, nature and study and sports games. Information can be obtained through the Regional YMCA at TR 5-1912 or Box 296, Framingham.

Girl Scouts Hunt Items for Auction

WALTHAM -- Cedar Hill, the Girl Scout outdoor program center is seeking saleable items for a Harvest Auction to be held Saturday Sept. 23 in the Red Barn at Cedar Hill. Several things, including interesting antiques, have already been collected but more are needed.

The categories of items wanted include the following: furniture and rugs; antiques; sports equipment; household articles; used toys; bric-a-brac; garden produce; pickles and preserves; pies and cakes. Things may be brought to Cedar Hill, 265 Beaver st., Waltham, anytime this summer.

The auctioneer will be Mr. F.B. Hubley and all profits from the sale will benefit Cedar Hill which serves 23,000 girls and adults from the Boston metropolitan and suburban communities. Formerly the Warren estate, Cedar Hill is a 76 acre property which has numerous cabins for overnight camping, sites for six large day camps, two swimming pools and a pond which is used for boating in the summer and skating in the winter.

Jimmy Fund Banks Ready in Weston

WESTON--No need to let spare change get you down, on one side.

Jimmy Fund canisters have been placed in all Weston banks and stores by Weston police for contributions to the Jimmy Fund Crusade.

Police officials throughout the state are in charge of fund collections for the Children Cancer Research Foundation in Boston. Weston residents contributed $68-plus last year.

Brief announcements of local interest are welcome. Right to edit all published material is reserved by the paper.

That part of an advertisement in which a typographical error occurs will gladly be reprinted but no financial responsibility for such error is assumed by the paper.

King & I: Romance & Music Aplenty at Carousel

By ANNE HOCKING

"And never the twain shall meet." Poor Kipling- no prophet he! Twice in one month they've run positively head on at Carousel. And here we are, East and West, locked in a great musical embrace.

THE KING AND I, following hard on the heels of KISMET was not dimmed by the light of its predecessor when it opened Monday night in Framingham. Siam seems to be as rife with romance as Arabia and as pleasantly vulnerable to Westernization. What's going to be fun is when they tackle the Congo.

But to sit on speculation for the moment and return to Siam, Rodgers and Hammerstein disarmed and forewarned us to begin with that they intended no "slavishly literal" translation of the book (Anna and The King of Siam by Margaret Landon) nor any kowtowing to historical fact.

Romance and musical transport were what they had in mind, and that's what you got.

On hand to dish it up was Giselle MacKenzie, as Anna, giving off vivacity and feminine charm like a neon butterfly. The King, Leonard Graves, had a rough time of it. It would have taken nothing short of a boor to have balanced the scales and he didn't even come close.

This may have been in part due to the subdued direction of James Hammerstein however. With the exception of the Uncle Tom's Cabin ballet, there was in evidence throughout the entire performance a reserve and fear of surrender to the cause.

The young lovers, Lisa de Julio and Paul Dixon supposedly in an agony of frustrated desire, conducted themselves on stage more like a couple of cats of the same sex let loose in a room. They were forever retiring to opposite corners.

By the time they did get together for a bashful embrace we'd long since lost interest in their plight. But their voices were lovely and their duet almost their redemption.

Other illustrations of restraint could be cited but why bother when one couldn't be more sympathetic to Mr. Hammerstein's plight. What sensitive son could feel free to reap his father's corn with abandon. There's too much reverence in the air.

But he did do well with the children of which there was a battalion. Thirty or more anyway of the most unaffected, self-possessed fry I've ever had the occasion to see. Children can so easily spell death to drama and almost invariably in great numbers.

Setting the pace for the juveniles was Arthur Garrison as Anna's son and Alfred DeArco, the King's son. What was said of the others applies to them ten-fold. Real pro's, so good one did not even think "how cute." They actually sang so they could be heard more often than not- no mean feat in that tent set-up.

Mara, an internationally accepted authority on Siamese dancing was responsible for the goings-on in the way of choreography. Words can't describe the effect good dance conjures - words can't do justice to Mara either. But Gershon Kingsley's musical direction did.

Danny Kaye next week. If you haven't already a heart warming ticket stashed in your breast pocket, you're out of luck or rather out of Kaye. I'd as soon be out of the breath of life.

Nothing is more dangerous in wartime than to live in temperamental atmosphere of a Gallup Poll, always feeling one's pulse and taking one's temperature.

6-Car Crash In Wayland But No One Hurt

WAYLAND -- A freak chain-reaction accident involving six cars occurred last Friday about 4 p.m. opposite the Red Coach Grill, Wayland--but no one was injured.

Wayland police said that a truck operated by David Hollis of 268 Commonwealth rd., East, was proceeding from Capp s Market onto Rte. 20 when a concrete block fell from the truck striking a car driven by Mary E. Blake of 24 Adams rd., Wayland.

In rapid succession, three other drivers stopped. They were James O. Kopp of 6 Main st., Maynard, Raymond H. Blanchette of 35 Summer st., Marlboro and Clayton V. Hemphill of 345 Crescent st., Waltham.

Police said a fourth vehicle, operated by Walter J.A. Brandie of 34 Park st., Hudson, was in collision with the Hemphill car--and the chain reaction started.

Adults in Back Seat--to Direct Children Take Over at Vokes; from the start-- and disappointment.

Adults know how it is. Everyone likes to have the choice parts. But there aren't that many to go around.

Besides, reading done by the child himself gives Mrs. Bassett an idea of what he could do in this or subsequent plays.

"Their loyalty to the whole thing has been wonderful," says Mrs. Bassett. Everyone comes in, eager to get on with his own work.

That's been the object. This is playing at acting. Getting the fun and the feel of it. There isn't any talent hunt for future stars. Just summer fun.

Every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday morning from nine to 11 (or noon), Vokes is bustling. Paintint and decorating of sets goes on simultaneously with the rehearsal on stage.

And backstage--posters are being worked up, costumes sorted, properties readied. Peter Nuendoffer, of high school age, is playing the entire piano score for the play. And often as not, Peter is giving someone else a hand or explaining a part.

Not everyone in the play is a Vokes player child. About half are from homes that have nobody stayed on.

"We figure that if they don't want to put in the time doing things on schedule every day, maybe tennis is better summer fun for them", says Mrs. Bassett. "This is just play-acting. It's not confinement."

The answer is the children discipline themselves. Except for Mrs. Bassett's stage directions, most voices are high-pitched and eager, the voices of youngsters at work, finding something they like.

That's the way they like it--and they hope they have something other youngsters will like onstage. This is a youngsters show, but parents will be tolerated.

Vokes Children Show Aug. 2, 3

Two performances of James Thurber's fantasy, "Many Moons" will be given by the Vokes Children's Summer Theater next Wednesday at 7 p.m. and Thursday at 8 p.m.

The first or twilight show, is designed for the very young who begin to nod off earlier than their big brothers and sisters.

The show has been dramatized by Charlotte Chorpenning and further tailered to a child's pace by Mrs. Mercedes Bassett, Vokes director and former student of Miss Chorpenning.

economy, the most recent of which appearing a month ago compared costs of government in each of 65 cities and towns in this area.

Mr. Wolfe has also served in Nicaraugua as an economic advisor before assuming his Boston job.

His new post will involve the working out of a consensus among Latin American businessmen and governments and their counterparts in the United States, Canada and Western Europe as to the best methods of developing trade and economy in that area.

This will entail working out techniques of organization, administration, research and liaison best adapted to furthering the economies mutually.

Mr. Wolfe, who recently received his doctorate at Fletcher School of Diplomacy of Tufts University for his study of Latin American relations of the United States, has long been interested in this field and is regarded as an expert in Latin American affairs.

His initial work, during August, will require setting up liaison with government agencies and during September he will tour the Caribbean to achieve the same ends. Later the post will require contacts with Western European business and governmental leaders.

Mr. Wolfe is a member of the board of Fletcher School, a member of the Pan American Society of New England and on the board of the Boston Arts Festival among others. He has taught at M.I.T. and Tufts.

Mrs. Wolfe, the former Mary Ann Nelson of Los Angeles and a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles, has worked in the Office of Inter-American Affairs under Nelson Rockefeller and on the Central American staff of Newsweek magazine.

Mr. Wolfe, a graduate of Reed College in Portland, Ore., received his master's and doctor's degree from the Fletcher School.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe have lived on Country Corners rd., for several years with their three children. Their new address: 1041 Lloyd rd., Potomac, Md.

Winter St. Relief Road May Get Top Priority

at Merriam st.

Talks on the Winter st. proposal have been stepped up by the state and communities involved, but it is by no means certain this project would be ready for top priority in construction.

For nearly 30 years, widening and straightening of this stretch of North av. has been on and off the drawing boards but only recently has the Board of Selectmen given final approval of the town engineer's plans.

If constructed, this would be the last stretch of North av. to be improved. Waltham has a short section beginning at the city line which remains to be redone but it is expected that this will be completed as soon as Weston ties in at the town line.

Under the Chapter 90 road program, the state contributes half the cost, and the county and town one quarter each.

Weston can not begin construction of its section until next year, since it will beed to wait for more Chapter 90 funds to meet the complete cost. It is planned to have the construction put out to bid, rather than tie up town equipment--and this requires additional time.

Although the town and county have been working closely together in planning, the state must also give its approval of the project. Its district engineers have also been tied un to the planning and it is expected that state approval will be given speedily, if the commissioners give their okay.

The Winter st. cutoff, it is pointed out, would relieve traffic on North av. and also Lexington st.

Most of this traffic is bound for the Waltham industrial park, and town officials feel that if they could get the Winter st. cutoff, the overall traffic pattern would be improved--and the North av. reconstruction could wait.

Actually, it comes down to establishing a priority for a limited amount of Chapter 90 highway funds.

No hearings have been scheduled on the Winter st. project and officials of Lincoln, Waltham and Weston are still trying to reach agreement on the best route. Hearings would involve three communities and absorb considerable time.

On this project, too, state and county authorities are favorably inclined.

Affected by the Winter st. extension would be construction of the 50-acre recreational park on the Lincoln-Weston line. Part of the road would cut off some house-lots which the directors of this non-profit organization are selling to raise the funds for their complicated construction plans.

sidered.

By law, the school committee must have five members in order to transact business and the appointment for the remainder of the term must be made by the selectmen in conjunction with the school board.

Dr. Scott said he expects to run for a full term next March.

Dr. Scott is an alumnus of Vanderbilt University where he received his medical and undergraduate degrees.

In addition to his work on Nucleic acids at the Huntington Laboratory, the new school board appointee is an assistant professor of anatomy at Harvard Medical School and teaches biochemical sciences to honor students in the tutorial program at Harvard College.

The school board is currently involved in planning for new and revised courses at all levels of Wayland schools and planning for additions to the school buildings.

Mr. Arnold said the school board had spent three full evenings going over applications for the school board post and that the selectmen also had worked long hours on the change.

Dr. Scott is married and has three children.

Attending Monday's meeting were School Committeemen John Wilson, John Gregory, Mrs. Allen Benjamin and Mr. Arnold as well as Selectmen Thomas F. Linnehan, Frank Tarr and George Lewis.

Gilbert Champagne, a well-known water safety instructor and a member of the Newton Police department and Massachusetts Safety Officers League, will be on hand to head up the program with other safety officer "mermaids".

Immediately following the rescue demonstrations there will be swimming races "North vs. South", and as a conclusion there will be free watermelon donated by the Weston Rotary Club.

Latest Heart Data Readied in Weston

WESTON -- Residents of Weston will have access to the latest authoritative literature on the heart and circulation through a program jointly sponsored by the Greater Boston Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Assn., and the local library, it was announced today.

Mrs. E. L. Adams of 53 Ash St., a volunteer worker for the chapter, will assume charge of a display of literature to be given free, like all Heart Association publications, to interested persons.

The interesting, information-filled pamphlets, written to make the complexities of the heart and circulation easily understandable, will be changed periodically, and will cover every phase of the field.

Mrs. Adams has served as a volunteer worker for many Heart Assn., projects.

Time for Checkup On Your Security

WALTHAM--Everyone who pays social security taxes should check his social security account regularly. People who don't, sometimes find, too late, that some of their work hasn't been reported correctly or hasn't been reported at all. In many cases, the record can't be corrected because the time limit for corrections has run out. In other cases the employer has moved away or died and his records are not available.

To prevent this, a worker should check his account once every three years. Any errors found can be corrected, and benefits paid at retirement, dissability or death will be the highest possible amount.

Sen. Cutler Named

WESTON--Sen. Leslie B. Cutler has been appointed by the president of the Senate to serve on two Special Recess Commissions--one providing for a study of the problems of rehabilitation and employment or re-employment of handicapped or disabled persons, and the second, providing for a study and investigation of the administration of the Department of Public Health and the state laws ralating to the admission, treatment and release of patients in institutions under the department.

The Senator will also serve on the continuing study from 1960 relative to the state business climate.

Sen. Cutler has just received word from Washington that HR 4998, a bill to extend and improve community and health facilities has been favorably reported by the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. This bill was endorsed by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations last June at a meeting which Sen. Cutler attended as a member of the Commission.

Be Unkind to Burglars Week Demands Attention

WAYLAND--Wayland Selectmen Chairman Thomas F. Linnehan and Police Chief Ernest Damon have done their part. Now it's up to the rest of the town.

By proclamation, the week of July 30-Aug. 5 hereby becomes "Burglary Prevention Week" which Mr. Linnehan noted, in issuing the proclamation, is worth nothing unless some of the precautions listed by Chief Damon are followed through.

The week coincides with dates set by the Massachusetts Assn. of Chiefs of Police, according to Chief Damon, who pointed out that the vacation weeks are especially important times to learn the lesson painlessly.

"From January to September of 1960, there were 18 burglaries in Wayland," Chief Damon said. "Unfortunately, many of these were the results of carelessness and probably could have been prevented.

"It's simply a matter of taking simple precautions when you go out for the night or away for the weekend longer."

When you go away:

--Leave two or three lights on. Timers that automatically turn lamps on and off every day.

--Put good locks on all outside doors. That means porch doors and french doors, too.

--Safety latches permit windows to open just far enough for ventilation--even on second floors.

--And of course cancel all deliveries, including mail, and ask a neighbor to pick up handbills regularly.

And don't say it couldn't happen to you. That's what 18 Waylanders said last year.

Wayland Woman Hurt as Car Overturns Truck

WAYLAND--A Wayland woman was seriously injured in a truck-car crash Wednesday, July 19, at about 6:50 a.m. on Concord rd.

Mrs. William Krongard was admitted to Leonard Morse Hospital with a fractured jaw, bodily bruises, and internal injuries as the result of the accident which saw the truck overturned. Her condition is described as improving.

The accident occurred near her home, 301 Concord rd. on a curve.

Although the truck, owned by the Cumberland Farms Milk Co. of Benthill rd., Cumberland, R.I. was overturned, the driver escaped injury.

Firemen were called to the scene to guard against a fire. Both cars were towed from the scene heavily damaged.

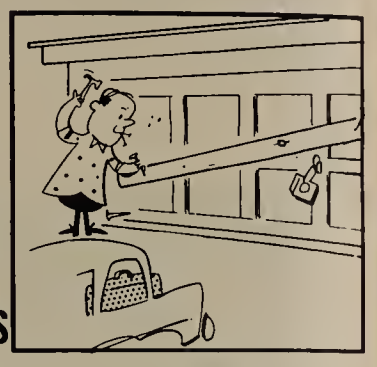
Mrs. Nathaniel Ellis

WAYLAND--Mrs. Helen (Carey) Ellis, 54, of 14 Bennett rd., Wayland, died Wednesday, July 19, at Leonard Morse Hospital after a five-week illness.

Mrs. Ellis, a dental secretary for many years, lived with her husband, Nathaniel, at 14 Bennett rd., Wayland. They had lived here for about 4 1/2 years and before that had resided in Brookline.

Mrs. Ellis was born in West Somerville on Apr. 13, 1907, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Carey.

Funeral services were held last Saturday at Waterman's Funeral Parlor in Wellesley at 1:30 p.m. with the Rev. Dan Fenn of First Parish, Unitarian, Wayland, officiating.



Mrs. Ellis leaves her husband and parents, now of Bedford and one brother, John R. Carey of Lexington.

Special Story
by Howard S. Russell

Mainstone's Guernsey Jewels

Cows have names and family pedigrees just like people. Well bred cows, that is: and one of the oldest pedigrees in the cattle line has been domiciled for nearly a century right here in Wayland.

Here is the story.

Just off the coast of France lies a little group of Channel Islands, the sole Norman domain left to the English realm after King Henry VI was forced to give up the French possessions of his ancestors.

These isles are noted for their mild climate, their many greenhouses, their early potatoes, and as the home of two of the most famous breeds of dairy cattle in the world. On one of the isles, no bigger than Weston and Wayland put together, (but with several times their population), for a thousand years, first the monks, then the farmers, quietly perfected the strain of Guernsey cattle. No foreign animal was ever permitted to be brought in, so the stock was kept pure.

Guernsey Island

A Boston seaman, Captain Prince, sailed his ship into the island harbor back in 1831, on his way home. There he was especially taken with the delicious milk and cream the Guernsey folks served him, and with the mild, handsome animals from which it came. So taken that he bought a cow and a bull and brought them back to his New Hampshire brother, who had a farm also on an island now named Guernsey, in Lake Winnepesaukee. Here they were mated, and the American history of this noted breed began. The modern American headquarters of the Guernsey breed is not far off, in Peterborough.

Mainstone Guernseys

Now and then a few other animals were imported to various parts of the East. But in 1871 another Boston man, James M. Codman, went at the matter seriously, selected eight cows and a bull on the Guernsey isle and brought them home. Four of these and the bull came to the Mainstone Farm in Wayland of his friend William Powell Perkins. Thirteen thousand Guernseys have been imported into America from the Island since; but until the recent barn fire forced the removal of the herd, still intact, successive generations of Perkinses and Hamlens have maintained here what had become the oldest purebred Guernsey herd in this country.

Cows Have Names

Cows have names, just like people, as we said at the beginning. A family chronicle read by Mrs. Paul M. Hamlen at the Wayland Historical Society tells the names that Mr. Perkins gave his original Guernseys. They were Pearl, Pearl 2d, Topaz, and Jewel for the ladies; and the bull he named Jasper. Perhaps these were suggested by the well known colors of the animals, yellow and white, for Guernseys are one of the handsomest of breeds; or by their melting eyes.

As time goes on, in a purebred herd, the names of the young animals tend to run lengthy, including the family names from which the calf comes. Much as you might, in your own family, include in the name of your son as many as three patronymics, and perhaps add Junior, or Third, at the end.

Performance Counts

But what really counts in cows and in humans is how the young-ster performs, and the health of body and spirit that he enjoys. Here the Mainstone Guernseys and the Guernsey breed in general have stood the test. Mainstone has proudly advertised in the breed journals as the oldest herd in America, and has sold its milk as of superior quality all over this area.

First New England Cows

The first cows to come to New England, Edward Winslow brought back to Plymouth in 1624. The Massachusetts Bay Company brought over 30 in 1630. These are all supposed to have been small red Devon cattle, though some larger Dutch animals were brought in later. The red cow predominated here for two centuries, without much attention to careful breeding, or what are now called bloodlines.

Well into the nineteenth century when Guernseys first came to Mainstone, and when milk for Boston was getting to be a big business, the ordinary "native" cow didn't average more than five quarts of milk a day. Nowadays to get any recognition at all in the Guernsey breed, a cow would have to triple that, and the best of the breed will do six times as well. And of course the Guernsey's strong point is her milk quality, taste and color, rather than its quantity.

In all this progress, and it is very real progress, the Mainstone Farm herd, feeding on the fertile fields beside Old Connecticut Path, has had a historic part.

League Leading Corvettes Play 5 Games in 4 Days on Weekend

PLEASE print or type names when sending in copy to CRIER.

WAYLAND--Five big games in four days for the league-leading Cochituate Motors Corvettes this weekend.

Tonight at 8 : Braintree Esquirettes.

Saturday at 6:30 p.m., twilight double bill against the Hartford Laurelettes, tied with the Corvettes for first place in the New England Softball League.

Sunday at 2 p.m.--doubleheader with Burry's Maurauders of Plainfield, N.J., state and regional champs and favored to retain the latter title although beaten by the Corvettes in the recent Eastern Seaboard Tourney.

ALL GAMES IN COCHITUATE

The Corvettes split a twin bill last Friday with the Qunicy Raiderettes, dropping the first, 3-2 and taking the nightcap, 9-3.

Sylvia Beaudoin's triple with Carol Wood and Joyce Letourneau aboard got the Corvettes off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but Donna Hebert had trouble with her control and the Wayland star couldn't hold the lead.

In the second game, the Corvettes got started on Jean Fitzgerald's home run in the third and cinched it with seven runs in the Big Sixth.

The Corvettes defeated the Fairview All Stars 4 to 0 Wednesday at July 19, at Manning Field, Fairview.

Donna Hebert started and was relieved by her sister, Paula, in the fourth. Carol Marshall pitched the last three innings. The Corvettes' pitching staff limited the All Stars to one hit, which came off Donna in the first inning.

Mary Bennett with three hits in four trips and Joyce Letourneau with two triples in four at bats were the big stickers for the Corvettes.

Must Register At 18 - Whether Drafted or Not

FRAMINGHAM — Although young men currently are not being drafted into military service until they are about 23, they nevertheless must register with the Selective Service System within five days following their 18th birthday as required by law.

This statement was issued today by Frederic A. Crafts of Weston, chairman of Local Board No. 18, Room 11, Memorial Building, Framingham in order to clarify what appears to be a misunderstanding on the part of many youths regarding the time when they must register. The board's jurisdiction includes Weston.

Mr. Crafts announced: "Failure to register, like failure to comply with other provisions of the law, may subject men to prosecution, or to induction out of turn and ahead of other men.

"A young man away from home at the time he is required to register may sign up at any local board nearest to him and his registration record will be forwarded to his home board."

The average grade of the Mt. Washington Cog Railway is one foot in four, or 25%; the steepest grade is 27.41% on Jacob's Ladder. The cog rail is bolted to the cross ties of the road and into play with perfect security the heavy toothed wheels under the engine.

Summer Festival at Hanscom Aug. 16-19 With War 1 Planes

HANSCOM FIELD--The annual Hanscom Field Summer Festival will be held Wednesday through Saturday, Aug. 16-19, the Festival Committee has announced.

This year's planned attractions include skydiving parachutists, fireworks, a professional high diver plunging from a 120-foot tower into a six-foot deep pool, and a rarely seen air show involving two genuine World War I fighter planes - a French-built Spad and an American-built Standard E-1.

The Spad is from a private collection based at Rhinebeck, N.Y., and will be flown by its owner, Cole Palen. The Standard E-1 is from the display at the US Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson AFB and will be alternately flown by USAF officers Lt. Col. Kimbrough S. Brown and Maj. William C. Redeen.

Amusements, rides, games and entertainment round out the four day program conducted as a benefit for Base Welfare and the Air Force Society.

Gates will open at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday and at 1 p.m. on Saturday. Closing time is 11 p.m.

No admission charge, plenty of free parking. Public invited.

Dry Run Delights Wayland Firemen

WAYLAND -- Wayland firemen had one happy run among seven calls in the week ending Tuesday.

This was a run last Friday at 3:06 p.m. to the Town Beach in Cochituate where two boys were reported missing. But when firemen arrived, lifeguards reported the pair had been found , safe on the beach.

This dry run is part of the Fire Department's beach plan which calls for quick calls whenever a child is missing so firemen can be on hand at the earliest possible moment to revive them. A dry run in this case is welcome.

In other calls:

--On Wednesday, July 19, at 6:49 a.m. on Concord rd. to wash down the road after a two-car collision; at 2:31 p.m., an accidental alarm at the high school.

--Friday, at 3:43 p.m., an oven fire on Spring Hill rd., at 5:50 p.m. false alarm on Jeffrey rd. and at 6:09 p.m. a washdown after an accident at Memorial sq., Cochituate.

--On Monday, at 7:5 a.m., firemen rescued a dog trapped in a storm drain off Damon st., Cochituate; at 11:15 a.m. rescuicitator call on Pemberton rd.

Police Chief Ernest Damon recommends:give your home a "lived-in" look while you're on vacation. Have your lawn mowed and sidewalk swept by a neighbor at least once a week. Leave a lamp or two connected to an automatic timer to turn lights "on" and "off" each evening.

Water is our least expensive mineral product.

Weston Church Burns As Lightning Touches Off 5 Fires in Night

WESTON--Lightning struck five times in one night here Tuesday, July 25, setting fire to a church steeple in the center of town.

Weston firemen were kept on the run for hours fighting the church fire and answering four other lightning strikes along Dean rd.

Six pieces of apparatus and a 65-foot aerial ladder were used in fightimg the blaze at the First Parish, Unitarian, Church on Boston Post rd. at 10:20 p.m.

What complicated matters: the strike set fire to the towering wooden steeple on the stone church.

It took two hours to extinguish the blaze. About $700 in damages resulted to the roofboards and shingles.

Earlier, at 9:50 p.m., firemen were called to the home of Frederick C. Talbot at 10 Maple rd. after the fuse box in the basement was struck by lightning.

The first of the Dean rd. fires

No More Town Dump Fires, State Decides in Air Cleanup

BOSTON--Town dumps are back in the news.

The State Department of Public Health wants them to stop burning refuse, pronto.

The reason: open dump fires are a menace to health in the department's view. Air pollution.

But Wayland and Weston town officials have not yet received notice of such stringent regulations and burning will continue at these locations.

The reasoning : they are far enough from centers of population so as not to be a great menace.

But effective last Tuesday, according to Dr. Alfred L. Frechette, public health commissioner, each operator (towns) of such a dump must have their fire permits approved by the state health board.

And this, adds Dr. Frechette, is not apt to happen.

His first targets : the 55 open burning dumps in operation in 30 cities and towns of Greater Boston.

After that, each operator of metal reclaiming dumps will also be required to live up to the new regulations.

Dr. Frechette says the dumps "are not only health menaces and

FIRE WHICH DESTROYED "Y" CAMP rages at Camp Chickami while Wayland firemen pour water on in attempt to save some of the camp.

15 BOYS FLEE 3 A.M. FIRE IN LOCAL CAMP

WAYLAND -- Quick-thinking by two counselors saved 15 Newton youngsters on a sleep-out last Friday when a 3 a.m. fire destroyed the Newton YMCA's Camp Chickami off Rte. 20.

The rambling T-shaped building used as headquarters for a day camp was leveled by the blaze which had gained considerable headway before Wayland firemen arrived moments after the first alarm at 3:23 a.m.

Total loss to the camp behind Robin Hood Ten Acres was set at about $10,000.

Newton Y officials said it will be rebuilt when funds become available. It was partly covered by insurance.

And this week day camp activities were resumed.

The whole affair for the boys was one lark once they had been guided to safety but it was nip and tuck for a while.

The boys were lucky to get out alive, according to Fire Chief Francis J. Hartin.

It was the quick-thinking of Senior Counselor Stephen Brown, 21, that made the difference.

Awakened by a crackling sound, Brown said:

"I thought at first the kids were fooling around and decided I'd better look into it."

Brown discovered flames coming from the nature room (it houses the kitchen and is adjacent to the main room) and awakened Bruce Dewire, fellow counselor.

Together, they aroused the boys and quickly led them from the building to a nearby field.

Dewire jumped into his car, raced to Rte 20 (about a quarter of a mile) to turn

Weston Youth Learn How to Use Clothes, Spare Tire to Stay Afloat

WESTON--Safety-first was the order of the day at the annual Weston Memorial Pool Water Carnival last Thursday afternoon, under the direction of Weston Safety Officer Larry Tierney.

The program by Newton police was done for the Weston police.

A sizeable and most receptive audience was on hand to gain additional safety information.

Highlight of the afternoon was the opening water rescue demonstration by Gil Champagne, safety officer for the City of Newton and his assistants.

Rescue operation methods included the right and wrong way of tossing a ring buoy to the tired swimmer.

Also, how trousers if removed or a shirt while worn could be inflated to privide water wings, keeping the victim afloat indefinitely.

Using a surfboard and victim, Mike Jones, Champagne showed several effective rescue methods emphasizing the advantage here of speed and ease of handling.

Volunteers were than asked to dive in and be rescued at one time, showing ability of the surfboard method in saving groups.

A most practical operation for rescue, which can be made even by

Philip Smith

WAYLAND -- Philip F. Smith, 68, retired Boston policeman, died suddenly at home, 42 Deane rd. Monday, July 24.

He was born in Boston and retired three years ago after 35 years with the Boston Police Department, being with Division 16 at the time of his retirement.

Mr. Smith was a member of the Boston Police Post, A.L., No. 251 and was a veteran of World War I, serving in the army.

He leaves his wife (Mae Powers) Smith, a son, Elmer, and a daughter, Phyllis Smith, all of Cochituate.

The funeral was held at the John Everett and Sons Memorial Funeral home, 4 Park st., Natick, last Thursday. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Zepherin's church in Cochituate, at 9.

Regional YMCA Draws 114 Campers

FRAMINGHAM -- The Regional YMCA Day Camp opened on Monday with a capacity enrollment of 114 boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 12.

Kiddie Camp for boys and girls aged six to eight, and Camp Adventure for boys and girls age 8 to 12 are being conducted as one operation by the Regional YMCA.

The camp is the first program service of the newly formed Regional YMCA which will offer a large variety of program services throughout the Regional area on a year-round basis.

The camp will be conducted for a four-week season this year and will probably be expanded next summer on the basis of the overwhelming response this summer. The camp program includes a complete schedule of swimming, crafts, nature, games, and sports under the direction of Joseph Wilson, camp director and Robert A. Strine, YMCA general secretary.

Children are transported to the camp which is located adjacent to the Ashland State Park by three buses provided by Ed and Al's Bus Service of Ashland which travel over one and hundred and thirty combined miles daily to deliver campers to and from the camp site. The camp will continue through Aug. 18.

Former Weston Girl To Wed in September

WESTON Mr. and Mrs. Wayne D. Wetzel Sr. of 225 Fairfield rd., Painesville, O., announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith Ann to Richard AlanSchwartz, son of Mrs. Max D. Schwartz, 19916 Van Aken blvd., Shaker Heights, O. and the late Mr. Schwartz.

Both graduated from Cornell University where the bride-to-be was a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority and the groom-to-be a member of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity.

Miss Wetzel presently resides in Washington D.C., where she is working in the executive office of the Secretary of the Navy and studying for her masterd degree at George Washington University. Mr. Schwartz is at present a student at Cornell University Medical College in New York City and a member of the coaching staff of the Columbia University Crew. A September wedding is planned.

The Wetzel family formerly resided at 38 Brook rd., Weston, where Miss Wetzel was valedictorian in her 1956 graduating class. She was also the Grover Cronin Miss Charm of 1956.

Man is a rope stretched between the animal and the Superman -- a rope over an abyss. (Nietzsche)

Even Dad's Shirts Help Vokes In Children's Theatre

WAYLAND -- Everything's gone into the children's show, "Many Moons", including father's old white shirts.

Although the Vokes Children's Summer Theater is a children-oriented, children-run show, parents have kicked in with effort, too, as parents usually do where youngsters are concerned.

And fathers' shirts have been very useful paint smocks for behind-the scenes work. The results will be seen tonight at 8:30.

But behind the work done by Mrs. Mercedes Bassett, director, and Mrs. Milly Eckler, her assistant, was considerable guidance by parents under the over-all direction of Mrs. Barbara Bassett, production manager.

For example, in hand props: Mrs. Betsy Swiedler, Mrs. Hildy Harris and Mrs. Nancy Tanger.

Working on stage props guidance: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Newbert.

The way the parental work shapes up is this:

Mrs. Twinky Carr got together with the youngsters to find out what they wanted in the way of scenery. Once determined, she told them how to go about it. After that, it was their job.

She taught them the use of the snap line and how to highlight their scenery so it would look right to the audience (though not necessarily to the players on stage).

Helping on makeup were Mrs. Jane Havener and Mrs. Carol Stites; on wardrobe, Mrs. Eleanor Gardner, Mrs. Betty Howard and Mrs. Bobbie Mosedale.

Others helping: Mrs. Barbara Jones, Mrs. Buff Paine, Mrs. Carolyn Jones, Mrs. Bernice Sherwood, Mrs. Ginny Hyland and Mrs. Carl Neuendorffer.

Teenagers helping out: Anne Fritts on hand props and Judy Mosedale, prompter for the show.

You Know Caesar's Wife...

So maybe everyone talks about honesty in government, and it gets tiresome after a while.

But let's assume it's worth one more go-round, and mention President Kennedy's little bible on "how to stay honest in government" which was published last week.

The thing we noticed most--and maybe you did, too--was the fact that he applied the standards to everyone from cabinet secretaries right down to the janitor in the Federal office buildings.

And the essence: no conflict of interest.

There was considerable said about no outside jobs, not bringing disrespect on one's government position and no acceptance of gratuities, gifts or favors that might be interpreted by others as affecting one's impartiality or official action.

But we think, in view of past history, the strongest point was this : no participation in "outside financial transactions in conflict with their duties". In other words--no conflict of interest.

Like Caesar's wife, a public official must not only be honest but wholly above suspicion.

And the same may be applied to officials at the state level.

Something About Birds

by CHARLOTTE E. SMITH

WESTON -- News about local birds has been sparse this past week, and probably will continue to be until September, when the molting period is over and southward migration begins.

However, there are many things which the sharp-eyed observer can see.

Those who have been putting out food this summer have had an interesting time watching young birds being fed by their parents, then gradually learning to take care of themselves.

Young downy and hairy woodpeckers eating suet are particularly amusing; and in their fresh soft plumage they present quite a contrast to the bedraggled-looking adults who have begun to molt. Young males have red on top of the head, females' are whitish.

August is the quiet month in bird-life. After the nesting season is over and the young are on their own, adults undergo a complete molt -- a major process which takes several weeks and gradually replaces every feather in an orderly sequence.

For example, notice the tail-feathers of your chicadees. The molt begins with the middle ones and continues outward. You will see that the new central feathers are normal length while the outer ones just coming in are progressively shorter.

Molting takes practically all the bird's energy, so singing stops and all other activities slow down; body fat begins to build up in preparation for migration. Most birds go into seclusion in wooded and swampy areas and are seldom seen in their usual places.

Many male birds change color completely, the bright ones like the scarlet tanager, indigo bunting, and rose-breasted grosbeak becoming more like the female in appearance. Scarlet tanagers are very odd-looking with patches of yellow-green in the bright red.

Other birds, such as sparrows, look much the same after the molt; the robin's red breast is duller because of the gray tips on the new feathers.

The whole subject of molting is a fascinating one and much more complex than can be indicated here. If you are interested in learning about it, read Arthur Allen's "Book of Bird Life" (a new edition of this popular old standard is now available), or Josselyn Van Tyne's "Fundamentals of Ornithology"

Let's Shake 'Em Up

Not that TV wasn't irritating enough. Now it develops some of its moguls are on record as demanding more sadism....to soup up some of lagging crime stories.

Yes, that's right. Congressional probers found this little tidbit in the ABC files--from the producer to the scriptwriter of "The Untouchables" :

"I like the idea of sadism, but I hope we can come up with another approach."

Get that--"I like the idea of sadism..."

Well, good for him. We hope he gets it--off camera.

But working against this man's half-hearted thought about change is this from ABC's vice president of programming--to the same scriptwriter:

" 'The Untouchables' lacks some of the dynamic excitement of the earlier shows. The softening in ratings may be the result of this talkiness."

Not enough "dynamic excitement". Nice of him. As for the soft ratings--maybe he could be wrong there. We're not ready to believe yet that vicious beatings and agonizing deaths feelingly portrayed are that popular. Maybe too much of that has softened the ratings.

We'll admit that in tired moments, just about everyone prefers the wild west of Channel 5 to the serious roundtable of Channel 2. Everyone is human. But apparently everyone is inhuman...according to TV executives, whether we like it or not.

If you're doing nothing better during this hot weather, we'd suggest tossing a little word bomb into the nest of the Untouchables--i.e., the TV executives. Come on, let's shake 'em up.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

The Publick Library: Work of Absolute Necessity

One hundred eleven years ago next week, on Aug. 7, 1850, the Wayland Public Library opened its doors; the first free public library in this state to be supported by general taxation, and the second in the nation.

The books were arranged in a room behind the Doric columns of the then Town Hall, (now Collins Market).

This event was in part the result of a gift to the town in 1847 of $500 from president Francis Wayland of Brown University; partly of local initiation in raising another $500, and more, to match it.

Finally there was the action of successive town meetings in appointing committees to handle the funds, provide suitable quarters, and buy the books.

Weston's splendid public library has a history almost as long. It was established by town action in 1854.

Not that the idea of a public library was new. Over five hundred years before Christ, one was founded in the Greek city of Athens, and Egypt had a library of similar antiquity. Rome in its heyday had two. The library of the British Museum in London and the Bibliotheque National in Paris are among the famous public libraries of Europe.

When the Puritans, with their love of learning, came to New England, they brought books - but not enough.

At Harvard, in 1639, (as one of their historians put it almost a century later), "a Foundation was laid for a Publick Library, which was a Work of absolute Necessity; Books being so scarce in the County that it was impossible for the Students to purchase them."

Benjamin Franklin, a Boston born boy, started a more general library movement when he founded the Library Company of Philadelphia, in his own words, "the mother of all the North American subscription libraries, now so numerous."

"These libraries have improved the general conversation of the Americans, made the common tradesmen and farmers as intelligent as most gentlemen from other countries," and contributed, he hopes to their stand for freedom.

New England itself was not far behind, for in 1733, a group of Durham, Conn., citizens organized to buy books to circulate. Guilford followed (by the end of the Revolution it had 400 books) then Pomfret, and other towns.

Is it possible that such a library was one reason why eight Pomfret boys graduated from Yale in a single year, 175)?

Salem , Mass., had its "Social Library" in 1760, and that is the title by which most of these proprietary libraries were known.

There was a veritable burst of library enthusiasm at the close of the Revolution, and social libraries multiplied in New England towns.

Among these, the East Sudbury Social Library Assn. was founded in what is now Wayland, in 1796.

In fact, New England had then already begun to export the idea.

When Connecticut people in 1788 founded Marietta, Ohio, they so felt the lack of books, as well as money to buy them, that they caught and skinned raccoons, sold them, and started what was jokingly named "the Coonskin Library" there.

But to come back to Massachusetts. Social pride has caused various places, New Bedford and Boston among others (New York City also), to claim the honor of being first in the public library field. But, after Peterborough, N.H., Wayland's claim to priority seems justified, especially since it was Wayland's representative in the General Court, the Rev. John B. Wight, who, in 1851, introduced and secured passage of the bill making it legal for towns and cities to spend tax money for library purposes.

Dr. Wayland's offer had been made in 1847, the town had acted several times in town-meeting, and the library had actually opened in the year of 1850. Interestingly enough, England passed its first public library legislation in 1850.

Nowadays the public library is so common here in New England, one in every single town and city in Massachusetts and Vermont. That you may not realize how sparse such libraries still are outside the big cities in many parts of the country, and sparser still in most of the rest of the world, even of the so-called civilized part.

Over most of this world, for a citizen to be able to walk into his public library, as you may do any day, choose books from open stacks, and take them home to read, is simply unheard of. And that children should choose their own likewise!

There are advantages to life in Weston and Wayland.

Letter To The Editor

Morgan Memorial: Thanks

To the Editor:--

We feel your newspaper deserves a great deal of credit for the increasing help being given to handicapped people and the national award just received by Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries in Boston. The citation singled out Morgan Memorial for "the most outstanding gain in hours of service and opportunity rendered to handicapped workers during the past year."

Aid to the handicapped has jumped at Morgan Memorials because the total volume of donated clothing, household articles, and other material has been on the increase. Last year, a total of 356,302 filled Goodwill Bags were received as compared to 104,014 in 1957, and the total number of handicapped people given work has jumped from 278 in 1958 to an average of 483 last year.

We believe it has been through your generosity in publishing our news items, and the generous response of hundreds and thousands of readers, that the influx of material is on the upswing. We are proud that more than 200,000 residents of Greater Boston send us material each year.

Very sincerely,
HENRY E. HELMS

Bits & Pieces

Congratulations to Dan Fenn, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Dan Huntington Fenn of Wayland's First Parish, Unitarian, Church.

Dan has just been taken into the White House as a special assistant to the President, the last of a succession of posts he has filled in the governmental and political field.

This means he is out as administrative assistant to Sen. Benjamin Smith 2d a post he also took up at the behest of President Kennedy.

Dan has taken leave of absence from his post as editor of the Harvard Business School Bulletin, a post he has held for a decade.

You knew, of course, that the police of Orange, N.J., went right into this woman's house at 3 a.m. and dragged her off to the police station to pay $1 parking fine.

Of course, it was in nearby East Orange that the suburban gendarmerie collared citizens with overdue library books....at 3 a.m.

The way things are going, it seems un-reasonable to us that before long, if the New Jersey system catches on, we'll be doing business in the wee small hours.

"Patronize our Owl Service"--that's the supermarket plea. Get your suit in before 3 (a.m.) and have it ready for breakfast (at noon, naturally).

And then, of course, there's the businessman slipping out for the all-night luncheon/and a pitcherful of martinis.

Come to think of it--how're you going to get the kids to bed on time at this rate? Lay off, New Jersey, this has got to stop.

Greg Wolfe, now retired school board chairman, points out that he completed the purchase of his new house in Potomac, Md., on Sunday, without so much as a twinge of conscience about the Blue Law psychosis, we Bay Staters are supposed to revere.

Parents worried about just whom their boys associate with should send them to camp. Then, when they come home, you can get a rundown on their friends: just read the labels on the clothes they bring home.

* * *

Three more pop fowls have been sighted in this region last week end at the Cochituate ballpark where the Corvettes hold forth.

A number of web fingered flycatchers have also been noted in this area by persons with little else to do on weekdays.

One complaint was heard about Be Unkind to Burglars Week around here: none showed up to be mistreated. Well, you can't please everybody.

Would you want your daughter to marry an insurance agent?

Go adead--snicker. But it's no joke to us agents.

Some people still don't realize that an insurance agent today must be a highly-trained, skillful pro. They cling to the tired old image of the door-to-door salesman -- complete with fast tongue, thick skin and a Size 12 shoe to wedge open the door. Even today they may turn pale when they see one of us coming up the walk.

But the old days are dead. The agent today is a very nice guy to know. Very knowledgeable, too. And very very helpful to people who own a home, a car, take trips, have babies, get sick, etcetera, etcetera.

Life has indeed gotten complicated, and a bit frightening at times. But less so when you have a full-time, qualified insurance agent to help you protect your family from umpteen hidden dangers and get you over the trouble spots.

Frankly, we hope your daughter does marry an insurance agent. He's a mighty handy man to have around the house.

WAYLAND FIREMEN MOVE IN on Camp Chickami fire at height of blaze which destroyed Newton "Y" camp in Wayland.

FIRE AFTERMATH--Counselor Bruce Dewire of West Newton points to damage at "Y" Camp Chickami for a fellow counselor, Stephen Brown of Brookline. Brown discovered the fire, awoke Dewire and led 15 youngsters to safety. (John McCann Photo) in the alarm.

Chickami —

Counselors said there was no fire alarm on the scene, nor had there been any fire precautions taken for the occasional sleep-outs at the camp.

In the excitement, Dewire remembered that the fire department number was listed on the bulletin board, raced there and got it before rushing to the phone on the main highway.

FIREMEN PRAISED

Bystanders praised the work of Wayland firemen who had to lay lines from the nearest hydrant 1500 feet away.

Firemen under Chief Hartin also laid lines from a nearby brook.

The local department had all equipment at the scene, and Sudbury and Natick fire departments covered the local stations.

As for the boys, the close shave soon became a lark.

Camp neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Roy and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond P. Handrahan, took the boys in and fed them.

Y THANKS NEIGHBORS

Later, the youngsters stayed at the fire station where they watched their adventure on early morning television and were treated to toast and cocoa.

Alex Miller, chairman of the Y camp program, said:

"YMCA, Camp Chickami and the parents of the boys are most grateful to Chief Hartin, Mrs. Roy and Mrs. Handrahan for the very friendly hand extended to the boys to make them comfortable until the parents could come for them."

BOY - DID WE GET OUT!

In all the fuss, just one boy was sick. They got out fast. And they lost all belongings but what they wore.

Every two weeks or so, it has been the habit of the Y to have a sleep-out for a small group of boys. They sleep on a side porch of the building.

The fire apparently started in the nature room or kitchen of the rambling structure. The cause is undetermined.

The boys' reaction was varied. One boy got the same idea as the counselors. Said Bruce Freeman, 8, of 17 West Chester rd., Newton:

"I thought the noise was the counselors popping corn in the nature room. But then both of them came running and told us to get out. And boy -- did we ever get out!"

According to Raymond Manning, 9, of 853 Washington st., Newton: "Steve woke me up. I was scared. We were all scared. We could see the flames shooting out of the nature room. We got out fast."

But Brown and Dewire agree the boys took it all in their stride. No panic. No undue rushing. No delaying either.

FUN - AFTER IT'S OVER

But afterwards, the boys had a laugh over their close shave. After all, from their way of looking at it, this sort of thing doesn't happen too often at 3 a.m.

For firemen, however, it was another matter. The long distance from the hydrant to the scene (about 1000 feet) gave them some difficulties. The fire had too great a head start for them to save the building.

Mr. Miller and Russell Ball, camp director, who arrived on the scene about 4:15 a.m., were high in their praise of firemen.

The camp site was acquired by the Y in 1955. Originally, the building was used as a picnic area by Seiler's.

Said Mr. Miller: "We won't replace it as it was. We will replace it. But [illegible] costly operations but they are major contributing factors to the growing problem of (metropolitan) air pollution.

What this boils down to is this: in addition to fire department permits, all dump metal reclaiming operators must have permission from the state health department -- and the department is not disposed to issue such permits.

If so, this would mean that within a few months time, the problem of the heavy odors of the town dumps will be a thing of the past.

Weston's off Church st. and Wayland's disposal area on Rte. 20 are regarded as far enough from habitation to make trouble -- but the state may feel differently about it.

The state's crackdown on the Greater Boston communities, officials indicated, would come under vast new powers adopted by the Metropolitan Air Pollution Control District.

So, it would seem that even if town dumps escape the pinch of the Blue Laws, they'll be tamed by the (air) pressure of the air pollution laws.

its continued development as well as the establishment of status positions for key members of the faculty.

What are "Status People"? They are teachers who work closely all through the month of July with other teachers, principals and the administration.

While students are vacationing, "Status People" are able to select teaching materials, textbooks and applicable courses of study.

They work in a quiet and extremely cooperative atmosphere, planning, discussing and just plain thinking about the problems that face the schools in these areas.

In addition certain selected teachers from all our schools composing what is known as "lateral faculty teams" are analyzing courses in grades one through twelve in the four key subjects of mathematics, English, science and social studies.

These teams will confer on the material which has been covered in each grade school, plus the material that will be studied at Junior High and High School level in each subject. This will insure that when students reach the higher grades a coordinated study program, based on their previous preparation will have been worked out.

Several other important areas are occupying the admimistrative and secretarial staff during the Summer, along with getting school ready for opening day. They are:

1. Procurement of staff
2. Summer maintainance program
3. Compilation of State Reports (data required by the State which governs money returned to the Town for Education)
4. Administration of the Summer Program for teachers
5. Purchase of supplies and equipment.
6. Arranging bus schedules to insure effective movement of about 2800 students.

Sounds pretty hectic doesn't it?

Don'ts for Parents At Weston Pool

WESTON--Parents could use a few don'ts, say Weston police,--especially those who leave their non-swimming children at the Weston Pool while they run off shopping and visiting.

Some non-swimmers have been left at the pool up to 3 1/2 hours. Of course, there are lifguards, says Safety Officer Larry Tierney, but even with an average of four guards on duty at all times, a child's curiosity can lead him into trouble that even a lifeguard may not be able to remedy. The deep end of the pool holds a fascination for these children but finding them if they fall in isn't easy.

Also: don't send your child to the pool right after a heavy dinner -- and don't send him there, unattended, with a big lunch. You're only asking for trouble.

No Place Among Humans For Danny Kaye – He's Zoom!

by ANNE HOCKING

Reviewing Danny Kaye's INTERNATIONAL SHOW which opened Monday night at Carousel comes just about as easily as attemptng to review an evening in bedlam.

No orderly procession of impressions, no plot to hinge one's sensibilities on, nothing in short but Kaye and his uncanny ability to waft one into a world of inanity. And it's hard climbing back down.

But if you must know, a good part of the evening was a rehash of old Kaye favorites, Anatole of Paris, Minnie the Moocher, The Fairy Pipers, etc. strung together with a palatable portion of impromptu hanky-panky about this and that - namely conducting a highly skilled audience in a concert of three part gobbledegook.

(I'm proud to record I was in the zoom section and not the least of the zooms was 11) But knowing Kaye it's hard to believe that every audience will get exactly the same fare.

Said Danny: "There's no one in the world who likes to hear me entertain better than me."

Is this a confession or a modestly implied formula for his fantastic success? Both, and it is also in the nature of an apology. For a genius must apologize too, quite as frequently as his counterpart in failure.

There's no place in humanity for him until he's down on his knees with the rest of us admitting "I'm sorry, I just can't help it."

And Danny can't help it no more than we can help going along with him. Far be it from me to figure out why.

Back to earth again next week with Brenda Lewis in THE SONG OF NORWAY.

HAVE YOU CHANGED THE OIL IN YOUR WATCH LATELY?

Sounds silly, doesn't it -- but it is a fact that your watch oil deteriorates -- gets gummy -- just like the oil in your car! Dust and foreign particles mix with the old oil and in time cause serious damage. Bring your watch in to us today for a thorough cleaning and save costly repairs later on.

Swim Meets

WAYLAND -- At Wayland Town Beach the first swimming meet of the season will be held this Saturday, and every Saturday thereafter at 2 p.m. until the beach closes.

The meet -- open to Wayland and Cochituate residents only -- will have events in free style, backstroke and breaststroke. Boys and girls 16 years old and under may sign up for 2 events in their own age group and must sign up no later than the Friday before the race at 4 p.m.

Ribbons for first, second, third and fourth place will be awarded. A first place ribbon is worth five points, a second place ribbon is worth three points, a third place ribbon is worth two points and a fourth place ribbon is worth one point.

....AND SUDDENLY IT JELLS--This summer melange is the rehearsal for the Cambridge School of Weston's Drama Workshop production of "Salad Days." Not much unity there when this picture froze the action but by tonight director Whitney Haley (foreground) expects to have a "cool green musical comedy" ready for public enjoyment at the school. Repeat tomorrow at 8:30. (Photo by Howe Derbyshire)

SKIMMER SAFETY - Skimmer boards (something like a surfboard), now found on many beaches can skim out to a drowning person in nothing flat (just paddle with hands) and bring him back alive. Up to 25 persons can stay afloat around such a board. Demonstrating: Gilbert Champagne of Newton Police and Mike Jones of Brook rd., Weston. (Larry Tierney Photo) the non-swimmer, was the use of a tire complete with wheel and tube, such as the spare carried in automobiles.

This, when thrown into the water, supported Mr. Champagne's assistants and three of our lifeguards at one time.

"With a cup of coffee and a sandwich" said Mr. Champagne, "it would support all indefinitely.

"It can be thrown off a bridge to support a drowning victim or pushed over ice to aid a skater who has gone into the water."

Lively races by age groups of younger pool members followed, those living north of the Post rd. competing with those on the south side for a total winning score.

Races and their results with the South taking a final one point lead in a 60 to 59 score, are as follows. (North and South are designated by N. and S.)

--Age 14 and under - boys 50-yard free style: 1. Danny Aquilino (N) 2. David Akers (S) 3. Teddy Mooers (N).

Age 14 and under - girls 50-yard free style: 1. Marty Wypler (N) 2. Ruth Jones (N) 3. Krissy Kelly (S).

--Age 12 and under - boys 25-yard free style: 1. David Akers (S) 2. Mike Jones (N) 3. Jimmy Auston (S).

--Age 12 and under - girls 25-yard free style: 1. Ellen Minahan Naughton (S).

--Age 12 and under-boys 25-yard back stroke: 1. Danny Aquilino (N) 2. Krissy Kelly (S) 3. Ann Vinal (N).

--Age 10 and under - boys 25-yard free style: 1. Joe Naughton (S) 2. Mike Mooers (N) 3. Jay Raynor (N).

--Age 10 and under - girls 25-yard free style: 1. Debbie Blackie (S) 2. Judy Basset (N) 3. Sharon Powers (N).

--Age 14 and under - boys 50-yard back stroke: 1. Fred McDonald (N) 2. Eugene Cappocia (N) 3. Joe (N) 2. Rich Russel (N) 3. Joe Naughton (S).

--Age 12 and under - girls 25-yard back stroke: 1. Ellen Minihan (N) 2. Ann Vinal (N) 3. Nancy McMullen (S).

Weston Fire –

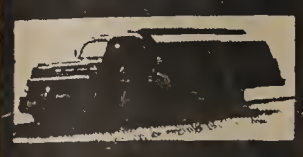
broke out about 1:50 a.m. Wednesday in an auto parked in front of the home of Robert A. Hawks, 47 Dean rd.

At 1:51 1/2 a.m. firemen were called to 53 Dean rd. where power lines were down and burning in the grass. W.O. Waite lives there.



At 1:53 a.m. a call came that the house at 47 Dean rd. had been struck, the home of Raymond P. Cottini. At the home of Edward V. Huntington, 73 Dean rd., similar damage resulted.

Considerable damage was done at the home of Mr. Hawks where wires feeding into the main disconnect were hit, causing damage to the electric stove.

Boston Edison crews were called in. Weston's 12 regular and 22 call firemen worked until 3:20 a.m. on the fires.

Corvettes Host To State Finals This Weekend

WAYLAND -- The Cochituate Motors Corvettes are host team for the Massachusetts Championship Women's Softball Tournament this weekend.

The first of six big games starts tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. at Cochituate ballpark. A double-header.

The second double-header starts Saturday at the same time and the third will follow on Sunday at 3 p.m.

There is just a possibility that the girls will have a triple-header on Sunday. Never can tell with finals.

The Corvettes, now leading the N. E. League by two games with two to play, are favorites in this weekend tourney but they're keeping their fingers crossed.

Victory in this tournament is the key to a series of regional and eastern seaboard tourneys.

The schedule finds the Class B State Champs, Mass. Protective Assn. of Worcester, facing the Western Mass. All-Stars of Holyoke. MPA won the Class B title last week and the Holyoke team was runner-up.

The second Friday game: Corvettes vs. Orange Devils of Orange, last year's Class B champs who upset the Corvettes to win the Class A title, also, last year.

This is a double elimination tourney, sponsored by the Wayco Recreation Program. The state tourney winner will represent Massachusetts in the New England tourney in Rhode Island later this month.

NOTE -- In case of rain on Friday, the Saturday games will start at noon.

Chief Ernest Damon recommends: give your home a "lived-in" look when away. Leave a lamp connected to an automatic timer to turn lights "on" and "off" each evening.

Nothing ever succeeds which exuberant spirits have not helped to produce. (Nietzsche)

Corvettes Resume Lead with 2 Wins

WAYLAND -- The Cochituate Motors Corvetteswon two important New England Softball League games Saturday night at Cochituate ballpark -- defeating the Connecticut champs, Hartford Laurelettes, 10-9 and 3-2, to take over undisputed lead.

The Corvettes are now two games in front of the Laurelettes with two games to play in this league, thus assuring them of a tie for the lead at least.

On Sunday the Corvettes split an exhibition doubleheader with Burry's Maurauders, New Jersey champs and Middle Atlantic A.S.A. Regional champs.

The Corvettes lost the first one, 2 - 1 but came back to win the second in extra innings, 3-2.

Delay by Selectmen Brings Strong Plea To Move Heard House

WAYLAND -- Almost but not quite. The Heard House stays where it is -- for now.

And that means that the Heard House, historical showplace of the Wayland Historical Society, is in the midst of controversy again -- or yet.

This is the picture this week: 1 -- The Historical Society issued a statement stating that everything hinged on the selectmen who'd had the right to issue the permit for the house moving since the March 1958 town meeting vote.

(A month ago, the selectmen informally assured Richard F. Lincoln, Society president, "something will be done right away.")

2--The Board of Selectmen postponed a Monday meeting on which this was the sole question on the agenda . . . until the third member, George K. Lewis, could be present.

3--Subsequent to the July meeting, selectman Thomas F. Linnehan and Frank Tarr visited Ralph Heard (no relation) to learn if he would drop his legal fight to block the trimming of trees on his property in the course of moving the house.

Mr, Heard did not drop his objections and the next move was up to the selectmen.

Selectman Tarr said he is "firmly in support of the move" and feels that "something must be done soon. The law is on our side".

Chairman Linnehan moved to adjourn the Monday meeting until Mr. Lewis could be present to vote on the issue.

Actually, the March 1958 meeting voted unanimously to have the town move the house from its site on Raytheon Co. property on Old Sudbury rd. to site of the old town hall on Main st., Wayland Center.

But the objection of Mr. Heard and his neighbor, Ralph Weiland, to having trees trimmed for the job has held up the moving operation for three years and delayed several improvements planned by the Historical Society,

In its statement issued this week, the Society declared:

"Impatient members of the Historical Society are asking the executive board, 'when is the Heard House going to be moved?' The answer is, ask the selectmen."

"Contributors to the house moving fund inquire, why isn't the house being moved? -- and the answer is, ask the selectmen."

No One Passes School Bus Now

Better get it straight before school reopens: Now when a school bus stops, no one moves until the bus does.

This is the new law. And it differs from the old one which allowed you to drive past a halted school bus, once you had come to a full stop.

You can still move on -- if the driver gives a clear signal, Or if the blinker lights are no longer flashing.

The law:

"When approaching a vehicle which displays a sign bearing the words "School Bus" and is equipped with front and rear blinker lights which are flashing and which has been stopped to allow passengers to alight from or board the same, a person operating a motor vehicle shall, except when approaching from the opposite direction on a divided highway, bring his vehicle to a full stop before reaching said school bus and shall not thereafter proceed until such school bus resumes motion or until such person is signaled by the driver of the school bus to proceed or the blinker lights are no longer flashing."

YOU CAN DO IT TOO -- And you can see Billy Rudolf is beginning to get the point: swimming is fun, and it's "easy for a boy like you". That's the message from Cathy McCarthy who has two more listeners who are taking in the summertime psychology, more or less like veterans: Robin Guest and Gary Shaw. Scene: pool at Cambridge School. Chickami Damage $20,000--'Tent City' Carries on WAYLAND -- Camp Chickami, burned out in a $20,000 fire Friday, July 28, is back in business here due to the aid of friends.

It's a tent city in the valley behind Robin Ten Acres but it's sufficient to give the 120 daily commuters from the Newton YMCA first-rate camping, according to Alex Miller, general secretary of the Y.

The Y thanks Wayland officials for their speedy approval of temporary use of the campsite -- especially the board of selectmen and Fire Chief Francis J. Hartin.

The Boy Scouts of Norumbega Council came through with an 18-by-50-foot tent which will be used for a dining room,

And the Belmont Boy Scout group has shipped in nine 10-by-10-foot tents to be used for dressing meetings and storage. Together with some small tents from the

Corvettes Sweep Tourney, Now State Softball Champs

WAYLAND -- The Cochituate Motors Corvettes are 1961 state champions in the Amateur Softball Assn.

This is the result of the clean sweep made by the girls' softball team at the tournament last weekend at the Cochituate ballpark.

And the next step -- competition tomorrow night in the New England Championship Tourney at Conimicut (part of Warwick), R.I. The winner of the N. E. Tourney will journey to Portland, Ore., for the national finals in August.

The local tournament sponsored by the Wayco Recreation program saw the Corvettes defeat the Orange Devils on Friday night, 9-4. The Devils were last year's state champs.

In the other Friday game, the East Longmeadow lost to Ludlow. Then on Saturday the Devils took two -- defeating East Longmeadow, 14-4 and tripping the Max Mannings of Ludlow, 18-4. The Corvettes defeated the Ma Mannings, 17-4.

In a thrilling 10-inning game

Lonesome-Letter License Plates Bring New Status Symbol Here

BOSTON -- Something new in political gimmicry came to light here last week.

Twelve special single-letter license plates were issued to the "politically-select, the governor's staff, family and friends".

And the list included everyone from housewives of long-time friends to political secretaries and a newspaper editor.

The politically-potent letters: A - B - C - D - E - F - L - M - P - T - V - Y, And the R-plate is being reserved for Registrar Riley.

It's nothing new. Beginning with Gov. Dever, each succeeding governor has exercised the governor's sacred right (or rite) of rewarding friends with status symbols -- low-numbered plates. Gov. Volpe just did them one better -- and who can top this?

Most recipients of the single-letterplates presumably were permanently pleased. All but one -- Erwin D. Canham, editor of The Christian Science Monitor, who was first pleased, then embarrassed.

Said Mr. Canham before turning back his "C" plates:

"I didn't ask for the plates. I received a letter a couple of weeks ago saying that I was being

Carolyn Sandford Weds Joseph Scattergood in Weston

WESTON -- At St. Peter's Episcopal Church last Monday afternoon, Miss Carolyn Wallis Sandford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Addison Lawton Sandford of Wayland and "Northside", Governor's Island, Laconia, N.H., became the bride of Mr. Joseph Scattergood Jr. of West Chester, Pa. and the late Dr. Scattergood.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and had as her only attendent her sister, Miss Marcia Ann Sandford. Mr. Frederick Russell Estey of Norwood was best man.

The bride graduated from Dana Hall and attended Wells College. She made her debut at the Country Ball in 1958. Mr. Scattergood prepared at Haverford School, and graduated from Amherst College in the class of 1961. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

Something About Birds

By CHARLOTTE E. SMITH

WESTON -- On July 29, after heavy showers in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Smith, Linden circle, discovered an immature black-crowned night heron under some shrubbery near their home. It was soaking wet and could not fly, so it was caught, put in an improvised cage, and kept overnight.

The following day the bird was brought to the Smiths on Westland rd., who released it (after banding) at a private pond on the Weston-Lincoln line. When last seen, it was stalking along the edge of the water, apparently in good condition and looking for something to eat!

Adult black-crowned night herons have black on the head and back, gray wings, and white underparts, but the immatures are very different -- all brown, spotted and streaked with white. They resemble the American bittern but are duller brown and do not show the black wing-tips of the bittern in flight.

Many people call these herons "quawks" because of the sound they make when flying overhead in the evening and after dark.

The Martells, October lane, report a pair of indigo buntings seen in the Jericho Town Forest recently, also a white-throated sparrow heard singing. Mrs. J. C. L. Shabeck, Wayland, says that on July 30 a family of bluebirds (2 adults and 3 young) came to bathe in the spray of their lawn sprinkler.

Also on July 30, Mrs. W. W. Teich, Wayland, saw a flock of at least 12 Baltimore orioles, mostly immatures, feeding in the trees near her home. Several cedar waxwings have been seen recently in vicinity of Westland rd. (Smith).

There are practically no records of migrant shorebirds in Weston, mainly because we have so few places suitable for them. However, during August and September, when their fall migration is at its height, they are more often seen in inland areas than in the spring; so keep an eye on muddy pond shores, open fields and meadows near water, even golf courses and football fields, and perhaps you may see some.

Killdeer, spotted, solitary, least, and semipalmated sandpipers, and lesser yellowlegs, are the species most likely to appear.

Serving on Carrier

WAYLAND -- Undergoing annual summer training cruise for midshipmen of the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain in the Atlantic is Midshipman 2-c Burges A. LeMonte, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. LeMonte of 78 Sears rd.

While on the cruise the "middies" will receive experience in seamanship, navigation, gunnery and engineering.

Skill that guarantees satisfaction in repairing the delicate mechanism of your fine watch.

Harry Knowles: An Old Hand at Old Cars

By HARRY PATTERSON

WESTON--Knowles is his name, an old barn in Weston is his workshop, and rebuilding antique automobiles is his hobby.

When he retired from business about 15 years ago, Harry Knowles decided that he needed an avocation that, as he says, would "keep me going." He found it in old cars.

He owns about 15, and about 20 others belong to friends.

Most of them are crowded into his shop for storage, repairs or rebuilding. The rest are at his home.

Among the cars in the shop are a completely restored Stanley Steamer, vintage 1904, a Stevens-Duryea, three or four Pierce Arrows, a few Buicks, a Model T Ford fire engine, a custom-built Packard.

There's a 1907, two-cylinder Wolseley-Siddeley, built in London and believed to be the only one of its kind in this country.

It's in perfect condition and it took part in the Antique Automobile Rally last June in New Hampshire, which celebrated the 100th anniversary of the opening of the Mt. Washington Carriage Road.

There's a 1909 two-cylinder Reo, a 1912 Rambler.

You name it. He probably has it.

One of the Pierce Arrows weighs over three tons (how they did build those old-timers!) and it sold, when it was new in 1914, for $1 a pound.

Mr. Knowles' favorite, perhaps, is a German Benz, a 1908 model, which he is completely rebuilding.

It's a double-chain-drive racer, capable of doing over 120 miles per hour. It has a four-cylinder engine with overhead valves, a 6 1/8-inch bore and 6 1/2-inch stroke. It weighs about two tons.

Mr. Knowles has been working on it, off and on, for about 12 years. (He had to buy new chains for it in the course of the restoration and, since they are of metric measurements, he had to send to Belgium for them.)

There's another Benz in the shop (these are not the famous Blitzen Benz, but a slightly smaller sister model), but its reconstruction is less far advanced.

Off in a dim corner is a Hispano-Suiza that is still waiting to be restored to mint condition.

One look around the crowded shop, with its cars, odd parts, lathes, drill presses and other precision machine tools, and you realize that Mr. Knowles will have plenty of restoring to do for a long time to come.

But he never lets the work get monotonous.

He'll concentrate on the Benz for a month, perhaps. Then he'll turn to the job of grinding the exhaust valves of a 1910 Pierce Arrow.

The custon-built Packard is registered, and Mr. Knowles takes it for a spin sometimes--though for everyday travel he drives a new Ford station wagon.

It's all a labor of love.

When Mr. Knowles finishes restoring the Benz, for example, (sometime before the end of this year, perhaps), he plans to put it on permanent display in a private Old Car Museum at East Greenwich, R.I. There is will be seen and marveled at by youngsters who never heard of Barney Oldfield and his Blitzen Benz, Harry Grant and his Alco, Fritz Eble, Haupt, Hemery, Lytle, Peugeot, Chevrolet and other great drivers and mechanics of a former age, whose genius an daring helped develop the automobile to its present state of reliability and comfort.

J.L. Gates Graduate Student At Rutgers Business School

NEWARK -- Jonathan L. Gates of 16 Saddle Hill rd., Weston, has enrolled in a 14-month program at Rutgers University School of Business which leads to a Master of Business Administration degree with specialization in public accounting.

Gates, a graduate of Amherst College, is in the New Jersey State University business school Division of Public Accounting which provides liberal arts college graduates professional education to prepare for public accounting careers.

Stationed in Georgia

WESTON--Serving at the Glynco Naval Air Station, Brunswick, Ga., is navyman Joseph W. Adams, journalist 3-c, son of Karl Adams Jr., of 28 Byron rd.

Adams recently was graduated from the Journalist School at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. He entered naval service in August 1958.

If you leave your home at night, leave at least two lights on; also, keep shades up or venetian blinds partially open.

Stay Where You Are

About the school bus law : we've been thinking all along that motorists were breaking the law and getting away with it when they drove past a halted school bus.

They weren't. But they will be lawbreakers if they do so this fall.

Now if the school bus is stopped, you'd better not move until the bus does--unless, the driver signals you on.

This makes sense. In fact, any time children are involved in traffic, we'd say the best thing to do is wait...until the spirit moves them, and we're glad to see the law has caught up with common sense.

COMMENT: It's the same at the office or on the beach (Wayland): pranks start at the water cooler.

Easy Answer, Anyone?

And now, our attention is directed to Bonnie McLane of Weston who got out of school in mid-June and before a month has passed she's on her way to Yellow Springs, Ohio, and whffft . . . she's in school again. College.

Well, we wish Bonnie McLane lots of luck in her mid-summer schooling at Antioch and lots of luck, too, to the educators who are looking for an answer to a tough problem.

College shortages are developing. We all know that. Some schools, like Antioch and Northeastern, have been busy bees the year round for years. Students work and study in alternate periods.

The year-round college is becoming more of a fact. Some educators are now firmly insisting that all colleges should remain in business year-round.

Well, that's worth considering. Less expensive certainly than new college plants.

But we ought also to remember that the college with a year-round faculty also has a tired faculty. One that has little chance to get outside and see their subjects afresh. Not so good.

As in everything else, there is no one simple answer to the college shortage. Maybe fewer students might meet the problem.

Time was, it seems to us, that a summer vacation was a summer vacation.

It seemed never-ending, until late in August some one of the kids would sing Happy Days and promptly get beaned. Ten weeks or more to laze around.

Lately, it seems the summer vacations are getting shorter and shorter. They're counting the days the kids are in school. And adding and subtracting all through the school year. Confusing. Not to say nerve-wracking.

Letters to the EDITOR

Chickami Thankful for Wayland's Aid

To the Editor:

In the fire which destroyed the headquarters building at Camp Chickami not only the Newton YMCA but the youth of surrounding communities suffered a great loss.

The fire nearly caused a complete loss of the building but we are all thankful and feel fortunate that there was no loss or injury to the 16 boys, two junior counselors and two senior counselors who were on a "planned overnight".

We are particularly grateful to Chief Francis J. Hartin of the Wayland Fire Department and his willing and loyal firemen and to our good neighbors near the camp, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Roy who opened their home to the youthful campers at an early hour and did everything they could to make them comfortable. Mr. and Mrs. Roy were assisted by Mrs. Raymond Handrahan and Mrs. Frank Smith.

Conferences with Chief Hartin, Homer L. MacDonald, Ronald Wood and Prentiss Richardson enabled us to reopen on a provisional basis Aug. 2.

We are grateful to the board of selectmen who made it possible

Lastly, we wish to compliment the Town Crier on its adequate, newsworthy, and sympathetic treatment of the fire story.

Sincerely yours,
Alex R. Miller
General Secretary.

Moon Eclipse On Aug. 25 Explained

To the Editor:

The following is a times table for the partial eclipse of the moon, Friday, Aug. 25. This eclipse will be visible in all of New England.

Sun set	07:50 p.m. E.D.T.
Moon rise	11:09 p.m. E.D.T.
Moon sets	05:22 a.m. E.D.T.

ECLIPSE BEGINS

moon enters shadow - E.D.T.	09:36 p.m.
middle of eclipse	11:09 p.m. E.D.T.
moon leaves shadow	12:42 a.m. E.D.T.

At 11:09 p.m. the moon will be 99 percent in the earth's shadow.

During an eclipse of the moon, the earth moves between the sun and the moon casting a shadow 900,000 miles long on the moon. While the eclipse is total (11:09 p.m.) the moon will turn a faint copper red because of sunlight shining through the earth's atmosphere. It starts with a small dark nick on the left of the moon. This slowly moves across the disk until it is all covered, then it moves out the other side.

Yours truly

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Dog Days & Thundergusts

Are you sick of these dog days? I am: They started too early this year and have continued too long.

Dog days! Today let us reach far back into history to learn that the old Romans and their Mediterranean neighbors hated them too, and it is they who gave this period of the year that appellation.

There are supposed to be 40 of these days in July and August, hot sticky periods of several days together. Then it is that your dog is considered most likely to go mad. If he doesn't, maybe you or the children will, unless you can get to a cool beach or afford that air-conditioner.

Actually the dog star Sirius is supposed to be the cause of all the trouble, not your familiar canine. The Latin name for the dog star group was Canis Minor (my readers are certainly of a caliber to figure out the meaning of that, even if their school Latin never took).

Though this large bright star Sirius does not, I believe, appear at the same time and place in successive years, the ancients of the Mediterranean region thought that the heat of this dog star and its size when added to the blaze of the summer sun, was the cause of the extra discomfort and the special diseases that they suffered at this season. In many of the low marshes and river valleys of that part of the world, this was, and is, an ill time.

Here, in Massachusetts, the dog days are also usually the heart of the thunder, lightning and hail season, much dreaded of our ancestors and not truly welcome now. The old records contain many mentions of these manifestations of the "Wonderful Works" of the Almighty.

Death by lightning especially made a deep impression on these transplanted English men, who came from a country where "tempests," as Shakespeare called them (they still call them that in southeastern Massachusetts) were much less common.

"New England is a Country famous for Mischiefs done by Thunder and Lightning", writes a chronicler in 1665. He tells how "in the month of July, Captain Davenport, Governour of the Cattle in the Massachusets, was Killed as he lay in his bed with a Clap of Thunder."

Then, in "the Summer after . . . in the Town of Marshfield . . . three Persons were struck by a Flash of Lightning, a Man, a Woman and a Child. Tis observable concerning the Man . . . that he had his Wife by the Hand, and one of his Children in his Arms, when he was struck dead, and neither the Woman nor the Child hurt. . . . Rarely a summer passes without some remarkable accidents of this Kind either upon Men, Houses or Cattle."

The oft-repeated story of Benjamin Franklin and his kite does not usually go far enough to tell us that in that next century the highly versatile Ben invented the lightning rod which carries the bolts off harmlessly into the ground.

Boston people have always been notorious for their opposition to every improvement, and among the doubters of Franklin's invention was a Boston divine who declared that the earthquake of 1755 was induced by the new lightning rods drawing exceptional amounts of "the Electrical Substance out of the Air" and overcharging the earth.

But a visiting Englishman some years later got a more accurate picture: "Before the discovery of electrical rods, these thundergusts were frequently productive of melancholy circumstances; but now it is rare to hear of such instances. It is observable that no house was ever struck where they were fixed . . . such a direction having been given to the lightning as to prevent any danger or ill consequence."

Fortunately for us in Weston and Wayland, though severe thunderstorms are not infrequent, we often observe some of the worst passing to the north down the Concord River, or to the southwest toward the sea.

Worcester County and the Connecticut Valley seem to have a higher frequency of these storms, according to the records.

In any case the dog days will soon be past.

Then we can look on this overwarm humid period, with its "thundergusts" and "tempests" as a necessary factor in the growth and ripening of the food in field and garden; and rejoice if, along with us, the family dog lived through thse trying days without becoming any madder than usual.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Touch-Me-Nots in Bloom

Nature has provided many ways for our local plants to spread their seeds, but one of the trickiest little "booby traps", grows on the jewelweed, known locally as the touch-me-not.

This plant is in bloom right now in this area -- and ripe to be touched.

The jewelweed grows in shady, moist ground to around four feet tall and has orange flowers about an inch long that look like tiny brown spotted dragon faces.

The leaves are long and whitish underneath.

The seed pods--and here comes the clever part -- are liké tiny string beans, about a half inch long. Touch a ripe pod and it flies apart, throwing the seeds all over the place.

Other ways plant seeds get around is by sticking to passing creatures as do the devil's pitchfork and burrs. Birds eat wild cherries and blackberries and eventually spread the seeds--secondhand. The milkweed uses a gossamer parachute to broadcast it's seeds, while lots of plants depend on a hard wind to get their seeds around.

This time of year the purple loosestrife and joe pie weed are in our meadowlands--and the ever present goldenrod. Marsh marigolds and black-eyed susans are in bloom and the red berries are on the wild honeysuckle bushes.

It's a pretty time for the wild flowers. Take a look, and remember they make as fine a flower arrangement as some of their hothouse cousins.

Never leave a key under the mat, in the mailbox or over the transom, these are the first places that a burglar will look for a key.

Semper Fidelis (Always Faithful) has been the official motto of the U. S. Marine Corps since about 1880.

Bits & Pieces

WANTED: One thick-skinned man with lots of savvy to handle hot potatoes at the State House.

* * *

Ever think how the fellow who doesn't mow his lawn or prune his trees helps give the rest of us a feeling of superiority and something to gripe about? Come to think of it -- the feeling is mutual. He can get a sense of his superiority, too, when he thinks of the small things we say about him.

* * *

People who can't shake that feeling that they're always being watched won't be sure any more that they're paranoics. Comrade Titov has changed all that.

* * *

One housewife we've heard of has just thrown away a brand new recording of the "1812 Overture". Reminded her too much that school's out.

* * *

In this day of the Machine, it is important to realize that, sometimes, you CAN fight back--sometimes.

You take milk and cigarette and candy machines. Some of them will transact business with you with hardly a murmur--provided your coin isn't just about bent double.

But we have in mind a milk machine of our acquaintance that is so finicky that if the coin isn't fresh out of the mint and straight as an arrow (without one-millionth of an inch variation), it refuses to live up to conditions stated on its face.

And we've found, upon inquiry, that it is willful machines like this that are making nervous wrecks of humans who have already had too much to do with persons who are also--almost human.

But the other day, after vainly beating our fist on this negative aggressor, we found that by patiently dropping in a nickel, we could get our favorite milk drink at half cost.

Maybe that is taking advantage of a machine that hasn't been around--but machines are supposed to be sophisticated. And we say that any opening in their armor is worth exploring. The years ahead will demand someone who can beat the machines.

WAYLAND -- Along about Sept. 1 Emil Corniello is going to introduce to this community two new additions to his staff at his coiffure salon at the Wayland Shopper -- Anthony from New York (formerly with Leon Amendola) and Leo of Brookline.

Emil feels assured that these two conpetent young men will completely alleviate the long waits and frustrations that have formerly inconvenienced so many of his faithful customers.

Along with more prompt and thoughtful individual attention to hair styling, facials and manicures will also be offered.

Son to Withington

WAYLAND -- Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Withington of Bakersfield, Calif., announce the birth of a first son and third child, Stuart George, on July 17. Mr. Withington is the son of Mrs. George Withington of State Rd., East, and the late Mr. Withington.

Corvettes

Sunday, the Corvettes emerged victorious after 3 hours and 35 minutes -- a clean sweep for the championship.

This 6-5 triumph over the Devils clinched it.

The Corvettes scored the winning run in the top of the 10th. Capt. Clair Mosher singled, was sacrificed to second by Doris Drisdell, made it to third when Carol Marshall grounded out and scored on a wild pitch.

Carol, who had come on in relief of Donna Hebert in the eighth, set the Devils down in order in the last of the 10th.

Vokes Brings Bit of Thurber Into Children's World

By ANNE HOCKING

It's been a long time since the Beatrice Hereford Theatre has given a trial to anything as sophisticated as a Thurber piece -- and not only Thurber but Thurber in an allegorical mood.

Kicking around from somewhere is the observation that "we do not live in reality but what each of us takes reality to be". Can't remember who said it first but Thurber did again in his "Many Moons" which played Wednesday and Thursday nights Aug. 2, 3 at the Vokes Children's Theatre under the direction of Mercedes Bassett.

There is a king, of course, (no queen) with his three wise men and the usual royal entourage. One and all, their only concern is for the health and happiness of the royal princess, who at the moment seems to be ailing. The princess wants something.

The court with the exception of the jester is sure it's tarts, the jester doesn't know and the princess herself is only sure it isn't tarts. But she suffers them all and samples more than a few and although her figure holds out remarkably her health continues to decline.

The exceptional jester is in the meantime employing a unique tact of his own. As a sort of early day psychiatrist he decides that the best way to determine what she really wants is to ask her. After a spot of sensitive probing he is not in the least surprised to hear that she has settled her heart's desire on the moon.

The wise men are stumped, the king dismayed but the ingenious jester still undaunted.

He simply asks the princess for a description of the moon and on hearing that it's round, gold and as big as one's thumbnail immediately commissions the courts goldsmith to deliver the goods.

It works like a charm, the princess is cured and all is well until night falls and the real moon, as is its habit, rises above the garden wall. (Technically, this was no mean trick).

How then can they explain to the princess there can be two moons? How would you? How many moons are there in reality?

It's hard to see just what more time could have improved. Imagination, care and polish were in evidence throughout from the palace garden setting to the dance detail, (on the dance, did I see shades of Neta Barker hitherto unmentioned?)

The lines were spoken with a sense of personal involvement, confidence and timing. There were no prima donnas and no deadbeats.

Nothing in short but way above average children responding to excellent lines under excellent direction.

The youthful audience as well as the performers were all of a piece and all for the play. It was a two-way street across the footlights all evening.

Let's hope that this summer's experiment at Vokes is next year's tradition.

Co-op Outing Saturday, Aug. 26

WAYLAND -- Ruth B. Simoni, Cochituate, announced this week that plans are being completed for the Co-op's annual outing to be held this year on Saturday, Aug. 26, at the Wayland High School grounds and Field House. Mrs. Simoni is the Co-op's president and general chairman of the outing.

The outing is designed to be one of the Co-op's highlights of the year. It is open to members of the organization as well as friends.

George Rogers of Natick, program chairman announced that a wide variety of recreational activity will begin at 3 p.m. and precede the chicken bar-b-cue at 6 p.m. Prizes in the competition will be awarded and activities are being designed to fit the likes of all age levels. Dancing until early evening will round out the program.

Committee workers are busy on various phases of the function. In charge of information are Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lebowitz, of Natick. Committee members include Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Moore and Mrs. Everett Mitchell of Natick, Wallace and Alice Knowlton and Mrs. George Palmer of Wayland. Mrs. Donald Klein of Wayland, and Mrs. Leonard Smith of Sudbury, are in charge of refreshments. Miss Ina Tilson of Wayland will coordinate recreational activities.

The program is free to participants except for the bar-b-cue where a special 99-cent rate is being charged. Tickets will be on sale next week in both Co-op stores, Wayland and Natick.

Weston Girl to Receive Academie Moderne Diploma

WESTON -- Miss Linda Heywood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heywood of 77 Chestnut st. will receive her diploma from the Academie Moderne, tomorrow at 2 p.m. She will participate in a fashion show "Bright Future", featuring the newest in fashion, highlighted with entertainment by the students.

Elizabeth Bernkopf, fashion editor of the Boston Globe, will give the commencement address.

Diplomas will be presented by Miss Kathleen Cannell and Mrs. Mildred L. Albert, dean of the Academie Moderne.

John A. Patterson

WAYLAND -- John Adams Patterson, formerly of Wayland, died Monday, in Phoenix, Ariz., after a long illness. He was 65 years old.

He had lived in Wayland 50 years before moving, in 1950, to San Diego, Calif. and, more recently, to Phoenix. His wife, Mary Jessie Patterson, died in 1958.

He leaves three sons, John A. Patterson Jr., of Las Vegas, Nev., Dr. Andrew B. Patterson of Los Angeles, Calif. and Lt. Michael Patterson, U.S.A.F., of Great Falls, Mont.; two brothers, Henry W. Patterson of Weston and Robert W. Patterson of Mount Desert, Me. and two grandchildren.

99-Cent Car Wash

WAYLAND -- A special car wash for 99 cents is being offered by the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Cochituate Saturday 9 - 4 in the church parking lot on Harrison st. (White walls -- $1.15.)

Status Symbol—

allocated the 'C' plate, and felt pleased.

"But now I think it's too conspicuous.

"I really was highly embarrassed."

This conferring of status symbols is one of the sacred rights that comes with election to the governor's chair.

Gov. Dever instituted the letter-plus-number system when registrations nearly forced the state to come out with bigger plates. Gov. Herter devised the H-series, with H-1 and H-2 being reserved to his immediate family. And Gov. Furcolo had the F-series struck off.

The governor didn't forget his legislative browbeater, ex-Rep. Frank Lappin -- 5L and 2U.

But Atty. Gen. McCormack, one of the wheels in the Democratic party, found less favor with the governor than did Lt. Gov. McLaughlin, a constant and severe critic. McLaughlin got an M-plate. McCormack settled for 1M.

But the big gifts were these:

A-Armita Volpe of Wakefield.

B-William Buckley of Boston, brother of State Auditor Thomas J. Buckley.

C-Erwin D. Canham, editor of The Christian Science Monitor and moderator of Staring at the Editors TV show.

D - Corinne L. Danca of Stoneham, wife of a long-time friend.

E - Joseph L. Tauro of Marblehead, former Volpe staff member.

F - John Volpe Construction Co.

L - Sen. Fred I. Lamson of Malden, Republican floor leader.

M - Lt. Gov. McLaughlin.

P - John Volpe Construction Co.

T - G. Joseph Tauro of Swampscott, legal counsel to the governor.

V - James J. Gaffney of Tewksbury, governor's chief aide.

Y - Philip K. Allen of Andover, GOP state chairman and former secretary to the governor.

Two unsuccessful appointees received consolation prizes: Robert H. Beaudreau of Marlboro, his choice for public safety commissioner, has 4R. Rocco J. Antonelli of Somerville, choice for comptroller, has 11R.

And contractors who received special plates: Perini Corp., 7P and Michael Solimando, 22M.

Camp—

Newton Y, the camp will have enough equipment to complete the summer program.

No plans are yet firm about next year's program, according to Mr. Miller.

It is expected that the Y will install new buildings and with them, a fire alarm system. A telephone line will go in immediately.

Damage, at first estimated at $10,000, was later placed at $20,000. Only about $4200 of this amount was covered by insurance.

Mr. Miller said that the U.S. Air Force had offerred two wooden barracks if transportation can be obtained.

Heard House—

"More than a year ago the telephone company restrung their wires so that the Heard House could pass under them. The company wants to know, How about it? -- and there comes the same reply, ask the selectmen."

Pointing out that the cellar hole awaiting the house is an eyesore in the center of town the Historical Society points again to the selectmen.

No one from the Historical Society showed up at the board's meeting Monday night when it was discovered that the selectmen had met and departed without acting -- that afternoon in a special session.

Actually, the town has the power to allow the house to be moved and to order the trees to be trimmed for this purpose.

An amendment to the law this year makes it possible for the town to allow trees to be trimmed up to any height for house moving. Previously trees could be trimmed only for traffic purposes.

Man Breaks Knee, Two Injured in Weston Collision

WESTON--A two-car collision on Norumbega rd., near the Norumbega tower Monday, July 31, at 8:50 p.m. brought injuries to the driver and passenger in one of the cars.

Gerald Klinas, 20, of Huntington st., Long Island, N. Y. was treated at the Waltham Hospital for a broken knee. Marianne Klinas, 23, of 11-C Sagamore way, Waltham, sustained a back sprain and bruises from the accident and also was cared for at the hospital.

The driver of the other car, Lawrence S. Baptiste, 99 Arlington st., Medford, and his passenger, Eugene Purgear, 45 Bower st., Medford, escaped injury.

In Weston Pulpit

WESTON -- Rev. Charles A. Engvall, summer minister at the First Parish in Weston (Unitarian) will conduct services in the Sears Memorial Chapel next Sunday at 10 a.m. and on succeeding Sundays this month.

He may be reached through the church office or at the Parsonage, 3 Conant rd.

During the summer he is also assisting the First Parish in Cambridge.

In California College

CLAREMONT Calif -- Among new students who will be entering Harvey Mudd College in September is Booth R. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer S. Myers of 6 Page rd., Weston, Mass.

Myers came to the college of Science and Engineering from St. Sebastion Country Day School, Newton, Mass.

Summer Bachelor

By HARRY PATTERSON
(Apologies to William Cowper)

I am monarch of all I survey;
My right there is none to dispute.
My wife and my kids are away,
And I'm home from my daily commute.

The lawn is fresh-mowed, bright and green,
The flower bed weeded and neat.
The sprinkler throws up a cool screen
Between the front door and the street.

My shower is soothing and cold;
Relaxed and refreshed I step out.

THE OLD SUMMER BACHELOR HIMSELF (Larry Forman Photo)

In my solitude I can be bold -
I can hum - I can sing - I can shout.

At ease in my bare feet and shorts
I pad through the house as I please.
Ah, no halls in the fairest of courts
Are so cool - and so quiet - as these!

In the freezer there's plenty of food -
There's a bottle or two on the shelf.
And I'll eat what I think will taste good -
I have no one to please but myself.

I pile up my plate with good living,
And sit down to eat with a will.
But suddenly comes a misgiving -
The house is too empty - too still.

(Did Jimmy swim, out in the bay?
Did John build sand houses and forts?
Was Wendy's burn better today?
Did Anne buy those fancy blue shorts?)

Oh, my family's surely all right -
Well and happy, I haven't a doubt.
But as soon as I've grabbed a quick bite,
I'll get on the phone and find out.

Weston Gets First State Approval For Winter St. Traffic Relief Route

WESTON -- Preliminary approval of the Winter-st. bypass in Weston, Lincoln and Waltham was given this week by the State Department of Public Works.

This could mean that Weston would start, sometime next year, work on this back-lots route designed to relieve traffic on Lexington and adjoining streets.

At the present, the town is awaiting word from the Middlesex County highway commissioners on a proposal to straighten some curves on North av. -- a proposition that has been 30 years in the works.

But facing Weston authorities are two drawbacks:

1 - The Winter-st. extension will require a considerable amount of money from some source.

2 - Landtakings in Weston may run high.

The Winter-st. extension is a three-community project, involving Waltham, Lincoln and Weston. It is designed to relieve traffic to Rte. 128 and to the Waltham Industrial Park via Lexington st.

It has been actively considered since last March when Weston and Lincoln selectmen met with Waltham authorities to chart some sort of joint action.

Selectmen Chairman Edward M. Dickson of Weston said that on the basis of state DPW recommendations, Weston had applied for papers to petition county highway commissioners to lay out the extension route.

The route would run from Winter st., Waltham to North av. near Merriam st.

Mr. Dickson said this might mean the county engineers would complete the laying out by late fall or sometime this winter and that then Weston authorities could consult with Comr. Jack P. Ricciardi.

Purpose of this conference: To learn if further Federal or state funds could be found to pay for the route on the grounds it is a connector route on the interstate highway system.

Under Chapter 90 funds (mostly for road repairs), the three communities would have to share half the cost with the county an the state would foot the other 50 percent of the bill. This might prove unsatisfactory: there is only just so much money to go around.

The preferred solution: Get added Federal and state assistance and tackle the Winter st. extension first.

The reason: The traffic drain afforded would ease the burden on North av. east of Merriam and on Lexington st. as well. Thus, the

Dow Seeks Research Lab--Without Pilot Plant Off Rice Rd., Wayland

WAYLAND Dow Chemical Co. wants to build a $750,000 single story laboratory for pure research here.

To this end, it has approached town officials to obtain a change in the zoning laws.

Dow officials stress that the laboratory would have no connection with practical research, have no pilot plant or other "try-outs" connected with it.

The proposed location: the northeast corner of Rice and Commonwealth rds. on the land known as the Anzivino property and owned by the Walnut Hill Trust.

A succession of hearings - both public and among town boards' members - leading up to possible action at a town meeting is in the works.

No immediate hearing is scheduled with any town board. Probably none until sometime after Labor Day.

Dow officials point out that there will be no noisy machinery, no smoke, no odor, no vibrations, no pilot plants.

"In short," William Sweeney of Wayland, an official in Dow's Framingham lab said, "this will deal with nothing but long-pull research, some of which may never directly benefit Dow.

Chemical firm officials have met with the town planning board and have been asked for full details for a meeting the planning board wants to hold jointly with members of other affected boards sometime in September.

It is felt that matters affecting the property would interest the selectmen, highway commissioners, health board and police among others.

Mr. Sweeney told The Crier that the Ph. D's working in the local lab would be a boon to the local school system.

Also, he added, the campus-style laboratory would provide tax rev-

Corvettes Win 4, Gain N. E. Title --Portland, Ore., Tourney Next

WAYLAND -- The Cochituate Motors Corvettes did it again. This time they're New England champions--after taking four big games at the regional tourney in Rhode Island last weekend.

Immediately ahead, the world finals in Portland, Ore., beginning on Aug. 25...if the Corvettes can raise the $5000 flight costs to make the trip

In the first game last Friday night, the Wayland team beat the Rhode Island champs (Hamilton Oil), 14-0 behind the two-hit pitching of 15-year-old Donna Hebert. Donna won three of the four tourney games.

On Saturday, Carol Marshall two-hitted the Conimicut AA (host team), striking out nine in a thrilling 1-0 ball game. Diane Potter doubled in the sixth inning to score Joan Fitzgerald who had reached on a walk.

Again on Saturday night, Donna hurled another this time over the Hartford Laurelettes, Connecticut champs. 1-0 victory. Second baseman Mary Bennet hit a home

Wayland Loses 28 Teachers In Year, Needs 33 for '61-'62

By BETTY HAMILTON

WAYLAND -- "The biggest job facing us right now is teacher replacement".

This was the statement of John Arnold, acting chairman of the Wayland School Committee in answer to the question: "What are the most pressing problems confronting our committee right now?"

"Wayland, like most school systems in this part of the country", continued Mr. Arnold, "normally has about a 25 percent turnover of teachers each year. This calls for a great deal of continuing effort on the part of the superintendent and principals toward procuring the best qualified replacements.

"But this year Wayland students will be greeted by 33 new teachers, if no further resignations are forthcoming, according to Mr. Arnold. Twenty-eight of these are replacements for those leaving the system, while five will be new positions created because

Jo Ellen Pitt Bride Of John W. Henderson 3d

MRS. JOHN W. HENDERSON 3d

WESTON -- The double ring ceremony was chosen by Miss Jo Ellen Pitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar William Pitt of Weston and West Dennis, for her marriage to Mr. John William Henderson 3d of Natick, in the Chapel of the First Parish Church of Weston, Saturday, July 29.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for relatives and friends of the bride and groom, immediately following the 7 o'clock ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire dress of white organdy with a portrait neckline and a yoke of white taffeta forming a bow in back. An alencon lace cap edged with seed pearls held in pearls held in place her chapel length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and English ivy.

Miss Dianne Wilson of Wellesley Hills was maid of honor and Miss Carolyn Pitt, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. They wore gowns of silk organza to match of shell pink and soft yellow and they both wore veils of illusion held in place with a petal band. For their flowers, old-fashioned bouquets were chosen.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Pitt wore a raspberry pink silk linen with a draped chiffon neckline. Her corsage of white orchids complimented her white flowered hat. The mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. John W. Henderson, wore navy silk with white accessories, and she also wore a corsage of white orchids.

Mr. Richard Henderson, brother of the groom, was the best man.

The bride is a graduate of Rogers Hall School, Lowell, class of '58, a graduate of Colorado Woman's College, Denver, and is now a senior at Lesley College, Cambridge. Her husband is a graduate of Natick High School and Trinity Pawling School in New York. He attended Harvard University and Babson Institute.

Now honeymooning, the couple plan to make their home near Boston after Sept. 1.

January Wedding Planned By Shirley Jacques

WESTON -- The engagement of Miss Shirley Jacques, daughter of Mrs. Frank Jacques of 83 Brook rd., and the late Mr. Jacques, to Mr. Joseph DePalma of 1752 Washington st., Canton has been announced.

Miss Jacques was graduated from Weston High in 1958 and Framingham Union Hospital School of Nursing, class of 1961.

Mr. DePalma is a graduate f Canton High School, 1953, and is self employed.

A January wedding is planned.

SHIRLEY JACQUES

50th Wedding Anniversary

WAYLAND -- About 25 members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Blain of North Adams attended a party given on the occasion of the Blains' 50th anniversary at Cassidy's, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brosseau, owners of Al's Variety Store in Cochituate, were hosts for the party. Mrs. Brosseau is the daughter of the Blains

Mr. Blain has been a barber on the main street of North Adams for 35 years and has been in barbering nearly a half century. Mr. and Mrs. Blain are well known in the Wayland area where they are frequent visitors. Both are in their 70s.

Weston Man Graduate Of Chamber's Politics Course

WESTON -- William L. Helm Jr. of Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates has graduated from the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce's school of practical politics. Mr. Helm lives at 256 Boston Post rd.

The chamber-sponsored program is a non partisan nine-week course designed to assist businessmen and others "to develop the political skills necessary for effective participation in our democratic system." according to Ephron Catlin Jr., chamber president.

More than 250 persons have passed this special course in two years.

Flint, Mich., Girl Weds Earl Woods Jr., Wayland

FLINT, Mich. Wearing a floor length gown of white silk organza over satin embroidered taffeta and carrying white roses Elaine Elizabeth Medlyn last Saturday became the bride of Earl S. Woods Jr., of 5 Orchard Lane, Wayland, Mass. at the Trinity Methodist Church, Flint. Mich.

MRS. EARL S. WOODS JR.

The daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Leslie E. Medlyn of Flint, asked Sheirel Hurles of Birmingham, Mich., to be her maid of honor. Janeann Medlyn served as her sisters bridesmaid. Both wore aqua colored bell skirt dresses with boat necks of silk organza over taffeta.

Susan Marie Henderschott, niece of the bride and wearing identical dress and carrying a basket of white daises with yellow centers was the flower girl. George Henderschott, nephew of the bride served as ring bearer.

Mother of the bride wore pink embroidered moygashel linen with hat to match and pink assesories. Mother of the groom wore powder blue silk lace over taffeta with matching accessories.

Assisting his brother as best man was William Woods of Wayland. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Woods of Orchard Lane, Wayland.

Merrill Stoyler of Markleville, Ind., Andre Provost of Manchester, N.H. and the brides' brother L. Robert Medlyn of Grand Blanc, Michigan seated the guests.

After greeting 200 guests at a church reception Mr. & Mrs Woods left on a trip to the Wisconsin Dells and Indiana.

The General Motors Institute graduate and his bride will make there home in Ashland, Mass.

SUBURBAN LIVING IS FOR THE BIRDS

. . . not for people. Birds need never mow, plow, weed, paint, spray, polish, rake, and so forth. People do, endlessly. We ask you, isn't taking care of your suburban haven almost all work and practically no play? We fear it often is. And, lo and behold, so does the knowledgeable editor of the South Shore Mirror who, recently, first quoted a press release and then expressed his views thusly:

Keep That Apartment Ready

"Intown living — in an ideal setting — may be the answer to the growing number of psychosomatic problems reported in our suburbs."

That is the contention of Theodore J. Shoolman, vice-president of Charles River Park, Inc. His organization is developing Boston's West End into a $55,000,000 garden apartment neighborhood.

Shoolman noted, in a discussion with Boston businessmen, a study reported by the American Medical Association. It recorded a high incidence of coronary thrombosis, ulcers and hypertension in a suburban area. Besides trying to keep their homes "spotless and dustless," many ambitious home-owners felt there could not be a "blade of crabgrass in the lawn."

Listen Shoolman, I could tell you about some suburban diseases that would make coronary thrombosis, ulcers and hypertension seem as uncommon as beri beri. I myself am suffering from a disease of no known cure called "ulcerative coalitis," a disease characterized by the intestines turning to pure charcoal, which, combined with the ingestion of home-made barbecue sauce, is usually fatal.

Another common suburban disease is tomatocolis, common among those who put in tomato plants and try to consume the produce of the plants, all two tons of which ripen in one week.

One of the most insidious of suburban diseases is known as "recital lethargica" a dulling of the brain that comes from watching a 44-act dance recital in which your daughter appears around the 39th act.

Shoolman, I've got 17 more years on my mortgage, then, if the cutworms haven't got me I'll either be moving into town or going way out.

Bravo! And thank you. Our only suggestion to the wise editor — and to you — is: don't wait. A new and wonderful kind of in-town living is waiting for you at Charles River Park. For all the marvelous details, read our advertisement on page 9 of this newspaper.

French Tell How Much Rombas Enjoys Westonites

WESTON -- Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cummings of Weston spent many happy hours with Rombas counterparts in that French community. The following is an account (translated) from "Republican Lorrain" of Metz, France, describing their visit:

In the framework of Franco-American relations, our town received last Friday one of the principal members and founders of the Weston-Rombas Assn. in the person of Mr. Cummings, director of studies at the Weston High School, accompanied by his wife and daughter.

After having become more widely acquainted with Rombas and after visiting the Sidelor Rombas factory in the afternoon, the guests were received at six o'clock in the evening at the town hall, by the Weston-Rombas committee and the townspeople, where a toast was served.

Among the number of persons who attended were seen M. Bigot, principal of the lycee, M. Bestin, notary, and his wife; M. Waller, clergyman, M. l'abbe Berriattee, chaplain, M. Breistoff, secretary to the mayor; M. and Mme. Balvay; Mme. Gaillard; Mme. Friedrich and her daughter; M. Roesslinger; Miss Carter Bottjer of Weston who is currently staying in Rombas; M. and Mme. Wiest of Rosselange, whose daughter is staying in Weston; and an important delegation of the town council, as well as numerous teachers and friends.

M. Bourgasser, deputy in the absence of Mayor Nass, speaking for all the people of Rombas, extended a cordial welcome to the Cummings family, hoping that their short visit in our industrial town will have proved most pleasant.

M. Babin, President of the Weston-Rombas Assn., next retraced in a brilliant expose the activities of this Association from the time of its founding to the present, recalling the varied and highly satisfying visits of both sides which maintain our friendly relations across the Atlantic.

Greatly touched, Mr. Cummings made a short speech in which he thanked the city, the committee and the people for the warm welcome which he and his family have encountered in our town during these few days and raised his glass to the prosperity of the Weston-Rombas Assn.

Destry Has Its Moments, Most Belong to Hugh

By FRANCIS J. HARTIN JR.

DESTRY RIDES AGAIN is the delightful and amusing musical being performed presently at the Carousel Theater in Framingham. Hugh O'Brian (Wyatt Earp) and Libi Staiger head the interesting cast.

Mr. O'Brian, much changed from his television role, plays Destry freely and easily. He is a clever actor though his singing is nothing notable. His dancing is suprisingly good. His timing should have improved by this weekend.

The robust choreography is danced by the same horsey female corps and the accurate male corps. One can hope that next year the management will return to the good quality of the girl's corps that Carousel produced when it first opened in Framingham.

The choreography of the scenes dominated by the three henchmen is exciting and the scene accentuated by the snap of bullwhips is really demonic.

The mediocre music of the first act picked up somewhat in the second but not much. This is why DESTRY as a musical is not very well known. The only zest is found in the "Ballad of a Gun" and "Hoop de Dingle," recurring motifs.

But the insufficiencies of the music are compensated by a most interesting cast.

The able voice of Libi Staiger as the bad-woman-gone-good well exhibits the ambiguous character it sings. Don Tomkins (Wash) sings and acts a good character role and Tim O'Conner is really a villain.

The plot, in conjunction with the other aspects of the production created several dramatic scenes, something often lacking in musicals. Perhaps because of the improved music, the drama also improved in the second act.

But it is only through the excellent acting of Mr. O'Brian and the hearty Conlow choreography that these serious scenes were put across.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

The Great Hermit Thoreau Making Friends These Days

Our one-time Concord neighbor, Henry D. Thoreau, with his philosophy of the simple life with nature, and his disdain for our commercial economy, seems continually to become more popular as the actualities of American existence move further from what he held to be ideal.

A multitude of people in sophisticated city haunts go into raptures over Thoreau. Yet they would never in the world consider growing beans with him in the hot sun beside Walden Pond to pay their taxes; nor think of taking his trip on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers in anything slower than a speed boat with an outboard motor; nor of starting on foot in the early morning dew, to trudge all day and return in the dusk at 8:30 to hearken to "the dreaming of the frogs," as he called it. Most present day admiration of the simple but profound Henry is purely synthetic.

Yet to read again Thoreau's journals, to participate in his open mind, his acute observation of plants, animals, weather; and of the physical beauty of the countryside which he called his "unchangeable kind of wealth," his "real estate," may be a valuable experience. Particularly for us who live here close to Concord, his birthplace, and can follow the very roads and paths he trod, and see the same vistas that he loved.

And did you know that his grandmother had been a Weston girl till she married; and that on the evening when Thoreau listened to the "dreaming of the frogs," he had spent the day in a long walk to the hills of Wayland?

His grandmother? She was Mary Jones Dunbar, daughter of Elisha Jones of Weston, before the Revolution Town Clerk, Treasurer, and Assessor, and five times elected Selectman of the town. Mary Jones' second marriage brought her to the Concord farm of James Minott, and there in the Minott house her daughter Cynthia, married to John Thoreau, gave birth to the child Henry, who for a century has helped add lustre to Concord's name.

As to the Wayland hills: at thirty-three, now a man of observant, penetrating and philosophic intellect, Henry Thoreau set off on a fine fresh May morning in 1831 down the Wayland road, now Route 126, to enjoy the views from Reeves' Hill, a mile or two south of Wayland Center. With his botanist's eye, by Deacon Farrar's in South Lincoln, he noted the mist and the marsh marigolds in the bed of the little brook that flows under the road there (old George Farrar once gave me some watercress plants from that very spot). He records the different species of oak along the way, one, the dwarf chestnut oak, a rarity in this area.

The view of Mt. Wachusett from the road, just south of the Wayland boundary where the Whittier memorial now stands, he calls a glorious vista. You may pause to admire the same landscape today. Though the black spruce he mentions in the foreground is no longer there, Wachusett, in Princeton, still crowns the far-off skyline. Two types of alders, an andromeda, a veronica and several plants about which he is in doubt attract his notice as he continues.

Heading south from Wayland Center, now he climbs Reeves' Hill, one of the highest eminences in eastern Massachusetts. To the east, he makes out Bunker Hill Monument, and further to the south the Blue Hills. To the West beyond the river, Nobscot Mountain, and Heard's Pond. He remarks the little island in it. Down at the foot, he notes a great elm at the Weston-Wayland line. "A grand horizon," he calls the whole; and any of us who have climbed to the two summits in May or October and enjoyed their far views will still agree. Back to the black spruce through the fields that evening and on to Concord to be lulled by the "dreaming" of the frogs.

Some years later, he records another Wayland walk. Through South Lincoln to North Wayland again, this time he passes across the Sudbury River on Sherman's Bridge, and from Round Hill, just beyond, observes the wide sweep of the valley. But the view of the river from his next high point, Goodman's Hill (he must have walked down the road by Harry Rices'), he thinks is the finest anywhere. Not content with spring and summer impressions, the next February he skates up the frozen river to Sudbury Everywhere he walks, his eye is sharp, his mind questions and compares, his knowledge grows--and his journal lengthens.

You and I daily travel the same roads, through the same countryside that Henry Throeau immortalized. Except in a very few spots, despite the inexorably spreading city, it has not been too much marred. Wachusett and Nobscott still loom in the distance. Reeves' Hill and the river still invite the eye. The marsh marigolds bloomed yellow and the frogs brooded in the brook below my window this spring, 130 years later. A doe and a fawn browsed in my neighbor's raspberries last week. Nearly all of the Nature that Henry Thoreau recorded and wondered about in his journal is still here.

How far, and how deeply, then, do our eyes see?

Be It Ever So Small...

Ah, the status symbol. And oh, the power to confer it.

Maybe you've noticed the hanky panky and topnotch gimmicry at the State House recently over some super-special license plates.

The four-number license plate or three or one even lower on the prestige scale is really outdated. Just warmups. Now the one-letter plate is IT.

But stop the laugh right there -- and think a minute.

Nothing wrong with a low-number plate. Plenty of them out here. Many inherited. And it's human nature to want something of that sort that not everybody can have.

But somehow, it seems to us, this going - one - step - farther - to - create - ersatz - prestige borders on the ridiculous.

Not only ridiculous. It smacks of the same sort of hanky panky favoritism that we can easily spot in contracts but seem to shrug off in other conditions. But it's the same disease.

Somehow, we have come to the point where by virtue of an election, a governor is clothed with the sacred right (or rite) of creating status symbols with which to reward his friends. A new knighthood is created with each changing of the guard.

Somehow, it seems to us, this breeds much the same indifference to favoritism that we've all been condemning in much bigger deals.

But why be a churl? Well, why not -- when you consider that prestige plates could be put to a useful purpose.

Take Connecticut, where prestige-conscious motorists can preen their feathers with plates bearing their own initials . . . if they have a good driving record.

What's wrong with that? Why not harness the desire for status to a useful purpose? Or would that be unworthy of Massachusetts?

We aren't prescribing. But it might be a good idea if all these prestige-hungry persons turned their plates back in and got behind a movement to reward good drivers . . . instead of good friends.

Something About Birds

By CHARLOTTE E. SMITH

WESTON--More hummingbirds! Mrs. W. E. Johnson, Pigeon Hill rd., says that until about two weeks ago, a pair were regular visitors at sugar-and-water feeders in her garden, and males have been seen recently by Mrs. H. A. Mosher, Summer st., and H. S. Russell, Wayland.

Purple finches which nested locally are coming to feeders, and some are bringing young with them (Mrs. C. G. Smith, Linden cir., Mrs. H. B. Crouch, Montvale rd., and Mrs. F. Pooler, Church st.). Three highly-colored males, and another just starting to show purple on the head, rump and breast, have been seen by C. E. Smith, Westland rd., who also color-banded a female on July 6 which was reported later by Mrs. Crouch and Mrs. Pooler.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Russell, Wayland, have had more rose-breasted grosbeaks at their feeder this summer than ever before -- apparently a concentration similar to the one at Smith's and Fales' in Weston. Six males have been seen together, also females, and young being fed.

On July 16, the Russells had a most unusual experience. The grosbeaks visited their feeder continuously from early afternoon until 9:15 that evening, when a few were still being seen by the light of a lamp just inside the window. Sunset was at 8:19 that day, so by 9:15 it was dark outside. Mrs. Russell says they were so fascinated by the sight that they spent practically the whole time just watching -- and also replenishing the feeder!

An immature broad-winged hawk apparently taking its first flight, was seen with an adult, circling overhead and calling on Aug. 8 (C. E. Smith). The adult was well into its molt, showing a number of wing and tail feathers missing. This handsome small hawk has become a regular nester in several places in Weston during the past dozen years. It has a very "unhawk-like" call -- a shrill, high-pitched whistle which sounds much like a wood pewee.

For the first time in history, more than 75 percent of the nation's families now own at least one automobile. In fact, 13.4 percent own more than one car.

The Birch-Rodders

Just like you to know that while the rest of us are relaxing this summer, the John Birch Society is not.

We've been put on their mailing list. And they'd like us to be angry at just about everyone.

And just in case we're not all riled up (which we're not), they've obliged by sending along a reading list which will set us straight on who to hate and why.

Of course, everyone knows they're going to "get" Chief Justice Earl Warren. Have an essay contest going--or hope to--among college undergraduates on why he should be impeached. Offer a prize for best essays.

Anyone who's had any insight into public relations knows this is one of those clever dodges, so beloved of the political public relations men in California where, incidentally, the Birchers wield a mean rod. This gimmick gets public attention: who can resist money? And it also means that anyone after that money had better outdo themselves in hating the object of the sponsor's hate. Sort of speeds up the process, and even if there isn't one printable essay, it does stir the animal in people who might not otherwise have been disposed to give Mr. Warren a second thought.

But in a broad sense, that's the Birchers' privilege. We have our own hates--and it includes those who go out of their way to stir up hate.

We'll keep you informed from time to time on what the Birch-rodders are up to but we'd just like to say in passing, it's a heck of a note when a well-heeled outfit like this one turns from sweet tooths to bitter roots and gets so all-fired earnest it must comb the weeklies to carry its crusade on. Sorry, Mr. Welsh, we're not buying.

They're Champs, But --

Did you ever see anything like it? The Cochituate Motors "Corvettes" won the New England championship in the Amateur Softball Assn. last week. And what happens? Being women, getting one thing leaves them stranded in another.

First, of course, congratulations are in order. This is the first time the Corvettes, or any team hereabouts, have been in line for a national championship. Mighty good. Up in three years from a Class B to Class A. National championship ahead. But that's just the trouble. These girls, ranging in age from 16 to 25, would like to compete in the tournament at Portland, Ore., but it's going to cost plenty to take the champs out to meet the other regional champs.

The cost is $5000...just to fly out on Aug. 24 and back--after winning the championship, we hope. But where's the money? We hope they find it. And we hope they win the big games ahead. But isn't that just like a woman--or women--though?

Letters to the EDITOR

Of Angry Lawns

To the Editor:

Your comment appearing in the Bits & Pieces column of the Aug. 10 issue on lawns and superior fellows held special interest to me. I have just such a neighbor (the superior one who doesn't mow his lawn) and I along with all my neighbors would feel a sense of relief if he would just pack up some night and move away. People who can't maintain homes don't belong in them. That is one reason why apartment living is so popular. Slums are born under such conditions of neglect.

Let us put the blame where it belongs.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. Johnny Appleseed
SUDBURY

Ed note Nice to hear from Sudbury. Also to get your views on sociology. But we assess no blame. Some people have angry dispositions, some have angry lawns. Let us hope your friend can improve his lawn.

Ticket Change Must At American Festival

BOSTON -- America's greatest dramatic star, Eva LeGallienne, will appear in Maxwell Anderson's Elizabeth the Queen at the Boston Arts Center Theatre.

Because of the size and the importance of this final production at the Arts Center Theatre of The American Festival, the opening performance will be on Wednesday evening, Aug. 23, with only one preview performance on Tuesday, Aug. 22 at 8:40 p.m. Everyone holding tickets for the Monday evening preview performance are requested to change their tickets at the box office for some other convenient performance.

Bits & Pieces

We have a friend who reminds us of a political technique that somenow never caught on in this country, the land of the Big Gimmick.

Seems in the twenties, Havana had its troubles with the water supply. Pipes too small. Rusty. Always breaking. Water, or the lack of it, became an issue.

So one candidate for mayor made a big splash: he promised Havanans they'd have water--clean and in plentiful supply if he were elected. Well, he was elected. But due to one thing and another a year went by and Havana was no closer to the perfect water system that it had ever been.

Finally, one day Senor Mayor went into his office, penned a short note and shot himself to death. The note read: "I promised water. I did not deliver. I'm sory."

But as we said--somehow this never caught on among American politicians.

* * *

Never mind about Johnny can't read or write. He can't transcribe either. One college bred young man recently took a message over the phone and set it down like this:

"Sayzar Franak's Symphony in Z (sic) minor." Suffice to say this might have been enough to make one composer frannic. But then he might have anyway, to have contrived (or tried) a symphony in Z.

* * *

And while we're on the subject. How about this defensive politician making a speech recently that was designed to give one that free-of-a ghost-writer flavor: "I have always been faithful and diIDG-ent." Like we say, it's always a good idea to carefully rehearse one's extemporaneous remarks.

* * *

Oh heck--let's have a swing at the U.S. Senate while we're at it. One fellow we know gets publications from a Senate committee regularly. Recently he's been getting these mammoth manila envelopes--and inside, there's been one small slip of paper. One said simply that a hearing had been canceled.

Apparently Senate staffs are so busy they can't fold a letter-size paper to fit into normal size envelopes. They prefer the more expensive manilas, and we say more power to them--it only comes out of taxes.

Had a little note from a very nice lady in Sudbury (didn't know we circulated there). Seems she took exception to some of our wry remarks about people who haven't mowed their lawns. And while we don't think wry needs explaining (maybe in Sudbury it does), we'd just like to say we wouldn't for the world blame people for getting mad at the Imperfect Ones. We've done it once or twice ourselves. Just wanted to point out tht there was a bit of humor on BOTH sides, especially when it all comes out friendly-like, which it usually does.

Not always, we'll admit. One tense mother we once knew got worked up about such a situation but never said a thing to the neighbor. Being the leader type, she tried to get everyone else worked up. Quite a ruckus. Ended up by her getting her young children to be as insulting and aggressive as she felt. Frankly we're not sure which is worse. She ended up moving and everything cleared up. But our advice: relax. Such families usually get on to themselves, and get that darn old mower fixed and the lawn in shape.

Blessed are the forgetful: for they get the better even of their blunders. (Nietzsche)

Infectious Hepatitis is raising its ugly head

The U. S. Public Health Service tells us that infectious hepatitis is on the upswing. An estimated 80,000 cases will be reported this year--four times the number reported in 1959.

This baffling liver disease is hard to diagnose, and scientists have yet to discover a way to knock out the virus that causes it. So far, hepatitis has not hit Massachusetts as hard as New York, Texas, Mississippi and many other states. Let's hope our good fortune continues.

Meanwhile, we offer you this grim, but helpful reminder:

Did you know that you can buy insurance coverage against specific diseases? Cancer, polio and tuberculosis, for example. And now, because of the serious spread of infectious hepatitis, some insurance companies are also adding this dread disease to the list.

If you'd feel a bit more comfortable knowing you carried a low-cost policy of this sort, we'd be glad to tailor one to suit your needs.

In fact, stop in anytime just to talk it over. No obligation, of couse. And no "hard sell", either.

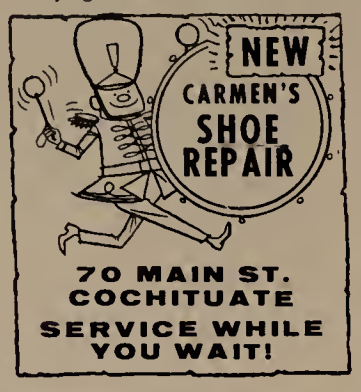
Weston Girl Going to Spain For Study on Smith Program

WESTON--Twenty-one students from Smith College and eight other institutions will sail from New York Friday, Aug. 25, to spend their junior year in Italy or Spain studying under the Smith College Junior Year Abroad Program.

The Spanish group is made up of eight Smith undergraduates and nine from other institutions. (Stanford, Yale, Wheaton, Buckneil, Radcliffe, Sweet Briar, and Brown)



Going to Spain is Miss Doris K. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Brown of 6 Bradyil rd., Weston.

Miss Erna Berndt, instructor in Spanish at Smith, will be in charge of the group going to Spain. After arriving in that country the students stay in Barceiona on the coast for an induction period of several weeks in the ianguage and the country.

They will make an excursion to Spanish localities of interest prior to going to Madrid in October.

For the remainder of the college year they will study at their headquarters at the Institute Internacionai under Spanish professors and attend classes at the University of Madrid. The students will make their home with Madrid families.

Over 2000 students have participated in the Smith Junior Year Program since it was begun in Paris in 1925.

Homer Myers Visits Moscow For Conference

WESTON -- Homer S. Meyers of 6 Page rd., executive vice president of Tracerlab, Inc., Waltham, left last week for Moscow where he will attend the Fifth International Congress of Biochemistry. A substantial exhibit of his firm's products will be displayed.

Tracerlab has in the past received export licenses from the U. S. Department of Commerce for the sale of certain of its products to several Iron Curtain countries in cases where the customer was a medical or biological research establishment and the nature of the products clearly indicated their principal use would be of a non-military nature.

Said Mr. Myers:

"From every indication, the research workers in the life sciences of these countries receive very low priority in their requests for equipment of local origin.

"Furthermore, the people we have talked with and for whom we have demonstrated our equipment, convey the impression that it is far superior to that which is locally available to them.

"Nothing could do more to enhance the prestige of American technology than a modern Russian research laboratory equipped with admittedly superior American instruments of non-military significance."

After visiting Moscow, Mr. Myers will spend some time in Belgium where the firm's new subsidiary, Tracerlab, S.A., is occupying new facilities which have been constructed in the city of Malines. Products for sale in the European market will be manufactured there.

This session of the program begins on Sept. 10 and ends on Dec. 8. Mr. MacKay is president of Anchor Manufacturing Co. a division of Basic Products, Manchester, N.H.

The Advanced Management Program, one of the oldest senior management development courses conducted by a university, has been in continuous operation since 1943. There are no specific educational prerequisites for admission. All participants are nominated and sponsored by their companies and have been selected by the Admissions Board of the AMP on the basis of demonstrated ability, leadership qualities, and adaptability in their careers.

Billy Graham Film In Wayland Aug.27

WAYLAND -- Evangelist Billy Graham's newest feature-length dramatic film Shadow of the Boomerang, will have its Wayland showing Aug. 27 at 7 p.m. at the Trinitarian Congregational Church.

Starring Georgia Lee and televisions's Buffalo Bill Jr., Dick Jones, Shadow of the Boomerang is an outdoor action picture with all of the excitement and breathtaking scope of the land, Down Under. Setting for the screen drama is Australia's Outback, the continent's vast interior region where some of the world's largest cattle stations are located.

The two young Americans head an All-Australian supporting cast, playing brother and sister roles in a turbulent story of homestead life.

Filmed against the backdrop of the Billy Graham Australian Crusades, Shadow of the Boomerang seeks to underline the Godly reaction of human crises and conflicts.

Edison Fights Effect of Residual Oil Costs on Fuel

BOSTON -- Boston Edison Co. has again made representatations to the Federal government in opposition to the restrictions on residual oil imports which have been in effect since Mar. 10, 1959.

It was pointed out that the limited availability of residual from domestic refineries , together with the import restrictions, has forced the price up very substantially.

Reflected to its customers by the fuel adjustment factor in service rates, the rise of the 12-month period to June 30 amounted to approximately $2,000,000.

No user of residual oil has escaped the resultant increase in fuel costs which, it has been estimated, amounts to something in excess of $20,000,000 on an annual basis in the New England area alone.

Among local concerns fighting for the removal of import restrictions are Raytheon, Gillette, Bird and Son, Revere Sugar and many others.

A significant example of the penalty imposed is a report from the Middlesex Sanitorium in Waltham showing that fuel bills increased more than $18,500 since the restrictions were established in 1959.

As demands for residual fuel oil have increased, particularly along the Eastern seaboard, American refineries have reduced their production in favor of higher revenue-producing products. As a result residual oil imports do not offer injurious competition to the domestic petroleum industry. The principal

Five Years in Subs Gives Wayland Man Yen for Science

WAYLAND--Life aboard a U.S. submarine gave a Wayland man the incentive to find out more about electricity he suddenly found he liked so much.

As a result: David P. Kicilinski, 28, of Wayland is now a third-year student in electrical engineering at Northeastern University and doing very well.

Mr. Kicilinski is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stefan Kicilinski of 48 Oxbow rd., Wayland and a veteran of five years (1954-59) in the submarine service.

"I liked the work," Mr. Kicilinski said of his electrician mate's duties aboard the Ray and Trigger, "but I had nothing to aim for in my education.

"I found out I was very interested in electricity, and I wanted to know more about it when I got out. I thought engineering was the ultimate in the field of electricity."

Today, a third-year student in the Northeastern University's College of Engineering, the 1950 graduate of Wayland High School holds a "co-op" job at which he works directly with mathematics and electricity as a computer wirer for Digital Equipment Corp., Maynard.

Under the co-operative plan of education at Northeastern, upper-class students alternate 10- and 16-week periods at the university with periods of equal length on regular paying jobs in business and industry.

Mr. Kicilinski's wide interests hold some possibilities of entering an allied field. Says he:

"I've always like working with kids, and lately I've been thinking seriously of going into the field of science education."

The silliest man can manage a clever man; but it needs a very clever woman to manage a fool

Tank Reserve Unit in Waltham Awaits Enlistees

WALTHAM -- A limited number of draft-deferred enlistees are now being accepted for the Army Reserve six-month active duty program by Company E, 9th Medium Tank Battalion (Patton), 34th Armor unit stationed in Waltham.

Under the six-month program young men, 17 to 25, may serve on active duty for six months, after which they would return to the local reserve unit to complete a 5 1/2-year obligation in the Ready Reserve.

Requirements for the Ready Reserve include 48 two-hour weekly drills, plus a 15-day summer camp.

Young men interested in being draft-deferred should contact the Waltham unit, a part of the 94th Infantry Division, as soon as possible, as only a limited amount of qualified personnel can be accepted at present.

For further information contact Lt. John A. Tero, 58 Nathan rd., Waltham (TW 3-7825); or Lt. Donald F. Fahey, 12 Chestnut st., Wakefield (dial 245-7286).

An invitation is also extended to visit Company E which meets on Wednesday evenings 7:30 to 9:30 at the former Murphy Army Hospital, 424 Trapelo rd., Waltham.

This Cat Wanted Proper Attention

WAYLAND -- Wayland firemen and an annoyed cat on Sylvan way made it all look easy on Tuesday morning.

Responding to a call about a cat trapped in a tree, firemen borrowed a householder's ladder and put it up.

Before they could coax or climb, the cat stepped down as nice as you please.

Makeup Exams At Wayland JHS

WAYLAND -- Last minute warning to Wayland Junior High students:

Those who missed final examinations in June may take these examinations as follows: Tuesday, English; Wednesday, social studies; next Thursday, arithmetic; Friday, Aug. 25, science.

Students must report to the main office of the school at 9 a.m. on the day of the examination.

60 Youngsters Win Swim Ribbons

WAYLAND -- Sixty children - six to 16 - so far have come up with ribbons in the Saturday swimming races at the Wayland Town Beach.

The races are open to all youngsters in this age bracket in Wayland. The ribbons are worth points, according to color. At the summer's end, the boy and girl in each age group with the most ribbon points will receive a plaque.

This year is the third attempt to have a swimming team. Until this year the piers were not stable enough to take the punishment competetive swimming gives them. Thanks to the combined volunteer efforts of Everett Spear, 34 Bradford st. and John Rooney of 22 Hawthorne rd. who devised and installed braces for the piers the swimming team was able to start working out on July 12.

Mr. Rooney and Mr. Spear were willing to donate their time and efforts because for several years they have had a total of 8 children taking the free Red Cross swimming lessons.

First Child

WESTON -- Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Dickson announce the birth of their first child, Edward M. Dickson Jr., on Aug. 3.

Brief announcements of local interest are welcome. Right to edit all published material is reserved by the paper.

That part of an advertisement in which a typographical error occurs will gladly be reprinted but no financial responsibility for such error is assumed by the paper.

In Weston, editorial and advertising material may be left at Kien Chung Tea House, 502 Boston Post Rd.

3 Cars Jam-up On 128, No One Hurt

WESTON--Three cars piled up on Rte. 128 in a three-car jam-up resulting when there was insuffi cient room to pass in the north bound lane. All occupants escaped serious injuries. No one went to the hospital.

Involved, according to Weston police, were cars driven by Irma Wiggen of 144 Forest st., Wellesley Hills; Morton C. Warburton of 241 Nahanton st., Newton Center and Joseph T. Hudson of 17 Old Colony av., Wollaston.

In another crash on Wednesday, Aug. 9, Richard Yarde of 51 Fowler st., Dorchester, stationed at the Nike site in Lincoln, received bruises on his back and head in juries when his car rammed a stonewall on North av.

Mr. Yarde told police that, in trying to avoid an animal in the road, he lost control and the car shot off the road, hit the wall and flipped over on its left side.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $500 and Mr. Yarde was turned over to medical authorities in Lincoln.

How Many?

WESTON Weston police report that one stray, white rabbit was picked up on North av. Sunday and anyone, with a rightful claim, may contact them and pick all of the rabbits up.

Heard House Visitors

WAYLAND -- Visitors to the Heard House within the last month have been Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Goddenough of Staten Island, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. M. Woessner, Jamaica Long Island; Mr. R. N. Bird and daughter of Des Moines, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Mills, Mountain Lakes, N. J.; Miss Iva Popp, Clinton, Mass. and Miss Grace Cramer of Westwood.

Many times the visitors come to the Heard House to look up ancestors who lived in Wayland and with the help of Mrs. Draper they have found much of interest in their family background.

The world belongs to the enthusiast who keeps cool. (McFee)

NEW KATHRYN BARTON NURSING HOME IN WAYLAND, WITH PATIOS, TOO.

Complete With Beauty Parlor

Wayland to Get Motel-Like Nursing Home

WAYLAND - Something new in a nursing home: one floor, like a motel...capable of housing upwards of 50 aging, chronic and convalescent patients. With everything at hand.

Such a building, now under construction, will be opened as the new Kathryn Barton Nursing Home at 313 Commonwealth rd. in mid-October, according to Louis Nathanson, owner.

It looks like a palatial L-shaped residence, as it's designed.

And it's designed to be "a livable home away from home," says Mr. Nathanson.

It also incorporated the latest in fire-prevention devices--100 percent sprinklered, brick veneer, sufficient exits and a direct alarm tie-in with the Wayland Fire Department.

A nursing home today, under modern state and local laws, must have more than just bedrooms and baths.

This motel home will have a dining room, TV room, living room and two patios.

The idea: get the patient away from his own bed as much as possible. A different outlook frequently during the day.

It will have private, semi-private and ward (up to 6) accommodations. And rooms will all have a closet and dresser for each patient.

But for safety's sake, nothing will stick out from the walls. Even the dressers will be recessed, like storage walls. Door sills: non-existent. Ramps will replace stairs where levels change--for wheelchair transport.

The idea of motel-like nursing homes is popular in the Midwest and West but just catching on in the East.

"My idea," says Mr. Nathanson, "is to find a place in the country where it will be pleasant for older persons to live.

"Most of them have been accustomed to decent homes in decent sections. Keeping them cramped up in a rundown section does nothing to help them."

The Barton homesite is nearly two acres and will have adequate parking facilities in addition to ample walk-space on the grounds. The home itself has approximately 10,000 square feet of floor space.

Slightly more than one person in 10 in Massachusetts is 65 or over, according to the 1960 census, and there is ample indication now that with increasing numbers of oldsters in the population the need for nursing homes that are neither hospital-grim nor old-house-dingy will be on the upswing.

Even government housing for the elderly in the suburbs is going to the one-and two-story construction favored by older persons.

The Barton home, completely landscaped, will be opened by mid-October for what Mr. Nathanson describes as an "experiment in good living away from home."

How Can Wayland Stop Raid on Its Teachers?

of population increase.

"Teachers leave our system for many varied reasons", said Mr. Arnold, "including family conditions, promotion to administrative positions or professional improvement. Sometimes custom-made contracts are the reason -- meaning that they can teach and still devote time to becoming better qualified by doing further study."

"However," Mr. Arnold emphasized, "most leave to assume better paying positions in other towns and cities.

"Here we are faced with the problem of some other systems exceeding their predetermined pay levels in order to secure their teachers -- a practice which Wayland has not gone in for."

This problem is not unique to teaching.

But in teaching particularly it presents the question:

"Can we pay one person more to do this job while the person in the next room is doing it for less money?"

Considering the high ethical concepts lived up to in this profession it is a delicate subject.

Keeping Budget in Line

This year because of the resignation of 11 teachers in our High School the search for qualified personnel has been particularly intensive, with our superintendent, during his vacation trip to California doing much recruiting in many colleges and universities across the country.

But the latest procurement report is very encouraging, Mr. Arnold concluded on this point, "and even as Wayland teachers are attracted elsewhere, many excellent teachers are coming to us." The problem is still: how to hold them.

"Another item occupying our time," Mr. Arnold continued, "is the ever present struggle with the budget.

"The school committee, in cooperation with the business manager, constantly reviews the school budget in relation to expenditures and funds available.

"Money may not be transferred from any category without a vote of the town, and very little contingency is included in the budget, so it is important that all accounts be very carefully administered."

How About Expansion?

The acting chairman pointed out that the committee has been discussing the possibility of a projected budget which might cover more than one year.

There are some areas wherein this may be possible, he said and a continued study may result in some positive suggestions to be incorporated in future planning.

This idea was one of several suggestions made by a taxpayers group which sat through all the school committee budget meetings last Fall.

"Also the expansion of our present grade school system is a red hot issue at this time", said Mr. Arnold.

"The school building committee and the school committee have been meeting during the summer with the architect in approving preliminary plans for the Claypit extension. At a meeting on June 24 the joint committee discussed and tentatively approved these plans in preparation for a meeting with the Massachusetts School Building Assistance Commission."

School Population Boom

For the present, he said, there will be no expansion of facilities at Loker School but the School Committee will probably request the town to give permission to proceed with expansion at Loker after a further report at the annual town meeting.

To give you an idea of school population growth:

"There were 300 new students in Wayland schools last year and there will be about 230 this year.

"So our school population is increasing and with it the need for effective management to see that our money is spent for the most essential and vital needs of our students," the acting chairman maintained.

"It is very gratifying to see the intense interest which the people of our town take in the schools," Mr. Arnold concluded, "and we certainly hope that if they have any questions on programs or policy they will come directly to us."

Dow Offers Lab Scientists To Help Wayland Schools

enue without the resultant loss through expanded schools that new homes would make.

None of Dow's research at the Wayland plant would be keyed to practical problems, Mr. Sweeney stressed.

But Dow expects to benefit from the pure-science data that flows from the laboratory, he said.

"Some of this material will benefig only mankind in general but," added Mr. Sweeney, "in addition to some of it helping the efficiency of production or occasionally turning up a new product there is an indirect benefit to pure research."

"By the very nature of research some of our findings are bound to improve products of other firms. Such processes can be patented and Dow can collect royalties from other firms. This helps foot the bill for pure research."

Dow now employs 25 persons at its Framingham lab, which would close if the Wayland building is approved. These include 11 PhD's, three with M.S. and two with B.S. degrees, as well as assistants, maintenance and office help.

The Wayland plan, he said, would employ no more than 100-125 persons in all -- if it expands to its fullest extent.

Dow's immediate plans call for construction of a lab with 14,000 square feet, chiefly on one floor, with an exposed basement to the rear.

The building would be situated well in off the street and designed to blend with the hilly, woodsy surroundings, said Mr. Sweeney.

Mr. Sweeney pointed out that at present Dow runs evening courses for top science students in Framingham High School and employs the three top science students there in its laboratories after school and during summers.

"One of our high school 'finds' is now a straight-A student in science at Harvard," said Mr. Sweeney.

This policy would continue in Wayland, he said, as much as Wayland school authorities desired.

To effect a change in zoning, the planning board must give its stamp of approval to the specific change, or the planning board can also make a general change for the entire community.

In either case, according to Chairman Robert Charnock who was questioned about the Dow request, there would be public hearings at which all interested parties could be heard.

And this time, he said, all town boards will be kept fully informed, so that their views can be taken into consideration.

Any public hearing would be on the wording of an article to appear in a special or regular town meeting, after which the planning board could make a report to the town on the proposal. This could be either favorable or unfavorable - after all the hearings had been held.

The planning board wants full details on construction, disposal of waste, traffic and evidence that residential areas would not be adversely affected.

JUST LIKE TOBACCO FARM one of the best around. But -- Harry Starr's blueberry patch is this is how he kept it free from the berry-picking birds. (Larry Forman Photo)

Harry Starr Sews What He Reaps: That's Why Berries Not for Birds

By HARRY PATTERSON

WESTON -- About 10 years ago, Harry A. Starr decided to raise blueberries as a hobby. He set out about 100 plants in the land behind his home on North av.

Today he has over 400 bushes, of six or seven varieties, and his hobby has grown into a thriving seasonal business.

He supplies not only his own family, but several stores in Weston and Waltham with big, delicious "fancy" berries.

His worst enemies, of course, have been the birds, who recognize no human rights when it comes to ripe blueberries.

He tried hanging aluminum reflecting strips in the plot, which tinkled and flashed in the breeze. It took the birds about two days to get used to them.

Then he tried setting off firecrackers, but that project, too, fizzled.

Last year Mr. Starr decided he would take sterner measures to outwit his feathered pilferers. He had observed that commercial growers on Cape Cod covered their plants with netting, and he bought some.

HARRY STARR
He Found a Way

It's a loosely-woven nylon material called Protecto Net, and when you've finally got it rigged up it really works. But it takes some doing.

Mr. Starr tried it first on a small section of his plot. He put up a frame of galvanized water pipe and covered it with wooden battens and chicken wire. Over this, on all sides and the top, he stretched the netting.

It comes in 40-inch widths, and he sewed several strips together to make it really bird-proof.

It was a lot of work and trouble, but when he started picking and found that not only did he have a bumper crop, but that practically every berry was plump and perfect, he decided that it was well worth the effort. This year he covered about 130 bushes, and plans further extension of the protection next season. The netting is only used from the time the berries start ripening until after the harvest, when it is rolled up and stored away.

"I like birds," says Mr. Starr. "I like to have 'em around, and they're very useful, of course, in helping to keep down insect pests. But I just made up my mind that from now on, my blueberries are not for them."
